SLEEPERS ROUSED BY FIRE.

ESCAPING FROM A BURNING LODGING-HOUSE BY FIREMEN'S LADDERS.

Pollegan's Hilt Climbs a Ladder to Give the Alarm—Mrs. Hamburg Had No Time to Dress—A Babe in Arms Carried Out Through a Window—The Upper Part of the Building Destroyed, but No One Hurt.

Officer Illich, of Capt. Reilly's squad, has been a policeman only two weeks, but he passed through a thirty-third degree ordeal at 7:30 this morning.

He saw dense smoke issuing from the western window in the French roof of the two-story building adjoining the old Haymarket dance-hall on the east in West Thirtieth street. He clambered up the sheet-iron water conductor to the windows over the store of W. & J. Mackenzie, plumbers, and, pounding on the glass, awakened Mr. and Mrs. Maher, who were asleep in bed.

Then an alarm was sent out and Engine 1, Capt. Croker, and Trucks 7 and 12 responded. The upper portion of the house was occupied by Mrs. Julia Karl, who let furnished rooms, and fifteen persons were sleeping in the house.

There is only one stairway, but all were saved unhurt. Hugh Grinnin, of Engine 1, carried Mrs. J. F. Fisher down the stairs, and her husband escaped by climbing down a ladder of Truck 7.

In attempting to carry a trunk out Grinnin's hand was badly lacerated, the wounds requiring eight stitches.

The firemen could make no headway against the blaze and a second alarm was sounded. Chief McCabe arrived at about the same time and he sounded a third alarm. Two children of Mrs. Maher were asleep in a rear room on the upper floor and they were carried out by firemen of Truck 12, a babe in arms being brought down a ladder.

Mrs. Minnie Hamburg, whose room was next to the one in which the fire started, had no time to dress and ran into the street in her night clothing.

The fire was out at 8:45 o'clock. The second and upper stories were completely destroyed, only the stone front wall remaining. The fire originated in an unoccupied room on the upper floor, but no one knows how.

The building was erected by J. H. Godwin, of 7th Avenue, and was ten stories high, ground leased from the Havens estate. The loss is about $8,000. Mrs. Karl loses all her furniture in twenty rooms, but is fully insured.

The other occupants of the building were W. & J. Mackenzie, plumbers, at 56; "Henry," a Chinese laborer, at 54, and John W. Seeger, barber, at 52.

William A. Schuler, a shoemaker, began moving out of No. 52 1/2 last night, but a large lot of leather stock and partly made shoes still remained in a heap on the floor, and he rendered assistance in removing them.

The fire did not touch Daly's Theatre, as was rumored, and Miss Volk's will give her performance to-night as advertised.

A MENACE TO PROPERTY.

The Standard Monopoly Pushing Work on Its Naphtha Tanks.

The people in the neighborhood of the Standard oil monopoly's naphtha tanks at the foot of East One Hundred and Fifteenth street, are hovering between fear and indecision. Although the presence of such a quantity of explosive oil has an alarming aspect to them they yet await the report of the inspector before they will give their feelings upon the subject.

Meanwhile the work of finishing the tanks goes steadily on. Workmen are busily engaged in the neighborhood of the tanks, while the necessary appliances for filling them rise above the brickwork.

There is no question but that if the monopoly are allowed to have their way property in the neighborhood will decrease in value, and a promising section of the city thus be destroyed.

BLAMING AN ELECTRIC LIGHT WIRE.

A Blaze Started Among the Beams of a Broadway Building.

Fire broke out at 5 A. M. to-day at 749 Broadway. The firemen had to go to the roof of the adjoining building and descend through the skylight before they could reach the blaze.

The fire started among the beams between the second and third stories and the occupants of the building think that it was caused by an electric light wire. About a week ago a small fire occurred in the same place.

The cause of the fire is a pole which was suspended by the American Magazine, $3,000, insured; Conklin & Brewster, $2,000; Henry Baer, sculptor, $200, and S. L. Pallas, tailor, $50. The building owned by Louis Mesier, of 1 Pine street, was damaged $5,000.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

Charles Lynch Puts Out Frank Saydeo's Eye with a Beef Bone.

Charles Lynch, of 505 Court street, Brooklyn, was arrested this morning on a charge of assault. He is accused by Frank Saydeo, a fruit dealer, of 256 Columbia street, of throwing a beef bone at him, striking him in the eye and thereby destroying the sight.

WHOSE CHILD IS ALICE LOLA?

Medium Diss Debar Says that She Is Not Hers—Held for Larceny, Tex.

Lola Alice Mossant and Julia or Dodo Diss Debar stayed in the rooms of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children this morning while a hearing was had before Justice Kilbreth as to whether Ann O'Delia is a fit person to have charge of them.

George Salomon having sworn that she was of immoral character and ill-treated the children, the medium went on the stand to vindicate herself.

She said Lola was fifteen years of age and Julia was not quite seven years. Joseph E. Corr, of 1252 Broadway, had promised to board the children for $50 per month, and he would give bonds to educate and treat them properly.

Mr. Gerry, prompted by little Abe Hummel, had some unpleasant questions to ask. "Are you a married woman?"

After a legal struggle Ann O'Delia reluctantly answered "No."
 "Who is the father of Julia?"
 "J. H. Diss Debar."
 "Who is the father of the elder child?"
 "She does not know."

Mr. Gerry insisted on a reply. The medium pleaded to the Judge and to Mr. Hummel not to press her and shed crocodile's tears.

She was compelled to answer, and then said the child was not hers. It was a waif given into her custody. The father was a worthless drunkard living in this city.

She said she had educated the girls properly, but could not account for the fact that Julia cannot read or write. She never sent them to church, but she read the Bible to them at home.

Judge Kilbreth reserved his decision, the children meanwhile remaining in charge of the society.

To prevent the release of Ann O'Delia and Diss Debar by offering bail merely on the condition that the society Mr. Hummel appeared before Judge Kilbreth very early this morning. He secured from the Judge a commitment of the spirit pair on the usual criminal charge of stealing Mr. Loewenthal's material paintings, which Mr. Valkenberg valued at $10,000. Mr. Hummel thus closed all avenues of escape for the Diss Delars until the trial.

A CITY IN FLAMES.

Kelthubers, Ill., Threatened With Total Destruction.

[SPECIAL TO THE PRESS NEWS ASSOCIATION.]
 KETHUBERS, Ill., May 1.—This city is in flames and is threatened with almost entire extinction. One entire block, including the large provision store of Murta & Co., the Economy Dry-Goods House, Burt's grocery, an agricultural warehouse, the Magnet Dry-Goods Establishment and other business houses are already entirely consumed, and the fire is spreading.

The city has no organized fire department, and the citizens are battling with the flames with only primitive resources, which have practically no effect. The property already burned is estimated to be worth $700,000.

NO RIGHT TO QUARANTINE CATTLE.

Judge Brown Decides in a Test Suit that the Governor's Orders Are Invalid.

WHILE PLAINS, May 1.—The case of the People against Embre Hill has been decided in favor of the defendant by Judge Brown. This is a case brought to test the right of the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United States to enforce quarantine regulations in relation to cattle and to tag and number them.

Judge Brown does not pass upon the constitutional question involved, but decides that the act of the Governor is invalid, and that therefore there is no authority for the Government officers to interfere with the cattle of individuals in this State.

FOUGHT A DUEL FOR A LOVER.

Two Young Women Engage in a Desperate Encounter This Morning.

Annie Sharp, aged twenty-nine years, of 133 West Third street, and Jennie Brown, aged twenty-six years, of 313 Bowers, engaged in a duel with pocket-knives at West Third and Sullivan streets at 7 o'clock this morning.

Several wounds were made on Annie's head and neck. She was soon covered with blood. The women fought about a lover.

FALL RIVER, MASS., May 1.—A case of small-pox made itself manifest on the steamer Pilgrim, of the Old Colony line, yesterday.

The victim was a colored boy named Cobern, employed on the boat. He was removed to New York. Officials here deny the story that the board of health authorities say that it is true and that a physician has been engaged to vaccinate every man on the Pilgrim before she sails for New York to-night.
