

THE PRESIDENT AND THE RETURNING BOARD.

The telegraph Wednesday morning reported that the President was irritated over the threatened indictment of Wells and Anderson for perjury and forgery while acting as members of the Returning Board.

The solicitor Mr. Hayes is reported as entertaining about the prosecution of these men may lead to the inference that, after all, he is not as confident of the legality of his title to the Presidency as he claims to be.

No purpose has been expressed in this State and none exists, to attack, or in any manner question, Mr. Hayes' title to the Presidency.

It is a matter with which the President has no concern and which he has no right to endeavor to influence.

Mr. Hayes wrongs himself by meddling in this matter. If he has no better title to the Presidency than the Returning Board's declaration of the result of the election in Louisiana, he is a fraud, a usurper, a criminal.
