

AT INDIANAPOLIS.

Knights of Labor General Assembly Opened. Two Sets of Delegates from D. A. 49 on the Scene.

Belief That the Convention Will Not Last More Than Two Weeks.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 12.—Several of the delegates to the general assembly of the Knights of Labor, who had a long distance to travel, arrived in the city this morning, among them being ex-General Secretary Litchman, William J. Wright, from Canada, and Daniel J. Campbell, the newly elected Democratic County Treasurer, of Scranton, Pa.

From information received by the general officers, probably only one delegate from abroad will be present, and he will come from Belgium. There are two sets of delegates from District Assembly 49, of New York, and both sides were granted a hearing before the Committee on Credentials this morning.

In all former assemblies the business has been transacted slowly, but it is calculated that the present season will close at the end of two weeks. The convention was called to order at 10 o'clock this morning by General Master Workman Powderly, who seems to be in excellent health and spirits.

The report of the Credentials Committee is now being submitted to the general assembly, and the various committees on law, finances and grievances are appointed on important business will be reached.

It seems to be the unanimous opinion of those here that there will be a general revision of the constitution of the order, and that the demand for the reduction of running expenses, which it is proposed to meet in several ways, and by curtailing the expenses of the general assembly and general officers, and also by reducing the salaries of all the officers of the Executive Board.

The general assembly will be held in the city, and it is expected that it will be a very successful one. The general secretary's report will show that the order is in a very healthy condition.

FREMONT COLE CONFIDENT.

HE ASSURES AN "EVENING WORLD" REPORTER THAT HE'S BOUND TO WIN.

That Boss Platt is with him in the fight for speakership considered him the Battle-is the Bald Eagle of Westchester Roosting in the Trees of Madison Square Looking Around for Votes.

Politicians of the Republican stripe crowded the corridors of the Fifth Avenue Hotel this morning, and all were as busy as bees making speakers for the Assembly and members of Gen. Harrison's Cabinet.

The leading spirit of the assemblage was ex-Senator Warner Miller, the defeated Republican candidate for Governor, who was commencing with over three hundred delegates, and who has been congratulated on the prospect of his receiving the Treasury portfolio under the incoming Administration.

Mr. Cole knows that Platt's man is to be the next speaker, and he confidently asserted to the Evening World reporter that he is bound to win.

This proposition was emphatically seconded by Ernest Higgins Crook, who is a member of the State Senate, and who is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole.

When asked where his opponent, Gen. James W. Hunt, was, Mr. Cole said that he had been seen at the Hotel Hamilton, and that he was expected to see him perched on one of the trees, eating his eagle eye for votes.

Mr. Cole is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole. He is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole.

Mr. Cole is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole. He is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole.

ANARCHY IS STILL ALIVE.

INSPECTOR BONFIELD SAYS THEY ARE STRONGER THAN EVER BEFORE.

The One Hundredth Anniversary of the Fall of the Bastille, He Claims, is the Day They Have Selected for a General Uprising—The Headquarters for America are in New York City.

[SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.] CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—The Times this morning says: "Anarchy is not dead, not even sleeping. On the contrary, it is more thoroughly organized than even at the time of the Haymarket riot, and its membership is larger than it has ever been."

Inspector Bonfield, who is known to have kept detectives watching every movement of the Anarchists the past few weeks, says: "I have had men looking up their meetings and we know who they are and have the names and addresses of the leaders and the most radical Anarchists, so we can reach them in case of trouble. They meet in small numbers, but before, but there are more of them and they conduct their meetings differently. There are no more meetings at the headquarters for fighting and drilling with arms and explosives; but what is far more dangerous, they are only organized for the purpose of the sale of the law, and all we can do is to keep our eyes on them."

Mr. Campbell is a Trust lawyer and a lobbyist of no mean ability in the city. He has been a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole.

Mr. Cole is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole. He is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole.

Mr. Cole is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole. He is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole.

Mr. Cole is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole. He is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole.

Mr. Cole is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole. He is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole.

WAS SHE A CHILD BRIDE?

NO KNOWN CAUSE FOR PRETTY FRANCES O'BRIEN'S SUICIDE.

Apparently the Deceived Both Her Sister and Employer on the Day of Her Death—Laughing Five Minutes Before She Drank the Poison—If She Was Married Was Her Husband?

The cause that led to pretty Frances O'Brien's suicide at her sister's home, 445 West Thirty-ninth street, last evening, still a mystery. Frances was twenty years old, well developed, unusually beautiful and possessed winning ways. That something was troubling her greatly there is no doubt, for she was not a girl to worry over trifling matters.

Her father died when she was nine years old, and she was the youngest of ten children, her mother made her the pet of the household. She was exceedingly attached to her mother, and since the latter died a year and a half ago, Frances has been very low-spirited.

She has lived since her mother's death with her sister, Mrs. Maggie O'Brien, at the place where she died last night.

Mr. Campbell is a Trust lawyer and a lobbyist of no mean ability in the city. He has been a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole.

Mr. Cole is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole. He is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole.

Mr. Cole is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole. He is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole.

Mr. Cole is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole. He is a member of the State Senate, and he is a strong supporter of Mr. Cole.

POLICE THEORIES.

What American Chiefs Think of the Whitechapel Fiend.

Various Plans and Suggestions for the Capture of the Murderer.

General Belief that the London Police are Inefficient.

INSPECTOR BYRNES IS RETICENT. He Wouldn't Tell His Own Methods, Nor Would He Reveal Any Other Officer's.

Chief Inspector Byrnes, when called upon by a reporter, said that he had no idea of the resignation of Mr. Warren, and when asked how he would act if confronted by such a horrible crime he said: "If I ever had in New York the misfortune of meeting such a case, or any similar to those which were perpetrated at Whitechapel, I would consider it an act of great imprudence for me to advertise what schemes I should resort to, or what action I should undertake for the purpose of apprehending and prosecuting the person who committed the offense. Such a course would be precisely what the offender would want."

THE BROOKLYN IDEA. What Supt. Campbell Would Do in the Case.

Supt. Patrick Campbell, of the Brooklyn police, has grown gray in the service, and in his time has handled more than his share of the most difficult cases that have come before him.

Chief Inspector Byrnes, when called upon by a reporter, said that he had no idea of the resignation of Mr. Warren, and when asked how he would act if confronted by such a horrible crime he said: "If I ever had in New York the misfortune of meeting such a case, or any similar to those which were perpetrated at Whitechapel, I would consider it an act of great imprudence for me to advertise what schemes I should resort to, or what action I should undertake for the purpose of apprehending and prosecuting the person who committed the offense. Such a course would be precisely what the offender would want."

Chief Inspector Byrnes, when called upon by a reporter, said that he had no idea of the resignation of Mr. Warren, and when asked how he would act if confronted by such a horrible crime he said: "If I ever had in New York the misfortune of meeting such a case, or any similar to those which were perpetrated at Whitechapel, I would consider it an act of great imprudence for me to advertise what schemes I should resort to, or what action I should undertake for the purpose of apprehending and prosecuting the person who committed the offense. Such a course would be precisely what the offender would want."

LAST EDITION.

$200,000 FIRE.

Fierce Conflagration in Brooklyn This Morning.

Grain Warehouses on Furman Street Completely Guttled.

The Smoke and Flames Visible for Miles Around.

Myriads of snags, a solid sheet of flame and a huge column of black and white smoke, such as through the roof of the Brooklyn Warehouse Company's store houses, Nos. 122 to 160 Furman street, Brooklyn, a few minutes before 7 o'clock this morning. The fire spread to an adjoining building, No. 120, occupied by the Fulton Grain and Milling Company, and within a few minutes the six six-story brick buildings were one sea of flame.

They covered an area, 60 feet front by 125 feet deep, between Furman street and Bartlett's dock on the East River front.

E. B. Bartlett is President of the Brooklyn Warehouse Company, and ex-Charity Commissioner William Shipman is President of the Fulton Grain and Milling Company. The buildings were used to store grain, hay, wheat and oats.

When the fire broke out about one hundred men were waiting on the dock for the 7 o'clock whistle to blow to go to work.

The fire was discovered shooting out of the roof by Foreman Smith, of Engine Company 34, just across the street. He had his machine out in a jiffy, and also sent out the first alarm.

LAST EDITION.

$200,000 FIRE.

Fierce Conflagration in Brooklyn This Morning.

Grain Warehouses on Furman Street Completely Guttled.

The Smoke and Flames Visible for Miles Around.

Myriads of snags, a solid sheet of flame and a huge column of black and white smoke, such as through the roof of the Brooklyn Warehouse Company's store houses, Nos. 122 to 160 Furman street, Brooklyn, a few minutes before 7 o'clock this morning. The fire spread to an adjoining building, No. 120, occupied by the Fulton Grain and Milling Company, and within a few minutes the six six-story brick buildings were one sea of flame.

They covered an area, 60 feet front by 125 feet deep, between Furman street and Bartlett's dock on the East River front.

E. B. Bartlett is President of the Brooklyn Warehouse Company, and ex-Charity Commissioner William Shipman is President of the Fulton Grain and Milling Company. The buildings were used to store grain, hay, wheat and oats.

When the fire broke out about one hundred men were waiting on the dock for the 7 o'clock whistle to blow to go to work.

The fire was discovered shooting out of the roof by Foreman Smith, of Engine Company 34, just across the street. He had his machine out in a jiffy, and also sent out the first alarm.