Two Young Women Were Made... Justice Cole, sitting in Criminal Court No. 11, Washington, to try...

There is no index of character so sure as the voice. He who despises small things, shall perish little by little.

Manners carry the world for the moment, character for all time. The unearned increment of private wealth is the earning of society.

Never say you know a man till you have divided an inheritance with him. Increase your wealth by lessening your desires. Develop a capacity to do without money.

There is a great difference between an absent-minded man and one who forgets judiciously. Don't worry about your work. Do what you can, let the rest go, and smile all the while.

The pleasantest things in the world are pleasant thoughts, and the greatest art in life is to have as many of them as possible. To do your best, you must own every bit of yourself. If you are in debt, part of you belongs to your creditors.

To do your best, you must own every bit of yourself. If you are in debt, part of you belongs to your creditors. Nothing but actual sin is more paralyzing to a young man's energies than debt.

EARLY INDIAN ATHLETES.

Their Favorite Games Were Bowling, Ball, Running, Wrestling, Etc. The American Indians were great bowlers. Alleys of greater length than any in use today were built in the open fields.

Balls were rolled by genuine Indian muscle. In fact there is scarcely a popular kind of game played in this country today but that its counterpart can be found in the age of the red man. They were gamblers, too, even to forfeiting the clothes upon their backs, their wives or their liberty.

Strange to say the average school history has abounded in a description of the Indian in nearly every point except the details of the games he played. 'Tales of the Indian bowling alley are rare except in a few sections of the country, thus showing that the game was not a universal one, and of all the games which the Indian played bowling is undoubtedly the most remote. The Western Reserve of Ohio was one of the centres for the Indian bowlers.

In several parts of Ashtabula county some of the other residents have these relics preserved, which they have picked up themselves in their early farming, usually in the open field. The balls used, instead of being large wooden ones like those in use today, were made of light colored stone and range in size from an ordinary league ball down to the common small top rubber ball. The alleys were built of wood carved out to make a reasonably smooth surface. The game was more so how far one could roll rather than accuracy in striking the ten pins at the opposite end of the alley. The alleys were built so long that it is alleged it was a hard matter to roll one of these stone balls so that it would reach the end. The Indians, too, kept a score and, like in all other games, they gambled.

The Indians were inveterate ball players and excellent 'rooters.' Their game lasted usually from 9 o'clock in the morning till sundown. It was participated in by from 600 to 1000 young men, divided into two sides, and the games were witnessed by from 3000 to 5000 men, women and children, who formed an immense ring around the entire field. The enthusiastic Indian yells were not altogether unlike the notes of the modern ball park. There was scarcely an intermission of five minutes during the entire day.

The game, however, resembled our football rather than baseball. When the ball was in the air there were kicks and struggles, brawled limbs and bruised bodies. A prescribed line divided the 'rooters' of the two sides, and across this line the gambling took place. Old men were selected as umpires. Women on both sides brought the crude household goods of the family to be staked on the game. Stakeholders guarded the goods. The scene resembled two distinct camps, although there was not necessarily more than one tribe engaged in the game.

There was a feature of the Indian game which will be new to the ball players of the year 1900. Several medicine men among the Choctaws sat all night on the spot where the ball was to be started next day and smoked to the Great Spirit who was to witness the game. The night before there also occurred what was known as the 'ball play dance.' Prior to the game each Indian was provided with two instruments which resembled our tennis rackets of today. The judges threw the ball in the air and immediately hundreds of Indians started after it. One finally succeeded in catching it between the large ends of the two 'tennis rackets' and threw it 'home,' or between two poles, the limit of one side or the other. This would count one point toward the game and the side getting 100 points first won. Often in the terrible struggle for the ball difficulties would arise between two slightly injured contestants and the game would stop until they settled the dispute. The women also played ball. When the men were tired they would announce a game between the women, and prizes would be awarded to their winning wives.

Among the popular amusements dear to the lighter side of the American, a parallel for which has been found among the Indians, are the following: Bowling, ball playing, horse racing, foot racing, dancing, wrestling, checkers, dominoes, quills, sham fights. Many things, which some of us today may believe are contemporaneous only with the age in which we live, by research may be found to have existed in the everyday life of the American Indian. Vapor baths were enjoyed by the Indian before the white man came to disturb his hunting ground.

Lawton's Last Day With His Wife. 'I called on General and Mrs. Lawton' says our correspondent, 'the last afternoon they were together. She was sitting near his desk at the division headquarters, while he was looking over the typewriter's copy of his orders for the expedition, which he had written with a pencil on a pad in his full, round hand. 'I had brought him a photograph of himself which was taken last spring. Anything about the general interested Mrs. Lawton at once. She scrutinized the likeness carefully from many points of view, and concluded that it was very good. Since it was taken, however, the general had grown a full beard. 'I shall have to make another on that account,' I suggested. 'But, as she looked first at the picture and then at the general, she seemed dubious about this. 'I don't know as I am going to let him keep the beard,' she explained. 'It does very well for the present, for he has so little chance to shave when he is at the front.' 'Would you go with him to a post hop in the states if he wore it?' I asked her jokingly. 'Oh, I would go with him anywhere,' she replied earnestly. 'Collier's Weekly.

GOLD IN THE CHICKENS.

Valuable Kind of Fowl Raised Out in Colorado. Chickens recently shipped to local commission dealers have started them guessing as to the diet on which they were fattened. A consignment of these chickens was received yesterday, believed to be from the same place as the one received about a week ago. And in both lots a number of small but very bright nuggets of gold were found. The nuggets were found in the craws of several birds in both consignments, but it was kept a secret by one of the finders with the hope that they might be able to locate rich ground. Quong Ah Chin, a janitor who works in a saloon on Seventeenth street, purchased one of the chickens. Three gold nuggets were found in its craw, and Quong now believes the find an omen of good luck. One piece of gold was large enough to be worth over a dollar. The grocers who were lucky enough to get some of the chickens with gold-lined stomachs tried yesterday to find who sent in the remarkable shipment. They have gone so far as to get prices on prospecting outfits and plan to be the first on the ground in case it may be located. One of the dealers who had some of the chickens with nugget-filled craws was ready to go and prospect the farm from which the poultry was shipped, thinking that some rich creek bed must pass through the place. Although the pieces were usually so small as to be hardly noticeable, some were found that weighed several pennyweights. Any more of the chickens from the place where these two lots were billed are likely to sell at double the ruling market price if sold in Denver.—Denver Republican.

A woman who marries a blockhead doesn't care to celebrate the wedding. Sleep changes the verdict. The jury in a recent law suit unanimously agreed upon the verdict, sealed it and went home to bed. After sleeping over it, they disagreed the next morning. This shows the power of sleep to strengthen the human mind. Those who are troubled with insomnia should try Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. 'You may take your scissors and cut out the adhesive stamp and stick it fast to your new envelope with mullage, notwithstanding the adhering piece of the old envelope. It does not look nice and may become detached in the mail, but if the stamp is a genuine, unused adhesive stamp it is not questioned. The government, when it sells an adhesive 2-cent stamp, undertakes for such consideration to transport and deliver to destination the letter to which it is affixed. The fact that it has with it a piece of envelope to which it was formerly attached, does not relieve the government from executing its part of the contract when the letter is deposited for mailing, the stamp being otherwise perfect.'

A MAN'S PLAINT.

Things That Are Injured by Contact with Sofa Pillows. 'Kindly remove the sofa cushion,' said the man, languidly, as he sat down on the couch beside the woman. 'The last time I was in its immediate vicinity I behaved very badly, indeed, filling my coat with a soft, cottony fuzz that took two hours of good, hard brushing to remove, so I've determined to have nothing more to do with it. D'ye know I'm getting so that I don't feel at all like putting on my good clothes when I go to call on women nowadays; all on account of these villainous pillows, which are everywhere, and which seem to be filled with tiny, fluffy feathers that escape and cling to one with glue-like persistency? That reminds me to remark that on account of one of Eve's latest daughters my dress suit is now reposing at the cleaners'. No, she didn't spill a plate of ice cream on me, nor did she do anything awkward of that sort; all she did was to use in my presence of those absurd fans made of ostrich feathers that some women affect. It was a pink fan, and, candidly, I think it was a little moth-eaten, but at any rate she's a nice girl and I like her, so I was a good deal with her at the German. Gradually I noticed that the fan seemed to be losing plumpage and I seemed to be gaining it. When I was a fine fluff almost from my head to heels I went up to the dressing room and got the man to brush me off, but as the needle to the pole those feathers were to me. Back they'd come merrily as soon as he'd cease agitating them, and settle even on my hair and in my mouth. A thousand kind friends came up to me during the evening and told me how funny I looked, and the owner of the fan herself laughed a bit, but, frankly speaking, I wasn't amused. I sent the suit to the cleaner the next day, and I hope he'll be able successfully to pluck it. I don't mind fussing on coming home from a dance that my sleeves are whitened by contact with sunny fair arms or that some powdery substance decorates my lapels, but I draw the line at feathers, hence—take away the cushion; I'll have none of it, and if my Tuxedo gets full of them I'll have to retire to private life for an indefinite space.'—Pittsburg Dispatch.

A TIP ABOUT USING STAMPS. Something Which a Great Many People Do Not Know. 'Wait until I have washed off the postage stamp on this envelope, spoiled in the addressing,' said a man, according to the Washington Star. 'It is not necessary to do that,' said a lawyer. 'You may take your scissors and cut out the adhesive stamp and stick it fast to your new envelope with mullage, notwithstanding the adhering piece of the old envelope. It does not look nice and may become detached in the mail, but if the stamp is a genuine, unused adhesive stamp it is not questioned. The government, when it sells an adhesive 2-cent stamp, undertakes for such consideration to transport and deliver to destination the letter to which it is affixed. The fact that it has with it a piece of envelope to which it was formerly attached, does not relieve the government from executing its part of the contract when the letter is deposited for mailing, the stamp being otherwise perfect.'

A search of the record of that venerable corporation, Trinity House, London, shows that it is just 300 years since the first lighthouse was erected at Lowestoft, and this is noted as the first regular lighthouse on the coasts of Great Britain. The next lighthouse to be erected was in Winterton, in 1616. Lowestoft has had, moreover, the unique distinction of possessing the first lifeboat. It was in 1809, just 200 years after the first lighthouse was built there, that the first lifeboat was dispatched on her initial errand of mercy from Lowestoft.

PIMPLES. Perhaps you have already discovered that powders and washes will not cure these eruptions on your face. They may cover up and suppress, but they cannot remove. Rashes, boils, salt-rheum, shingles, hives, eczema, tetter, etc., are but surface indications of a deeper trouble. And That's Bad Blood. The question for you now is,—how to make bad blood good blood; how to get rid of all these impurities in your system. Everybody knows the answer,—a perfect Sarsaparilla. No ordinary Sarsaparilla, such as you can buy at almost any store, will answer; it must be a perfect one. There is such a Sarsaparilla, and it differs widely in every way from all other Sarsaparillas. That's AYER'S. 'The only Sarsaparilla made under the personal supervision of three graduates: a graduate in pharmacy, a graduate in chemistry, and a graduate in medicine.' $1.00 a bottle. All druggists. 'I had frequent and most painful boils. I was treated by a number of physicians, but they did me no good. I tried many kinds of patent medicines, but without effect; but when I tried Ayer's Sarsaparilla I got hold of the right thing, for I was soon completely cured.'—R. P. Course, Attica, N. Y.
