

LAST EDITION.

IVINS ANGERED BY FLYNN.

THE CITY CHAMBERLAIN HURLING QUESTIONS AT HIS ACCUSER.

Flynn, in Return, Wants to Know Who Is Handling the Investigation—Not Able to Swear to His Charges, But Confident that He Can Prove Them if Given an Opportunity to Make an Investigation.

Maurice B. Flynn and City Chamberlain William M. Ivins met to-day in the Commissioners of Accounts' office in the Stewart building.

Mr. Flynn was attired in a suit of dark clothes. A huge envelope protruded from the pocket of his overcoat.

Mr. Ivins wore a new gray suit, yellow gloves and a brown Derby hat.

Mr. Flynn had charged that Mr. Ivins, as Chamberlain, had manipulated the public deposits in the banks for the benefit of the firm of William B. Grace & Co.

Mr. Ivins denied the assertion, and called upon the Commissioners of Accounts to be investigated.

Mr. Flynn indorsed the interview published in the World in which he made the charges against Mr. Ivins, as a correct report of what he had said.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

ALEX. C. BROWN'S STRANGE DEATH.

A Ledger of the Glenmore Hotel Found Lying in the Street.

The body of a man, clothed only in an undershirt, was found lying on the street in front of the Glenmore Hotel, 2 Mott street, shortly after 2 o'clock this morning.

The policeman sent out an ambulance call, but the man died before the ambulance arrived.

The manager and clerks of the Glenmore Hotel at first resolutely refused any information beyond identifying the dead man as one Alex. C. Brown, and admitting that he had occupied room No. 162 last night.

Robert Edgar, manager of the Glenmore, said that the night watchman had awakened him at 2.20 a. m. and told him that some one had jumped from a window and killed himself.

Night watchman Beumington said that he knew nothing about the case further than that he had been aroused by Policeman Northrup. He immediately called Edgar, and upon his return he said that Patrick Beardon, a clerk in the hotel, was also there.

Beardon said that upon hearing some one pounding on the door of the hotel he looked out of the window, and seeing a prostrate form on the sidewalk, went directly down.

All three men claim that prior to the summing of the police everything was perfectly quiet at the premises.

Beardon added that Brown retired between 10 and 11 o'clock Monday night.

One peculiar phase of the case is that the window from which, presumably, the man fell is at least six feet from No. 162, which was the one that he occupied.

Aside from a cut on the head, which has the appearance of an old wound and not a fresh cut, the body is unmarked.

IS HE JOHN FOLEY'S SON?

Story of a Tramp Arrested on Staten Island for Burglary.

Michael Foley, aged thirty-four, who claims to be the outcast son of John Foley, the gold pen manufacturer, of this city, was arrested at Stapleton, E. I., last night on a charge of burglary.

Foley first visited Staten Island last fall, since which time he has led the life of a tramp. During the winter months he lived in the cabin of a yacht that was hauled out on the Stapleton flats.

He succeeded in manufacturing tin buttons in the saloons of Stapleton.

He has served several terms in the Richmond County Jail for being drunk and disorderly, and for other offenses.

Last week Foley was ordered to vacate the cabin of the sloop yacht Pearl, owned by Mr. Leverard Stone, of the American Cotton Goods Co., of Brooklyn.

When taken before Police Justice John G. Vanderpool this morning, he pleaded guilty to a charge of burglary, and was sentenced to six months in the Kings County Penitentiary.

Mr. Foley could not be found at his store this morning.

THE MYSTERY OF A STREET CAR.

A Clean-Shaven Man Who Suddenly Grew Red Side Whiskers.

CHICAGO, May 21.—A clever check-raiser has been working among the tradesmen of the West side for the last week and has caused them no end of bother.

He worked the old game of getting a check from a firm for a small amount and then raising it $100, but he was an extraordinarily skillful workman and had great success.

He was a thin, clean-shaven man for awhile, and the police were looking out for him. Then he disappeared, but raised checks continued to appear.

Yesterday the clean-shaven man called at a West Madison street store for a check for $15 on the account of a bill for rent.

He saw a policeman posted at the store the man had gone.

He saw him up the street getting into a street car. The policeman posted at the store got up to it there was no clean-shaven man in it.

Mr. Villard said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

Mr. Flynn said that he had been told that Mr. Ivins had been reduced after Mr. Cornelius N. Bliss had retired from the Presidency and Mr. J. Edward Simmons had succeeded to the office.

IMPALED ON IRON SPIKES.

A HALF HOUR OF EXCRUCIATING AGONY FOR AN OLD MAN.

He Fell Out of a Window of a Mott Street Tenement and Was Caught on the Spikes of the Fire-escape by the Galvanic Legs Until Help Came. Thought to Have Been Walking in His Sleep.

Mrs. Joseph Ranhofer, the housekeeper of the tenement-house at 181 Mott street, was awakened by the fall of a heavy body just outside her window in the rear yard at 2 a. m. to-day.

At the same time she heard a man crying in agonizing tones: "For God's sake! send for help! Quick! I'm gone! I'm gone!"

She aroused her husband, who hastily lighted a lamp and went to the window. Directly in front of it is an iron railing with sharp spikes surmounting a brick wall about ten feet high which separates the court-yard from the adjoining factory.

Impaled by the calves of both legs upon two of these rusty spikes hung old James Corrigan, a lodger on the floor above.

He hung head downward on the further side of the railing, his only clothing being his night shirt. He had fallen about ten feet from the window of his bedroom on the third floor.

Blood was trickling down the railing from lacerated wounds in his limbs, and pieces of flesh were sticking to the rough spikes.

The sight was so shocking that Mr. Ranhofer was overcome for a moment. The groans and cries of the sufferer, however, mingled with the calls for assistance from Corrigan's old bed-ridden wife in the room above, had meanwhile roused the whole neighborhood.

Mr. Ranhofer, assisted by Mr. Curley, another lodger, got, after considerable difficulty, out on the railing and raised the form of Mr. Corrigan, so that the strain was somewhat relieved. They were unable, even by their united efforts, to extricate him from the iron spikes, and they were obliged to hold him in that position as well as they could until the police arrived.

It required the strength of several officers to draw his limbs from the iron where he had been hanging for nearly half an hour, suffering the most excruciating pain.

The old man was nearly exhausted when he was laid on the floor of Mr. Ranhofer's room and was attended by an ambulance surgeon from St. Vincent's Hospital.

He had suffered greatly from loss of blood, as well as from shock, and the surgeon gave little hope of his recovery.

His wife, who has not been able to leave her bed for two years, was almost frantic with grief this morning.

Mr. Corrigan was nearly sixty years of age. He had formerly worked long and hard and had saved up considerable money.

For the last year he had suffered from rheumatism so that he could not work. He lived very comfortably and spent all his time taking care of his wife.

He was living at 181 Mott street for three months. The police say that he was intoxicated when he fell from his window, but this is probably not true.

Old Mrs. Corrigan felt very badly this morning because she had not been able to see her husband before he was taken away.

Before the injured man was taken to the hospital he was visited by his father, Father Higgins, of St. Patrick's church, who was summoned to attend him.

CEADARHURST STEEPCHASES.

To-Day's Programme, Probable Starters and Weights to Be Carried.

The spring meeting of the Rockaway Steeplechase Association will be continued to-day with a promising programme that will make a very enjoyable afternoon's racing if the officials will insist upon having the races run at the time fixed for them.

The programme is a long one, and visitors from New York will not want to be detained at Cedarhurst until 7 p. m. The entries are as follows:

1.30 p. m.—First race, 2 1/2 mile, with a cup added, for ponies not exceeding 14 hands; ponies not to exceed 12 years of age; to start at 1.30 p. m.; no allowance for gentlemen riders; about a mile on the flat.

2.30 p. m.—Second race, 1 1/2 mile, with a cup added, for ponies not exceeding 14 hands; ponies not to exceed 12 years of age; to start at 2.30 p. m.; no allowance for gentlemen riders; about a mile on the flat.

3.30 p. m.—Third race, 1 1/2 mile, with a cup added, for ponies not exceeding 14 hands; ponies not to exceed 12 years of age; to start at 3.30 p. m.; no allowance for gentlemen riders; about a mile on the flat.

4.30 p. m.—Fourth race, 1 1/2 mile, with a cup added, for ponies not exceeding 14 hands; ponies not to exceed 12 years of age; to start at 4.30 p. m.; no allowance for gentlemen riders; about a mile on the flat.

5.30 p. m.—Fifth race, 1 1/2 mile, with a cup added, for ponies not exceeding 14 hands; ponies not to exceed 12 years of age; to start at 5.30 p. m.; no allowance for gentlemen riders; about a mile on the flat.

6.30 p. m.—Sixth race, 1 1/2 mile, with a cup added, for ponies not exceeding 14 hands; ponies not to exceed 12 years of age; to start at 6.30 p. m.; no allowance for gentlemen riders; about a mile on the flat.

7.30 p. m.—Seventh race, 1 1/2 mile, with a cup added, for ponies not exceeding 14 hands; ponies not to exceed 12 years of age; to start at 7.30 p. m.; no allowance for gentlemen riders; about a mile on the flat.

A LIVELY TIME IN PROSPECT.

District Assembly No. 49 to Have a Red-Hot Meeting Next Sunday.

Sunday's trouble in No. 49 continues to be the all-absorbing topic of conversation in organized labor circles. The laws governing the order of the Knights of Labor are eagerly discussed, and strong partisan feeling crops out whenever the delegates happen to meet around Pythagoras Hall.

District Fourth Foreman McGrath has signified his intention of presiding at the meeting next Sunday afternoon. Master Workman Quinn says that he has possession of the charter and proposes to open the meeting in the regular way.

Quinn's opponents declare that he is a suspended member and that his entrance to the hall will be prevented, in which event a row will surely occur, and that the police will undoubtedly be called in, unless, indeed, they should be stationed at the doors before the meeting begins.

The opposition to the Master Workman says that his local (2,243), the American Labor Club, will also be suspended for not carrying out the judgment of the District Court against the Quinns and McGuire, Jr.

Master Workman Quinn says that the District Court has no right to force a suspension of any member of the local until the suspended members have appealed and obtained the decision of the General Executive Board.

Mr. Quinn asserts that he has acted in strict conformity with the laws of the order, and he is now exercising his right as a member of the functions of his office. The General Executive Board does not meet again until June 12, by which time the period of suspension will have expired.

A Knight of Labor who is opposed to Quinn's administration on general principles said to-day: "Martin went to District Assembly 4,242 for no good purpose, evidently, for he is not a member of the Quinns and other so-called Home Club men."

The local may have been in executive session when Martin presented his travelling card, and in that case no member of the order, even if he were Powderly himself, would be admitted, nor would any member present be permitted to leave the assembly."

WILLING TO TAKE BACK THE MEN.

The Boss Brewers Ready to Meet Their Locked-Out Employees Half Way.

The locked-out brewerymen met in the lecture room of the Clarendon Hall building this forenoon, when the announcement was made that a "grand mass-meeting" would be held this evening at the Cooper Union Institute for the purpose of discussing the subject—"How to Push the Measures Against Pool Brewers." The meeting will be held under the auspices of the organization of the Central Labor Union.

Mr. Corry was given by the boss brewers that if the boycott is removed in this city they will take back all the locked-out men that they can possibly find room for, and that the only way to get them back is to employ them in a short time.

The Brewers' Association will hold a meeting this afternoon at 2 Irving place, when the boys will be asked to sign a list of names that they can possibly find room for, and that the only way to get them back is to employ them in a short time.

ROCHESTER CAR-DRIVERS ON STRIKE.

They Do Not Want to Work Fourteen Hours Every Day.

ROCHESTER, May 22.—The 270 strike-car drivers of Rochester went on strike this morning. They have issued an appeal to the public setting forth their grievances, the principal one of which is that the company refuses to reduce the hours of labor. Drivers refuse to reduce the hours of labor, but they are subjected to various delays, and have to give about fourteen hours of their time to the company each day.

James H. Magee, of New York, who is District Master of the International District Assembly No. 226, is in the city and will help the local drivers win their fight. Up to noon to-day not a street car has run in the city.

Public sympathy is on the side of the drivers, however, and they are generally regarded as being overworked and poorly paid. There is talk about arbitration.

ROCHESTER AND SUGGESTIVE.

Would you kindly suggest some appropriate name for a ball team? We have organized a team, and all we want now is a good name for it. Trusting you will attend to the matter, and, if possible, publish it in to-morrow's EVENING WORLD, I remain, as ever, your truly.

Some of the New York brewers and certain leaders of the Central Labor Union are anxious to settle the lockout on the terms proposed last Sunday, and they are more sanguine of success now than they were at that time.

Among the most enjoyable occasions of the season were the gatherings of the cloak and suit makers. The first of the year is that of the Empress Coliseum, at the foot of East 216th street.

William McKeir, of the One-and-A-Half Association of Furriers' Truck and Wagon Drivers, reports that the Central Labor Union expelled him as a delegate from his organization to the Central body, when the fact is, the organization has been represented in the Central Union in six weeks, having withdrawn therefrom.

RECENT DEATHS.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 22.—Robert C. Townsend, the East Neck millionaire, died at 12.30 o'clock on Sunday night. He was about forty-five years of age. Mr. Townsend had long been known as an American millionaire.

Confession of Hebrew Ministers. WASHINGTON, May 22.—The Hebrew Ministers' Association began its sixth semi-annual meeting in city of New York.

Games Scheduled for To-Day. NATIONAL LEAGUE. Boston at Detroit.

LEADING CLUBS YESTERDAY. LEAGUE. Boston at Detroit.

ROCKAWAY STEEPCHASES. The Rockaway Steeplechase Association announces that the Annual Handicap Steeplechase will be held to-day.

ROCKAWAY STEEPCHASES. The Rockaway Steeplechase Association announces that the Annual Handicap Steeplechase will be held to-day.

FULGRAFF ON THE STAND.

KERR'S TRIAL OPENS WITH A CHORUS OF OBJECTIONS.

His Counsel Shut Off the Informer When He Began to Tell About the Boodle Company. Judge Patterson Fines Ball at $100,000.

The play of Boodle Trial seems to have lost its attractiveness for New Yorkers. At its revival to-day in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, with Thomas B. Kerr in the rôle of heavy villain, there was a "beggarly array of empty benches."

Ludolph A. Fulgraff, with clean-shaven cheeks, his uncertain mouth covered by a gray mustache and a tuft of short beard on his chin, was called to the stand.

Crier Ricketts extended the court Bible to Fulgraff, but the informer waved it away disdainfully, and raising his right hand nodded assent to the recitation of the usual form of affirmation by Clerk Welch.

Fulgraff related the story of his own shame, and that of his fellow-Aldermen who sold their honor and that of New York in 1884, while earning the money for the bribe.

Fulgraff testified that in 1884 he had a box factory in Fulton street, but at present he was engaged in business at St. Paul, Minn.

Then he began the story of the meetings of thirteen members of the Board of Aldermen of 1884 at his shop and at the house of Alderman McLaughlin, in West Thirty-fourth street.

Fulgraff said that he did not know Kerr, and in fact had never seen him till two weeks ago, when Kerr was pointed out to him on the street.

Thereupon the defense objected to Fulgraff going on with his story, on the ground that Kerr could not be connected with the combine. Ex-Judge Davis argued that the crime of agreeing to receive a bribe could be committed by a man who had never seen the defendant.

Judge Davis talked forty minutes, and Fulgraff listened and weighed the argument with the justice. He nodded assent, and Fulgraff went on with his story.

Col. Fellows, in reply, contented himself with reading a page from the decision written by Judge Daniels in General Term on the 12th of May last.

Then Hourke Cockran took up the cudgels and argued for about half hour, but he asked that no evidence be admitted now on the assumption that it was to be connected with other events in the future—events which he knew the District-Attorney could not prove.

Subsequently the $22,000 was discussed these offers and how finally they decided unanimously to take the last offer, as the Cable road bonds might lead to their detection.

They then agreed that they would accept $22,000 each for their honor, allowing $214,000 for "influencing" Aldermen not in the combine and other expenses.

On a vote it was decided that John Keenan was more to be trusted than Billy Moloney, and he was selected to receive the "boodle." Moloney was conciliated by being selected to "look after the Aldermen not in the combine."

Then the Lyddy injunction loomed up and promised to block their game, but on Aug. 1, last time, Billy Moloney received word that the injunction would be removed by Justice Bartlett that evening, and he scurried all over this city obtaining the signatures of the Aldermen to a call for a special meeting.

At this point a recess was taken, the jury going to luncheon at the Astor House and Kerr to a restaurant.

Kerr furnished the $100,000 ball, with two hundred men qualifying in $20,000 each. The signers of the bond are Chauncey F. Kerr, of New Windsor, Orange County, a brother of George Hastings, who calls himself a jockey, was held at the Tombs to-day on a charge of being one of the highwaymen who robbed Charles L. Suckow, a seaman from the Vermont, in Hamilton square, last night of $10 and a pair of spectacles.

The Rev. N. W. Minor, D. D., will deliver a free lecture this evening at 7.30 o'clock at the sixteenth Baptist Church, sixteenth street, near Eighth avenue, on "Personal Reminiscences of Abraham Lincoln."

The Arado Baseball Club would like to hear from some club whose members are under sixteen years of age to play on Memorial Day, or any other day, at the Arado Grounds, 100 West 10th street, at 11 o'clock.

Living Witnesses. Ask any one who has seen FIERCE'S PLEASANT PRIMITIVE PELLETS as to their merits. They will tell you that simple, blotches and eruptions disappear, that the complexion is restored, that the whole system is renovated and regulated beyond any medicine by these little wonder-workers. Being purely vegetable they are perfectly harmless; being composed of concentrated, active ingredients, they are powerful.

Ask any one who has seen FIERCE'S PLEASANT PRIMITIVE PELLETS as to their merits. They will tell you that simple, blotches and eruptions disappear, that the complexion is restored, that the whole system is renovated and regulated beyond any medicine by these little wonder-workers.

Ask any one who has seen FIERCE'S PLEASANT PRIMITIVE PELLETS as to their merits. They will tell you that simple, blotches and eruptions disappear, that the complexion is restored, that the whole system is renovated and regulated beyond any medicine by these little wonder-workers.

Ask any one who has seen FIERCE'S PLEASANT PRIMITIVE PELLETS as to their merits. They will tell you that simple, blotches and eruptions disappear, that the complexion is restored, that the whole system is renovated and regulated beyond any medicine by these little wonder-workers.

Ask any one who has seen FIERCE'S PLEASANT PRIMITIVE PELLETS as to their merits. They will tell you that simple, blotches and eruptions disappear, that the complexion is restored, that the whole system is renovated and regulated beyond any medicine by these little wonder-workers.

Ask any one who has seen FIERCE'S PLEASANT PRIMITIVE PELLETS as to their merits. They will tell you that simple, blotches and eruptions disappear, that the complexion is restored, that the whole system is renovated and regulated beyond any medicine by these little wonder-workers.

Ask any one who has seen FIERCE'S PLEASANT PRIMITIVE PELLETS as to their merits. They will tell you that simple, blotches and eruptions disappear, that the complexion is restored, that the whole system is renovated and regulated beyond any medicine by these little wonder-workers.

Ask any one who has seen FIERCE'S PLEASANT PRIMITIVE PELLETS as to their merits. They will tell you that simple, blotches and eruptions disappear, that the complexion is restored, that the whole system is renovated and regulated beyond any medicine by these little wonder-workers.

Society and the Drama Unite in Conforming Well-Earned Laurels Upon Lester Wallack.

TO THE LAMP-POST WITH MASO!

The Blood of 150 Italians Boiled at the Thought That They Were Swindled.

About one hundred and fifty excited Italians crowded into the Tombs Police Court to-day to charge Domenico Maso, of 65 Mulberry street, with swindling. Giuseppe Basardi and Antonio Prosperi, of 67 Mulberry street, were singled out as complainants.

They stated that Maso promised them and 150 others to get them work in the country for a fee of $1.50 each. The money was paid last night the men assembled in front of Maso's house, ready to go to work.

They stated that Maso promised them and 150 others to get them work in the country for a fee of $1.50 each. The money was paid last night the men assembled in front of Maso's house, ready to go to work.

They stated that Maso promised them and 150 others to get them work in the country for a fee of $1.50 each. The money was paid last night the men assembled in front of Maso's house, ready to go to work.

They stated that Maso promised them and 150 others to get them work in the country for a fee of $1.50 each. The money was paid last night the men assembled in front of Maso's house, ready to go to work.

They stated that Maso promised them and 150 others to get them work in the country for a fee of $1.50 each. The money was paid last night the men assembled in front of Maso's house, ready to go to work.

They stated that Maso promised them and 150 others to get them work in the country for a fee of $1.50 each. The money was paid last night the men assembled in front of Maso's house, ready to go to work.

They stated that Maso promised them and 150 others to get them work in the country for a fee of $1.50 each. The money was paid last night the men assembled in front of Maso's house, ready to go to work.

They stated that Maso promised them and 150 others to get them work in the country for a fee of $1.50 each. The money was paid last night the men assembled in front of Maso's house, ready to go to work.

They stated that Maso promised them and 150 others to get them work in the country for a fee of $1.50 each. The money was paid last night the men assembled in front of Maso's house, ready to go to work.

They stated that Maso promised them and 150 others to get them work in the country for a fee of $1.50 each. The money was paid last night the men assembled in front of Maso's house, ready to go to work.

They stated that Maso promised them and 150 others to get them work in the country for a fee of $1.50 each. The money was paid last night the men assembled in front of Maso's house, ready to go to work.

They stated that Maso promised them and 150 others to get them work in the country