

THE PHILADELPHIA COMMISSIONS.

Two weeks ago we published the fact that a scheme had been organized for the purpose of farming out the government of the city of Philadelphia, that Tweed, the king of the Tammany ring in New York, was at the bottom of it, and that $1000 was the price offered for a vote in the Legislature in favor of a bill establishing these "commissions."

On the same day that we wrote this a special despatch from Philadelphia, to the Pittsburgh Commercial, announced the same fact. Since then other newspapers have taken up the matter, and, in almost every case, have condemned it in unmeasured terms. The engineers of the scheme attempted to purchase the silence of the Philadelphia papers, but signally failed. Every one of the respectable daily journals there, both Republican and Democratic, have condemned the project as an attempt to plunder the tax-payers and to override the rights of the people.

This very general discussion has called out many of the facts relative to the origin, progress, and design of this movement. A few of the weakest and meanest Republicans in the city, joined by a few Democrats of like social and political character, conspired to capture the city government and to divide the public patronage and the private plunder among themselves, their associates, and backers. Two of these Republicans and one Democrat made a pilgrimage to New York, to learn from the great sachem of the Tammany tribe how to "set up the job." Mr. Tweed entered very enthusiastically into the scheme, and went so far as to offer to supply the cash necessary to "put it through."

It was at this first interview that the idea was advanced that this would be a practical way of capturing the city and turning its majority over to the Democrats. During several years past, in the State outside of Philadelphia, the vote between the political parties has been nearly even. The majority in the city has usually decided the election; whatever party, therefore, can cast a large majority vote there, may count with reasonable certainty on carrying the State. This theory was put forth by Mr. Tweed, much to the delight of the Democratic and one of the Republican members of the self-constituted exploring expedition to New York. The other Republican was not quite loud enough to be party to such treason to his party. He was shocked at the suggestion and withdrew.

This envoy extraordinary returned and made due report to the conspirators. It was then determined to organize other commissions, to be clothed by act of Assembly with plenary power in their respective departments. A Commission of Highways, with power to lay out, open, grade, and pave streets without application to court or other authority, a Commission of Police and Fire, with an increase of the police to 2000; a Tax Commission, with authority to levy, collect, and disburse the public revenues. The commissions are so constituted as to be composed of five members, two of whom are staunch Democrats, two fair Republicans, and one manly party Republican, who will sell out cheap. The Police and Fire Commission is to be composed of seven members—three Democrats, three Republicans, and the Mayor ex-officio. There has been a vast deal of doctoring, cathartical and surgical, done and endured in the efforts to fix up these commissions so as exactly to provide for all contingencies. There is great difficulty experienced in finding an honorable Republican willing to be crucified between two thieves. It is necessary, however, to have some one as a figure-head to give respectability, associated with two villains and two Democrats. A score, more or less, have been named, but none will lend themselves to this infamous conspiracy to rob the people.

The city government now, in every department, excepting only the police, is Republican, and at the next election the people will choose a Republican Mayor, thus making the departments harmonious in politics. The proposition to organize commissions is a deliberate and well-considered conspiracy to seize the government, to gain control of the Legislature, for the purpose of repealing the registry law, so that any required majority for the Democrats may be returned in the city. Thus Pennsylvania is to give its electoral vote for the Tammany candidate for President in 1872. Its executive and legislative departments are to be made Democratic, and all are to be managed in the interest of the New York Democracy; that is, the worst elements of both the Republican and Democratic parties have conspired to snatch, for purposes of plunder, the Government of the United States from the control of the more liberal and respectable portions of those parties. New York city and State is already solely under the selfish and extravagant rule of those conspirators; the next attempt is to be made in Philadelphia and Pennsylvania. With these two powerful and populous States firmly in their clutches, further conquests will be easy and rapid.

THE SOLDIER AND THE INDIAN.

The Possibility of the White and the Red Man Living together in Peace—The Impediments on the Indian and the Government—The Manifest Duty of Congress.

We have received from William Welsh, Esq., of this city a letter written by a well-known army officer, relative to the Indian troubles and the duty of the Government in the present crisis. The writer knows thoroughly whereof he affirms, and what he says will command the earnest attention of thinking people. In introduction Mr. Welsh says:—

"General Gibbon, the writer of the following letter, is a brave officer who had much intercourse with Indians in Florida and elsewhere. He is able to trace Indian war to their source, but the mere statement of wrongs makes a feeble impression upon the reader, although strengthened by the Indian's piteous complaint. Our words never reach the ear of the Great Father. How quickly the whole nation would be aroused to action if even a score of white landed proprietors had been coerced to yield up the most of their possessions, and the annual payment therefor taken for political patronage, and the right of petition denied except through the very men who were detesting them! If a few whites thus treated would make an irresistible appeal to us as men and citizens, surely a little zeal on the part of those who have witnessed similar wrongs to our Indian wards would not seem unnatural. It is said that no advocate for the re-introduction of slavery could now be elected to Congress in any portion of the United States, so great is the change of sentiment, but the bare thought of the cruelties in blood of this change causes an involuntary shudder. Defrauded Indian chiefs and warriors have often asked me if any thing but warring against the white man could induce this Government to deal honorably with the red man. The change of public sentiment in favor of the Indian has been so rapid within the last two years that surely a bloodless revolution is at hand. The present Congress during the few remaining days of its session will no doubt give practical evidence of this blessed change."

GENERAL GIBBON'S LETTER. FORT FLAVIA, Montana Territory, Feb. 11, 1871. My Dear Sir:—I have just finished reading your very interesting Indian report, sent me, I presume, by Mr. G. H. Stuart. His personal file me with respect to the subject, and I am glad for the first time to see the subject of the Indian war in its true light. The Indians have been treated as rebels, and as such have been treated as such. The only way to deal with them is to treat them as men, and not as rebels. The Indians have been treated as rebels, and as such have been treated as such. The only way to deal with them is to treat them as men, and not as rebels.

This is the kind of thing which you, gentlemen, are called upon to unearth, expose, and correct, and, judging from your report, you are doing it. The officers of the army have heretofore not been in a position to make this exposure inasmuch as they feel sure they will do all in their power to aid you in doing it. As a class, they have no ambition for a war with Indians, and for to seem to have any such ambition would be to incur the just and severe reprobation of the public. Fighting Indians has this great advantage compared with the system you are following, or, besides the more immediate and certain result, when any definite result is reached, is the extermination of the Indians, for war with them is not a matter of expediency, but of necessity. My observation convinces me that the wild Indian of this country is susceptible of great cultivation and is open to appeals to his better nature, which he possesses, and that, in fact, in a higher degree than the great majority of the white men with whom he comes in contact in our Western Territory. A different idea has prevailed, it has been in consequence of the bad qualities developed in the Indian nature by an association with the worst whites, the white man, just as evil communications corrupt children; for Indians in their wild state are but grown children, and, like them, soon learn to distinguish between their friends and their enemies. Like children, too, their acts are all the result of impulse and not of reason. When these impulses are bad, their acts are so, and the reverse. So all current events should be referred to good impulses, with the certainty of good acts following. I have often observed with children that no matter how bad they are by nature, they generally manage to restrain their evil propensities in the presence of those they know are their friends, and that such is the case with Indians. I know of no more successful man in managing and controlling them than I ever saw, and that this one fixed principle, never to deceive them, and to always assert that he is their friend, is no argument against this view, for when the Indian is at war and excited to fury, his impulse is to torture and kill all white enemies, and he cannot tell a friend on sight. Persevere then, my dear sir, in your good work of civilization and conciliation, and rest assured that your efforts will meet with the hearty endorsement of every fair-minded man in the country.

Very respectfully yours, JOHN GIBBON, Col. 7th Infantry.

THE SOLAR OF AGR.—PLANTATION BITTERS is an agreeable compound of St. Croix rum—the most nutritious of all distilled liquors—and a variety of tonic, alterative, and anti-bilious vegetable productions, among which is that most invaluable of invigorants, Calina bark. The spirituous basis is manufactured by the agents of the proprietors, from the sugar-cane, on their own leasehold plantations in the West Indies; and the Calina bark is gathered and prepared for exportation from South America by the employes of the firm. Both, therefore, can be guaranteed to be unadulterated, and of the finest quality.

For these reasons, PLANTATION BITTERS is recommended as an unequalled invigorating cordial for aged persons. But it has a stronger recommendation than that of the proprietor, viz., the testimony of thousands in the decline of life who have tested its revivifying properties. The record covers a period of more than ten years, and includes both sexes and all ages, from fifty to fourscore years and upwards.

When it is considered that the entire indebtedness of the company will be less than $16,000 per mile, leaving out their Value of Real Property of 1500 acres, it will be seen at once what an unusual amount of security is attached to these bonds, and they therefore must command themselves to the most prudent investors, with additional advantage in that they can be converted, at the option of the holder, after 15 years, into the Preferred Stock, at par.

The bonds are registered, and will be issued in sums to suit.

WISHART'S COLUMN. THE MEDICAL PROPERTIES OF TAR. The pine tree has long been known to possess valuable medical properties. For pulmonary diseases it is doubtful whether any remedy has as yet been discovered equal to it. It seems to change and renew the very structure on which it acts, and to infuse into the system an indescribable power equal to the natural power before disease had even taken hold of the body, so as to make, as it were, an entirely new tissue, and to give a newness of life and energy which one who has been sick a long time knows the value of, but cannot fully describe. The great objection, however, to all tar preparations has been their unpleasant taste, and consequent liability to sickness and nausea of the stomach. We have before us, however, a preparation of the kind referred to, which obviates all these objections, and is as agreeable to the palate as it is valuable in the cure of disease. We mean "Dr. Wishart's Pine Tree Tar Cordial," a real, genuine, bona fide medicinal cordial, distilled from the pine tree by a process known only to the Doctor himself, the sale and popularity of which are only equalled by the amount of suffering it has relieved, and the number of diseases it is so well calculated to effectually cure. In the Pine Tree Tar Cordial the invalid may be sure he has a remedy of very extraordinary power for throat and lung affections, and when taken in conjunction with the "Great American Dyspepsia Pills," an infallible cure for dyspepsia, liver complaint, sick headache, and the many ailments arising from a disordered state of the liver and digestive organs.

In our sphere as publishers we feel some degree of cautiousness in what we recommend to our readers, but when we know of anything of value to the public we shall not hesitate to make it known through our columns. We advise those of our readers who are suffering from dyspepsia, etc., to give Dr. Wishart's celebrated remedies a trial. A medical expert, holding honorable collegiate diplomas, devotes his entire time to the examination of patients at the office parlors. Associated with him are three consulting physicians of acknowledged eminence, whose services are given to the public free of charge. This opportunity is offered by no other institution in the country.

Thousands of certificates of absolute cure (when all else failed to afford relief), as well as commendatory letters—without number, have been received by Dr. Wishart, the proprietor, attesting the uniform success with which they have been employed. Many of said letters are from the highest sources, including eminent statesmen, Governors, State judges, clergymen, etc.—men slow to be convinced, prejudiced perhaps at first, but feeling themselves under a sense of duty bound to tell the Doctor what they had done for them and to recommend them to others. The Great American Dyspepsia Pills and Pine Tree Tar Cordial are sold by all druggists throughout the world. They can also be obtained at Dr. WISHART'S GREAT FAMILY MEDICINE STORE, No. 232 North SECOND Street, Philadelphia, where a successful practicing physician can be consulted each day, free of charge. Those in need of professional aid or counsel will do well to make a note of the above. Communications by mail, soliciting professional advice, will be considered strictly confidential and promptly answered, free of charge. The most complete stock of Family Medicines, Hair Preparations, Perfumery, etc., in the city. Give us a trial. Address all communications,
