NOTES.

Norfolk, Va., claims that in five years it has become the second cotton port in the South. Water obtained by artesian wells on the Colorado desert is found to be too salt for domestic use. Emperor William, of Germany, has eight decorations. He wears the insignia of very high orders of Europe.

SOUTHERN NEWS.

Louisiana. A lack of beef, indeed of fresh meat of every sort, is still the complaint in the country.

Some of the lowlands near Monroe are overflowed by the rise in the Ouachita river. The water in the swamp between Monroe and the Mississippi is rising rapidly.

There must be some practical jokers in Covington, St. Tammany. A doctor of that town offers a reward of $50 for the discovery of the parties who left a cow in his house.

The Baton Rouge Advocate has hoisted at the head of its columns a wood cut of the old State-House at that place, as an inducement to the people of the State to move their capital back to Baton Rouge.

The Natchitoches Indicator contains, each week, a number of interesting letters from various portions of that and neighboring parishes that make it an exceedingly interesting and readable paper.

The small-pox is rapidly disappearing from the country. In the parishes near New Orleans it is almost altogether gone.

In some portions of North Louisiana, Ouachita and Morehouse, it has only just broken out. The wit of the greater part of the press of the country seems to have been mercilessly turned on the Sugar Planter.

The cattle on the Attakapas prairies prove occasionally dangerous antagonists for amateur hunters. A boy named Brittain was attacked by one of these animals near Iberia the other day, thrown, pinned to the ground, and only made his escape by a good shot.

All the prisoners confined in the West Baton Rouge parish jail have been gotten rid of, thanks to the prompt action of Judge McVey, district judge of that district. A large number of the prisoners were convicted and sent over to the Penitentiary; those that were not convicted were released at once.

The fire department of Jackson will parade May 1. The Copiahian wants Col. Ben King, of Copiah, for Governor.

The Summit Sentinel wants the State convention called for June 20. The Plymouth saluted Gov. Stone, of Mississippi, at Vicksburg with 15 guns.

The bridge over the Amite on the road from Liberty to Oayka has been rebuilt. Hinds county promises a majority of 5000 for the Democratic ticket at the coming election.

The Greenwood Oriental wants the convention called for August 1, the Ripley Advertiser for July 17. A negro was drowned last week in attempting to cross Big Sand Creek, near Rocky Springs, on the Utica and Port Gibson road.

Pike county will begin the organization of her clubs on April 28. It is proposed that each ward and beat of the county shall organize a club. The Intelligencer states that the public spirited citizens of McComb City by liberal subscriptions have a sufficient sum of money to continue the free public schools in that town for a full term.

Brookhaven and Summit are engaged in a healthy rivalry. It is a miniature St. Louis-Chicago fight. Brookhaven has the best churches, but Summit the best preachers; Brookhaven the most saloons, while Summit drinks the most whiskey, etc. The Summit Sentinel tells of a 9 1/2 inch salmon caught in the Tangipahoa river, near that place, by Mr. S. E. Roberts.

These salmon were placed in the river two years ago under an act of Congress. This establishes the fact that these salmon are doing well. The Aberdeen Examiner announces that the Superintendent of Education, in Monroe county, has detected "a number of frauds on the part of teachers in making their reports," and that the aforesaid teachers "have been endeavoring to increase their pay by forging the signatures of trustees, adding the names of non-existing pupils to the rolls," etc.

Some of the rascally teachers have been arrested, and if justice should be meted out to them, will find vacation better suited to their depraved minds, inside the walls of the penitentiary. The Greenwood Oriental is uneasy lest Vicksburg will undertake to bring the Yazoo river through Chickasaw bayou, and thus injure navigation in the Yazoo by dividing the supply of water.

The people of the city of Vicksburg, says the Oriental, "attempt to cut this canal, we advise the people living on the Yazoo, Tallahatchie and Sunflower, to resort to legal means, an injunction, to restrain them from the execution of the plan. We would also ask the City Council to consider well whether they have the legal right to change the current of a navigable river! Whether they have a right to levy a tax on the city property to raise funds for this purpose." Texas. Marshall talks of building a narrow gauge railroad. The Galveston Fire Department was organized in 1841. It now consists of eight companies.

The Grangers are to have a grand festival at Belton on the 3d of May. Anthracite coal has been discovered in the neighborhood of San Antonio. The grand jury of Gonzales county found sixty-three indictments at its late session.

There is some talk of the immediate extension of the International Railroad from Austin to San Antonio. Houston is being done by St. Louis professional burglars. A number of residences have been ransacked. The contractors have commenced building the Eastern Branch Penitentiary, at Rusk, Cherokee county.

Dallas is very proud over a Russian noble, banished from his native land, who has taken refuge there. A gang of horse thieves was surprised in Frio county, recently, and one killed and four taken. They had stolen fifty horses in one day, recently. Some days ago mention was made of the killing of a man in Bosque county. It now transpires that the stranger was not only murdered, but robbed also. Heel flies are annoying the cattle in Limestone county, Texas, greatly. The weaker among the stock, which seek relief in the swamps, become mired and drown. San Antonio Express: Our merchants have decided upon erecting a building, to cost $10,000, on the fair ground, in which to display their goods.

The merchants of San Antonio don't do things by halves. A lot of Pennsylvanians settled on the Colorado, a few miles above Columbus, last fall. A correspondent of the Citizen says of them: "They have enjoyed fine health, and are well pleased with the Lone Star State. They have fine crops, their gardens are the best I have seen. They have lettuce six inches across the bed, and all other vegetables accordingly. These are the kind of people that this county wants. Their influence in fact, even among the colored population by making them work better, not wishing to be excelled so far."

A young man named Ragan, from San Felipe, Tex., tells the San Antonio Express that, as he was riding along the road, a few miles beyond Castroville, two men rode up to him from the brush by the roadside and demanded his money. Both had their faces masked, but did not present their revolvers, which they carried in sight, simply saying, as they told him to "hold!" that they didn't think it necessary to draw on him, as he was so young. He had five hundred dollars in his pocket and a considerable sum in his boots. The last mentioned the robbers failed to find, but took the nineteen dollars. They then invited the young man to step into the brush and lunch with them, which he, thinking it safest to humor them, did, although his appetite was none of the most ravenous. About one hundred yards from the road the men had a good lunch spread, which they partook of heartily, keeping their faces masked. However, after lunch the robbers returned seven dollars to their victim, and told him to go. He didn't wait for a second bidding.

The Southern Republicans Give Up the Fight and Surrender. [Chicago Times.] WASHINGTON, April 23.—The threatened revolt of the rank and file of the Republican party does not appear to be serious. The Southern Republicans, who have been credited with being the main support of this rebellion, are not elements of strength to any organization. They are now reconciling themselves as fast as possible to support the administration.

Their reconciliation will be hastened by a judicious distribution of a few offices to some of the more influential of them. The appointment of G. Wiley Wells as solicitor of the Treasury is one of the steps the Administration has taken to please this small band of malcontents. If this era of good feeling continues to be nursed by patronage, Mr. Hayes will have succeeded in bringing about a political union. It is possible, when Mr. Hayes arrives here, to conduct that great rebellion of his, his company may be made up entirely of officers and no privates. A number of the Republican Southern brethren, who at first announced that they would unite with the Democrats and pass over both branches of Congress to the opposition, have united in a long letter to the author of their being, Oliver P. Morton, in which they advocate, after many pages of weary verbiage, their reasons for bowing the knee to Hayes. They say, as already stated, that a considerable number of leading gentlemen, natives and life-long residents of the respective States in question, and identified with their local interests, have had much recent consultation and interchange of views, and that they have all concurred upon several propositions which they deem of present importance. They would be glad to see the position discontinued by the Administration of all party operations appealing to race, color or former condition, and of all discriminations and recommitments relating to individual persons. They think there should be no Administrative proscription of individual Republicans because of their not being natives of the State in which they reside, but the most prominent lead in party affairs should be imposed upon those who by reason of permanent residence, property interests, and especially by reason of well established character among the people are better calculated to command the respect and confidence of the voters, and to exert by their opinions and actions the greatest effect upon popular sentiment. Having confidence in the purpose of the President to do justice to his party friends in all sections, they are ready and anxious to co-operate in any efforts of the Administration looking to harmony between sections and to the practical enforcement of equality of rights and privileges among all classes of American citizens.

Greenhouses, lawns, jacquets, mattings to match, colored dress linings, with embroideries to match, are a specialty at M. L. Byrne & Co.'s. The CONTRABAND CHILDREN have determined to help feed and clothe the poor little inmates of St. Mary's Asylum. BUNNETT'S COLOGNE is filled in elegant bottles of superior finish and beauty—themselves an ornament. It has in a brief time, attained a large and constantly increasing sale, confirming the opinion of the best judges, that it is equal, if not superior, to the celebrated fairs.

Lewis' Sulphuret Steel Dust.

These pills, having used and tested the value of this medicine and tonic, are respectfully notified that it can now be obtained at the drugemporium of L. L. Lyons, New Orleans. To the uninitiated and skeptical I have here to remark that in putting my Sulphuret of Steel before the public as a valuable compound, I have deviated from the usual and laid down by the whole concourse of inventors of the best and surest anti-bilious and best tonic, etc. I allude to their secrecy of ingredients. I have no secrecy in my offering. I ask for none. This preparation is simply a steel brought to the fine dust without the intervention of acids. The mode is a little intricate, but simple when understood. I much doubt if it will be denied that iron occupies a larger list of its combinations as a medicine in the Materia Medica than any other ingredient, either mineral or vegetable. I claim from every diplomatic physician an endorsement of iron as a valuable medicine and tonic. I take the unqualified liberty to say, from experience, that within the last five or six years many of the physicians in the vicinity where this medicine was first introduced, in cases where iron was required, this Sulphuret was universally preferred on account of its easy admixture with other ingredients and usually known strength.
