No. 1.

The Opelousas Courier.

Official Journal of Town of Opelousas.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY, BY LEONCE & L. A. SANDOZ.

OPÉLOUSAS.

SATURDAY, : : : OCT. 8, 1881.

Dr. Jones and Parker have dissolved partnership. See notice.

WANTED—All who are indebted to this office, for subscription, advertising or job work, to call at once and settle.

ATTENTION, FIREMEN!—A special meeting of Opelousas Fire Co. No. 1 will be held this Saturday evening, October 8th, at 7 o'clock, at the Court House, for important business.

We have had another fine week for picking cotton. The frequent showers of the previous week were not so damaging as were supposed. The prices of cotton continue to rule at 10½ to 10½ cents per pound.

Many of our patrons are in arrears for subscription, advertising, &c., to this paper, and as we have been lenient with all such through the dull season, we hope they will now call and settle without further delay.

Three car loads of machinery for our mill reached here yesterday morning. It is understood that the mill will be immediately put in working order. The Argus says that the oil mill at Washington will soon be in full blast.

Don't forget that the Philharmonics will give another of their charming and entertaining performances at the Opelousas Opera House next Wednesday. The programme gives promise of a most interesting and enjoyable evening, and we venture to say none will be disappointed who attend. See advertisement.

Senator W. A. Robertson and family have returned home after a six weeks' sojourn in the mountains of Virginia. The Doctor is looking much improved by his summer vacation.

Judge J. M. Moore and family also returned last Thursday evening, after an absence of several weeks. The Judge has been summering at Waukeshu, Wis.

The citizens of Rapides and Caddo are making extensive preparations for a grand excursion to some station between Alexandria and Shreveport, as soon as the N. O. P. R. R. is finished between those two points. We have no doubt the occasion will prove a most enjoyable one, as the N. O. P. has given many evidences of liberality and kindly feeling towards the inhabitants along its route.

A SMASH-UP.—A horse hitched to a buggy standing at Benjamin's rack, on Main street, took fright at some horse running around the streets last Thursday morning, and after breaking loose, ran over the sidewalk under Chamberlain's shed, capsizing the buggy, and shattering both shafts, and demolishing the harness generally. The horse was stopped before injuring himself.

On Tuesday evening last, a colored man while intoxicated drove a horse and buggy down the railroad track from the college building to the depot. Notwithstanding the terrible jolting of his ride on the rails, he seemed to enjoy the novelty of his improvised car very much. If his horse had not been so docile, he might have got his neck broken for his temerity; because the grade at that point is high, and flanked by deep ditches on each side of the track.

We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of E. M. Littell, druggist, at the sign of the big mortar, on Main street, near the postoffice. A new and fresh supply of drugs, paints, oils, toilet and smokers' articles, &c., have just been added to his stock. Mr. Littell has employed a competent apothecary to assist him in waiting upon his numerous customers.

On and after this date, daily passenger and freight trains will run on the Morgan Road to Whiteville, on the Bayou Boeuf, 20 miles above Opelousas, and 188 miles from New Orleans. Whiteville is the second station above Opelousas—the intermediate one being called Duboisson.

Our New Volume.

This issue begins the 29th volume of the COURIER. Many have been its vicissitudes, and very trying its experiences during, and since the war; yet, it has never faltered in its democratic faith, nor swerved from a fearless defense of those principles from its birth to the present hour. During the war when the federal forces occupied this portion of Louisiana, our press and material were seized, and the publication of the paper suppressed. After the war, when radicalism placed an embargo upon all democratic journals, and the patronage was forcibly given to only republican papers, or sympathizers, we continued to print the COURIER upon the scanty subsistence which an impoverished people could yield to its support in the slim discretion allowed them in their advertisements and subscriptions. We have done nothing but our duty in adhering to our principles, and all we ask from our people, is to judge us by the record of our paper. If our columns have been false to your interests as a people and as democrats, then condemn us; if we have been true and tried, then endorse us by giving us your patronage.

We call the attention of our readers to the column advertisement of Mr. P. Werlein, proprietor of the leading piano house in the South. He keeps the very best instruments in his line, including the popular Chickering, the famous Mathuslek, and the elegant Hale pianos, which rank as the leading pianos in the world, for tone and durability.

To prove their worth, he will sell them on a month's trial, and at the most reasonable rates. Second hand pianos in good repair at half prices.

Also Estey's, Mason's and Hamlin's organs, the very best, for sale at low prices. In fact you can get anything you want in the way of musical instruments and music, at the old and popular establishment of P. Werlein, 125 Canal street, New Orleans. Call and see him, or send your orders.

The Pointe-aux-Loups R. A. R. Club was organized last Sunday, Oct. 2, 1881, with the following officers: President, G. Miller; Vice-Pres., Savinien Cart; Secretary, Mathieu Poussin; Treasurer, Cléophas Comeau; Commissary, Léon Berball; Conductor, Onésime Joubert; Attorney, F. P. Perrodin; Sergeant-at-Arms, M. G. Wilkins. Committee on Membership, Ant. B. Cart, Philémon Miller and D. Durio; Committee on Ways and Means, Neuville Cart, Théodule Deville and Lucien Joubert. The club numbers 387 members, and we understand is closely allied and bound by ties of consanguinity to the famous Pot Luck Club of Léonville.

LOOK OUT!—That prince of merchants, Jos. Bloch, Esq., left for New Orleans last Tuesday, and our readers may expect to see one of the largest stocks of goods ever brought to Opelousas on his return. As his immense store is already packed full of goods of every description, which he has been receiving recently, there must be some way to account for the disappearance of all these goods. We imagine it is because he sells very rapidly. To do this he must sell cheap; and as he advertises the fact, so that everybody may know where to go for bargains, without losing their time hunting them up, there is nothing so very surprising about his continually replenishing his stock.

Mr. E. Latretye, opposite the post-office, keeps always on hand and is constantly receiving fresh supplies of dry goods, groceries, crockery, tinware, &c., which he sells at a very small profit, and you will always find him liberal and obliging. Give him one call and you will be sure to want to call again.

The railroad will be completed to Wornock's station on Saturday next. It reached Robeline Thursday evening last and the boarding train will be moved down from Marthaville to that place to-day. Through connection will be had 20th inst.; then, ho! for New Orleans by rail!—Natchitoches Vindicator.

Work has commenced on the extension of the New Orleans and Pacific railroad from Alexandria to Knobel, on the Missouri State line. A contract has been let to build one hundred miles of the road southward from Knobel, and gangs are now at work building the grade.—N. O. Times, Oct. 5.

FOR RENT.—Possession given on the 1st of October.—The well-known and centrally located business stand, under the COURIER printing office, Main St., Opelousas. This stand is admirably adapted to any kind of business, and will be rented at a reasonable figure. Apply at this office.

BARGAINS.—A magnificent musical box, playing 8 airs, cost $150, can be had for $100. Also, a "pigeon-hole" table, cost $140, will be sold for $75. Apply at this office.

Our New President.

As yet, President Arthur's administration is an enigma to the people, and an unsolved problem to himself. He has assumed the reins of government under extraordinary circumstances, and will, therefore, be slow in shaping out any definite changes of policy. Although the new President was at one time in violent antagonism with the lamented Garfield's ideas of the organization and machinery of government, still, we are prone to believe that the sad and mournful events of the past few weeks, have effectively harmonized all the discordant elements, which at first separated them.

The bullet of the vile assassin, which eventually took the valuable life of President Garfield, not only silenced the slanders of his bitter political enemies, but also the opposition of thousands who honestly differed with him in political matters. His firm, but mild and conciliatory course had won over the Southern people long before he had been stricken down; and his heroic fortitude, on a bed of long weeks of excruciating suffering, won him the sympathy, and almost idolatry of fifty millions of people. His death has canonized him as a martyr patriot; and his short but memorable administration, as a president of the whole people, will immortalize him on the brightest page of the world's history. His successor, President Arthur, is not blind to these illuminated facts, and he will use them as lamps to guide him over the rough paths of difficult, and, at times, of uncertain duty. He has departed himself in that noble and sympathetic manner during a nation's sorrow, that must win for him the confidence of the people. His inaugural breathes a life of patriotism, and foreshadows a wise and beneficent policy. He has had a magnificent example in his late predecessor, and we believe will follow the conservatism which he had so conspicuously symbolized by his administration. While we deplore our dear Chief Magistrate, let us trust and honor our new President. Let the voice of condemnation and criticism be hushed while a nation weeps at the grave of the noble martyr—James A. Garfield.

We inadvertently omitted last week to mention the recent bereavement of our friend Jastrenski, of the Baton Rouge Capitolian, who had the misfortune to lose his only daughter, Estelle Marie, aged 9 years. Little did we suspect, a few weeks ago, when we saw her in the full flush of health and beauty, that she would so soon rejoin her angel mother. To her afflicted father and grandfather we tender our heartfelt sympathy.

WATER! WATER!—Why be deprived of water when you can get a bountiful and permanent supply for a mere song by getting Mr. T. S. Bailey to put you down one of his celebrated bored wells—the cheapest wells known. Satisfaction guaranteed or no charge. See advertisement. Orders left at this office will receive prompt attention.

Fine, fresh oysters received every evening at A. B. Chachere's, corner of Main and North streets. Try them—they are nice and cheap.

Carpet-bag ex-Gov. Moses, of South Carolina, was arrested in New York the other day on a charge of swindling.

Oscar A. Rice.

(N. O. Democrat, October 2.)
The government is after the bondsman of Oscar Rice, defaulting Internal Revenue Collector, hot and heavy. Rice under the Kellogg regime figured conspicuously in politics, in this State, and was a prominent man among the Republican leaders and office-holders. As a reward for party services, he was made Internal Revenue Collector for the Northern District of Louisiana, and several of his political friends who now hold positions in the Customhouse went on his official bond.

Rice left the office $10,000 short and moved from the State, and succeeded for a couple of years in evading arrest. About six months ago he was captured in Boston and brought to this city. Here he was arraigned before the United States Court and placed under heavy appearance bond.

Since the arrest of Rice the authorities at Washington have taken steps to force the sureties on his bond as Internal Revenue Collector to pay the amount of his default. Deputy Collector of Port, Thos. C. Anderson, is the first victim of these measures, as all the real estate of which he is possessed has been seized.

Rice has rich and influential friends and relatives able to square his accounts, and his bondsmen declare that unless it is done they will leave no stone unturned to send Rice to the penitentiary.

WORKING WITH A WILL.—At present the New Orleans and Pacific is laying track at the rate of one mile a day from this end, and several engines have been leased from the Morgan line for the purpose of pulling construction trains. The company's transfer boat No. 2, which has for some time past been aground at the mouth of Red river, has been floated off and is now at the crossing on the Atchafalaya river, in readiness to transport cars to the west side. The officials state that the road will be in running order to the Atchafalaya river by the 20th of October, and that the entire line from this city to El Paso will be open for business by the 1st of December. Superintendent Morse is busily engaged hurrying the construction of the line.—N. O. Times.

Mrs. GARFIELD INDIGNANT.—Washington, September 30.—Friends of Mrs. Garfield here have been informed that she is greatly shocked to learn that so large a part of the remains of her late husband is now in the Medical Museum. She consented to the injured vertebra and rib being brought here, because she understood that they might be used in the trial of the assassin; but she never consented to the bringing of any thing else here, and believed that all else of the body of her husband was in the casket in Ohio. She now knows that all the inward parts from the neck to the loins were brought to Washington, and have been exhibited to no one knows how many curious surgeons. She is indignant, but finds it difficult now to rectify the matter.

INDICTMENT OF GUTEAU.—Washington, D. C., October 4.—The grand jury this morning completed the hearing of witnesses in the Giteau case about 1 o'clock p. m., and took a recess. The foreman, Mr. Churchman, proceeded to the office of the District Attorney and placed in Col. Corkhill's hand a presentment against Charles J. Giteau for the murder of James A. Garfield, President of the United States, by wounding him with a bullet fired from a pistol in the hands of Charles J. Giteau at the Baltimore and Potomac depot, on or about July 2, A. D. 1881.

A Large Piano Manufactory.

While it was well known that the Mendelssohn Piano was really a reliable and excellent instrument, it was hardly suspected by the other manufacturers that the demand for it had increased to such an extent as to warrant the makers in erecting the largest piano manufactory in the world as a centennial memorial of the success of the instrument; but such was the case, and to-day the Mendelssohn Piano Manufactory, eight stories in height, covering 78,000 square feet of ground, from its location on the corner of Tenth Avenue and 57th Street, overlooks the Hudson River and the greater part of Manhattan Island.—Chicago Times.

The large factory of the Mendelssohn Piano Company, corner of 57th Street and Tenth Avenue, is well worth a visit. One can here witness the various and interesting steps in the progress of transforming the rough lumber and metal into highly finished instruments. In the sale of these Pianos, the Company have undertaken to treat the people with factory prices, employing no agents. Instruments are sent on trial, and a very intelligent idea of what they are, and what musical people think about them, can be obtained by sending for an illustrative and descriptive catalogue. With no expensive agents and commissions, the Company decline to give any discounts, thinking the lowness of their prices and the merit of their goods will receive a liberal recognition from Piano buyers.—Morris Phillips in Home Journal, July 4, 1877.

Prospects of the New Railroad.

(Ouechita Telegraph.)
The consolidation of the New Orleans Pacific and of the Texas and Pacific railway companies is now complete, and President Wheelock of the former company, we are informed by the New Orleans Times, will now turn his attention to the remaining portion of his railway scheme, which "is to be fully carried out immediately." The Times further enlightens us on this interesting subject as follows:

This is the construction of 140 miles of New Orleans Pacific railway track north from Alexandria to the State line of Arkansas. Already Jay Gould has two corps of his ablest engineers in the field surveying from that point on the Arkansas line to Knobel station on the Iron Mountain road, a distance of 245 miles. Captain J. K. Morley, of the Iron Mountain road, has returned to St. Louis from Crowley's Ridge, Ark., where railroad surveys are in progress under his supervision. There are two parties in the field—one locating the line on the Crowley Ridge branch of the Iron Mountain, between Knobel station and Forest City, ninety-five miles, and their work is nearly completed. They find an excellent line with light grades, passing through a country, which, although at present undeveloped, from its isolated position, is nevertheless a region of promising great possibilities. South of Forest City to the Louisiana State line, one hundred and fifty miles, they have another party of engineers locating the line to connect with President Wheelock's Alexandria and North State line branch. This cannot but prove the shortest all rail and quickest freight and passenger line between New Orleans and St. Louis. It can not fail to prove a most powerful competitor of the Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans and Ohio and Mississippi routes. The 140 miles of the New Orleans Pacific railway line from Alexandria to Louisiana State line and the 245 miles to be built immediately by Gould added to the distance, 203 miles, from New Orleans to Alexandria make it 588 miles to Knobel, on the Iron Mountain railway, and thence 200 miles to St. Louis, or St. Louis to New Orleans 788 miles. An important junction on this route is the crossing at Monroe, La., on the Vicksburg and Shreveport railway, thus making another great feeder to the new consolidation, especially for through traffic to Old Mexico, New Mexico and Arizona mining regions and San Francisco and immigration traffic into Texas.
