Visiting the Exposition.—On Tuesday last Sister Martina, one of the teachers of the Convent of the Immaculate Conception, left with the boarders of that school to attend the World's Exposition at New Orleans. During their few days' sojourn there teacher and pupils will combine both pleasure and instruction on their trip, and will return to their school duties with renewed interest and zeal.

PERSONAL.—Messrs. Abraham Harmon and Arthur Harmon of Church Point gave our office a pleasant call on Thursday last. They are substantial patrons of the COURIER and are always welcome visitors.

Capt. H. L. Garland, who went to New Orleans some weeks since to undergo medical treatment, returned a few days ago much improved. His hearing, which had suddenly become very defective, is now almost completely restored.

Mr. Jules David of Church Point was in town on last Thursday and was looking well and hearty. He informed us that the planters were all busy plowing, and that way, and that crops would be planted early this spring.

A few days ago, Constable Tabor of Washington, brought a colored boy, aged about 15 years, and lodged him in the parish jail on the charge of stealing a goose and some money. On Tuesday, Deputy Sheriff Andrus took him out of his cell temporarily when the goose thief made "turkey tracks" for liberty. Deputy Sheriff Andrus chased him on foot, but the boy was leaving him when he fired two shots near him to see if it would not halt him. To the contrary, it increased the boy's speed, and spreading his coat-tail, he imagined he had the wings of a goose, and fairly flew before his pursuer. Andrus, in the meantime, secured a horse and finally succeeded in running the fugitive down.

Thanks to the dry weather, the roads have wonderfully improved in the past few days. Yet there are some bad "bug holes" that should be filled up in order that travel may be safe and pleasant. The weather has been fine for repairing and working roads, but nothing has been done. Do our road overseers go on the principle of the old fellow in Arkansas, who, when asked why he did not cover the other side of his house, answered: "Stranger, when it rains I can't kiver it, and when the weather is good that ain't no use in kivering it?"

From appearances it really looks like they are governed by a similar principle, or leaving the improvement of the roads to the uncertain changes of a long cold spell. "Which is what, or what is which?"

General Notes.

President Arthur recommends the placing of Gen. Grant's name on the retired army list.

A new railway bridge across the Mississippi, to cost $1,000,000, is to be built at North McGregor, Io.

James Emmit, a rich and eccentric old Democrat of Waverly, O., has fired a salute every morning since the election and will continue doing so until March 4.

At the recent annual sale of pew of the Tabernacle in Brooklyn the amount realized was $22,067.

The total collection taken up throughout the year was $89,000.

Gunpowder vs. Dynamite.

On Saturday, two week ago, O'Donovan Rossa's emissaries attempted to blow up the Parliament buildings in London with dynamite. He, and his paper, the "United Irishman," applauded the scheme, and justified the use of explosions, and its wholesale destruction of life and property, under the plea that Ireland is unable to meet her oppressors by the usual method of revolution and war. He claims to be an Irish patriot, acting for the emancipation of his country from tyranny and oppression. Civilization, however, does not approve of dynamite as an agent to punish a despotism, or to free a people. There cannot be a wholesale destruction of innocent lives to punish a few guilty ones in authority. Better await the tardy amelioration of law and justice through legislation, and the influence of friendly nations, than to shock the peace and security of the world by barbaric means of vengeance, which achieve nothing but bloody crimes and infamous notoriety.

"He who lives by violence must die by violence," came very near being exemplified in the case of O'Donovan Rossa, at 4 o'clock last Monday evening. An English woman by the name of Mrs. Dudley sought an interview with him, pretending to be a friend of the Irish cause, and offering to furnish money for the purchase of dynamite, &c. This was only to sound him on the use of dynamite, and ascertain if he was connected with the explosions which had occurred in England. Having satisfied herself of this fact she deliberately fired five shots at his back as he walked in front of her. One shot took effect, giving him a painful but not dangerous wound in the back, near the shoulder blade.

She claims to be an English patriot, and made herself the Nemesis of her country to punish O'Donovan Rossa for the dynamite explosion in London. They are both fanatics, however, in their respective roles, and as such will elicit no sympathy from people who respect law and order.

Weather and Farm Notes.

The weather has been clear and just cool enough to be bracing for several days past, and with north and west winds prevailing, the waters have rapidly evaporated, giving the planters a fine opportunity to commence their farm work in earnest for the year. All of our wide-awake farmers have been plowing for several days past, and the song of "Speed the Plow," might make the air resound with its rustic music now were all of our laborers familiar with the chords of this old time selection.

The time for active labor has arrived, and no farmer of push and energy can afford to lose a moment from the preparation and cultivation of his land, to reap the harvest which judicious industry hopes for and merits.

This is the month when the red rust-proof oats must be sown for early forage. It will ripen in May at a time when corn will begin to be scarce, and if corn is abundant the oats are better for summer food than corn.

A good acreage should be planted in corn during February, so that at least a portion of bread may be made before the ravages of our usual summer drought. As we have before stated: It is the experience of old planters, "that corn planted in February is always a sure and safe crop."

If the weather permits, plant your rice early also, for the same reason, viz: that it may have time to mature before the dry weather of the summer and fall months. German millet, the richest of cereals, can be planted in April, and stands a drought well. We advise all of our planters to give it a trial, and we believe they will continue to plant it. Plant sorghum for your hogs, and Egyptian or Dhorra corn for your chickens. Do not plant too much cotton, to the neglect of your bread and forage crops.

Alden's Juvenile Gem.

A large extra sheet containing a number of fine illustrations accompanies number two of this juvenile weekly. Grown folks as well as young folks will find a good deal of amusement as well as wisdom in the "Fables" which the pictures charmingly illustrate, and in the contents of the paper generally. The large beautiful type in which the paper is printed and the form and size of page make the whole appearance delightful to the eye. There is abundant variety of story, anecdote, history, facts in nature and science, biography, and poetry, and all so invigorating and healthful in tone that parents and teachers will give the paper hearty welcome into homes and schools. The price, 75 cents a year, with large inducements to clubs, places it easily within reach of every home—and surely there ought to be such a paper in every home where there are children. A specimen copy is sent free to any applicant. John B. Alden, Publisher, 393 Pearl Street, New York.

Hard Times.

Editors COURIER: Every body says the times are becoming harder and harder. The cause ought to be known that the proper remedies may be applied. Evidently there are several leading causes powerfully tending to make the times hard, and it is all important that the existing state of things be remedied as speedily as possible; for it is a painfully obvious fact that this once lovely country of ours is fast running down. Undoubtedly prominent among the evils that cause this deplorable state of things is whisky, which is doing more harm than all the others put together; because it is the father of nearly all others.

The immense amount of money spent for whisky had better be burnt in the fire, or sunk in the sea, as that would be the last of it. But when a man spends money for whisky he receives nothing in return but maddening poison, which injures his health of body and mind, causes him to neglect his business, suffer losses, and perpetrate many foolish and criminal things. But as that question has come to stay we will have occasion hereafter to show up the enormities of bad whisky again.

And another thing that is impoverishing our people, and making the times hard and troublesome is having to incur the heavy expense of trying in vain to fence against a few worthless hogs on our prairies. One mile square constitutes a section of land, subdivided into sixteen squares of fifty arpents each. Now if sixteen families go out to settle on a section of land in the prairie, and form a little sociable neighborhood, and leave around each little cozy fifth arpent farm a lane for the convenience of friendly visiting, and business traveling, the difference between fencing against hogs, and fencing against all other stock except hogs, amounts to $1,400 to the square mile by actual test, which I have made myself; and am prepared to give the facts, and figures. Just think of it! sixteen families of limited means having to pay $1,400 for a dozen or so of razor-back hogs not worth as many dollars honestly. For if one of these razor-backs chance to become worth more than a dollar, you may be sure that he has been stealing corn out of somebody's field. They are so little, poor and thin when honest outside that it is extremely difficult to make a fence to prevent them from slipping through the cracks; unless you go to the expense of weatherboarding it, (for be it remembered that their noses and mouths are the principal parts about them) they will soon root away the levee and crawl under the fence, and stir up a fuss among the neighbors. For when they get in the field they show their hoggish principles by destroying far more than they eat. And as soon as one gets in tolerable order, some thief comes along and stops his deprecatory career by putting him just before the so-called owner thinks he is quite fat enough. So after costing the said sixteen families about $100 per head for rainy trying to fence him out, he destroyed perhaps fifty barrels of corn, besides what he stole and ate, and then he and the other thief come to the table together, and thus ended the chapter. Any observing man that rides much over our prairie, will testify that there are not a dozen hogs to the square mile to be found worth a dollar a head, unless they have been fed or stole their living out of somebody's field; and yet the land owners are taxed (and they can't provide properly for their wives, and children) to fence against these few worthless things, that cause more discord among neighbors than all other stock put together. In fact, these "skin and bones" on the prairie make the "bone of contention" that causes most all the the hard feelings among neighbors, where they are allowed to run out at large. If they have to be fed to make them worth raising, why not have them penned and save the poor tolling, struggling farmers the expense of trying to fence against them? It is a well known fact that hogs have long been outlawed anyhow by common consent—it being understood that if a hog gets in the field he will be killed; they are thus killed all over the country. Then, how much better it will be to have a law enacted to prevent them from running at large on the prairie. If any body wants to raise hogs in the woods and will confine them to the woods, all right.

Money to be Made.

It is said that dull times are not known by the agents for the great publishing house of George Stinson & Co., of Portland, Maine. The reason of this exceptional success is found in the fact that they always give the public that which is keenly appreciated and at prices that all can afford. At present we understand, their agents are doing wonderfully well on several new lines. They need many more agents in all parts of the country. Those who need profitable work should apply at once. Women do as well as men. Experience is not necessary, for Messrs. Stinson & Co. undertake to show all who are willing to work, not hard but earnestly, the path to large success. It should be remembered that an agent can do a handsome business without being away from home over night. Another advantage—it costs nothing to give the business a trial, and an agent can devote all his time, or only his spare moments to it. Stinson & Co. guarantee grand success to all who engage and follow simple and plain directions that they give. We have not space to explain all here, but full particulars will be sent free to those who address the firm; their full address is given above.

JURY LIST.

STATE OF LOUISIANA, PARISH OF ST. LANDRY.

Be it known that we, the undersigned members of the Jury Commission, did, on this 7th day of January, A. D. 1885, meet at the Clerk's office in the town of Opelousas, Parish of St. Landry, for the purpose of drawing a Jury for the regular term of the District Court of the thirteenth Judicial District, under section 5, Act No. 14 of the regular session of 1877, and all the members being present, James J. Thompson, one of the said members, drew from the General Venire box, one at a time, the names of the following fifty jurors, to serve the Grand and Petit Jurors for the 1st week of the said Court commencing Monday, 9th day of March, 1885, a list of whom was then and there kept by the Clerk of said Court, James O. Chabrière, and in our judgment a Jury being required for the second and third week of the term, we then and there proceeded as in drawing the first fifty jurors, to draw thirty additional names to serve as Petit Jurors for the second week, and thirty additional to serve as Petit Jurors for the third week of the term of said Court; and there place the names drawn as aforesaid for each separate week in separate envelopes, and sealed and endorsed the same with the words "Grand Jurors" and "Petit Jurors" respectively, which said envelopes containing said names were then and there placed in a jury box provided for the purpose, which, after depositing said names therein as aforesaid, was locked and sealed by us, and placed in the custody of the clerk of the court for use at the said term of said court.
