he seemed to summon all his energies and his venom for one last convulsion of spite fury. But the odds against him were too vy. mingled with duil speeches against time and relieved only by a well-timed and well-put little speech from Conover, which, by the way, put a quietus upon the charges of bargain and sale quite effectually.

It was now iwilight and the great gas jets in the glass roof of the Senate Chamber blazed out full and strong for an all night seasion. Motions to adjourn were now in order, and they were put in all conceivable shapes only to be voted down by that sleedy vote of twenty-eight to thirty, which seemed as invincible as it was monotonous. At half-past 5 the Senate got hungry and the Democratis allowed a motion to go into executive session to prevail, but this was only a cover for lunch, and if executive business was discussed at all it was done around the littletables in the Senate re-taurant. At all event, as seon as the Solons had refreshed themselves the doors were opened, the galleries filled up again, and that same old vote of twenty-sight to, thirty began to meet renewed motions to adjourn. The question now was one of physical endurance rather than of mental resource or forensic skill, and thetwo clans began to got good-natured. The Senate which hunger had made doelie grow playid with sleepiness, and pair after pair of gladiators could be seen stealing off to the closk rooms for

In which all the ambitions and the rancors of in the Senate are young and robust men, and as a whole there is a far better average of physical endurance on that than on the Republican Whereupon the lithe and wiry Bayard constituted himself a committee of safety to see to it that he adjuose colleague was kept awake. The first move was forefresh the inner man of the Illinois Infant with about six pounds of supper, washed down with about a quart of champagne and the directories. The lounges in the cloak-rooms were not made for David Davis, and so the ex-judical giant was propped up in a big chair, where he dozed comfortably through all the speeches and whence he rose at roll call to waddle out upon the floor and vote a steniorian No! upon all motions to adjourn.

At 3 o'clock a. m. the galleries were described and at 4 not more than a dozen Benafors were in their seats, and they nodded. Another motion to adjourn was sprung and came within an according the seats, and they nodded. Another motion to adjourn was sprung and came within an according the clock-rooms were lard to accuse. "One blast upon that bugle-horn"

"One blast upon that bugle-horn" of Thurman just then was worth a seat in the Senate for the six hundred times a thousand people who live in South Carolina. And the sommolent Solons staggered out, rubbing their eyes in the gray dawn that streaked down the sky-lights, to cast again that invineble yote of 30 to 28. Cocktais and mutton chops in the restaurant below were again in requisition, and by 9 o'clock the galleries were full. But it was pain that the Radicals were giving out. Their speeches against time were becoming mechanisal efforts, and their notions to adjourn were fewer and farther between hour by hour. At last they gave in. The last speech had been made, the resources of delay had been exhausted and sixteen years of supremacy collapsed in that same vote of 36 to 28, by which the committee was discharged and

THE BATTLE WON.

Now the question comes on a motion to swear Butter in. It may be debated as long as the Republicans care to make speeches. But it cannot be swamped with amendments or staved off by roll-calls, because it is a question of the highest privilege, which must be disposed of before any other business can be transacted. It may be done before this reaches you; but whether it is er not, M. C. Butter is Senator from South Carolina—beyond any resource within the power of the Radicals to prevent; and it is all the result of the best arranged, most skillfully manged and nicest calculated parliamentary battle known to the annals of the Senate.

Field Marshal Thurman is, of course, the Wellington of this Waterloo of Radicalism, and my mind's eye I can see Edmunds standing, six feet high, solitary enough, and lacking only the melancholy grandeur of its Cambronne. There will be plenty of Thenardiers.

efused. No. 6722, Boeiedad Union Espanola de Bene Upon presenting these bonds to the Board of Liquidation to be funded, they were refused because the bonds were issued in aid of the Bourf and Crocodile Navig tion Company, and all the bonds of that issue had been declared of doubthi validity by the supplemental funding act. This act prohibits the Board of Liquidation from funding any bonds mentioned in this liste des proseries until they have been declared by this court to be legal and valid obligations of this State, and that they were issued in strict conformity to law and not in violation of the constitution of this State or of the United States. (Ac s 1878, p. 116.) Thereupon the plaintiffs instituted this suit for the purpose of obtaining from this court a decree affirming the legality and validity of the bonds in question.

L.B. Binnose, of NewYork, intervened, claiming ownership of affect other bonds of same denomination and issue, alleging a like presentation of his bonds for funding and a like refusal, and praying a like flores. An intervention of this kind seems to be sanctioned by the act, and no objection is made to it.

The defendanc answered by a general denial and a special averment that the bonds hold by plaintiffs had none of the characteristics required by the supplemental funding act. The answer to the intervention is the same in substance. There was judgment in favor of the plaintiffs and intervenor, and the defendant anpeals.

It will be observed that the object of this and answer to the intervention is the same in substance. There was judgment in favor of the plaintiffs and intervenor, and the defendant appeals.

similar suits is not to obtain a judgment against the State for the amount of the bonds. The decree we are to render is assimilated to a special verdict of a jury who have been charged to ascertain or find certain facts, i.e., do the bonds possess the requisites enunciated in the act of 1875, which it is essential they should have in order to justify the Board of Liquidation in funding them.

The General Assembly passed an act granting the aid of the State to the Beruf and Crocodile Navigation Company, by which the Governor was authorized to issue the bonds of the State to the amount of eighty thousand dollars in favor of the company. It empowered the president and secretary of the company to sell or pledge the bonds thus issued in such quantities as they may deem necessary to raise money for the completion of the work of making the Boul and Crocodile navigable. Whether the two things designated by these words were canals, or bayous, or str-amiets, or large bodies of water nowhere appears in that act, which provides further that ail the rights and privileges of the company are pl-dged, hypothecated and mortgaged to the State to secure the payment of the bonds issued in its aid, and the interest that may accrue thereon. Acts 1870, p. 21.

The bonds have at their head the words "State bond in favor of the Beruf and Crocodile Navigation Compan," and run thus. "The State of Louisiana is indebted to Henry C. Warmoth or bearer in the sum of one thousand dolvars," etc., and are signed by "H. C. Warmoth, Govern-or of the State of Louisiana," and are counter signed by the Secretary of State.

It is admitted that the signitary of the bonds is also the payee.

The testimony of all the plaintiffs was taken, from which it appears they bought hirty-eight of these bonds in London on the eighth of April.

1870, three months

chaever in sood faith, before maturity, and for a valuable consideration, in open market, they are protected by the undisputed rule of commercial taw, which shelters them from all latent equities between the maker and the payee—that they had not to look further than or behind the broad seal of the State, which assured them of the genuineness and legality and validity of the securities thus ourchased.

If this rule of commercial is is applicable without reserve to the bonds of this State, what significance are we to attach to the sec of 1875? The funding act provided that all obligations of the State might be exchanged for consolidated bonds at the rate of sixty cents on the dollar, and constituted a board to liquidate these obligations, and give to the board, and constituted a board to liquidate these obligations, and give to the holders of any valid bond or warrant. In case of its rejection by the board of the state of the sta formity to law. And the lack of this quality was patent.

The act which authorized the issuance of the bonds is printed in full on the reverse of each bond. Each purchaser, when the bond was offered to him, could read for himself the conditions and form prescribed by the act. If a more minute examination was made, he would fail to discover from the terms of the act what it was that the Legislature of Louisiana was intending to improve. The term "navigation" would certainly innly that water was to be operated on, but there is no indication beyond that. The act bore on its frontlet unmistakably the warning, careal employ.

on, but there is no indication beyond that. The act bore on its frontlet unmistakably the warning, careal employ.

The judgment from which this appeal was taken was rendered by the Third District Court of this city. It is now contended on behalf of defendant that the matter in controversy was without the jurisdiction of that court. It derives that jurisdiction from an act of the present year. Acts 1871, p. 248. The Attorney General attacks the constitutionality of that act.

The constitution confers upon the General Assembly the power to establish as many district courts in the parish of Orleans as the public interest may require. Until otherwise provided seven are constituted, and to the Third is given exclusive jurisdiction of appeals from justices of the peace. These seven courts shall also have such further jurisdiction, not inconsistent therewith, as shall be conferred by law. Art. 83.

It is not inconsistent to enlarge the jurisdiction of one of these courts. The Third Court must have exclusive jurisdiction of appeals from justices of the peace, but this exclusive jurisdiction of a particular class does not preclude it from having concurrent jurisdiction with other courts of another class. The division of assignment of jurisdiction made in the constitution must remain until otherwise provided, and the use of this phrase implies that another assignment may be made. The Legislature has given to the Third Court original concurrent jurisdiction with the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth, in certain cases, and this is one of them.

It is therefere ordered, adjudged and decreed that the jude ment of the tower court is avoided and reversed, and it is now decreed that the bonds held by the plaintiffs and intervenor are not valid obligations of the State of Louislana, and that they were not issued in conformity to law. It is further ordered that these parties pay the costs of both courts.
