Colored Washington.

THE NEGRO AS A BUSINESS FACTOR AT THE NATION'S CAPITOL.

Colored Washington is the title of a book just issued by Mr. Andrew F. Filyer under the auspices of the Union League. The book is the most complete of its kind ever issued. It gives a history of the colored men in the various kinds and branches of business in Washington. It contains 174 pages, is beautifully illustrated with portraits and short sketches of the leading colored men of Washington, and is most valuable to persons who would like to know what the race has accomplished in the business world.

Contents: Here are a few of the many subjects treated in this book: Colored mechanics and business men before the war. The new business movement. Some representative men. The first colored clerk in Washington, the first colored dentist, druggist, lawyer, physician and newspaper. Public positions held by colored men in Washington. A directory of organizations and of institutions. Under this head comes business, benevolent, charity, literary, fraternal, medical, military, political, patriotic, philanthropic, pleasure, religious, secret, self-culture, temperance, trades unions.

A history of schools, churches and other facts too numerous to mention are given in this valuable book. The price is paper cover, 35 cents; cloth cover 60 cents. All orders should be sent to ANDREW F. FILYER, 2352 6th street, northwest, Washington, D. C.
