

MURDERED BY HIS BROTHER.

A DISPUTE OVER FIVE CENTS COSTS WILLIAM GARVEY HIS LIFE.

He Traded an Old Pair of Trousers with His Brother John, and They Did Not Split—A Few Hot Words and Then the Fatal Blow—Details Led to the Quartered Francis Found Hiding in a Stable.

John Garvey, of 489 East Fifty-ninth street, stabbed his brother William in the neck, in front of the latter's house, 410 East Sixtieth street, shortly before midnight last night. The knife severed the jugular vein, killing the young man almost instantly.

John Keagney, who was standing near, saw the blow struck and, hearing John exclaim, "I have killed my brother!" went to the fifty-seventh street police station and reported the case.

A squad of policemen under the command of Capt. Gunnar searched the neighborhood and succeeded in finding John concealed in a stable in the rear of 412 East Sixtieth street.

When brought to the station John confessed the crime, saying that he was drunk at the time and did not know what he was doing.

The trouble arose about a pair of trousers. John had been spending the evening with William and a quantity of beer had been drunk, when William offered to exchange trousers with John, giving him five cents to boot.

The exchange was effected, and with the nickel in his pocket, John made his way to Fifty-ninth street and the Boulevard, where, meeting a friend from whom he borrowed two cents more, and a hot spirit of beer was purchased and drunk.

Discovering a rent in the trousers, John hastened back to his brother's house, and meeting him on the sidewalk accused him of cheating. Hot words followed, and John drew his pocketknife, which had a blade three inches long, and stabbed William in the neck. John then ran to the foot of East Sixty-first street, cast the knife into the water and returned to the scene of his crime, where he was captured.

He was taken before Justice White at the Yorkville Police Court this morning, and remanded back to the custody of Detectives Campbell and Martin, to await the Coroner's action.

John is twenty-two years old, unmarried and a horse-shoer by trade. William was two years younger, and married. He leaves a widow and a five-months-old child.

SEND THAT PRETTY POLLY HOME.

That Green Parrot Is Cherished by the Buckley and You Must Not Keep Her.

"Hello, pop!" "Mother, darling!" "Breakfast, 5 o'clock!" These cries are heard no more at 66 Vesey street, for "Polly" has taken herself from out the house.

For two years had the greeted "pop," caressed "mother," begged flour and water compounds and summoned the Buckley family to their maternal meal. But on Monday she spread her closely-clipped wings, fluttered a moment among the luxuriant verdure of the back yard, and then, realizing her liberty, rose high in June's air and, wafted westward by the summer breeze, disappeared from sight, but not from memory.

For her bereft master, longing for Polly's polished tones and homelike sight of his pet, inserted this "ad" in the morning's papers:

Lost—A green parrot. A reward will be given at 66 Vesey st. to whom Buckley.

You to whom this verdant bird has flown, be generous! Think of your own happy home! Fondle the teachings of the Golden Rule! Fly the sunbeams of Buckley and return Polly to her home.

Dunbury's Big Fire.

(SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.)

DUNBURY, Conn., June 10.—A fierce fire burst up through a shaft at Armstrong & Co.'s big box factory last night, having started from some unknown cause. The flames quickly enveloped the structure and then spread throughout the neighborhood, taking in R. S. Holden & Co.'s machine shop, numerous other buildings and several lumber yards. An area of thirty acres was soon covered by the fire.

The entire local fire department has been working steadily since the alarm was given, and the blaze was under control early this morning, though still burning hotly.

Thirteen and others have been prostrated by the intense heat. The damage will reach $125,000, and the parties affected are only partially insured.

A Railroad Blocked.

(SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.)

WEST HAVEN, Conn., June 10.—A long extra east-bound freight train of the New York and West Haven road, running under high speed down West Haven grade, was derailed at 5 o'clock this morning. Twelve cars were thrown from the tracks and of which were thrown across the west-bound track. Travel was stopped for over two hours.

Went Let Gallagher Go.

Thomas Gallagher, watchman at No. 21, North River, was astonished when Detectives Mallon and Day, of Capt. Cassin's streetmost squad, arrested him last night. He had been stealing property from his employers and the detectives had caught him in the act. At the Tombs this morning he was held for trial.

NINE YEARS AND EIGHT MONTHS.

Dunn's Sentence for Stealing the Bank of Manhattan Company's $150,000.

Lawyer John R. Dunn, who was found guilty of grand larceny in aiding Paying Teller Richard S. Scott in embezzling $150,000 from the Bank of the Manhattan Company, was this morning sentenced by Judge Barrett to nine years and eight months in State prison.

In sentencing him Judge Barrett said: "Dunn, your moral guilt is greater than Scott's. You were desired to assist in his criminal course, you urged him on.

You were the tempter who prevented him from throwing himself in the face of the law, and the directors and induced him to perform an enormous sum. You have disgraced an honorable profession. I see no ground for clemency in your case.

The Justice dwelt upon the unfortunate proneness of the officials of moneyed corporations to settle with defaulters and another prosecution. Such settlements, he said, are incentives to the morally weak to commit crime.

Temporary stay of judgment till next Monday was granted on motion of Dunn's counsel, Charles E. Brooke. A motion for a jury pending appeal will be argued at that time, the defendant being his right to the new trial on the fact that the value of gold certificates was not alleged in the indictment.

BARRELS FULL OF VOUCHERS.

Mr. Choate Causes 12,000 of Mrs. Stewart's Old Bills to Be Brought Into Court.

Greatly to the satisfaction of Mr. Choate and to the amusement of the audience in the Stewart will case, the vouchers of Mrs. Stewart's accounts were produced in the Surrogate's Court this morning.

They filled five big boxes and barrels, representing eleven and a half years' accounts of tradesmen and others with Mrs. Cornelia M. Stewart. In the five boxes there were about eleven thousand five hundred vouchers.

John M. Hopkins, seventy-two years old, was the witness called by Mr. Choate. He said that he had been employed as head bookkeeper and manager of finances for A. T. Stewart & Co. up to the time of Mr. Stewart's death, and since then he has been employed as Judge Hilton's cashier and receiver for his estate.

Mr. Choate made it his business to find out from the witness all about the books and vouchers. It proved to be very dry detail.

SITTING THE BOODLERY CHARGES.

A Week's Work Before the Special Grand Jury—Sumors of Indictments.

Witnesses are still being examined by the Special Grand Jury with respect to the criminality of certain Aldermen in the matter of alleged acts of attempted extortion and bribery. The investigation is expected to be continued during the present week. The election fraud cases will be taken up next week.

Rumor had it this morning that true bills had been found against five of the municipal legislators.

This rumor could not be traced to any reliable source, and it was said at the District Attorney's office that the only persons against whom the Grand Jury is now ready to make are a few indictments for violation of the excise laws.

Miss O'Brien Is Not Married.

Kylie Bell's admirer, Miss Coffin, called at Taylor's Hotel, Jersey City, Sunday morning, to inquire for letters, greeted her acquaintances cordially and then returned to her aunt's residence in New York.

It is apparently no truth to the current story of her marriage, though a Mr. Wood is stopping at the hotel. The story is probably somebody's poor joke.

Ex-Senator Tabor's Fortune.

[From a Denver Letter.]

Speaking of ex-Senator Tabor, I hear good words of him here in Denver, and he is still a very rich man. He is a daring speculator and wins and loses without making much fuss about it. "His Money Game," said a leading business man of Denver to me here to-day, "is a very simple one. He goes to the mines, and wherever he gets into a tight place his men seem to strike a pocket of rich ore, and to thus put $200,000 or so to Tabor's credit. Tabor's mines pay him from $8,000 to $10,000 a month, and this income he can depend upon. He has been in good luck since he came to Denver, and he has proved himself a first-class business man. He built Tabor's Opera House at a cost of $200,000, when every one in Denver thought him crazy in his mad mania that the enterprise would pay. Now the city has grown, and he is already getting a good interest out of the house. His second wife is a better woman than is generally supposed. She is very kind-hearted, and she does a great deal for charity in quiet, unostentatious way. Tabor seems happy with her, and the two lead a rather isolated social life here. Tabor has a fine house, and he lives very well."

Caught a Glass-Snake.

[From the Honolulu (H.K.) Dist.]

A so-called glass-snake was captured by N. McGraw last week. It is a very fine specimen, being quite like a real snake, and of a certain color with which it dissembles its long tail. It passes through the vertebrae and the muscles are so arranged that separation takes place without tearing the tissues. It is known that the broken parts are reproduced in time if the animal is left alive. The island resembles a snake only in its long slender limbs, oval-shaped body, the head, jaw, and breathing apparatus being entirely different. It has been preserved in alcohol.

LOOKS BAD FOR MRS. KOLL.

PROOF THAT SHE SOLD HER THREE LITTLE DAUGHTERS TO COLLIER.

The Case in Judge Massey's Court To-Day—The Mother's Depreciation—The Contract Signed by Her—Residence—The Brooklyn Children's Society Collecting Further Evidence.

Mrs. Sarah Koll, the unnatural mother who surrendered her ten-year-old daughter Caroline to the brutal desires of H. C. Collier, was brought with the partner of her crime before Judge Massey in Brooklyn this morning. It was intended to proceed with the examination of the defendants, but a postponement was obtained through the efforts of their counsel.

The evidence against the guilty pair which was collected by Oliver Schwartz, of the Brooklyn Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, is of the most conclusive character and reveals the most shocking depravity on the part of the mother and Collier, who is said to have lived with her. Mrs. Koll had two younger daughters, whom she so turned over to the tender mercies of Collier, as the following document found in the possession of the prison above mentioned, reads:

To the Officers and Members of the Sheltering Arms Home of the Protestant Episcopal Church, I hereby give my consent and authority to H. C. Collier to have my two little girls, F. and Cora Koll, placed in the Sheltering Arms Home, subject to all the regulations of the aforesaid Home, and that H. C. Collier will act as guardian of the said two children while in the said home, and to be removed by any one but the said H. C. Collier. Mrs. SARAH KOLL.

As in the case of the indenture in which she gave her daughter Caroline to Collier, to be his wife, for otherwise, the paper is in Collier's handwriting, but the signature is Mrs. Koll's. It is said that Collier took the two younger children to the Home in or to get them out of the way, so that he might better carry out his designs against Caroline.

Jersey City News.

Bigamous Marj—Major Travis to Be Taken From Brooklyn on a Requisition.

Detective Kortwright, of Brooklyn, accompanied by his daughter Mamie, appeared before Justice Robinson, of Jersey City, and secured a warrant for the arrest of the gay Sergeant-Major W. H. Travis, of the Forty-seventh Regiment, who made the young lady the victim of a bigamous marriage in New Jersey. Travis is locked up in Brooklyn, but will be taken to Jersey City to-day on a requisition for trial.

Jersey City Jottings.

A. A. Hardenberg, now in Europe, has been booked for several speeches in Ireland before his return home.

Policeman John H. Smith, of the Second Precinct, was arrested yesterday while drunk upon his post of duty. This morning Justice Wausser fined him $5.
