Strange Case of Mrs. McVane.
[From the Chicago Tribune.]
A case that is exciting much comment at Grand Fork, Dak., is that of the supposed death of Mrs.
McVane, wife of E. McVane, a Northern Pacific official. She is living at the Ingalls House on her death or in a state of trance so much resembling death that it is impossible at present to detect the difference. Twice before she has been supposed to be dead and then came her friends a joyous surprise by returning to consciousness and her wonted health. Tuesday Mrs. McVane was taken with a spell of fainting, but recovered and at dinner time went to her meal as usual, but soon after to seat herself was taken with another fainting spell and was removed to her room unconscious. There she gradually grew worse until respiration apparently ceased, and some time later she was revived. Some tokens of death are still lacking. There is no rigor mortis, and the features are as calm and life-like as one in a slumber. When feeling that she was losing consciousness Mrs. McVane earnestly requested an attendant to bury her. Her husband has arrived from Chicago. Everything possible will be done to resuscitate the woman.

A Dog Wearing Spectacles.
[From the Boston Herald.]
An aged hound, belonging to Mr. Charles Tobey, had, for several months, been almost totally blind.
He no longer heeded the huntsman's bugle, but loomed about the yard in a dejected manner. A few days since, however, while playing with him, placed on his nose a pair of spectacles, which contained a powerful lens. He at once began to bump about as he did in the days of his youth.
They were secretly fastened before his eyes, and on the following day, when the other dogs were called for by the whistle, he was in the lead, and when his glasses were pulled off by the briar, he immediately carried them to his master and evinced clearly that he wanted them replaced. When they were removed he whined and growled, but when replaced he snuggled his joy by the wagging of his tail.

Early Morning Fire in Brooklyn.
Fire broke out in the three-story frame building, 501 Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, owned by Edward Brown, of Brooklyn, at 11 o'clock this morning. The first floor was occupied by John Neison as a dry-goods store. He estimates his loss on stock and fixtures at $5,000. The second and third floors were used as a photographic studio by Daniel Palmer. His loss is about $500. The damage to the building is about $1,000. The whole is covered by insurance. The fire is supposed to have originated from an overheated stove in the cellar.

DON'T BE HUMBUGGED.
A WORD OF WARNING.

At this season of the year the majority of wholesale clothiers form syndicates and palm off their REFUSE and SHODDY stocks as best they can. When you see flaring advertisements announcing such sales make up your mind that it is a FAKE.

We therefore say don't be misled, but patronize only houses that have a standing reputation.

THE LONDON & LIVERPOOL CLOTHING CO.,

86 AND 88 BOWERY,
