

TO BEAT CHICAGO.

The Subject of a $10,000,000 Guarantee Fund Under Discussion.

Five Millions Sure to Be Raised by To-Morrow.

"The World's" Triumph Over a Jealous Contemporary.

It is confidently predicted that the week will close with the World's Fair Guarantee Fund of $5,000,000 completed, and that a fair start will be made on the second $5,000,000, for it is almost decided that the fund will be increased.

This question, however, is to be discussed at the Executive Committee's meeting to-morrow. There are several large subscriptions which have been assured to the fund, and this has impelled the Finance Committee to think favorably of the proposition to increase the fund.

This amount would throw Chicago's aspirations for the Exposition into the shade, and would undoubtedly influence Congress in selecting New York City as the site.

Ex-First Assessor Postmaster-General A. E. Stevenson, of Illinois, is in Washington in the interests of doing what he can to have the World's Fair held in Chicago.

His stay is to be for several weeks, during which time he will be around the Windy City. He claims that there is no other city in Chicago for the Fair, and that a fund of five millions is ready to back his claims.

George H. Davis, politician, and Edwin Walker, lawyer, are his companions and assistants. There is yet a large sum due from the brewers, irrespective of this, the fund this morning had the grand total of $4,327,092.

An obscure morning paper attempted to throw discredit on THE WORLD'S list of subscribers by interviewing several of the contributors as to whether their names were bona fide.

They met with deserved rebuke from those whom they approached, in many cases being summarily ejected from the premises. $5,000 was subscribed through THE WORLD yesterday, making the grand total of $332,355, as shown by the following list:

COHN IN CUSTODY.

Banker Susskind's Alleged Defaulting Partner Arrested in Hoboken.

Locked Up in That Town Awaiting a Requisition.

He Was Preparing to Sail to Hamburg To-Morrow.

Herman Cohn, one of the partners of the firm of J. Susskind & Co., the "bankers" of 140 Canal street, was arrested this morning in Hoboken by Inspector Byrne's detectives. He would have sailed for Hamburg to-morrow.

Ever since Louis Susskind, the brother of Joseph, in whose name the business was run, was arrested, Detectives Jacobs and Grealy have been watching Cohn's house, 310 East Seventy-ninth street.

They followed Cohn's wife to a hotel at the Hamburg dock in Hoboken, and getting a description of the man she was visiting they were satisfied that it was Cohn, and forcing an entrance to the room arrested him.

When the officers were taking him through the street, and he realized that he was going back to New York, he yelled murder with all his might and refused to sit another step.

Being in another State he could not be taken by force and the detectives locked him up in the Hoboken police station, where he awaits a requisition from New York.

A highly characteristic Cohn as a hypothetical second. He says that Cohn had an altar erected in his house, at which he worshipped three times a day. In the intervals he made money by robbing his unsuspecting customers.

Cohn is alleged to have caused the firm's ruin by taking all the available cash on hand and disappearing with it.

AGAIN SOUGHT DEATH

Young Artist Annie Reinstauf Makes Her Third Attempt at Suicide.

Annie Reinstauf, the young Brooklyn artist, made her third attempt at suicide early this morning.

At 6 o'clock a policeman belonging to the Second Precinct, Brooklyn, saw a slender and good-looking young woman, dressed in black, with brown fur tipper, walking slowly towards the end of the pier at the Twenty-third street ferry, Williamsburg.

She was gesticulating violently, and talked to herself at intervals.

A few minutes afterwards the officer, who had passed along on his post, heard a splash in the water and saw Miss Reinstauf about twenty feet from the shore, and battling frantically with the waves.

He jumped in, and with help from the ferry-house officers began a struggle to save the young woman, who, when rescued, was found to be unconscious.

At length the rescuers succeeded, and the young and desperate would-be suicide was brought to the St. Catherine's Hospital in an unconscious condition.

Miss Reinstauf is twenty-seven years of age, and was born in the city of New York.

Inquiry there showed that she disappeared last evening while suffering from hysteria, but was found later by the police and returned to her home.

She shot out again, however, and made her dangerous bid in the river with the intention of ending her life.

Her other attempts at suicide were made last week.

"A FRECKLED KNIGHT"

A New, Sparkling Poem by the Poet of "The Evening World."

Mr. William Edward Penny, whose graceful compositions in verse have already made him a favorite with readers of THE EVENING WORLD, has composed another poem having the same sterling merit which "A Yankee Lucille" possessed.

The poem, which is of considerable length, will be printed in THE EVENING WORLD to-morrow.

HOPE NOT OUT YET.

Judge Lacombe Commits Him to Ludlow Street Jail Until Tuesday.

The Habeas Corpus Hearing Adjourned Until Then.

The Noted Bank Burglar's Wife Accompanies Him to Court.

Jimmy Hope, the bank robber and crack burglar, will be the guest of Uncle Sam at Ludlow Street Jail for a few days.

He was taken before Judge Lacombe, of the United States Circuit Court, to-day on a writ of habeas corpus issued by Judge Wheeler, of Charles Broome, Hope's counsel, was prepared to argue for his release from the custody of Under Sheriff William E. Keeler, the red-bearded official from Cayuga County, who arrested him on an indictment for breaking out of Auburn Prison just after he had been given his liberty on the Delaware burglary arrest last Wednesday.

Hope's wife, who is twice as big as he is, in court, steadfastly stood by her husband, and Ed Bart, the old prison contractor, in whose shop Hope was confined at the time of his escape, was there to say a kind word to the man who has spent half his life in prison.

After his hearing, which was a goodly boodle from the Manhattan Bank robbery stowed away somewhere, suggested an Evening World reporter.

A sickly smile overspread the face of Hope as he replied:

"Gentlemen, you ain't had to pay my first-class lawyers."

Hope wears that submissive "star-pit" air so common to criminals who have had much experience with courts and lawyers. There was no anxiety, no hope, no confusion, in his face.

FLED TO NEW YORK.

Frederickson, the Alleged Western Land Swindler, in Hiding Here.

Inspector Byrne's watchful eye has been upon the reports of the great land swindle out West ever since Chicago dispatches announced that Frederickson, the head of the firm that is accused of making away with nearly a million dollars, had fled East.

The movements of the fugitive have been quietly traced by Inspector Byrne's men pending a demand for his arrest from the Chicago authorities.

It is known that Frederickson came to New York about a week ago and the persons whom he visited in this city and Brooklyn, together with the business he had with them, are matters of police record.

These were chiefly old friends, Danes whom he had known in the old country or when he first came here to begin life anew after his great failure on the other side of the water.

The police investigation has developed facts which tend to prove true the suspicion that Frederickson was duped by smarter men than he. He was in financial straits when he came here. He tried hard to raise money to enable him to return to his native land, but failed.
