

GREAT OPPORTUNITIES FOR PUPILS AT AVERY SCHOOL.

George Westinghouse Will Equip the Institution for Young Negroes With Complete Appliances for Instruction in Electrical Science.

MR. JOSEPH D. MAHONEY.

When a promise made by George Westinghouse has been fulfilled a well-known Allegheny institution for the education of Negroes will be more completely equipped for instruction in electrical science than the famous school presided over by Booker T. Washington in Tuskegee, Ala. The fortunate school that is to be the beneficiary of Mr. Westinghouse's liberality is the Avery Trade School, at Nelson and Avery streets, Allegheny.

Avery college has been fairly prosperous for some years and the trade school in connection has been doing as well as could fairly be expected. Its manual training department has interested a lot of young colored people, many of whom have shown extraordinary talent. Mr. Westinghouse heard of the good work that has been done under the superintendency of J. D. Mahoney, investigated the school and its workings and finally made an offer to equip it fully with electrical appliances.

The offer was made to the board of trustees and that body has been considering it, not that there was any doubt of final acceptance, but rather to round up the negotiations so that the offer, its scope and whatever stipulations it may contain, may be thoroughly and finally entered on the minutes. The board will today notify Mr. Westinghouse that his offer will be accepted.

Mr. Westinghouse will furnish all the machinery and appliances that may be needed and will himself bear all the expenses of installation. When the department is ready to be put in operation no other school in the country, it is confidently asserted, will be in better trim to impart instruction in electrical science.—Pittsburg Post.

SPARKS FROM OUR ANVIL.

A philosopher is a man who goes on the theory, "I don't care whether school keeps or not."

To many a man Mendelssohn's wedding march has finally proved to be his funeral dirge.

Some men prefer having four 5 dollar bills instead of one 20 because four 5s look more like money.

When some young men spend as much as 8 dollars in society, they feel the effects of it a month afterward.

As a rule, the woman who says she intensely hates men, works up a desperate flirtation either with a pug dog or a dude.

There is very little respect and less patronage due the business man who find time to play checkers during business hours.

The aesthetic say that the persons who pronounce it "pie-ano" are just as obnoxious as those who pronounce it "pee-aner."

It is observed by the multitude that those women in what is referred to as the "exclusive set" in society are old and homely.

If a woman is ugly, and has little education, she certainly should stay out of a society that calls for some accomplishment or merit.

If the average man were to study the financial question with as deep concern as he studies woman, how soon he would become rich!

There is one time in a schoolteacher's life when she overlooks all her lover's grammatical blunders: when he compliments her upon her good looks or when he makes a proposal of marriage.

When it is said of the average girl that she is a "bookworm," it is meant in nine cases out of ten that she is a great admirer of Beadle's dime novels or the Fireside Companion.

A girl in marriage a week gets more experience out of that kind of life than a woman in marriage 10 years, judging from the great amount of advice she insists on giving her elderly married sisters.

It seems that there is a premium on badness, after all: in every town of any importance there are more theatres and saloons than schoolhouses and churches. Does this speak well for a people who boast a superior civilization?

There is a warmth in her kisses which suggests the kindling afresh of the dying embers of the flame of love when a man kisses his wife "good-bye" and slips 20 dollars into her hand before going off on a week's visit; but if he forgets, and fails to make this provision, there is a frigidity in her kisses which suggests the discovery of the North Pole.

After all, considering that they are adopted in a locality of more or less ignorance, the Southern methods of lynching would not seem so brutal when they are compared with the Northern methods of hazing as employed by those college bred young men coming from the "best families." As in the matter of lynching, also in that of hazing the federal and state governments seem powerless institutions.

This is the time of year when one can pick up almost any paper and read that young society girls are suffering from cold and sore throat in their severest stages. These complaints are brought on through what might be termed ballroom dissipation, such as satin slippers, which are as conducive to one's health, as bare feet in the snow, and added to these are low-neck "dresses" and insufficient clothing generally. Mothers should take care of their daughters by seeing that they are clothed properly before attending balls, thereby preventing cold and sore throat, a puny, unhealthy look, a sallow complexion and a premature grave. Much depends upon the old-fashioned mothers. Their daughters are too modern.

MR. O. Hunter's Demise.

Mr. Osborne Hunter, Jr. one of the best known men of the District, died at Garfield Hospital Tuesday, January 8th. He came from North Carolina and has been a first class clerk in the Pension Office in this city for many years. By the practice of economy and industry he accumulated considerable wealth and at the time of his death owned among other properties a most valuable residence at 1915 11th street, north west. Mr. Hunter was a bachelor and counted his friends by the score. His almost sudden death was a surprise to his many friends. He leaves a sister, a father and a nephew, Mr. E. H. Hunter of the Land Office division of the Interior Department. His remains were shipped to his home in North Carolina for interment.
