LAST EDITION AN OUTRAGE.

The Public Driven Out of Jeannette Park at 5 P. M. Daily.

Workingmen and Children Arbitrarily Deprived of Their Rights.

Gross Neglect, or Worse, on the Part of the Park Board.

Injustice that Calls for Investigation and Prompt Remedy.

An indignant protest comes up from the residents in the vicinity of Counties slip against the authorities of the Park Department for locking them out of Jeannette Park at 5 o'clock every afternoon.

Jeannette Park was opened to the public two years ago, and is built on the site of the big flour dock in Counties slip.

Within the fence the ground is tastefully laid out, with a wide lawn in the centre and a serpentine walk running around it.

It is really the only open spot in that locality. "It is a shame," said a hard-working woman, the mother of six children, who lives near Counties Slip.

Every afternoon Keeper Fagan has had work to drive the children out of the park, for 5 o'clock is just the time when they begin to congregate to enjoy their sports and games.

It is too far to take the children away down to the Battery, and, besides, that is always so crowded on pleasant evenings that there is no room for them.

At the office of the Park Board there was nobody to be found this morning who could answer the question why the public were locked out of Jeannette Park.

President Waldo Hutchins and Superintendent of Parks Fagan, it was said, had all such matters in charge, and neither of them put in an appearance during the morning.

Caught by His Bossman. Edward Furell, of Union Hill, who skipped his bail from Jersey City, was sent back by Justice Murray to-day, having been returned and caught here by his bossman, Thomas Hester.

There has been talk of your money by being with him. He was taken to the hospital, and it is expected that he will be discharged in a few days.

WALK, OR RIDE ON THE "L."

Republican Senators Postpone Rapid Transit Legislation a Year.

Rapid transit is denied to New York for another year, and there is to be heard on every side-day bitter condemnation of the "peanut" politics that has put off the solution of the problem of giving the residents of upper New York easy, quick and comfortable communication with the teeming business section on the bay.

The Conference Committee of the Legislature could find no common ground, because Senator Fassett and his friends insisted on either naming the Commissioners who were to have jurisdiction over all rapid transit schemes or forcing Mayor Grant to name his appointments in advance before they would even offer the question to the Legislature for its consideration.

Mayor Grant telegraphed this message to the Conference Committee: "I am in favor of the proposition that you name the Commission in advance."

In answer to the suggestion that the Mayor be empowered to appoint three additional Rapid Transit Commissioners, provided that he name in advance the names of the three persons whom he would select under his provisions, I wish to understand that it does not mean a party to any agreement whatsoever.

It is not only the Mayor, however, that if the Legislature decides to increase the number of Rapid Transit Commissioners, it is to select one of the same character and standing in the community as the other two.

That did not suit Mr. Fassett. He wanted the five Commissioners already appointed by Mayor Grant—William Steinway, Arthur Hays Sulzberger, John S. Edwards and Woodbury Langdon—named in the bill, together with Joseph A. B. St. John, a prominent business man.

Assemblyman Fish declared that this demand was intended to kill the bill, as the Senators knew that Gov. Hill would veto it if it were introduced in the Assembly.

Mr. Cantor defended the Mayor, declaring he was sincere in an honest effort to solve the rapid transit problem, and twisted the words of the Mayor to suit his own purpose. He said that the Mayor had better say "I doubt if I would make a good godfather to rapid transit."

The upshot of the whole debate was that the Senate rejected the bill, and the Assembly passed a resolution to refer the matter to a committee.

Disbelief that Deborah Dibble's Pipe Caused the Holocaust.

LELAND GOES ON THE STAND.

He Describes the Purchase of the Sixth National Stock.

Classen's Schemes to Get Free on a Technicality Knocked Out.

The trial of Gen. Peter J. Classen, accused of misappropriating the funds of the Sixth National Bank, was continued before Judge Benedict and a jury in the Circuit Court, in the Post-Office Building, at 11 o'clock this morning.

Classen, cool and imperturbable as usual, was accompanied by his wife and daughter.

If no other means offers, counsel for the defense hope to free their client on a technicality, inasmuch as he never qualified as President nor Director of the Sixth National Bank, and therefore cannot be tried for the crime charged.

Charles H. Leland, ex-President of the Sixth National Bank, was the first witness called.

He said he was elected President in 1883, and owned 1,000 shares of stock in the bank.

Mr. Leland described at length the location and plan of the bank, and then Mr. Mitchell testified.

Now on the 22d of January did you see Mr. Classen?

Yes, he was in the bank. There were present myself and three Directors. That was the day that Mr. Classen and some of his friends became Directors.

Mr. Pfell and Mr. Simmons were there. Some of those present had never known Leland before that time.

Mr. Pfell had spoken of them as the gentlemen who were to be paid the stock of the bank.

When did he speak to you of them?

On the 17th of January.

On the 17th of January, did you see the signatures of himself and that of Mr. Pfell, on a contract drawn up for the purchase of the Sixth National Bank stock?

He met Mr. Classen, he said, for the first time on Jan. 22, when Mr. Pfell introduced him to the bank.

Mr. Pfell produced certain checks and handed them to Mr. Leland.

FELLOWS FREES TWO MORE.

Ex-Warden Keating and McConigal Liberated by the District-Attorney.

Both Indictments Quietly Dismissed at the Colonel's Request.

The indictments for bribery against ex-Warden James P. Keating, of Ludlow Street Jail, and Special Deputy Sheriff David McConigal, have been quietly dismissed, District-Attorney Fellows on Tuesday wrote the following indorsement on the documents charging those gentlemen with crime:

An indictment against Bernard F. Martin involving the same questions of law having been demurred to, and the same demurrer sustained, I have decided that said indictment was insufficient, therefore said demurrer is granted, and the same is dismissed.

On Wednesday last the indictments so indorsed were presented to Judge Fitzgerald in Part I. of General Sessions, and he directed that the same be dismissed.

On March 12, under sections of the Penal Code and the Code of Civil Procedure, for accepting bribes in connection with the arrest and imprisonment of one Nelson Hersh, a civil prisoner, who paid them for certain privileges, for privileges similar to those granted to himself.

Among the privileges accorded him for a consideration was attendance at the theatre in the vicinity of West 42d street.

On March 12, Deputy Commissioner of Public Works Bernard F. Martin, with three deputy sheriffs, was indicted for accepting bribes from Charles G. Franklyn, a civil prisoner, for privileges similar to those granted to himself.

Judge Barrett sustained a demurrer to this indictment and held that the facts alleged in the indictment were insufficient to support the same.

The dismissal of these indictments leaves but one indictment pending against the officials under the ban of the law. Deputy Sheriff Julius Kammann, who was indicted for accepting bribes in connection with the sale of a stock of dry goods on an execution and levy.

THEIR LAST DOLLAR TAKEN.

Immigrants Robbed by Liverpool Jack's Notorious Runner.

Another case of extortion practised upon emigrants by land-sharks at the Barge Office came to light to-day.

This morning two foot-loose and weary Polish Hebrews approached the Barge Office and Detective Peter Groden related their story of imposition and suffering.

They said they had just trumped back from Scranton, Pa., and were very tired and almost famished. They could scarcely drag themselves along after their hard journey.

Their names are Alfonso Woloski, aged eighteen, and Stanislaw Bleski, aged twenty-one. They arrived here last week from Bremen, on the steamship Herman.

At the large office they were met by Jacob Konigsstein, who is now under $1,000 bail for robbing an immigrant.

Konigsstein induced the young men to go to Heller & Johnston's, a rummer at 119 Water street, where they could find a good position for them where they could make $1.00 per day.

The immigrants, anxious to get work, accepted his offer. He told them they would secure employment for them with Louis Woloski, 210 Water street, Scranton, Pa.

He charged them $1 each for an office fee, and $4.75 each for railroad tickets, while the immigrants rate is they were met by Jacob Konigsstein, who is now under $1,000 bail for robbing an immigrant.

Both men were taken to the Barge Office and held there until 1 o'clock, when they were released.

They were unable to find anything to do there and being out of money, they tramped back to New York.

They will be thoroughly investigated by Col. Weber's officials.

THREE STABS KILLED HIM.

A Boarding-House Keeper Murders His Brother-in-Law.

Thomas Farrelly, a young laborer, died at the Smith Infirmary Hospital, Hannah street, Tompkinsville, at 3 o'clock this morning from three stab wounds inflicted by Boarding-House Keeper Peter Garrigan last night.

Garrigan is well known in Tompkinsville. He is a little man, with a grayish-red mustache and a brutal face. He is thirty-eight years old, and he and his wife lived in the famous Tompkinsville tenement-house known as "Castle Thunder," on Montgomery avenue. They have two children.

Farrelly was Mrs. Garrigan's brother and he boarded with her. Last night Garrigan was ugly drunk, and in the course of a quarrel he seized a knife and lunged viciously at the young man.

The knife was plunged into Farrelly three times, twice in the abdomen and once in the left arm. Then Gallagher ran out to the street, where he was arrested and taken to the police station at Stapleton.

Farrelly was removed to the Smith Hospital, where, hours after once pronounced dead, he revived.

The wounded man lingered until 3 o'clock this morning in great agony.

This morning Peter Garrigan was arraigned before Police Justice Casey. Farrelly was charged with the murder of his brother-in-law.

There had been frequent quarrels in Castle Thunder, and they generally resulted from the ugliness of Garrigan while intoxicated. Farrelly has the reputation of being a quiet, inoffensive, steady worker.

Both men are employed on the American Cotton docks.
