

LADIES DEPARTMENT.

An English Bride's Costume.

She is tall, fair and pretty. She was dressed extremely quietly in a well-made dress of brown faille...

Feminine Sheep Raisers.

Some time ago we mentioned in these columns the case of a young girl, a farmers' daughter, who has reared and owns a flock of sheep...

Silk Rag Carpets.

Down in a dingy, dim and dirty little basement under a rickety old building on the Bowery is carried on an industry whose products are as beautiful as they are fashionable...

THE EFFECTS OF FRIGHT.

How the Mind is Affected During an Earthquake.

Remarkable Action of the People at the Uplaval in Ischia.

An interesting account of the mental states induced by fright was given some time since by Dr. Fazio, who was an eye witness of the great earthquake at Ischia.

Six hours after the catastrophe the stillness of death reigned over Casamicciola. Men wandered about the ruins half clad and silent...

Fashion Notes.

Low walking shoes are much worn this summer.

Linen-finish percales and prints are novelties for summer wear.

A diamond spur with a ruby lash is a favorite design for a lady's lace pin.

Fans of large and unique forms are the only ones that should be used for wall decorations.

The rage for color in ornaments is the same as that in every other direction this season.

Arabian, Moorish, and Egyptian household fancies are all the rage for London interiors.

Mittens and hosiery thread gloves have driven gants de Suede and kid from the utility until fall.

Chartreuse is a color that embraces many shades of green, from old bottle to pale cream green.

Large bows of white ribbon or of piece goods, generally soft silk, adorn many summer frocks.

Embroidery, flowers, feathers and tinsel are the combinations found in dressy summer bonnets.

Absinthe and pale coral is a French color combination much in favor on the other side of present.

The day of much-draped, much-cut-up, founced, pleated, shirred, and ruffled dresses is gone by.

To look well, tinsel braid must be of the finest quality, and must be put on by an artist embroiderer.

Ecrú canvas and dark green velvet or velveteen are combined in the handsomest traveling suits, which must be tailor-made, of course.

Rubies, sapphires and emeralds are mixed together to form a fashionable medley of color in all sorts of pins, bracelets, rings and other adornments.

The stuff of which a dress is made is of small moment compared with the cut and make, which must be now-a-days British, and by an English tailor.

There are ladies and fashionable women, too, who utterly refuse to wear tinsel, high hats or bonnets, bustles or high collars, but they are the exception, not the rule.

Tailor cut and made suits are much more important as stamping the fashionable prestige of the wearer than costly fabrics made up by dress-makers of even fine ability.

Black silk braid is used as a trimming and binding for all cloth dresses of whatever color, and the buttons should be black also, but if preferred, braid and buttons may match the dress material.

Pastorale Romances.

On one occasion a gentlemanly looking person called and expressed a fear that he had inclosed two letters in wrong envelopes, and that all his prospects in life depended on his having his letters back and correcting the mistake, inasmuch as they revealed plans which he had adopted to save two mercantile houses in the same line of business, whose interests clashed at every point.

Fiddles and Violins.

A Utica gentleman of leisure believes that he has discovered the lost secret of making violins that probably originated in England in the twelfth century, and which has immortalized the names of Amatis at Brescia, Stradivari and the Guarneris at Cremona, and Steiner in the Tyrol.

Well "Smooth."

"But, Tommy, you really must not eat so much; you'll make yourself sick."

Well "Smooth."

"Yes, you will, you've already eaten so much I expect you feel uncomfortable."

Well "Smooth."

"N, I won't, mamma."

SCIENTIFIC SCRAPS.

Bacterial germs, supposed to be capable of producing disease, have been found in the air of Switzerland at heights as great as 7,500 feet above the sea level.

The hearing organ of animals is generally double, but not always located in the head.

It appears from observations made in France that the development of vegetable life is retarded by an average of nearly four days for each additional 100 yards of altitude.

By means of that remarkable instrument of modern research, the spectroscope, the otherwise absolutely imperceptible motion of so-called fixed stars is not only detected but measured.

Bees in unaccustomed localities, according to H. Muller, are timid, and find honey with difficulty.

Evolution of the Fan.

One evening when the beautiful daughter of a powerful Chinese mandarin, was assisting at the grand feast of lanterns, she was so overcome by the heat that she was obliged to take off her mask.

Proud, Even if Poor.

The wedded couple were of poor but honest parents, and the bride was a laundry woman. To give the requisite éclat to the proceedings, therefore, they were unable to enlist much extraneous aid.

A Terrible Thought.

Mr. Flickers is not progressive. Some one said to him: "You've heard about their boring all over the country for natural gas, haven't you, Mr. Flickers?"

The Hotel Vendome, of Boston, is unsurpassed in location and appointments.
