LAST EDITION. HAYTI FRIGHTENED.

First Accurate Account of Affairs at the Island.

Our Galena Brought Her Guns to Bear On Port-au-Prince.

The Dessalines Vainly Manned Her 20-pound Pops.

The Haytian Republic Surrendered Without a Struggle.

Indemnity of $350,000 Asked by Private Individuals.

Sensational Reports About the Two-Million Government Demand Not Confirmed.

The Hamburg-American steamer Prinz Mauritz arrived in port this morning bearing a communication from THE WORLD's special correspondent at Port-au-Prince, Hayti.

The Mauritiz sailed from the Haytian port two days after the arrival of the American warships Galena and Yantic and the surrender of the American steamer Haytian Republic to its owner, B. C. Morse, who was a passenger on Admiral Luce's flagship, the Galena.

On the morning of Dec. 27, the American vessels entered the inner harbor of Port-au-Prince and were immediately prepared for battle.

Admiral Luce's flag was transferred to the Yantic, which was anchored within one hundred feet of shore, with her prow facing broadside and her guns trained on the town and her torpedo boats out.

This was not all. Admiral Luce had been sent to Hayti by the American Government to suppress the Haytian Republic, which had been declared by Dessalines, who was on shore at the time, hurried to his vessel, and immediately a great bombardment was opened on the deck of the Haytian Republic.

The little twenty-pound pop-guns were loaded and extra ammunition was got aboard, and the bastion was ready for action.

Commander Guyot of the Haytian gunboat Dessalines, who was on shore at the time, did not murmur or utter a word in reply to the bombardment, but he promptly ordered that he did not intend to leave without his master's leave from the Yantic to be attached to her.

The Haytians were dumfounded by this prompt action of the American Admiral. Commander Guyot of the Haytian gunboat Dessalines, who was on shore at the time, hurried to his vessel, and immediately a great bombardment was opened on the deck of the Haytian Republic.

A FINE INCOME SWINDLING.

COL. JOSEPH POTTER PULLED UP SHORT BY CAPT. McLAUGHLIN.

He Has Been Collecting Money for the G. A. R. and Pocketing It—His Income This Year Was $2,000—Arraigned at the Tombs Police Court This Morning and Held for Trial.

A suave, medium-sized man, with close-cropped gray hair and mustache, and who walked erect, with a military air, was arraigned before Justice O'Reilly, in the Tombs Police Court, this morning by Police Capt. McLaughlin, of the Old Slip station.

Capt. McLaughlin charged him with obtaining money under false representations. The prisoner gave his name as Col. Joseph Potter. He is a veteran of the Mexican and civil wars, and on the strength of his knowledge of Grand Army affairs has been able to get big money by swindling sympathizers with the old soldiers out of sums of money ranging from $5 to $50.

In 1888 he obtained more than $2,000 by representing himself as a duly authorized agent of the Grand Army sent out to solicit subscriptions for the benefit of the G. A. R.

Capt. McLaughlin began to receive inquiries about the case, and he was arrested on or about November. He made some inquiries and found that he was not all right.

No one is authorized to go around soliciting money for the G. A. R., so the Captain began to look out for the swindler. His detectives, Oates and Nugent, arrested Potter yesterday afternoon just after he had swindled Solomon B. Wolf, of 144 Pearl street, out of $5, and Frederick DeLuz, of 18 South William street, out of $10.

The Colonel took his arrest very coolly and protested his innocence. He refused to talk when urged to do so by an Evening World reporter in court this morning.

Being closely pressed, he said he was a colonel in the Mexican war and that he was a member of the G. A. R., and authorized to solicit money for it.

Capt. McLaughlin got papers to prove that the Colonel had been arrested for swindling in the same manner, on Staten Island, about three years ago. He was sent to prison for a year then.

He got another on the 19th of April, 1887, for the same offense. Then he passed by the name of Henry De Witt. Before that he was known as Col. Mitchell.

He is now sixty years old, is married and lives with his wife at 21 Willis avenue, Yonkers. He has children and grandchildren.

Justice O'Reilly held the prisoner in default of $500 bail for trial.

NEW JERSEY NEWS.

Drug Clerk Whilden Further Held for Causing Little Willie's Death.

Charles B. Whilden, the young Jersey City drug clerk accused of causing the death of four-year-old Willie O'Connor, stilling in jail until New Year's Day, Justice Stirling having reserved his decision after to-day's hearing.

Druggist Hartnett, at whose store on Montgomery street Whilden made his mistake of labeling, testified that Wednesday afternoon Mrs. O'Connor had left Dr. Good's prescription at the store, and called later that there was no doubt of his ultimate recovery. It was denied that his mind is permanently affected and Commissioner Porter did not believe that it was seriously affected at all, preferring to believe, as he said, that the entire mental trouble was merely a nervous attack.

Commissioner Porter said when told of the story: "It is not true that Dr. McDonald is insane, permanently or otherwise."

"He is sick at his home on Ward's Island!"

"The Commissioners of Charities and Correction did not try to keep the fact from the public."

"Dr. McDonald is no more insane than I am."

"The story that he is untrue."

Dr. McDonald has suffered from malaria lately and a cutaneous disorder.

If he is insane nothing is known about it by the Commissioners of Charities and Correction.

IT WAS AT COL. FELLOWS'S REQUEST.

He Asked Gov. Hill for a Special Term of Oyer and Terminer to Try the Boatmen.

Col. Fellows to-day made public a letter which he mailed to Gov. Hill, Dec. 18.

The letter recited the fact that a number of indicted bribe-givers and bribe-takers had long awaited trial, owing to the need of a court in which to try them.

He therefore petitioned Gov. Hill to convene a special term of the Court of Oyer and Terminer to sit from Jan. 21 until March 1.

CORRALLED THE WIDOW AND HER WEALTH.

As Alleged New Yorker Languehling in a Canadian Dugout.

Some man declaring himself as one Lloyd, claiming to be from New York, and avowing his profession as that of a Wall street broker, has been cutting up in that limbo of Gothamites, Montreal.

He is reported to have discovered a Canadian widow with wealth galore. Her name was Henry and the man yclept Lloyd turned her from a blue berry into Mrs. Lloyd.

Having acquired the widow and her boodle he proceeded to misuse both.

He squandered his money among the New York contingent in Montreal, made up of those illustrious exiles, John Keenan and his brother boodlers.

Lloyd had boodled in a different way from them, but they had many points of sympathy, and they were all in the same boat.

He is now locked up in a Canadian dugout.

Among the Lloyds in Wall street and its vicinity all were at their posts to-day, and none knew of one of their names, broker and Montrealer.

Probably the name is an assumed one.

MAYOR GLEASON HOLDS 'EM.

THE MEN WHO HINDERED HIM YESTERDAY ON TRIAL TO-DAY.

He Decides that They Have Committed a Felony and that the Corporation Counsel Knows Under What Section of the Code It Is—The Prisoners, After Some Little Difficulty, Manage to Get Bail.

Lord Mayor Patrick Jerome Gleason, clad in the ermine of the chief magistracy of Long Island City, sat in judgment on five of his subjects in his court over a meat market this morning.

Patrick Jerome Harrigan, his Commissioner of Public Works, was present as complainant, and the prisoners were the five employees of the Long Island Railroad Company arrested yesterday by Police Sergeant Davey and Officer Wheeler, of Police Commissioner Patrick Jerome Daly's squad.

The men were Engineer George H. Steinman, Driller John Brady, Switchman Patrick Quinn and brakemen James Nelson and Charles Dougherty, and they were supported by ex-Assemblyman James Allen, of the law firm of Hinsdale & Sprague.

They were the men who manned the engine and train which was kept running on the tracks yesterday in front street where the combative Mayor and a gang of men were tearing down an obnoxious fence and anxious to tear up the track, which the Mayor declares to be an obstruction to a public thoroughfare.

They were the men who were charged with the destruction of the City. The story was told in THE EVENING WORLD.

Mr. Allen asked in court: "Mr. Mayor, we have not seen the complaint in this case; what is the charge against these men? What are you going to try them for?"

"To which the Court replied: "I am going to try them for a felony. I don't know the sections of the Penal Code under which the charge is brought, but Corporation Counsel Walter J. Foster would know if he was here."

"Then I deny your jurisdiction to try a felony," replied the lawyer, "on the ground that you cannot sit as a Court of Special Sessions."

"I thought that I settled that point last Summer," remarked the Court calmly.

The complaint was read by a clerk to the Court. It charged that the defendants "did wrongfully and maliciously back up a locomotive and a number of cars, the property of the Long Island Railroad Company, on front street, a public street or thoroughfare, between Third and Fourth streets, in said city, while said Commissioner of Public Works was at work with a number of men on said street, thereby endangering the life of said Commissioner of Public Works and his workmen, and obstructing a public thoroughfare and interrupting said workmen and hindering them from their work."

During the reading the Court passed good-natured remarks upon the conduct of the defendants, and the Mayor and lawyer citizens, summoned to court as jurors.

At its conclusion he said: "If you want to waive examination, I suppose I might let you go, but the right, and I hold the prisoners for the Grand Jury, for according to the evidence I would hold them anyway. I fix bail at $500 each."

The men were taken to the Tombs, where they were held in the same cell as the men who were arrested at Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn, selling tickets good on the Kings County Elevated Road and the East River Bridge into New York.

IS SHE STARVING HERSELF?

Mamie Wood Positively Refuses to Partake of Food.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
NEWBERG, N. Y., Dec. 29.—Mamie Wood, who played so important a part in the Schoonmaker tragedy, is at the hospital in this city still. She is willing to be interviewed, but the physicians are not satisfied that she is yet sufficiently recovered from her attack of hysteria to permit it.

Mrs. Wood, the mother, was with Mamie five hours last evening and to-day has been in attendance at her bedside aiding the regular nurse.

Mamie is self-willed. When inclined, she will converse with the attendant or the physician in response to questions. At other times she maintains a determined silence.

To-day she took a notion to rest in bed with her head under the pillow, and she did so, and it was only when compelled to do so that she could be induced to change her position.

The visit of the mother to the bedside of the daughter was not attended with any unusual scene. In fact, Mamie did very little talking, and did not seem overjoyed at the presence of her mother.

Mrs. Wood says she is afraid Mamie will again attempt suicide, and that is the reason she has determined to stay by the bedside.

When Mamie is considered to be sufficiently recovered her mother will take her home, and as soon as possible change her abode.

Last night a woman was brought to the hospital with her hand badly shattered, having been struck by the explosion of a cartridge she was pecking open with a pin. Some of the attendants mentioned the shooting in the presence of Mamie, who was severely excited, and for a time it was feared she would again go into convulsions, but the spasms passed away and she rested peacefully all night.

She has been given only a small piece of toast since entering the hospital and declines food.

KILRAIN'S BUSINESS-LIKE EPISTLE.

Fac-Simile of His Type-Written Acceptance of John L.'s Challenge.

EDITOR CLIPPER.

Dear Sir:—

In reply to Mr. John L. Sullivan's challenge to meet me in the arena for $10,000 a side and the championship of the world, please state that I am ready to meet Mr. Sullivan to battle for $10,000 a side and the Police Gazette Diamond Belt, which represents the championship of the world.

To prove that I am in earnest and mean business, my friend and backer has deposited $5000 to-day with the proprietor of the Clipper; who, I am willing, shall be the final stakeholder. Myself or representatives will be ready to meet Mr. Sullivan or his representatives any day they name, giving me due notice outside the jurisdiction of the United States to arrange a match.

Yours,
John L. Kilrain

NOT A WORD OF THE SAMANA.

THE LAST HOPE OF HER SAFETY GIVEN UP TO-DAY.

No tidings brought by the Prinz Mauritz to-day—It is Probable that She Went Down in a Storm Off Cape Hatteras—Capt. James and His Wife, Supercargo Leader and Eighteen Sailors Supposed to Be Lost.

The steamship Prinz Mauritz arrived at this port to-day from Port-au-Prince, but brought no tidings of the ill-fated steamship Samana, which left here on the 22d of November with a cargo of provisions bound for Aux Cayes.

Frank C. Elliott, agent for the Samana in this city, said to-day: "Now that the Prinz Mauritz has arrived without bringing any news I have lost all hope."

The Samana probably foundered off Cape Hatteras on the 25th of November during that terrific gale. It is concluded.

The Samana was commanded by Capt. T. J. James. His wife and supercargo, A. G. Luder, were also on board, beside crew of eighteen seamen, when she started on her last voyage.

The trip between here and Aux Cayes she usually made in eight or nine days, but from the day she left this port not a word of news has been received by her.

The day after she sailed it began to blow great gusts at sea, and by the 25th of November a terrific gale was raging all along the Eastern coast.

About that time the Samana was due off Cape Hatteras, and it was there that the storm was most seriously felt.

There were reports of numerous wrecks and loss of life at sea from that vicinity, and it is now thought that the Samana and her crew were of the many that went down intact, leaving not a vestige of herself on the water to tell the tale.

The Ozama, when she sails to Morrow, will carry Remington and Winchester rifles.

The Ozama, of the Clyde line, sailing for Cape Haytian to-day, takes with her a large number of Remington and Winchester rifles consigned to the Dominican Government in addition to the armament consigned to Haytian troops.

Cape Haytien is the second port at which she will touch. Her officers anticipate no trouble from the alleged blockade, although Minister Preston shrugged his shoulders expressively when this was mentioned to him.

The Prinz Montz and George W. Clyde are expected to arrive at any time from Haytian ports.

Messrs. Austin & Lord are eagerly awaiting their arrival as they do not know what has happened to the Haytian Republic, which they say ought to have arrived here long ago.

The Captain of the Saginaw on her last trip, said he had his papers cleared for Cape Haytien, and intended to land there despite all the gunboats in Legitime's possession.

JACK, OR WHO?

Two Boys Horribly Murdered in Yorkshire, England.

Mutilated Like the Victims of Whitechapel.

Has the Ripper Changed His Base of Operations?

Perhaps the Lads Were Killed by Some Drunken Roughs.

Arrest of a Milkman Who is Believed to Be the Fiend.

(BY CABLE TO THE PRESS NEWS ASSOCIATION.)
LONDON, Dec. 29.—News comes from Bradford this morning of a horrible murder so similar in its appalling details to the villainy of the Whitechapel fiend as to lead to the supposition that "Jack the Ripper" has changed his scene of operations or that some murderous maniac has been imitating his work.

The victim in this case, however, was a boy only eight years of age, who was found this morning in a stable, shockingly mutilated. His ears, nose, legs and arms had been cut off, the body had been disembowelled, and the severed parts stuffed into the gory cavity.

As was the case in the Whitechapel murders, the perpetrator of this new horror left no trace behind him.

Bradford this morning is in a turmoil of mingled terror and excitement. There is but one topic of discussion, and the streets in the vicinity of the stable where the boy's mutilated body was discovered are filled with an excited multitude.

LATER.—The boy's name was John Gill and he was last seen coasting on the ice with a number of youthful companions.

One theory is that the murder was committed by some drunken lads whose minds had become diseased by reading newspaper accounts of the Whitechapel crimes.

LATER.—A milkman has been arrested on suspicion of having committed the crime. The murdered boy had occasionally accompanied him on his rounds. The prisoner was the first to recognize the remains.

It is certain that the body was placed in the outhouse between the hours of 4 and 7 this morning.

Bradford, York County, England, is a borough situated on a branch of the Leeds and Liverpool Canal, eight miles west of Leeds. The town is built entirely of stone. Its streets are mostly narrow, but well paved and lighted. It is the principal seat of the worsted and stuff manufactures in England, and the great market for wool. The population is about one hundred and fifty thousand.

ANOTHER BOY FOUND MURDERED.

His Body Found Within Nine Miles of the Place of the First Murder.

(BY CABLE TO THE PRESS NEWS ASSOCIATION.)
LONDON, Dec. 29.—Scarcely have people begun to recover from the shock of the first than they are horrified by the report of another boy murder.

The body of a second boy, horribly mutilated, has been found at Kiliwhob, near Keighley.

No clue to the murderer in this case has been found.

The police are searching the country around, and they are assisted by volunteer parties.

All the railway stations are watched.

Keighley, York County, England, is nine miles northwest of Bradford, in a thriving cloth manufacturing town of about 20,000 inhabitants. This town, like Bradford, is almost wholly built of stone, the streets are well paved and lighted with gas. Keighley contains a grammar school, court-house and a mechanic's institute. The Leeds and Liverpool Canal runs through the town.
