

5 O'CLOCK EXTRA TO BE CUT IN HALF.

Judge Ingraham's Decision Against the Polo Grounds.

One Hundred and Eleventh Street to Be Driven Through Them.

Result of a Long and Costly Litigation—The Supreme Court Refuses to Enjoin Gen. Newton—The Fence Declared to Have Been an Obstruction Since 1869—The Grounds to be Rendered Useless for Their Present Purpose.

Judge Ingraham has decided against the Polo Grounds in the motion for an injunction to restrain the Commissioner of Public Works from cutting One Hundred and Eleventh street through the Polo Grounds.

It is the motion to make the injunction permanent which is now denied by Judge Ingraham.

The Judge in his opinion says: One Hundred and Eleventh street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues, was duly laid out upon a map of the city of New York...

It appears that the plaintiffs have for years past appropriated and used this street in direct violation of law, and now that the Commissioner of Public Works is about to perform his duty...

The effect of this decision will be to divide the Polo Grounds into two parts and render them useless for their present purposes.

THEY MUST HAVE NAPHTHA.

What Assistant Engineer Weeks Says of the Standard Gaslight Storage Tanks.

As stated in THE EVENING WORLD of yesterday, the Fire Department is about to bring suit against the Standard Gaslight Company for storing naphtha on their premises.

A reporter visited the gas works at the foot of East One Hundred and Eleventh street.

Mr. Boardman spent seven minutes in asking Mr. Church to explain about rubber masonry.

Chief Engineer's Rating of Those Which Went Through Last Month's Drill.

On the report of Assistant Chief Hugh Bener, regarding the result of the fire-drill at Headquarters, a circular has been issued to the Fire Department, in which is stated that:

From information taken from the report of Assistant Chief Bener upon the results of the fire-drill order of the 10th of July...

First Class.—Found very proficient and active, engine companies 4, 10, 14, 20, 24, 27, 30, 31, 32, 33 and 35.

Second Class.—Found deficient, engine companies 1, 5, 6, 8, 11, 13, 16, 18 and 19.

Third Class.—Found very deficient and slow, engine companies 3, 9, 15 and 23.

The report further states that as a practical result of the drill and instruction, there has been a marked improvement at recent large fires, among those companies rated second and third class.

LIGHTNING DETECTIVE WORK. Officer Martin Catches a Horse Thief in Very Short Order.

A general alarm was received at the police stations, throughout the city this morning, to look out for a gray horse and cart wagon, which had been stolen from the stable of Isaac Garden, 205 East One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street.

MR. CHURCH WAS ABSOLUTE.

LET HE SAID THE COMMISSIONERS OUT-GUESSED HIS CALCULATIONS.

Very Heavy Outcomings of a Saturday Morning Session of the Passet Committee—Trying to Find Out Just What Responsibility Rested on the Aqueduct's Chief Engineer.

Some of the misunderstanding which mixed up matters so thoroughly in the Aqueduct Commission under Chief Engineer Church's manipulation of his order bureau is said to have communicated itself to the Senatorial Investigative Committee.

He was very angry because the editor of an evening paper had said he was, and he wanted the committee to take notice of his explanation.

Chief Engineer Church also wanted some blank subpoenas from the committee, and said he proposed to show that ex-Mayor Grace and Mr. J. Munson had something to do with making some of the contracts.

There was a decided objection made to this by Corporal Counsel Beekman, and after a little reezy repartee, in which most of the lawyers took part, the question was left undecided and Chief Engineer Church resumed the witness stand.

Mr. Boardman spent seven minutes in asking Mr. Church to explain about rubber masonry.

Chief Engineer explained that it was not necessary to put in rubber masonry in places where it would not have been necessary originally, because the rock had deteriorated by letting the tunnel remain exposed after it had been cut through, instead of filling it up immediately.

He admitted, however, that it resulted in a largely increased cost to the city over the estimate.

Mr. Boardman then inquired of the witness about the position of Judge Barnes and Ridgway had proved right, and his own scientific knowledge had been wrong in the matter.

SEEING THE SIXTY-NINTH OFF.

A Triumphant March Down Broadway on the Way to the State Camp.

The gallant soldier boys of the Sixty-ninth Regiment, 850 strong, left Pier 1, North River, at about noon to-day on the steamer Long Branch, bound for the State Camp at Peekskill.

The members of the regiment assembled at the armory, corner of Third avenue and Seventh street, at 10 A. M., and were clad over the beautiful weather.

The band of the regiment, in resplendent uniform, appeared at the armory entrance on Seventh street at 10.30, and stirring strains of music attracted an immense crowd of people.

There was a bustling scene in the squad rooms of the different companies at the armory.

The men made a fine appearance as they marched from the Armory to the pier, and the regiment was much admired by the thousands of people who lined the sidewalks.

The Sixty-ninth will relieve the Sixty-first, Second Division Regiment from the western part of the State, at the Peekskill Camp and will return to this city next Saturday.

GRAVE DOUBTS CAST ON HER STORY OF BURGLARS IN WAVERLY PLACE. Annie Crane is the daughter of Patrick Crane, of 335 East Thirty-eighth street, and is fifteen years old.

Miss Korn is an aged lady, the sister of the late ex-Assemblyman Korn, and resides in the basement of the house at 155 Waverly place.

She has a great fear of burglars, and it has been her daily habit either to herself or send Annie to see that everything was all right in the house.

Every thing was serenely quiet and undisturbed until the latter part of June, when Miss Korn's fears that burglars would enter her residence were realized, or at least Annie reported to that effect, and from that time up to yesterday, when the girl was found bound hand and foot, she has told wild stories of burglarious entrance into the house.

These strange visions occurred only when Annie was alone in the rooms, and it was always some man who was either asked, or when she did not see who made them.

Patrolman Walsh, of the Charles street station, who visited Annie yesterday, said that she had undoubtedly tied herself, and the general belief among the police officials of the precinct is that she is a clever little ringer.

One officer said: "The girl saw that the old lady was anxious to find a burglar in the house and she made one up, so that Miss Korn could say that her watchfulness had not come unavailing."

The girl could not be found by an EVENING WORLD reporter this morning, but Miss Korn said, and she still insisted that she would believe Annie until it is positively proven that she has been deliberately lying.

In support of the girl's stories Miss Korn said that one day at the restaurant Annie had said: "I feel that something's wrong at home." Miss Korn hurried to the house to find that the padlock of the area gate was thrown down and the house door open.

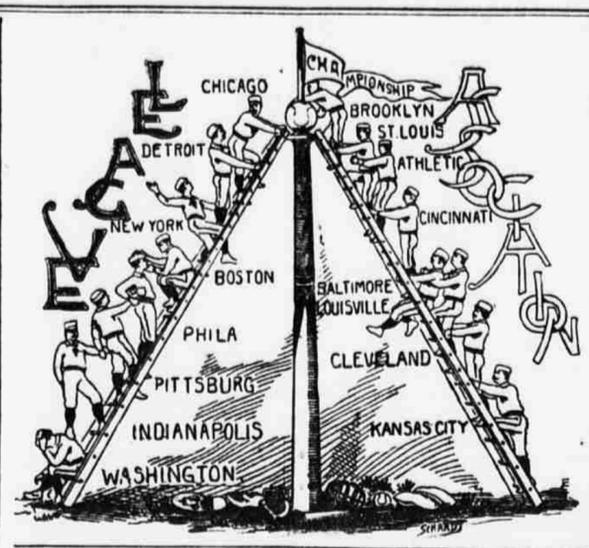

A lady who said that she was in the house during all these wonderful occurrences related by the girl, said that she had never heard the slightest sound from the Korn apartment.

BILLY FLORENCE'S LUCK. Back in New York With Pleasant Memories of a 35-Pound Salmon Catch.

A second signature on the register at the Fifth Avenue Hotel this morning was that of Billy Florence, the actor.

Mr. Florence's chirography is the only crooked thing about him. In everything else he is above board.

Sunburnt, with a faint growth of mustache and goatee, and surrounded with all the paraphernalia that a first-class fisherman needs, Mr. Florence sat in his parlor.

He had been away for five weeks up fishing with the Restigouche Salmon Club at Matapedia, Canada, he said. Had a great time, of course. Caught a thirty-eight pound salmon.

POLICY MEN SHY BUT STILL DOING SOME BUSINESS.

Another Investigation Tour by "Evening World" Reporters Shows that the Systematic Attack on the "Poke Shops" Has Seriously Crippled Them—A Dealer's Frank Conversation about the Game.

The several hundred policy dealers in the city are not whooping things up as brassy as they were by any means.

Two reporters visited several places yesterday and found business suspended.

The proprietors of these policy shops said that it was no use trying to do business now, and one acknowledged that it kills the business of a policy shop to have it exposed.

Business is entirely suspended and traffic has ceased.

The booths on the Champs de Mars are surrounded by great throngs of pleasure-seekers.
