The Third District Civil Court, over which Judge Deane presides, is full of Celestials this morning, the occasion being a momentous dispute between two brothers Pon, one a pig-tailed heathen and the other a short-haired and righteous Christian.

Chin Bon Pon is twenty-three years of age and has been in the wash-wash business in 'Elicon and New York for three years. A little more than a year ago he brought his younger brother, Chin Yon Pon, over, despite the exclusion bill, and the youth has worked for his elder brother in his laundry.

But Chin Pon was thrifty. He became a member of Mrs. Charles M. Earle's class in the Chinese Sunday-school, connected with Dr. Virgin's church. Mr. Morris Park, and saved his money, while Chin Yon was a wild and dissolute young blood, spending his $2 a week in riotous living.

Chin Pon concluded to go home to China, see his aged parents and swell around and brag among his stay-at-home countrymen, and to do so he purchased a ticket for New York, packed his grip-sack and put money in his purse. There was over $200 in the purse, and Chin Pon intended to bid farewell to New York Wednesday.

But man proposes and legal processes dispose something. Chin Bon's voyage was interrupted before it was begun by City Marshal John Salmon, who rudely waken him from his last nap in his little room in the laundry, 318 Pearl street, at 4 o'clock in the morning, and on an affidavit of the order of arrest issued on an affidavit of that younger brother that he owed him $185 back salary, and was about to decamp with intent to defraud him.

A dozen female missionaries were so sorry for the Christian Chin Bon that they nearly beat him with sandwiches and coffee at the court-house office, where he was confined till court opened and Mr. Earle's class members from Harlem to go his bail for $50.

The trial was to-day, hence the Celestial atmosphere at court. There was Joseph M. Sullivan, Brooklyn's court interpreter, and Hine Kin, of the Presbyterian Mission in Clinton place, ready to interpret the Celestials, but again the missionaries stepped in and proved how wise it is for an almost-eyed Oriental citizen to employ Chin Yon as interpreter. The misguided Chin Yon to withdraw his suit.

There was a good deal of grumbling about the suit, but Mr. Earle's class members for the unhappy Chin Yon, but the elder and wronged brother finally prevailed and Chin Yon was waded all his money, and that he really had no claim on Chin Bon, who has been a father to him.

Chin Bon was marched out of court in the escort of Mrs. Solomon, one of his good missionary friends, who had been in New York, wandered delectably away, the centre of a gesticulating, chattering flock of his fellow founders.

Ex-Alderman Louis Wendel's friends in the Seventeenth were treated to a genuine surprise Monday in the discovery that he is a bankrupt. Mr. Wendel figured in his ballistics as a wealthy and influential man.

He had served various terms in the Board of Aldermen, was always flush of money at election times and was a member of the notorious 1884 Boodle board.

He was accused with Cleary, McQuade, Jaehne, O'Neil, Shiel, Pearson, Bell, Kirk, Farley, Fink and the other boodlers, with having taken his $15,000 share of Jake Sharp's $100,000 fund, and was exposed to have netted other prizes in the political field.

Besides this he owned Wendel's Assembly Rooms in West Forty-fourth street, near Ninth avenue, Lion Park and Elm Park, at Seventh avenue and Fifty-fifth street, each of which was believed to bring him in a $100,000 income.

He was also captain of a company in the National Guard, whose headquarters were at his Assembly Rooms.

Now the dream is dispelled, and Mr. Wendel's Ex-Alderman friends are searching in vain for property. Capt. Wendel died in 1887, and one of his sons, George Goulet, was believed to have made a discovery as to Mr. Wendel's financial condition, but little less than startling.

Instead of his owning Wendel's Assembly Rooms, Elm Park and Lion Park, they find he has no tangible interest in those properties.

But he owned the Assembly Rooms to Edward Bauer, formerly his hotel waiter.

John G. Jensen, once a driver on the Broadway horse line and now a street car driver, told Wendel's attorney, together with Jacob Barbary and Fritz Mann, have papers which show that they purchased the Lion Park many months ago.

Ex-Alderman Wendel says he has sold his property for a benefit of his creditors.

He attributes his financial troubles to the contemplated entering a judgment for a large sum against him, he explained. "If that man had arrested me, I would have avoided all my assets, and the rest of my creditors would not have received a penny. They resolved to raise all the money possible to give all creditors an equal chance to get back part of their money. So I had to sell out."

He said he still owned $40,000 in cash on an judgment in the Broadway boodle case, and his bondsmen hold a security a chattel mortgage for the amount of the bond, covering all his possessions.

Clear and cool at Cleveland,
Clear and pleasant at Pittsburg
So comes the worry as to the weather at the two points where the great issue of the present base ball campaign is to be settled to-day.

It is the last day of the National League season.

The leaders in the great race for the pennant—our own Giants and the doxy men who are the pride of the Hub—are but two points apart, and the championship for 1890 hangs in the air, the result of to-day's contests.

If the Giants win at Cleveland, the pennant stays with New York another year, no matter what befal the Boston at Pittsburg.

If the Giants lose, only a triumphant rally by Manager Hanson's Smoky City contingent can hold Boston in second place.

The weather intimates its disposition to keep out of the issue. With no interference from that quarter, the issue lies all with the men who play ball.

The probable batteries for this afternoon are as follows: Boston, Beane and Sweeney.
Pittsburg, Rice and Galloway.
The race between the two great clubs is the hottest and most interesting that has excited the interest of the baseball fans since the Chicago-New York crisis of 1887, when two games between the clubs resulted in a draw, the Giants winning the first and the Red Sox the second.

Records of pennant-winners in previous years since New York joined the League are as follows:
1881, Boston, 93, 25, 943
1882, Boston, 87, 25, 720
1883, Chicago, 87, 25, 720
1884, Boston, 115, 25, 720
1885, Boston, 97, 25, 637
1886, Boston, 84, 25, 641
1887, Boston, 84, 25, 641
1888, Boston, 84, 25, 641

The close second place records during the same period were those of New York in 1885, with 85 games won, 37 lost, percentage, 70.8, and of Detroit in 1887, with 87 games won, 30 lost, percentage, 74.7.

THE BOMB FIEND.
His Identity Still Remains a Dark Secret to the Police.

The mystery surrounding the identity of the person or persons who smuggled the dynamite into Scanlan's slaughter house on Thursday, Sept. 10, is still a dark secret to the police.

The police of the West Thirty-seventh street police station have apparently come to a standstill in the case. They have accomplished nothing, and all that has been given to the public was unearched by reporters.

THE EVENING WORLD man went to the station this morning.

"Have any arrests been made in that case at Scanlan's yet?" was asked.

"No," replied the Sergeant at the desk.

"Do you know of anything new in the case?"

"Nothing whatever."

The police say the detectives are at work, but nobody seems to know what they have done.

The bomb was exploded in Scanlan's place to destroy life there can be no doubt.

In the night machine was tipped probably to go off at 8 o'clock. It exploded ten minutes later. The two brothers, James and Michael Scanlan, usually arrive at the slaughter at 8 o'clock, one in a horse-drawn wagon.

The fiend who placed it there at no doubt thought that the police would be called for.

The bomb was placed in the place in the office and only a fortunate lateness prevented the bomb from destroying life and making the dynamite too costly.

Now for a theory as to the identity of the person who caused the bomb to be placed there.

Scanlan's say that they have no enemies, barring the men who struck at his place last February.

"Police points her finger very strongly at these men. Mr. Scanlan knows that they have been annoying him and his workmen ever since the strike."

They have threatened, captured and entreated his workmen to leave, offering to pay them money to quit, and when the police have been called to force the Scanlans.

Falling in the line, they have assailed the workmen in the slaughter frequently. They never failed to go home.

Only last week one of the strikers drove a brick at one of Scanlan's truck-drivers, Pat Murphy, but the latter carried the striker so effectively with a police club that he has not been able to throw a brick since.

Michael Scanlan said to an Evening World reporter this morning: "I am in favor of organized labor and would like to see wages doubled all over the country. But when they try to intimidate a man, exploit his business, attack and prevent other workmen from earning their living, then I say they can be counted on for nothing."

Mr. Scanlan suspects two or three men, but he does not name any. All of the strikers belong to the Police and Edison associations, and a skillful detective, it would seem ought to have no difficulty in finding some one to question.

USE CHLOROFORM.
Burglars Stupely a Family of Four Persons in Elizabeth.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)
ELIZABETH, N. J., Oct. 5.—One of the most daring robberies ever known was perpetrated here early this morning.

The house of Mrs. James Ross, corner of Niles street and Second avenue, was entered by burglars, who used extraordinary means to effect their end.

The entire household of four persons were chloroformed, and the house was looted from cellar to garret.

The burglars, who were armed with clubs, carried off the silverware and other articles to the value of $2,000.

Mrs. Ross says she would not face three times the value of her goods taken as many would.

The police have been unable to find any clue to the robbers.

THE LITTLE WOMAN WAS EXCITED.
She Thought She Had Taken Poison, but It Was Only Two Much Whiskey.

A pretty little woman, attired in a handsome black walking suit and wearing jewelry, hastily entered the West Thirtieth street police station last evening and in a very excited manner told Sgt. Lane that she had taken a large dose of arsenic in mistake for medicine. The young woman carried a russet leather satchel, from which she drew two small packages, each of which contained some powder. One of the packages was labeled arsenic and the other, the young woman said, contained some medicine given to her by a physician to prevent blood-poisoning.

She said that while in a restaurant in West Twenty-seventh street she took the poison in mistake for her medicine. She said her name was Mrs. Charlotte Elliott, aged twenty years, and that she had taken the arsenic five days ago to cure her husband, who she said was an actor. Upon being questioned further she said her husband was playing in Philadelphia and had promised to meet her here, but had failed to keep his appointment. The sergeant summoned an ambulance from New York Hospital and instructed the doctor to bring a stomach-pump.

The woman was in a good condition when the doctor arrived, and after a careful examination, he said he was doubtful as to whether she had taken any poison, but was certain that she had been drinking. She was taken to the hospital, where the stomach-pump was vigorously applied. No trace of the poison was found, and she was in excellent condition.

The doctors notified the police that she was all right, and were told to allow her to depart. She was accordingly discharged, and left the hospital, after promising to return at once to her home. The police do not believe her story.
