NEW ORLEANS, AUGUST 19, 1877.

OUR ANNUAL STATEMENT.

First of September, 1877. On the first of September the DEMOCRAT will have a correct, concise and comprehensive statement of the commerce of the city of New Orleans during the past year, made up and compiled by gentlemen whose facts and figures cannot be disputed by the commercial community.

This issue will contain several exhaustive essays on Agriculture, Railroads and Manufactures, together with an elaborate and statistical treatise on our RELATIONS WITH SPANISH AMERICA.

We will publish a correct and artistic map, prepared and executed especially for the DEMOCRAT by that well known and accomplished artist, GEORGE W. DUPRE & CO.

THE MERCHANTS' MAP

OF THE NEW ORLEANS PACIFIC RAILWAY will show its importance to New Orleans as the Commercial Emporium and Business Center of the Great Agricultural Region of the Southwest.

It will show the position of RAILS, JETTIES at the mouth of South Pass, and also the proposed location and route of the BARATARIA SHIP CANAL.

We earnestly solicit the patronage of our friends on this occasion, and those of them who wish to send papers to their constituents would do well to send in their orders as soon as possible.

The advantages which the DEMOCRAT offers to its patrons in point of circulation and popularity are second to those of no other paper in New Orleans.

As an advertising medium it is unsurpassed.

MORTON ON THE "SOLID SOUTH."

Senator Morton has been relieving himself of his always large accumulation of bile by the delivery in Oregon of one of the bitterest bloody shirt speeches which has been uttered since the war. He went to Oregon to procure testimony of bribery and corruption against the Democratic Senator from that State, and to implicate prominent Democrats in such transactions.

His explanation of the process by which the original delinquency was so largely increased opens up a rich placer of information, touching one of the most scandalous incidents in the history of the late State administration, presided over by William P. Kellogg. The facts laid bare by him belong more to history than to the judicial investigation to which Fulton's connection with them will be subjected.

There can be no half way or middle ground between these two men. They are as opposite as the poles. The one who commends and applauds the other, in view of this cardinal antagonism, must play the hypocrite.

And Morton performs this role when he launches against the South denunciations which Hayes says are unjust and unfounded, and thereby he becomes obnoxious to us as an accessory and conscious approver and abettor.

If Morton is the true representative and embodiment of the Republican party, Hayes is not of that party. If they are both still of the party, they represent two widely separated and discordant factions thereof.

bloody bones which haunts his dreams and fills his soul with such horrors as agonized the body and soul of the bloody Gloster the night before the fatal battle of Bosworth.

And yet, if there is a solid South, who more than he has contributed to make, or to continue it—the Solid South. Whilst the President seeks wisely and patriotically, and the South cordially co-operates in his policy, to destroy sectional lines, to banish sectional prejudices and passions, and diffuse an honest and sincere nationalism and unionism through the whole Union, Morton insists that the North and the Republican party shall still regard the Southern States as a distinct section and people, who should be held in subjugation and vassalage, and always distrusted and watched.

His Republicanism has as its main principle and policy the virtual secession of one-half of the States and people to the other half. A solid South is with him a treasonable conspiracy, and all engaged in it should be treated as rebels by the solid Republican party. Not for anything which the South does or proposes to do; not that either in purpose, design or intent, has this section committed, or proposed to commit, any act of rebellion, but because it is a solid South, so made by the very acts of the party which imputes that fact as a crime.

Such diatribes and malignant effusions could only emanate from a radically diseased mind, heart and body. They denote the near approach of the termination of the mortal career of a man who will furnish the most sorrowful example of his era of perverted high qualities, of prostituted faculties and a depraved ambition and malignant heart.

FIRST DISTRICT TAX COLLECTORSHIP.

Kellogg and Ford. Fulton, brought back to the State on a requisition of Gov. Nichols, is charged with a defalcation, as tax collector of the First District of New Orleans, of $59,000.

Fulton is surprised that he should be thus extradited, averring that he left word with his friends to send for him, to notify him by telegram, when he was needed and he would hurry back to answer all questions and demands, adding that he had recognized his indebtedness and provided for the liquidation of the same, through a responsible friend, and had only been delayed in his settlement by the refusal of the Treasurer to open his office for the conduct of the public business during the contest for the State government.

Mr. Fulton's astonishment at being brought back here under a judicial process at all is greatly increased when, on his arrival here, he discovered that the State's claim against him is $59,000, instead of the $21,000 acknowledged.

His explanation of the process by which the original delinquency was so largely increased opens up a rich placer of information, touching one of the most scandalous incidents in the history of the late State administration, presided over by William P. Kellogg. The facts laid bare by him belong more to history than to the judicial investigation to which Fulton's connection with them will be subjected.

Whereas, when the sum of $275,000 shall have been subscribed, said company will be able to complete the entire line, ready for the rails and rolling stock; therefore, Resolved, That the President of this company be and is hereby authorized to issue in the name of the New Orleans Pacific Railway Company, bonds on its entire line from New Orleans to Shreveport, La., and Marshall, Texas, at an amount not to exceed $1,000,000 per mile, payable in forty years, and bearing interest at the rate of six (6) per cent per annum; and to secure the payment of said bonds, in both principal and interest, the said President of said company is hereby authorized to execute a first mortgage and act of pledge on all the railroad's capital stock, corporate franchises, and real and personal property of every kind of said New Orleans Pacific Railway Company, either now owned and possessed by said company, or hereafter to be acquired, and that said President be authorized to offer and obtain subscriptions for $275,000 of said first mortgage bonds in the city of New Orleans, it is further

Resolved, That the proposition to issue second mortgage bonds on said road is hereby withdrawn, and parties having subscribed thereto are hereby authorized and entitled, on application, to have their subscriptions changed to subscriptions to first mortgage bonds. It is further Resolved, That subscriptions for said first mortgage bonds will be received at the office of the company, and payable in monthly installments of twenty per cent. E. B. WHEELOCK, President. August 18, 1877. A. BROSSE & SON.

Parties wishing to purchase or to inform themselves will find it to their interest to call and examine our stock and prices. A. BROSSE & SON.

It would appear, from Fulton's further testimony, that not content with these large profits there have been large deficiencies in the settlements made by their agent and treasurer in the collector's office, which it is sought to cover up with certain bogus warrants, which warrants constitute the excess for which Fulton is held accountable to the State.

It is also necessary that the completeness of this narrative that we should state, that during the greater portion of the time this arrangement was carried into effect, the agent and treasurer who was the real administrator of the office, was the late Auditor George B. Johnson, and that near the close of Kellogg's administration, when it became necessary to square up the accounts of the tax collectors, Johnson was transferred to the State Auditorship, for abstracting and concealing the archives and books of which office he now stands for trial before the Superior Criminal Court of New Orleans.

It may be necessary to add other facts to this recital, but we think we have given enough to expose one of the most flagrant acts of corruption and official malversation and plunder which have ever been perpetrated in this country. Whether such facts do not demand some effort on the part of the legal and judicial authorities of the State to bring the guilty parties implicated therein to justice and restitution we submit to their judgment and sense of duty.

CENTRAL DEPOT Animal Vaccine Matter.

VACCINATION. DIRECT COW POX. The necessity for establishing in this city a central office for vaccinating directly from the cow is felt and admitted by all, in order to arrest the ravages made by the small-pox on our population. This is the motive which has directed me in creating it, confident of its good result, and from its having been sanctioned by experience, I have the honor to offer to an enlightened community my services, at No. 1 Gravel street, corner Canal, where the virus taken directly from the cow on the spot will be applied to those who honor me with their confidence.

Vaccination and revaccination applied in this form is the only one presenting no danger, and the only preservatively of cooped utility which insures preservation and exemption from small-pox. It is, at the same time, the most salutary method adopted by enlightened people to effect a speedy termination of the epidemic affecting them.

Persons not vaccinated can become so at any period and during all seasons. Those who have been so for seven years or more should be revaccinated, the more so as it has been demonstrated that vaccination taken from the arm is not permanent. Children from their earliest infancy and even in the period of teething are exposed to no peril in being vaccinated, and during an epidemic should be so five days after their birth.

Ladies will find in my establishment an apartment reserved exclusively for their accommodation, where they can be vaccinated in most respectful privacy. On MONDAY, August 13, at 12 o'clock, the office will be opened to the public. Vaccinating Days.
