

NUMEROUS AND HUMOROUS RECIPES
ARE RECEIVED BY
THE EVENING WORLD
SHOWING HOW TO KEEP
A HUSBAND AT HOME EVENINGS.

THE EVENING WORLD

PRICE ONE CENT.

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1890.

AVERAGE NUMBER OF "WANTS"
PER DAY, OCTOBER, 1889:
253.
WORLD "WANTS" ARE OF GREAT VALUE.
AVERAGE NUMBER OF "WANTS"
PER DAY, OCTOBER, 1889:
2,296.
PRICE ONE CENT.

FOURTH MILLION.

Pressing on Towards Another Big Mark
in the World's Fair Guarantee Fund.

A Worthy Example Set by the Working People.

"The World's" Canvassers Have Been Pledged the Sum of $163,968.

The laboring class have set a brilliant example to the wealthy merchants and capitalists of this city by the manner in which they have come forward with their subscriptions to the World's Fair Guarantee Fund in response to the earnest appeals.

Thursday, Oct. 24	$200,000
Friday, Oct. 25	201,267
Saturday, Oct. 26	202,534
Sunday, Oct. 27	203,801
Monday, Oct. 28	205,068
Tuesday, Oct. 29	206,335
Wednesday, Oct. 30	207,602
Thursday, Oct. 31	208,869
Friday, Nov. 1	210,136
Saturday, Nov. 2	211,403
Sunday, Nov. 3	212,670
Monday, Nov. 4	213,937
Tuesday, Nov. 5	215,204
Wednesday, Nov. 6	216,471
Thursday, Nov. 7	217,738
Friday, Nov. 8	219,005
Saturday, Nov. 9	220,272
Sunday, Nov. 10	221,539
Monday, Nov. 11	222,806
Tuesday, Nov. 12	224,073
Wednesday, Nov. 13	225,340
Informally pledged	20,000
Grand total	$1,639,680

Foremost in the ranks is THE WORLD'S RECORD of subscriptions, as the books this morning showed by the following:

Previously acknowledged $137,318

W. T. Bedell, transfer, No. 62 Water st., pier 38 E. R., 2,000

No. 624 Washington st., 2,000

George E. & C. W. Adams, 1,000

Madison ave., 1,000

Valentine Cies, Orange County, 1,000

Dairy office, No. 60 East 109th st., 1,000

Berman Haul, builder, 114th st., near 9th ave., 100

Cooney Brothers, liquor, No. 2079 3d ave. and 92d st. and 3d ave., 100

B. F. Brogan, wines and liquor, No. 2144 3d ave., 1,000

H. H. & C. W. Adams, 1,000

A. Blaeser, delicatessen, No. 1938 3d ave., 50

B. K. Bryson, decorators, No. 237 East 14th st., 500

C. Scholz, hardware dealer, No. 1988 3d ave., 500

Charles Beckman, liquor dealer, 2181 5th ave., 250

Green & Feltman, Presidential election, 124 East 110th st., 250

S. Elkan & Co., butchers, 18 E 23d ave., 100

W. Gayer Dominick, No. 74 Broadway, 500

Total $143,268

INSANE AND LOST.

Guy D. Wells Found Aimlessly Wandering the Streets.

Member of a Well-Known Firm and Half a Century in Business.

The Loss of Valuable Property by Fire Turned His Brain.

"No, sir! the score is wrong." "What's that?" asked Policeman Newman, sharply. "What's wrong?" "Well-dressed old man had walked out of the fog at Grand street and South Fifth avenue, where the officer stood leaning against a lamp-post at 1 o'clock this a. m., and told him that something on his post was wrong.

The stranger looked straight ahead into the darkness and fog, apparently not noticing the officer.

"It was there," he said, "but it is lost. I know it is wrong."

"Old man," said the policeman, "you'd better come with me. I guess you have lost yourself. We will see if we cannot find it."

The old man went along willingly enough, talking glibly all the way to the Prince street police station about music and scores and the American Institute Fair.

When his pockets were searched the police found a printed envelope with the address of the well-known firm of Vanburgh, Wells & Co., 18 South 5th st., and 110 Fulton street, dealers in printers' material.

Then the old gentleman said that he was Guy D. Wells, but when he was taken into the police station he refused to give his name or address.

The sergeant found his address in the directory at Lafayette avenue, Brooklyn, and sent over there.

In the early morning Charles Wells, a lumber merchant of Greenpoint, came over and claimed the lost man as his father-in-law.

He was indeed the Wells of the well-known firm of Vanburgh, Wells & Co. A few years ago he had been driven down town that he had been in business in the same building in Dutch street for forty years.

In a fire a year ago it lost much valuable property, designs and patterns that could not be replaced, and Mr. Wells's brain was affected by the misfortune.

He is a life member of the American Institute Association, and last night expressed a determination to go to the fair.

His family tried vainly to keep him in the house, took care of him, chain and money. He will in fact, and his son William eventually went with him. They were separated in the case, as they were.

The old man having no money must have wandered all the way down from the fair building to South 5th avenue and Grand street. When found there he was in the heart of one of the toughest sections of the city.

WHICH IS THE BETTER?

WAS IT SHERIDAN? CURB MUSIC AGAN. OFF AMID THE FOG.

Perhaps Another Policeman Entered Mrs. Wechselbaum's Apartments.

Pending examination on the serious charges which have been made against him by Mrs. Rebecca Wechselbaum and Miss Fannie Dahn, of 80 Broome street, Policeman Peter E. Sheridan, of the Delancey street squad, has been suspended from duty by Capt. Webb.

The woman has testified in court that Policeman Sheridan entered their apartments in the basement of 80 Broome street at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning and grossly insulted them in the presence of Mrs. Wechselbaum's husband. He was in uniform at the time.

When Sheridan was summoned before them they identified him as the man. Although Sheridan denied the charges vigorously, the children who have been mourning the loss of their favorite street musician need no more but little longer, for the Aldermen, whose cars have been listening to the voice of the people, are now anxious to undo the work of last month, excluding these poor players from the city.

Aldermen May Hear the People's Cry for the Return of the Musicians.

Conditions Proposed Under Which They May Resume Playing.

Great Hardship Caused to the Poor by the Existing Ordinance.

"The voice of the people is the voice of God," runs the old motto, and it seems probable that the children who have been mourning the loss of their favorite street musicians need no more but little longer, for the Aldermen, whose cars have been listening to the voice of the people, are now anxious to undo the work of last month, excluding these poor players from the city.

City of New York and Teutonic Start on Another Race.

Another and denser fog hung over New York and its surrounding waters this morning, and it was with great difficulty that the pilots guided their craft without mishap.

The worst of the fog was seen down the bay, all vessels coming in and going out, as well as the Staten Island ferry-boats, crept along at a very slow rate of speed, and residents of Staten Island who came up to this city to transact business were greatly delayed.

In spite of the fog, however, the Inman line steamer City of New York and the Teutonic, of the White Star line, started on another race across the ocean.

Both vessels left their piers at the foot of Christopher street within a quarter of an hour of each other. The City of New York got away at 8:50 and the White Star vessel at 9:05.

Both vessels carried a large number of passengers. Among those on the City of New York were Manager Alexander Gumpstok, of the Academy of Music, Ted Marks and Mrs. Charles Wadsworth.

The Teutonic carried Sir Lyon Playfair, Lady Playfair and the Hon. Mrs. G. G. Curzon, of the British Embassy, and a large number of other distinguished passengers.

The Teutonic beat her competitor over on their last trip between Queenstown and this port by twenty minutes.

The present trip will be no exception as the City of New York will undoubtedly try to regain her lost honors.

As the two vessels approached Staten Island the fog became so dense that it was difficult to pick their way along. New York proceeded so slowly that the Staten Island ferry-boats thought she had come to anchor.

The stormy weather, however, says that the fog will continue until a cold snap strikes us.

It is raising all through the lower lake region and Southern States, and there is snow in the Northwest.

The storm is moving east and will probably reach here this afternoon.

The cold wave is also approaching this way and may reach us in a day or two, he says.

PAUL GROLPH IN THE TOLLS AGAIN.

The Ex-Clerk, Ex-Electrician and Ex-Reporter Accused of Theft.

Paul J. Groolph, journalist, inventor, clerk and operator on a small scale, is in trouble again and is a prisoner in Bellevue Hospital. Groolph was arrested Monday evening at his residence, No. 102 Greenwich avenue, by an officer from the Harlem Police Court, and is accused by Henry V. Kingsbury, No. 2356 Eighth avenue, of having sold a gold watch to a club of men and appropriating the proceeds. Groolph had taken the watch from a man named Kuren, of the police force, believed that the prisoner was guilty of making a mistake in giving him the benefit of the doubt and had him sent to a hospital.

FIGHTERS IN 'FRISCO.

The Dempsey-Mitchell Meeting—Joe McLaughlin's Challenge.

A despatch from San Francisco says the California Athletic Club last night offered a purse of $3,000 for Dempsey and Young Mitchell and gave the men until Monday to decide when they will fight.

The club suggested the date of March 29, but Dempsey would like to have it earlier.

The men are old friends—indeed, Mitchell was a pupil of Dempsey, and both declare that they have no ill feeling, but have been forced to make a match.

The Occidental Club is expected to offer a purse of $10,000 for a fight between Joe McLaughlin and Kilrain or Joe Lannon.

McLaughlin has already issued a challenge, providing for a $5,000 purse and $1,000 to $10,000 a side.

CANADA WILL LET JOHN IN.

The Dominion Parliament to Modify Its Chinese Restriction Act.

(SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.)

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 13.—An important meeting of the Cabinet was held yesterday. The Chinese Restriction Act, which was passed last year, is the subject of the meeting.

The act is a modification of the Chinese Restriction Act, which was passed last year. It is a modification of the Chinese Restriction Act, which was passed last year.

EXPLORES THE ANNEXED DISTRICT.

A Committee of State Senators Investigating the Needs of Property Owners.

The committee appointed by the State Senate, on request of property owners in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth wards, to investigate the needs of those districts is making another trip to-day.

Starting from the Morrisania railroad station they will explore Morrisania, Tremont, Bedford Park, Fordham, West Farms, Mount Hope, Williamsbridge and Westchester.

They will also visit the houses of some of the property owners in those sections, and the visit to the latter is the purpose of this trip.

Yesterday the committee took a muddy drive to Morrisania, North New York, Melrose, Woodstock, East Morrisania and Fort Morris. The committee consists of Senators Vowler, Arnold, Erwin, Storer and Murray.

DELEGATES OFF FOR WASHINGTON.

Where the Catholic University Dedication Occurs To-Day.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

BALTIMORE, Nov. 13.—The Catholic delegates to the dedication of the new Catholic University in Washington, D. C., are in the city, and departed for Washington this morning to attend the dedication of the new Catholic University.

An elaborate programme has been prepared for that occasion, but a pouring rain is reported at the capital city, and much of the outdoor ceremony will be prevented.

The festivities in connection with the events here closed with a grand burst of brilliancy last night, 20,000 men taking part in the splendid torchlight parade of Catholic societies and parochial schools.

The day of the morning was a day of the Congress, and the day of the morning was a day of the Congress, and the day of the morning was a day of the Congress.

RUSH FOR BANQUET TICKETS.

Nearly a Thousand Applicants for the Chamber of Commerce Dinner.

Nearly a thousand applications for 420 tickets for the Chamber of Commerce dinner, which takes place at Delmonico's next Tuesday evening, have been received by Secretary George Wilson. The hall will only accommodate 250 guests, so that many applications must be refused.

CHARLIE MITCHELL GOT MAD.

He Loosed a Bookmaker's Teeth and Was Fined $5.

(BY CABLE TO THE PRESS ASSOCIATION.)

LOSANOS, Nov. 13.—The fall of Mr. Jim Smith, late distinguished pugilist, at the hands of the colored Australian fighter, Peter Jackson, has occasioned many a heated discussion among sporting men of all classes here.

Smith had been beaten by one of these impudic bookmakers and came out of it in the hands of the police.

Bookmaker Henry Hart, a tooth-loosening pugilist in the mouth, and it cost him a fine of $5.

Meanwhile Jackson and Smith have been engaged to spar at the Westminster Aquarium, and are expected to draw big crowds.

Smith has been called all manner of names since his defeat, and even among the hangers-on of the tap-rooms is too low to add an invective against the fallen fighter.

MR. ROSENFELD'S GUEST.

A Pretty Carrier Pigeon Flies in at the Song-Writer's Windows.

While Monroe H. Rosenfeld, the popular song writer, was seated at his piano in his Brooklyn home last night a pretty carrier pigeon alighted on the window-sill, and after a brief survey of the room and its occupant flew to Mr. Rosenfeld's study, where it was found to be carrying a letter to him.

The letter was a note from a friend, and was very interesting.

Mr. Rosenfeld has been very busy lately, and has not had time to write to his friends.

The carrier pigeon was a very pretty bird, and was very tame.

Mr. Rosenfeld has been very lucky to have such a guest.

THE NEW BELFORD COMPANY.

Belford, Clarke & Co. Succeeded by a New Firm with Ample Resources.

The New Belford Company, publishers at No. 18 and 25 East Eighth street, although it occupies the quarters of the old firm of Belford, Clarke & Co., has nothing whatever to do with the latter company.

It has just started in with the brightest prospects under the management of Mr. Robert J. Belford, and has a surplus of $100,000 over its paid-up capital of $50,000.

Mr. Belford has voluntarily assumed the liabilities of the former firm to the authors whose works were published by it, and every one of them has been or will be paid in full.

GUNS IN THE RING.

Pistols Drawn on Referee Steve Brodie at a Midnight Prize-Fight.

Eleven-Round Mill Between Judge and Fowler Declared a Draw.

Fears of Police Interference Brought the Fight to a Summary Close.

In a loft connected with an east-side resort known as "The Hook," at an early hour this morning, there took place a lively mill of eleven rounds, with skin-tight gloves between Charlie Judge of this city, and Joe Fowler, the well-known ex-feather-weight champion of England.

Judge is twenty-four years old, stands 5 feet 5 inches in his stockings and weighs 120 pounds. His seconds were Charlie Carroll and Louis Leifer.

Fowler also tipped the beam at 120 pounds and stood 5 feet 3 inches high. He is about thirty years old, his interests were looked after by John Mulvihill.

Steve Brodie, the referee, called time at 11:30 p. m., and announced that the fight was for a purse of $100.

Thirty "sport" were present when the pugilist stepped into the little eight-foot ring and shook hands.

Joe Fowler carried everybody, even his friends, in the first five rounds, by the ease with which he hit his opponent. He punched him all over the ring and knocked him down fully a half-dozen times.

Judge's friends were largely in the majority, and whenever they could do so observed that they would rather see a quiet day in the ring as he fell over against them.

In the sixth round the Englishman's blood seemed to be boiling. He rained strength rapidly, and the spectators saw that the fight was not over by any means.

In the seventh round Fowler kept up his good beginning and got in some of his best work. Finally he succeeded in landing a terrific undercut which broke the Englishman's decision.

His friends tried to keep him going by yelling and shouting, but he became so tired that he was unable to continue.

Steve Brodie, the referee, called time at 11:30 p. m., and announced that the fight was for a purse of $100.

Thirty "sport" were present when the pugilist stepped into the little eight-foot ring and shook hands.

Joe Fowler carried everybody, even his friends, in the first five rounds, by the ease with which he hit his opponent. He punched him all over the ring and knocked him down fully a half-dozen times.

Judge's friends were largely in the majority, and whenever they could do so observed that they would rather see a quiet day in the ring as he fell over against them.

In the sixth round the Englishman's blood seemed to be boiling. He rained strength rapidly, and the spectators saw that the fight was not over by any means.

In the seventh round Fowler kept up his good beginning and got in some of his best work. Finally he succeeded in landing a terrific undercut which broke the Englishman's decision.

His friends tried to keep him going by yelling and shouting, but he became so tired that he was unable to continue.

2 O'CLOCK.

ON THE SCAFFOLD.

Joseph Hillman Hanged This Morning for the Murder of Peddler Seideman.

The Condemned Man's Remarkable Nerve Maintained to the Last.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.)

WOODBURY, N. J., Nov. 13.—Joseph Hillman, the murderer of Peddler Seideman, was hanged in the jail yard at 10:20 o'clock this morning. Death was caused by strangulation.

The condemned man walked firmly to the scaffold and retained his remarkable composure to the last.

To his lawyers this morning he repeated his confession of the crime as detailed below, fully exonerating all others from any connection with his dreadful deed.

The execution was under the charge of A. Van Hise, of Newark, and was carried out without accident.

Hillman's relatives bade him farewell last night. His wife and child came first. When they were last seen he was making a sketch of himself as he would appear swinging from the gallows, but hastily put it out of sight when they were gone.

He took his child in his arms, and for the first time broke down and sobbed bitterly. The scene was a sad one, and many eyes were wet.

Later his father came and bade him good-bye, the prisoner shaking his hand firmly, having no more to say to him.

The prisoner's sister came last. After greeting her she exclaimed:

"I will have nothing to do with it," he replied, and began singing a cantering hymn. After three stanzas he turned again to his father and burst into tears, and would say nothing further regarding the crime.

After his father had said good-bye, he was taken to the gallows, where he was hanged. He was hanged at 10:20 o'clock this morning.

His wife and child came first. When they were last seen he was making a sketch of himself as he would appear swinging from the gallows, but hastily put it out of sight when they were gone.

He took his child in his arms, and for the first time broke down and sobbed bitterly. The scene was a sad one, and many eyes were wet.

Later his father came and bade him good-bye, the prisoner shaking his hand firmly, having no more to say to him.

The prisoner's sister came last. After greeting her she exclaimed:

"I will have nothing to do with it," he replied, and began singing a cantering hymn. After three stanzas he turned again to his father and burst into tears, and would say nothing further regarding the crime.

After his father had said good-bye, he was taken to the gallows, where he was hanged. He was hanged at 10:20 o'clock this morning.

HOW DID FARMER MERRILL DIE?

Benjamin Merrill, a well-to-do farmer of Bull's Head in the town of Northfield, S. I., was found dead in the garret of his home. It was reported that he had committed suicide, while there was rumor that he had met with foul play. Coroner Wood, of Fort Richmond, took charge of the case, and Dr. W. C. Hays made an autopsy. The doctor refused to state the result of the autopsy until Friday, when the inquest will be held. It is reported that Merrill and his wife had been happily together and Merrill died in the garret of his house. Coroner Wood intimated last night that he believed Merrill died of natural causes.

CLERK DISCLOSES A CONSPIRACY.

(SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.)

YONKINGTOWN, Oct. 13.—In the famous mining case of Peter L. Kimberley, of Shearon, against Charles D. Arms, of Youngstown, in which Kimberley obtained judgment for over one million dollars, confided to an attorney, a former clerk in the employ of Kimberley, who now swears that on Friday he was committed perjury and that his evidence was part of a conspiracy to win the case and ruin Arms. The affidavit is filed in the case, which is now located at Hamilton, Canada.

OUR VAST POSTAL SERVICE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—J. Lowrie Bell, the General Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service, has submitted to the Second Assistant his report of the operations of his bureau for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1890.

The report shows that during the year service had been authorized by the Department upon 160,361 miles of railroad. Postal clerks were employed in the distribution of the mails on 132,110 miles, service on the remaining 27,251 miles having been performed by means of closed pouches, which were while in transit in the custody of the railway employees.

ITALY TALKS BUSINESS TO THE MOORS.

(BY CABLE TO THE PRESS ASSOCIATION.)

ROME, Nov. 13.—A special despatch from Rome to the Figaro announces that an Italian cruiser, with two torpedo boats, has been detached to Tangiers with an ultimatum to the Moors authorities demanding satisfaction for the insult offered to the Margrave di Cambiorgio. It is said that if the Moors refuse to satisfy the demand, the town will be bombarded.

LABOR ORGANIZATIONS TO HOLD A MEMORIAL MEETING IN HIS HONOR.

A committee of Knights of Labor and union men, appointed to arrange for a memorial mass-meeting in honor of the late William A. Horan, has issued a circular to all labor organizations in the city and its vicinity, in which Horan is mentioned for his untiring devotion to the principles of organized labor, and a rebuke is administered to the laborers who have not administered to him in his last days.

The circular is signed by the following: T. J. Ford, J. J. Bealin, Theodore Gano, J. J. Doyle, J. E. Kelly and Patrick Kelly.

Mr. Hill has issued a proclamation fixing Saturday, Nov. 30, for the special election in the Sixth District.

DEATH IN COST. MERRILL'S SQUAD.

Patrolman Augustus M. De Nye, of the West Tenth street station, died last night at his home, 708 Greenwich street. He had been thirteen years on the force.

New Health Board Janitor.

George F. Crook, a Tammany Hall man, was today appointed janitor of the Health Board, in place of Joseph P. Harris, who died a few days ago.

DEATH IN COST. MERRILL'S SQUAD.

Patrolman Augustus M. De Nye, of the West Tenth street station, died last night at his home, 708 Greenwich street. He had been thirteen years on the force.

New Health Board Janitor.

George F. Crook, a Tammany Hall man, was today appointed janitor of the Health Board, in place of Joseph P. Harris, who died a few days ago.