THE CASE POSTPONED.

The consideration of the case of Josie SHEPARD was yesterday postponed by the Committee on Indentures of the Juvenile Asylum until the meeting next Monday.

It is, however, to be hoped, in the interest of an institution which, honestly and humanely conducted, is one of the noblest charities in existence, but which might be made a deplorable evil if its large powers were under the control of incapable, unscrupulous and unfeeling men, that the application for the restoration of Josie to her nearest living blood relative, his grandmother, will be decided on other than technical grounds.

A POLITICIAN WITH A PULL.

We publish elsewhere the opinions of the Hon. FATTY WALSH, ex-Assemblyman and ex-Grand Master of the Toms, on the political issues of the day and the prospects of the contending parties.

FATTY WALSH is a politician with a "pull." It may be imagined that his views on the tariff of prices proper to be charged on a Toms bill of fare would be of more value than his sentiments on the President's message, the MILLS bill and the Democratic and Republican platforms.

Such politicians as FATTY WALSH are the men who form the bone and sinew of our political organizations and do the bidding of the party chiefs.

It is therefore of interest to ascertain their sentiments, notwithstanding the fact that in many instances their votes are in the market and go to the highest bidder.

A COWARDLY POLICY.

The British Government through its chief law officer has announced that it has evidence in its possession to connect Mr. PARNELL and other of the Irish leaders with the Phoenix Park assassinations.

Not only does the Government neglect to do this, and thus stamp the Attorney-General as a liar or itself as a compounder of felony, but when Mr. PARNELL asks for a Parliamentary investigation the Government refuses his request.

What more positive proof is needed to brand the statements of the Government organ, the London Times, against Mr. PARNELL and his associates, as deliberate perjury and forgeries?

JOHN KEENE makes affidavit in his case against his alleged partner, Aqueduct Contractor CLARK, that if he leaves Montreal and returns to New York it will endanger his health as well as interfere with his business.

The murderer BROOKS, alias MAXWELL, keeps up his courage and appears to be ready to meet his fate next Friday. But those who know him best assert that his boldness is due to his belief that Gov. MONROE will yield to the pressure brought to bear upon him in favor of a commutation and that BROOKS will break down when hope is ended.

The Aldermen want to know why the Commissioner of Public Works does not remove certain poles and wires from the streets when requested to do so by the Subway Commission.

It is now said that Mr. JAY GOULD cannot sleep at night, and is troubled when he does with bad dreams.

Naval Officer BURT courts investigation of the rumors which mix him up with the sugar trade.

General Master Workman POWDERLY advises all workmen to refrain from buying coffee until the "reign of plunder" of the coffee ring is at an end.

JERSEY CITY'S GUARDIANS.

Inspector Lange floated a twenty foot flag from his window on the Fourth. Roundsmen Coward battles his name almost daily. He is a veteran and a good officer. Policeman Murphy, of the First Precinct, makes more arrests than any officer on the force. Patrolman Creed of the Fifth Precinct is laid up with a broken arm sustained while on duty. Roundsmen Louis McIntyre is an accomplished artist. His portraits of his fellow officers are famous.

Capt. McNeilly has made a little palace of the Sixth Precinct Station-house since he assumed command. Officers Shellwatt and Mulox save the city the expense of carpenter work. They attend to all of the department's work. Officer Harrison White of the first Precinct is better acquainted with the habits of the gangs than any of his fellows. Policeman Fallaves of the Second can talk Irish with the trace of an O'Connell and has a smattering of Italian in his vocabulary.

She Didn't Mean Quite That. (From Judge.)

Embarrassed Young Lady (hesitatingly)—Oh, dear me, Mr. Wellington!—I can't express my gratitude for the delightful present. I—don't know what to say, really—(energetically)—oh, how much did it cost you?

One Touch of Nature. (From the Boston Courier.)

The wind was high, his hat blew off and rolled along the street. "Great Scott!" cried, and after it he ran with nimble feet.

It stopped—he reached it—as he stopped to take it up, a gust came suddenly, and the hat went in a whirl of dust.

The sage, the fool, the grave, the gay, the young, middle-aged and old, the tall, the short, the lean, the fat, the timid and the bold.

The rich, the poor, all laughed to see the deer whir and spin— This is the touch of nature, sure, That makes the whole world kin.

Wants Another Contest. To Work-Building Editor Evening World.

The World-Building Contest, which your most interesting journal introduced a month ago, has been the means of giving me much enjoyment during my leisure hours.

An Invocation to the Eagle. To Work-Building Editor Evening World.

Inclosed please find my list of words for the world-building contest. I have enjoyed it very much. It gives me pleasure to build words from the interesting newspaper, THE EVENING WORLD.

An Apt Comparison. To Work-Building Editor Evening World.

I beg to hand you herewith my first attempt at word-building, and I find that the words in the result of eleven days work, which I have tried to collect, are not combinations as the paper itself is of news.

The Result of Eleven Days Work. To Work-Building Editor Evening World.

I send you my list of words in your competition, instead of losing them in the post, and I think I have got a list hard to beat.

A Sparkling Newspaper. To Work-Building Editor Evening World.

Herewith you will find my competing list of words. THE EVENING WORLD must be credited with affording a fine mental discipline to the many competitors and enlarging their vocabularies.

A Chip of the Old Block. To Work-Building Editor Evening World.

Inclosed please find my list of words found in THE EVENING WORLD (a chip of the old block), which I hope will gain for me the prize. I thank you for the pleasure you have given me.

Very Fair English. To Work-Building Editor Evening World.

Inclosed I send you a list of words in the world-building contest. I don't expect to win, but being a foreigner, not long in this country, I liked to try, as it at the same time improves my knowledge in the English language.

It Kept Him Awake Nights. To Work-Building Editor Evening World.

I beg to submit you my list, which has kept me awake nights, and I hope it is a good one. I trust the list is long enough to get the place money.

Found It Very Easy. To Work-Building Editor Evening World.

Please find inclosed my list of words. If I am the lucky one it will be the easiest eagle I ever earned. I was reading the cards in THE EVENING WORLD last night and, though I am late, I hope not too late.

An Appreciative Epistle. To Work-Building Editor Evening World.

I respectfully submit my list of words for the great word-compiling contest, knowing they will receive your impartial verdict. I have been at it for some time, and I mention. I avail myself of this opportunity as a reader of THE EVENING WORLD since the first number, to congratulate and thank you for the knowledge and varied surprises for your readers.

A Big Mail-Box. To Work-Building Editor Evening World.
