HOOK "NOT IN" THE FIGHT.

JIMMY LARKIN WAS TOO NIMBLE FOR THE ENGLISHMAN.

The Scottish-American Club Preparing to Celebrate the Fourth—No Danger of Preventing the Sullivan-Kilrain Fight—The Mince-Candy Wristmen Meet Tomorrow—Mike Cushing Is Eager for a Battle.

Jimmy Larkin won his battle against Bill Hook in a center. A right-handed swing on the jaw in the second round was the lullaby which sent the Englishman off into a nap...

And yet, Hook has a record of victories won in England as long as a Quaker meeting. Larkin is an exceedingly clever boxer, as anyone with half an eye could see.

The Scottish-American Athletic Club has arranged for the celebration of the fourth anniversary of the glorious Fourth at Caledonian Park.

It is the unanimous opinion of prominent sporting men of this city that the fight will not prevent the Sullivan-Kilrain battle being fought in Louisiana.

This afternoon and to-morrow the Kings County Wheelmen will speed their steel steeds about the track at Washington Park.

Among the very large number of entries for the Adelphi Athletic Club games to-morrow at Lenox park, the following are named.

The Belmont and Dwyer stables are certainly bagging most of the prizes at this season. Blood will tell, and the fine quality of blood in the Belmont and Dwyer stables is telling a tale of many victories.

Mike Cushing is disappointed at not getting on a match with some good man. He wanted to meet Austin Gibbons, the clever Patterson lad.

At the intercollegiate games at the Berkeley Oval this year the record of the Harvard team is not so brilliant as in previous years.

The New York Athletic Club will be represented July 4 on the Schuylkill by a senior or four-oared crew, in what is called the "Peoples' Regatta."

The next eight-oared shell races to attract attention in this vicinity will be those for the Staten Island Cup. The New York Athletics cannot, of course, compete, as they announce their intention of disbanding.

W. C. Dohm is probably the greatest medium-distance runner in the country. His performance in the quarter-mile last evening was a record of 47.8, made on a straight track.

A number of prominent business gentlemen have organized a swimming club, to be called the Rheingold Amateur Swimming Club.

DASH THE PUBLIC!

That's Practically the Answer of the Wretched Huckleberry Road.

Director Cauldwell Makes a Defiant Statement for the Company.

More Complaints from Fordhamites Who Suffer in the Cars.

Director William Cauldwell, who lives at West Farms, has been the Secretary and Treasurer of the Harlem Bridge, Morrisania and Fordham Railroad Company, otherwise known as the "Huckleberry Road," since 1924.

When his attention was called to the bitter complaints which the residents of the Annexed District have been making in regard to the management of the upper portion of the route, it had condition and lack of accommodations for the public, Mr. Cauldwell said very emphatically:

"The people who write such things are a set of liars. They are cranks who think they know better how to run another man's business than he does himself. It is all nonsense about lack of accommodations."

"Why should not the cars be run on schedule time instead of to suit the convenience of drivers or starters? Every other bridge runs through to Fordham. On Sunday every car goes through. What better accommodations do they want. It's all a lie about their overcrowding the cars. I wish it was so."

"This road has been trying to make money ever since it was built. It never paid a dividend till three years ago. Last year it paid $100,000. It is now worth $1,000,000. That is what the railroad has done for them, and now they are complaining and writing to the papers about it."

"What can it do? It hasn't any money and the accommodations are good enough as they are. They don't need any better. People who say they don't know what they are talking about."

"The San Francisco girls have been warned not to salute Mr. Kealey too violently. His clothes, says a newspaper of that city, have been so boisterously treated by the New York damsels that they cannot honestly hold together much longer."

The "Clover" people will have no vacation this year. Col. McCaull will not close for two weeks. The opera is doing too well to ruthlessly have its clock broken.

There is a growing disinclination among managers this season to engaging the services of husband and wife. Harry Lay, it appears, positively declines to engage a married couple. The reason is obvious. If a woman quarrels with a member of the company, as women have occasionally been known to do, the manager loses two people.

BLOTS FROM JOKERS' PENS.

FUNNY SQUIBS FOUND IN THE VAST FIELD OF HUMOR.

The Rest of a Camera Fiend. [From Judge.]

Mr. Druplate (to entire stranger)—Beg pardon, but would you mind turning your head a little?

Miss Crisp—I think that as I have evidently turned yours that will answer for today.

A Woodland Melody. [From Punch.]

The fisherman sang in the mountain pass, As he gaily went to the fishing-place, And his thought and his song were both of bass.

The Girls of Brooklyn. [From Punch.]

Mr. Gramercy Park (visiting in Brooklyn)—I suppose if we take a walk in Prospect Park we'll meet a lot of nice Brooklyn girls, eh?

Mr. St. James Place—Oh, yes, the park is full of them on Sunday. They have a half day off, you know.

Carried it with Him. [From Punch.]

He was just in from Guthrie, and was telling of the settlement of the new country. "Have they got the landmarks pretty well up?" he was asked.

"Oh, yes," he replied, "but we have had to use some powder and shot."

"Your right ear seems to have lost a piece of flesh," another suggested.

"Yes, that's one of the landmarks."

Beautiful About It. [From the Boston Transcript.]

They were gathered sorrowfully around the couch of the poor fellow who had been smashed to pieces under the hammer of a pile-driver.

"Do you think he will recover?" asked a young lady, possibly his sister, perhaps one who had a modest and decent relation.

"With a mighty effort the wounded man raised his head," "Doctor," he said, "I should like to get well, but when I think of the hole I should be going about for ever through life and dragging over my narrow escape, I feel it is best that I should go."

Her Choice of Craft. [From the Boston Crafts.]

They were sitting on the piazza that faced the sea, watching the white-sailed yachts as they crossed the moon's track, when suddenly he said:

"I think it must be delightful sailing on such a lovely night."

"Oh, yes, I should think."

"I wish I owned one for your sake, I would take you sailing every night."

"That would be just lovely!"

"What a lovely idea! Would you prefer a steam yacht or a sailing one?"

"I think," she murmured, as she glanced around, "I think I would like a little smack."

He Had Suffered. [From the Boston Crafts.]

"What's the matter?" asked one traveling man of another whom he met walking on crutches.

"I sprained my ankle."

"That's bad. Have you?"

"Yes, I've tried Smit's oil."

"No, but?"

"Yes, and I've soaked it with vinegar and clay. There are several molds of my foot in my shoes."

"That may be, but?"

"I've had a rubber bandage on it, too."

"No doubt; I was merely going to—"

"But I have. I've rubbed it with all the liniments ever made, and put porous plasters on it, too."

"Well, but have you?"

"Time to go with me and get a cigar."

Prepared only by Fleming Bros., Pittsburg, Pa. Look out for an imitation made in St. Louis, which is often passed off on innocent purchasers as ours.

he stored duty to accept it. But his own mind said all thoughts of self. I have been in your country in times of peace as well as in times of war. God bless you, thank you for the honor you have conferred upon me, and I am glad that the salary may be small. I will not accept it. It is not a favored office, Colonel," explained one of his admirers.

"Wha-ah! no salary? Then I'm dumber if I accept it!"

Not His Making. [From Punch.]

"Uncle Ben, your son was fooling around my hencoop last night, and I came yonder catching him. He had his hand on a chicken, but let it go when he heard me."

"How did you see he had a hand on a chicken and let it go?"

"I did."

REMARKABLE CURE.

For two years I had rheumatism so bad that I could not walk and confined me to my bed for a whole year during which time I had no other relief than the use of medicine, which did not even relieve my pain, but only reduced in high fever to a low fever, and I was reduced to a mere shadow of my former self, only to give way.

Finally I took Swift's Specific, and used it for two months, and I was cured. I was reduced to a mere shadow of my former self, only to give way.

But here the speaker broke off in dismay. Susie had burst from her with a sound that checked speech. "I think you are very, very cruel," she sobbed out. "I hate to hear you say that. If it had done something mean and degrading, something to be eternally ashamed of. As if he had been—been ridiculous. You know he is nothing of the kind. He would never think he offers us the very best as he supposed. It is likely he should know? I am sure who know. Why should he know? He never goes near a theatre, and I like him for it. I like him for it, and for doing his best. He is better than if he had sent me the finest invitation in the world. And I would rather go with him there than with any other man elsewhere. Oh, if it really were true, I should be so glad. It would be so good, altogether too good to be true!"
