The Average Number of "WORLDS" PRINTED AND SOLD EVERY DAY DURING THE MONTH OF NOVEMBER WAS 307,563.

This is the Largest Monthly Average ever reached by THE WORLD, and is beyond comparison with any other newspaper.

AWAKE AT LAST.

At last we are to reason with the Government of Hayti at the cannon's mouth.

Secretary BAYARD says that we do not intend to bully the Haytians, but we will stand no more nonsense.

GIVE THE PEOPLE FREE BATHS.

The Winter bathing system established in London does not give the people free baths.

The success of the system may be gathered from the fact that the receipts last year from bath-houses were $5,300.

A DANGEROUS GANG.

The arrest of the two men who sought to rob and come very near murdering PHIL DALY was a good piece of police work.

The evidence and the confessions prove that the attempt to rob DALY was prearranged, and that the plan of the conspirators contemplated the enticement to the house and the robbery of other victims.

JAKE OR HAMD.

Mr. JAKE KILRAIN is prepared to meet Mr. JOHN L. SULLIVAN in the prize ring to settle the question which of the two can hit the harder and last the longer.

A SAFE, SURE CURE FOR COUGHS AND COLDS.

ADAMS'S BOTANIC BALM, KINGSAN, 35th st. and 4th av.

JOHN L. SULLIVAN lays claim to the same honor. It is not quite clear to the unlearned in the mysteries of fistic science, to which the title belongs, or whether it belongs to either.

Mrs. MELVILLE, of Taunton, Mass., has given the police of that place a lesson. Some crank has been assaulting and frightening the Taunton women by playing the "Whitechapel fiend" business in a modified form.

OUR AUTOGRAPH COLLECTION.

Melbourne M. Dowse

WORLDLINGS.

One of Louisiana's well-known literary women is Mrs. Slaughter, who writes under the nom de plume of "Pleasant Riderhood."

Fannie Keeling, a dining-room girl in the Slawtry House, at Chippewa Falls, Wis., has recently inherited from an uncle in South America an estate that is said to be worth $3,000,000.

MAD CAREER OF A FIRE TRUCK.

The horses attached to Hed Jacket Engine Company's fire truck took fright at a locomotive on the way to a fire at Elizabeth late last night and caused much excitement.

THE METROPOLITAN SCHOOL OF ART.

From Texas Springs.

Jenkins (in a New York art salon)—It takes something more than study to become an expert in art criticism. One must have taste.

A BOBTAIL EULOGY.

"They are gone, but not forgotten." All those little bobtail cars.

A MODEST P. S.

I would like to find in my Christmas stocking some candy, some nuts, a penknife, a lead pencil and a nice slate pencil.

NEWS SUMMARY.

Miss Annie Summerville, the actress, obtains a decree of divorce in the Chicago courts from her husband, Edwin P. Chapman.

FACTORY ON FIRE.

David Block's tinware factory, at 62 Elizabeth street, caught fire at 6 o'clock this morning and $3,500 damage was done.

NOTES IN THE LABOR FIELD.

The Building Trades Section met last night, with a delegate from the Housewives' Union in the chair.

RIKOR'S EXPECTORANT.

For the positive cure of coughs, colds, etc., beyond question the very best article in existence.

FOUND DEAD NEAR HIS DOOR.

R. B. Hawley, fifty-five years of age, a well-known Bowery character who has lately been a lodger at 202 Bowery, was found dead early this morning in a hallway near his lodgings.

THE POISON DID ITS WORK.

David Blake, who swallowed a dose of muriatic acid with suicidal intent in a plumber's shop at 98 Ninth avenue, yesterday, died this morning at St. Vincent's hospital.

UNNECESSARY HUMILIATION.

"This man will be your cell-mate," said the turnkey. "He is in here on a charge of being a member of a White Cap gang."

WIT AND HUMOR A LA CARTE.

A DAILY MENU PREPARED BY THE CHEFS OF FUN.

He Didn't Know. (From Texas Springs.)

Schoolmaster—Come here, Charlie, and let me hear you recite your lesson. Why, what is the matter? What are you crying for?

All the Worse. (From the Chicago Tribune.)

Prominent Actress—Sir, I want you to see Miss Euphorbia Licklider for 400,000. She is using my portrait in advertising her own second-rate company.

How Much Good Does This Do You? (From the Chicago Herald.)

According to Munnall's "Balance Sheet of the World," every day the sun rises upon the American people it sees an addition of $2,500,000 to the accumulation of wealth in the United States.

Words Could Express It Painfully Well. (From Christian Post.)

Young Borrower—who has been accommodated with a small loan—(gushing)—Oh, my friend, words cannot express the extent of my obligation to you for this kindly act!

Hard Luck. (From the St. Paul Pioneer Press.)

Stranger at the door—Is Col. Gilderoy in?

A Claim on His Respect. (From the Chicago Tribune.)

Reporter—in quoting your remarks, Colonel, do you wish me to print the word Bible with a small b?

England All Ready. (From the Daily.)

A daily paper says that "invisible forts, disappearing cannon, quick-firing guns and many more things are urgently required in England can be said to be efficiently protected against invasion."

Rivals. (From the same girl at school.)

We loved the self same girl at school, He hated me—I knew it; He took to printing—being fool—While I became a poet.

What I composed 'mid sighs and tears, My love's poetic data, In course of time in print appears, With numerous errata.

I lately wrote, with sweet intents, A graceful panegyric, In which her "Grecian lineaments" I praised in measured lyrics.

But now her rage is to be feared; She's sure to be excelled, For "great lineaments" appeared The line that I indited.

There is no chance, methinks, for me, Even though my charms were greater; Though better I compose than he, Still he composes later.

Caught from Hotel Registers. (From the Boston Herald.)

Unnecessary Humiliation. "This man will be your cell-mate," said the turnkey. "He is in here on a charge of being a member of a White Cap gang."

"I protest against the indignity," exclaimed the prisoner bitterly. "I am a bad man, but I'm not an infernal coward."

GLIMPSES HERE AND THERE.

COMMONPLACE AFFAIRS OF LIFE IN AND ABOUT THE BIG CITY.

Good Taste and the Grace of Good Manners in Fulton Market.

One might not expect to find a well-developed artistic sense among the men of Fulton Market, yet a stroll through the highways and byways of that vast establishment will reveal an attractiveness in the arrangement of fish, poultry, game and fruit that surprises the visitor.

The men evidently vie with each other as to who among them shall spread the prettiest and most attractive array of goods.

The stacks of larger fish daintily trimmed and set off with crawfish, whitefish, scallops, shrimps and such small fry, with here and there, like an oasis in the desert, a bit of green parsley, moss or sea-grass.

The fruit men have an advantage over their fish-dealing brethren, inasmuch as their wares are more variegated and brighter in hue. It fairly makes one's mouth water to stroll among the piles of luscious grapes, figs, oranges, dates and rare tropical fruits.

The vendors of eggs, which are the marketmen to present gorgeously decked counters to the public eye extends also to their demeanor, which is quite Chesterfieldian.

As a body they are polite and suave a set of men as one could desire to meet.

Predicts of a New Industry Will the Shelves of the Toy-Dealers.

An industry that has sprung up within the past few years is the manufacturing of inexpensive yet effective typewriters. They are in great demand as toys, and the city toy-dealers drive a brisk trade in them during the holidays.

Very excellent work can be done on them by experienced operators. It takes as long as a year of constant practice to become really expert in their use.

The clear-cut, type-written copy is an incentive to all who are desirous of having their spelling corrected, and the operator much more careful than if the matter were written in hand.

Among the most considerable discussions among School Commissioners regarding the advisability of introducing typewriters into the public schools.

A Christmas Novelty Which Will Be a Boon to the Social Smoker.

A Christmas novelty that has just made its appearance looks like a miniature steam engine, resembling those in use on the elevated railroads. It is really a combination cigar and cigarette-holder and pipe.

It is made of some kind of imported wood, and in the top are three holes, one for a cigar, one for a cigarette and the other a whistle.

The smokestack is a pipe, and the train of cars there are three little holes which are meant to receive a long tube through which the smoker may puff.

A blow through the top of the box will sound a little whistle, but the man who is smoking the cigarette cannot steal a puff of the cigar or pipe.

The idea is that when gentlemen are playing cards and don't wish to throw the ashes from the cigars all around, they can put the little holder in some out-of-the-way place and thus enjoy their friendly smoke.

Has Grand Rapids Surpassed All?

"That is Art, and Art put where it does the most good!"

"That" was an oak bedstead, with testers and headboard exquisitely carved in the style of the Renaissance. It was in a New York furniture store, and the remark fell from a gentleman on seeing his companion halt to look at it.

"Going West lately, the gentleman continued, 'I stayed at the Walden Hotel, the Southern, St. Louis, Gore's Fire-proof Hotel, Chicago; the Albany, Denver, and the Irian, St. Paul. In each of those houses the furniture was so exceptionally fine that I asked where it came from, and learned one house in Grand Rapids, Mich., had supplied them all."

"The proprietors, Berkey & Gay Co., employ artists for workmen. They send their chamber sets, bookcases, sideboards, and the like, and all stands all over the world. More furniture is made there than anywhere in the whole country. You can get a $1,500 bedstead, or a $10 one, and both are cheap for their kind."

"You are a patron of art. You want to furnish your home with the best, and you are a manufacturer, and your art education would be very much improved by studying the way the Romans and Greeks learned it."

"I tell you this simply for your good. This house at the Walden Hotel, Cleveland, the Southern, St. Louis, Gore's Fire-proof Hotel, Chicago; the Albany, Denver, and the Irian, St. Paul. In each of those houses the furniture was so exceptionally fine that I asked where it came from, and learned one house in Grand Rapids, Mich., had supplied them all."

ORPHAN KATIE'S BRIDAL.

HER LIFE ROMANCE EARLY REACHES A HAPPY CULMINATION.

Her Widowed Mother Perished in a Shipwreck When She Was Ten Years Old, and She Had to Fight the Battle of Life Alone Till She Met Young Lawyer Brooks—A Wedding at Rabbi Lustig's.

BROOKS—LAWYER.—In New York, on Wednesday evening, Dec. 5, by the Rev. Herman Lustig, KATIE LAWYER, orphan, to ISIDORE B. BROOKS.

The tinge of romance which clings to this marriage announcement from the simple word "orphan" after the fair bride's name is fully borne out by the facts in the case.

Fourteen years ago little Katie Lawry lost her widowed mother, who perished at sea in a shipwreck. This left the child of ten a waif upon the world. Friends helped her till she could help herself, and then she took up the battle of life and has fought it well.

When she stood in Rabbi Herman Lustig's parlor at 252 East Seventy-eighth street last Tuesday to plight her troth to her lover Kate Lawry was a tall, beautifully-framed blonde, highly accomplished and with a noble disposition.

At sweet sixteen she met Isidore B. Brooks, a handsome young lawyer of twenty-four years, whose downtown office is in the Parly building. He has an abundance of the goods of this world, and will place the orphan girl, who has so courageously fought her way in the world, in a position of ease and comfort as his wife. Miss Lawry has for several years been a saleswoman in Altman's big dry-goods establishment on Sixth avenue.

For three days prior to her wedding Miss Lawry received instructions in the Holy Faith from Rabbi Lustig, a friend of Mr. Marks, who is a friend of the groom. Like a true wife, she wished to be one with her husband in religion, and she accordingly embraced the Hebrew belief. She had not belonged to any Christian church.

A party of twenty or twenty-five friends gathered in the cozy parlors of Rabbi Lustig's on Tuesday evening to witness the ceremony. Miss Lawry was dressed in a steel gray traveling dress, trimmed with silver braid.

At the end of the happy groom placed four gray bills in the hand of Rabbi Lustig, and the newly-wedded pair started off on a fortnight's journey. Their destination is Philadelphia, one of the nicest cities in the country for young married people because it offers nothing to distract them from love's young dream.

Among those who assisted at the wedding were the mother, brother and sister of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. Marks, Mr. Springer, Mr. and Mrs. Beck, Mr. and Mrs. Stein, and several others.

"Shaker" Murch. (From the Chicago Mail.)

It happened down at Beaver Gulch, along about Tuesday evening to witness the ceremony.

The feller that I'm talkin' of his name was "Shaker" Murch; He had a quick consumption, an' he calkulated soon That he'd lose his hold on ev'rythin' an' topple off the perch.

He was a very gamy man, an' great at shakin' dice; It did a mind what chances—he'd shake for anythin'; He'd shake a religion, an' wouldn't take advice, But he'd shake you for a 'tender,' or a shave, or whiskey slinger.

But the creepin', durn consumption kep' a-comin', coming fast!

An' he hobbled rom' the camp as though he wasn't any skeert.

An' ev'ry time the boys they thought was surely "Shaker's" last!

His eyes wuz just as knowin' an' his smile wuz just as peerin'.

Now "Shaker" come one evenin' to the undertaker's 'joint.

When the boys were playin' euchre list to list in June.

He looked as thin as though he had been whittled to a point.

But he'd got that quite smilin' as he passed the time o' day.

An' he sez to the proprietor, sez he to "Mourful Si":

"The doctor 'lows I'm social, cuz I'm rattin' on so; So I thought I'd drap in again, as I was passin' by."

An' he
