

LAST EDITION. THURMAN SPEAKS.

If Unanimously Nominated He Will Run.

Party Interests Greater than His Own.

Willing to Make a Personal Sacrifice.

Significant Interview with "The Noblest Roman."

(SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.)

COLUMBUS, O., June 2.—The Republic has the following interview with Judge Thurman:

Reporter.—The whole country is clamoring for Thurman for Vice-President, and what are you going to do about that?

Judge Thurman.—Well, I hardly know. It would not be very proper in one to decline a thing that had not been tendered him. For years I have tried to be left alone here with my wife in this den (speaking of the library) and these friends of mine on these shelves, but somehow they won't permit me to live in peace.

Reporter.—If the nomination is given you, even against your protest, would not you feel it your duty to accept?

Judge Thurman.—I have the highest regard for President Cleveland and sincerely hope he will be re-elected. If I thought that my name would add any strength to the ticket I am willing to make a personal sacrifice for the interests of the party. I certainly should feel very bad, should the ticket be defeated, to think that I had declined if my name would have strengthened it. Of course, it is only upon the condition that the nomination comes without any struggle that I can accept.

A Pale Young Clerk Turns Highwayman. John Miller, a tall, slim young German in eyeglasses, employed as a clerk in this city, was arrested in the Jefferson Market court this morning for highway robbery.

Colored People Seek a Better Land. The bark Monrovia sailed to-day, carrying thirteen families of colored people from Gainesville, Fla., who are going to Liberia.

They Play "The Evening World Gazette." At Koster & Bitt's THE EVENING WORLD GAZETTE, composed by Miss Henslette Markstein, has been a successful feature of the week's programme.

The Coaching Club's Spring Drive. The annual spring drive of the New York Coaching Club took place to-day at the Hotel Brunswick.

O'Connor Sees Again. James Owen O'Connor, lawyer and tragedian, figured as defendant in the Third District Court, this morning, in a suit brought by Miss Emma Young.

Jay Gould is Not Sick. (SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.) SEDALIA, Mo., June 2.—Mr. Gould left Kansas City about 10 o'clock A. M. yesterday for Western Kansas and Colorado.

Sudden Death of Dank. (SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.) LONG BRANCH, June 2.—Mrs. Dank, the colored woman who was under sentence to State Prison in connection with the Hamilton murder, died suddenly this morning.

New York Markets. WHEAT.—December options opened at last night's closing quotation of 87 1/2 cents per bushel.

HALSTEAD ON THE PRESIDENCY.

He Says Sherman Has the Best Chance and Depew Not Much.

To an EVENING WORLD reporter who interviewed him at the Bevoort House this morning, Editor Murat Halstead, of the Commercial Gazette, said, with reference to the aggressive boom which his friends have started for Chauncey M. Depew's nomination as the Republican Presidential candidate:

"Mr. Depew is a very popular and accomplished gentleman and everybody likes him. I presume there is no doubt of his ability to carry New York, which is a great point to begin with.

"There is, however, the very serious question to be considered in his candidacy whether the sins of all the railroads of the country shall be visited upon him.

"I don't know that the business men of New York who are for Mr. Depew know the feeling which prevails with the agriculturalists of the West against railroad influences, but they must be considered.

"You know," he continued, "that I am firm in the belief that any good Justice of the Peace is good enough for President.

"I honestly believe and am gratified to say that I think John Sherman will be the candidate. He will go into the convention with over three hundred of the necessary 411 votes.

"Should Sherman not be nominated I think the best will be Ben Harrison, of Indiana, and William Walter Phelps of New Jersey. The argument which will place them in front is that they represent States which they can carry and which Blaine lost in 1864.

JERSEY CITY'S BIG FOUR.

Two of Them on Ball, and One Who Insists Upon Going to Jail.

The Court-house on Jersey City Heights seemed to hold half the politicians of Hudson County this morning, all interested in the fate of the indicted "Big Four" of the Board of Works of 1887.

Commissioner Pearl C. Hilliard made a scene when he arrived. Spring District Attorney Winfield, of the court room, he immediately began to talk to him about drawing up legal papers in connection with his wife's extensive property.

"Don't be foolish," answered Mr. Winfield. "Where are your bondsman?"

"I haven't any," said Hilliard, "and want to be put in jail."

No amount of argument would induce him to stand out for bail, and he is still in Sheriff Davis's office surrounded by persistent friends.

Hilliard is wealthy and would find no difficulty in obtaining bail.

William F. Kern, the alleged leader of the "Big Four," had not appeared at the Court-house at noon.

Until he and Hilliard are arraigned the subject-matter of the indictment will not be made public. There are four counts against Reynolds and Kern and five against Hilliard and Watt.

IS A DENTIST A MECHANIC?

The Question Which is Brought Up Over a Jersey City Office.

Building Inspector O'Neill, of Jersey City, was ousted from his office by the Board of Aldermen last Tuesday.

A prominent dentist, appointed in his place, this morning, when Clarke presented to take possession of the office, O'Neill refused to vacate, claiming that Clarke, being a dentist, was not eligible under the law which requires the holder of the office to be a mechanic.

Mayor Hewitt did not reach his office to-day until noon. Whether he had read the statements made by Coroner Levy yesterday, and printed in this morning's papers, with reference to his veracity, or not, he did not say, but his appearance and manner were extremely forbidding when he was asked if he had anything to say about the Coroner's denial of some statements alleged to have been made by him.

Mr. Campanini's Concert. Sig. Campanini will give a concert at the Broadway Theatre to-morrow evening, assisted by Signora Tetrazini, Miss Marie Grobel, Sig. Bologna, Sig. Corini, an orchestra of twenty and a chorus of fifty people.

Next Monday at 7 P. M. the twice postponed game between the boys of THE EVENING WORLD and the Brooklyn World will occur at Washington Park.

The game at Buffalo yesterday between the boys of the Evening News and Detroit Journal resulted in a score of 17 to 11 in favor of the former.

FAILED AGAIN.

Kerr's Jury Do Not Agree and Kerr Goes Out on Bail.

The Weakness of the Prosecution Said to Be the Cause.

Well-Presented Evidence More Effective Than Brilliant Addresses—Kerr Fetches $50,000 Bail—The Jury Stood Eight to Four for Conviction at the Start and Did Not Change—Will There Be a New Trial?

The jury in the trial of Thomas B. Kerr came in at 10.38 this morning, having been out since 7.02 on Thursday evening.

They announced to the Court that they were unable to agree upon a verdict, and stated that there had been no change in their ballots since the first one, taken immediately after they retired.

Justice Patterson discharged the jury immediately.

This denouement to the trial of Kerr is the subject of general comment among the lawyers and others who have heard the trial.

Ira Shafer's comment is a typical one. He says "they had evidence enough against Kerr to convict a thousand men." And he adds thoughtfully: "Col. Fellows's speech to the jury was a strong one—but after all it's evidence, not oratory, that sways a jury."

They should make up their minds when the evidence is all in, and generally do, without regard to what the counsel or the Judge says.

The result is looked upon as another in the long series of failures which have attended Col. Fellows since his elevation to the District Attorneyship.

Col. William F. Shafer, Dr. Samuel Hall, Harrison D. Kerr and Chauncey F. Kerr, brothers and the son of the defendant, surrounded the Court in this connection, and all were in a cheerful frame of mind, and they were not at all surprised at the result, while Bourke Cockran and ex-Judge Davis expressed themselves as perfectly satisfied, as the result was reached by letting the case go to the jury on the testimony of the prosecution undisturbed.

Col. Fellows evidently felt his defeat keenly. His voice was very subdued and trembling as he addressed the Court, saying he was content with any bail which the Court might accept. His face was drawn and filled with dejection.

Justice Patterson fixed bail at $50,000.

Hail Clerk William E. Penny wrote a bail bond for Thomas B. Kerr shortly after Court adjourned, and Kerr's home here, in the city of New York, was his home.

Col. Fellows was unable to say when the trial would be resumed, but he was asked could not tell when another boodle case would be tried. He refused to talk to reporters.

Foreman Cornelius Howland, George M. Huntington, No. 5, Paul Hahn, No. 2, and James Doonan, No. 11, voted for acquittal at the start. The others were for conviction.

There were frequent ballots during the trial, and on each occasion the jury were out, but no change occurred.

When the first rays of morning sunshine stole through the big window in the east wing of the Court-house, the jury were out, and forms of twelve haggard and disheveled jurymen and a trio of hollow-eyed court officers.

It was the condition of the Kerr jury and the jailers after thirty-six hours of fruitless contention. For two days and nights they had argued and deliberated in vain.

There was no rest for them, and pillows and blankets were a dream to them, and they were, indeed, so far as the necessities of life were concerned, in a far worse plight than the criminals awaiting trial in the toms.

But Kerr, the millionaire defendant, had fared better. He had been "in charge" to be sure, but his keepers, Under Sheriff Sexton and Order of Arrest Clerk Barney Martin, are first-rate companions, and Kerr had been permitted to be with his very sick wife and his family most of the time, and slept in his own bed both nights.

The long deliberation of the jury presaged a disagreement at least, and with the probabilities in favor of the idea that those for acquittal would be most likely to win over those who would convict, on the theory that it is better to err by setting free a guilty man than in sending an innocent one to prison.

And so ex-Alderman and Treasurer Kerr was cheerful, and indeed almost complacent. He was Bourke Cockran's latest case, and he was in the profession of law, and he hoped to blossom as one of the brightest flowers in the New York legal garden. He was not cheerful, however, at the trial, and he had not been so since.

And John H. Bird, the round-faced, jolly member of Kerr's counsel, was almost sick with uncertainty. He was pale, and no smile lightened the sternness of his face. The old Chief Justice, Noah Davis, was simply philosophically resigned.

Kerr's son, who has been his constant attendant during the trial, shared his father's hopefulness, but Bondsman Cox was exceedingly anxious.

Since yesterday the jury have had no communication with Judge Patterson, and neither court officers nor counsel have been allowed to approach them.

"We say nothing to the jury," said Capt. Billy Ricketts, "and it's right, too. I once saved a man's life by rapping on the door of a jury-room. The jury had been out in a murder case thirty-six hours, and just one man had written his when I rapped at the door."

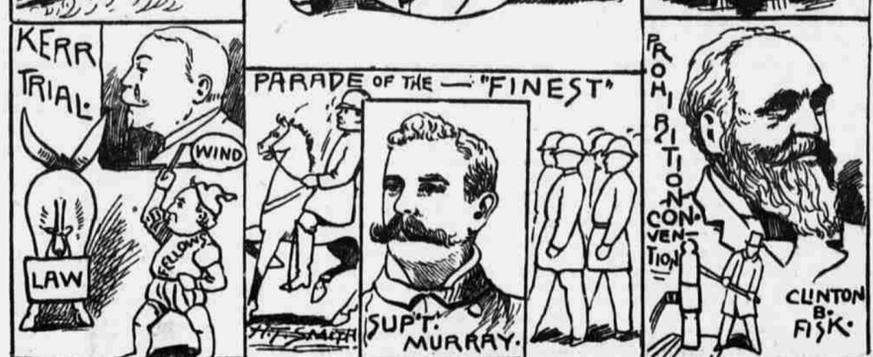

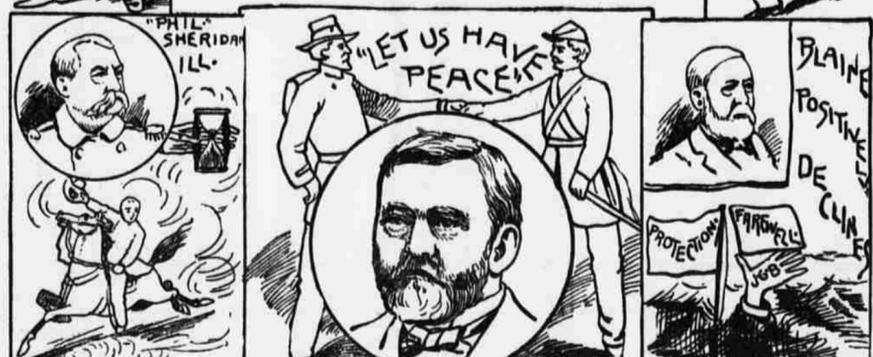

"They were taking a ballot. The eleven who are for murder in the first degree had put their ballots in the hat, and the twelfth had written his when I rapped at the door."

"It saved the man's life. The twelfth man never dropped the ballot, and it was for acquittal. He had not tried. The jury went back and decided on the second degree on the next ballot. No. 12 told me afterwards."

"Yes, I shall break the engagement," she said, frowning her brows and looking defiant; "it is really too much trouble to converse with him; he is as deaf as a post and talks like a deaf and dumb man. I shall break the engagement and he is dismissed."

"Don't break the engagement," she said, "I will care him completely." "Well, I'll tell him, I do hate to break it, for in all other respects he is quite too charming." Of course, it cured his case.

"FATTY" GROTE OUT FOR A LARK. A Heavy-Weight Wrestling Match and Three Arrests. William alias "Fatty" Grote, who weighs 400 pounds and carries several election districts in the Eleventh Ward in his vest pocket, was out for a lark last night. He was accompanied by Dennis Rooney and Samuel Wolf.

Harvard Delegates Think Thurman Will Be Nominated and Will Accept. (SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.) ST. LOUIS, June 2.—Everything is nearly ready for the great National Democratic ratification meeting here next Tuesday. The early morning trains brought a distinguished array of Democrats. William L. Scott, of Pennsylvania, and Senator Ransom, of North Carolina, arrived on the 8 A. M. New York express. Mr. Scott did not wish to be interviewed.

Gen. Sheridan's Sickness. He Passed a Comfortable Night—Pleased at the Action of Congress. (SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.) WASHINGTON, June 2.—Gen. Sheridan passed a comfortable night. He suffered no recurrence of heart trouble, and at 9 o'clock this morning his condition was about the same as it was at this time yesterday. Some one of his physicians was with him throughout the night, and Mrs. Sheridan is now in the sick chamber. The General's cough is less severe to-day.

Young Ball-Players Disappointed. In consequence of the recent rainy weather, the ball ground in Central Park will not be open to the public until the ground is thoroughly dried, which, from present indications will not be for a week or more.

LAST EDITION. HO! FOR ST. LOUIS.

Tammany and the County Democracy Go Hand in Hand.

Cleveland and Thurman the Popular Watchwords.

Twenty-six Pullman Coaches and Plenty of Good Cheer—A Great Gathering at the Grand Central Depot—All Enthusiastic for Cleveland and Thurman—A Complete List of the Delegates and the Benchmen Who Will Go With Them.

Quietly, without a whoop and minus war paint, about three hundred bucks of the Tammany Hall tribe gathered at the Grand Central Depot at noon to-day, preparatory to starting on the trail which will take them to the great contest at St. Louis.

The train, consisting of thirteen elegantly appointed Wagner sleepers, waited in the "Annex" depot in Forty-second street, from an early hour in the morning. The platform was crowded with delegates and their friends, and the greatest difficulty was found in finding space on it to store the immense quantities of food, wine, beer and liquor which had been provided, and much of which is destined to be thrown from the car windows to feed the poor along the line of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad.

Big Chief Tom Gilroy was not there. He left yesterday afternoon to perfect arrangements for the reception of the Tammany men at the Southern Hotel.

Unlike Tammany, the Counties made something of a display at this end of the route. The Murphy legion, consisting of fifty members of the Hickory Club of the Central District, had orders to leave their clubhouse in Hudson street at 8 P. M., under command of Senator Michael Murphy, head of the Murphy clan of the Sixty-ninth Regiment Band. Their march will be up Hudson street to Spring, to Broadway, to Fifth avenue, to Bryant Park, where they will be photographed, after which they will join their brethren from the other districts, assembled at the Grand Central Depot.

The Murphy Legion is uniformed in spring suits of blue material and high "Hickory" Jackson white plugs, and carry a beautiful stand of colors. On the left breast each man wears a metal badge, being a medallion portrait of President Cleveland in yellow metal on a field of white.

The County Democracy's train consists of the same number of sleepers as that of Tammany Hall, and is equally well provisioned with wine and liquor. The organization's itinerary is similar to that of Tammany, excepting that the route is reversed, the out trip being made by the Hudson River, to Wabash, and the return by the Bee Line and Lake Shore.

Here are the braves who are moving on St. Louis, and the county courts who are on their trail, 100 miles behind:
