JOURNALISM.
 The City Item, a new evening journal, made its appearance on the streets Monday afternoon. Messrs. Higney and Jewell are the editors, and Mr. Wm. J. Hammond is the city editor. The Item is neatly printed, and full of live and racy reading. We welcome the new paper into the field of journalism, and we say this, not as a mere expression of courtesy, but sincerely. The journalistic field may be over full here or elsewhere, and some enterprises must fail, while others succeed; but the more that are started, and, indeed, the greater the number that succeed, the stronger, better, abler and truer the press of that locality will be. The principle of the survival of the fittest will control the result, and the energies of all are stimulated to their highest action by vigorous competition. Established newspapers which look with enmity upon new journalistic enterprises are generally superannuated institutions, or corrupt ring organs which have more to conceal from than they have to tell their readers. The one dreads the coming of a young and vigorous rival whose brain and spirit will force it to stir its sluggish blood or drive it out of its ruts, while the other trembles before a fearless and honest journal, whose eager and new-born zeal may hunt out and expose its rotten secrets. The public, however, and honest and enterprising journalism are benefited by the birth of new papers.
 Our young neighbor has a hard fight before it, but energy and enterprise will win in the end. Any number of people exalted their prophetic powers at one time in predicting the speedy failure of the DEMOCRAT. Our generous and courteous contemporaries, we believe, indulged in this amiable business, and the early death of the DEMOCRAT at one time constituted the chief subject of their luminous editorials. The DEMOCRAT, however, survived and is strong enough this morning to welcome in all sincerity its young and dashing rival.
 The early death of the Item will, of course, be also predicted, and perhaps the prophecy may be fulfilled. But because the prophecy is made, that is no reason why the paper should die. Its success or failure will depend upon conditions very different from the good will of contemporaries with the dry rot, or the early prophecies of croakers, who know nothing of the force of pluck, energy and enterprise.

HON. LOUIS BUSH'S LETTER.
 A letter from Hon. Louis Bush, relative to act No. 11 of 1875 and the action of the Board of Liquidation on the bonds affected by that act, will be found in another column of this morning's Democrat. The letter is a clear and exhaustive review of the law, the decisions of the court in relation to it and the policy which controlled the board, and we are satisfied will convince all parties of the wisdom of the course pursued.

We protest, however, that Col. Bush does us an injustice in classing us with those who attacked the resolutions of the board, or even with those who objected to them. So far from dissenting from those resolutions, the very morning following their adoption, learning that some dissatisfaction was evinced in certain financial quarters, we wrote and published an article fully indorsing the resolutions and holding that the board had acted with prudence and discretion in thus resolving to follow the strict letter and spirit of the law; that though there might be some delay in funding certain of the suspected bonds the confidence of the public in the State credit would be necessarily strengthened by this declared purpose of the board to make the law its guide in every step it might take. We have never changed our views on this subject, and we now fully and conclusively indorse every position taken by Col. Bush in his letter to us.

The communication of Mr. Forstall, we remember, took issue with the board; but we did not concur in that gentleman's views. We printed his communication as we do the communications of any of our responsible citizens upon questions of public interest, whether they coincide with our own opinions or not. We do not remember to have written anything on the subject at the time Mr. Forstall's communication was printed, though we may have referred to and epitomized his views in a paragraph or two.
 We make these observations in justice to ourselves. The letter of Col. Bush is a valuable document, well calculated to inspire confidence in the Board of Liquidation, and thus to strengthen the credit of the State. We are glad to print it, and barring his error in classing us with the adversaries of the policy of the board, we indorse it throughout.

The division of the parish of Carroll into two new parishes, East and West Carroll, has given rise to many nice constitutional questions, among which the most important seems to be whether the officials elected in November last, for the old or mother parish, can act as officials of one of its children, East Carroll, as they are at this very moment doing. The Judge of the Parish Court of East Carroll, for instance, was never either elected or appointed to that office; nor do any of the other officials of the parish, sheriff, clerk, or recorder, hold their terms by any other right title or claim than that they were elected to those offices for Carroll parish, and that it was out of this parish that East Carroll was formed.

The lawyers and others who had cases in the courts of the parish were not at all satisfied with this uncertainty, and the question was tested before Judge Hough, of the District Court, last week, on a motion to quash the venire of jurors drawn by the clerk and recorder, on the ground that it was not drawn by the officers of East Carroll parish, as required by law, but by the ex-officials of Carroll. What the exact decision of the district judge was, the Carroll Conservative does not state, but it represents it as a sort of compromise, and regrets that the doubts that must arise from uncertain officials were not finally and forever put at rest. The Conservative suggests that this should be done even now, and that it can be done at once and with very little trouble by the resignation or removal of the present officials of Carroll parish and their immediate reappointment by Governor Nichols as officials of East Carroll. There need be no change in the personnel of these officials, who were undoubtedly elected by large majorities; but, after experiencing the curses of a doubtful and uncertain State government, the people of East Carroll insist that the doubts which affect their parish government be at once removed. A petition to this effect has been circulated in the parish, and we have little doubt that the whole matter will be properly arranged in a very short time.

Secretary Sherman is reported by our dispatches as discussing with the Louisiana colored delegation the proposition of Federal patronage the colored people here ought to have. One-third of the spoils, it seems it was agreed, belonged of right to the darkies. This seems hardly fair. If the patronage is to be divided out according to the strength of the different elements of the Radical party in the State, the colored people ought to have nineteen-twentieths of it. Any other basis of distribution must necessarily be arbitrary, and we cannot judge of its merits until we have fuller intelligence. We will venture to say, however, that if the President sincerely desires to carry out his plan of civil service reform and to insure honesty and efficiency in the discharge of the public business, no such basis of distribution as that indicated by Secretary Sherman should be adopted.

The whole country knows, and of course the President knows also, that nine-tenths of the leaders of the Radical party in Louisiana—black and white—are notoriously corrupt and ignorant men. There are very few of them who are not subject to indictment for gross crimes. The proper policy for the President to pursue, if his object is not to reward partisans, is to hunt out the few intelligent and honest adherents of his Administration, irrespective of color, and appoint them to the offices. If he hopes to retain the respect and good will of the people of the State, he and his secretaries must not make any more such appointments as Dula and Chapman, and we can assure him that the people here will regard the appointment of W. G. Brown, late Superintendent of Public Education, to any office of consequence, as an insult and that Mr. Key will win neither favor nor respect for himself or the Administration by appointing C. C. Antoine Postmaster at Shreveport.

The letter of Mr. McCaffrey, Administrator of Improvements, shows that he has administered his office not more extravagantly than his predecessors; indeed, it shows an actual considerable reduction in the cost of salaries in the Department of Improvements for the month of May, 1877, as compared with those paid in the same month in 1876. This, however, is no argument against the contract system. We do not think that Mr. McCaffrey has been charged with excessive extravagance in his department. The change in the system of doing the work of that department was based, we understand, upon the proposition that by the contract system the work can be done more cheaply than under any Administrator. The superiority of the contract system was the motive, not the maladministration of Mr. McCaffrey, who, we believe, has proved, so far, an excellent officer. Whether the contract system is the cheapest or not, can only be positively determined after it has been tried and its cost compared with that of the present system under Mr. McCaffrey and his predecessors.
