AN APPALLING DISASTER.

Part of a Terrible Cyclone's Fatal Work.

50 MORE DEAD AT LAKE GEVAIS

Agonizing Story of a Pleasure Excursion's Awful End.

Terrible disasters, brought by a death-dealing, devastating cyclone, accompanied by a terrific electric storm, came upon portions of the States of Minnesota and Wisconsin last evening.

The loss of life was fearful, mounting into the hundreds.

Most of the dead met their fate upon the waters of the numerous lakes, which are ordinarily favorite resorts of fishers and pleasure-seekers, but which were stirred by the storm into raging haunts of death.

The most fearful of these disasters was the wreck of the excursion steamer Sea Wing, on Lake Pepin, near Lake City, Minn., in which nearly 200 precious lives were lost.

Story of the Sea Wing Horror. MINNEAPOLIS, July 14.—Further reports from Lake City indicate that nearly 200 people were drowned in the disaster which overtook the excursion steamer Sea Wing in last night's cyclone on Lake Pepin.

THE NEW AQUEDUCT OPENED.

Water Flowing Its Full Length from Croton Lake To-Day.

No Ceremony at the Raising of the Gates at Central Park To-Morrow.

New York's new aqueduct, the greatest engineering work of the age, is completed and is ready to begin serving the purpose for which it was constructed.

The effect of filling the reservoir will be an increase of pressure on the street mains, many of which have not been supplied to their fullest capacity since they were laid.

The gates were opened by Division Engineer Gowen yesterday morning, and at 3 p. m. the water had reached South Yonkers.

This water was run into the big conduit to assist in the work of flushing the submerged portion south of Jerome Park.

At 5.30 o'clock last evening the water began running pure and fresh at the One Hundred and Seventy-eighth street blow-off, when the gates were shut down and the column of water allowed to proceed on its way through the section of tunnel already flushed and tested to the gate-house at One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street.

It had not reached the "goose neck," which rises from the tunnel ninety feet to supply the line line at 7 o'clock, but it was reported to have filled in this portion of the great subterranean waterway during the night.

Assistant Chief Engineer George S. Rice went up to Croton Lake to superintend the letting in of the water to-day to complete the flow from that point to the gate-house.

The main line to the Park, which is on an up grade, is filled with pure water and the gates at the reservoir were tested and found to be in good working order yesterday.

A special meeting of the Aqueduct Commission has been called for 10.30 o'clock to-morrow, when the Commissioners will determine at what hour to admit the water to the reservoir, and whether to do it by opening the gates at the reservoir or at the One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street gate-house.

There will be no formality of ceremony connected with this act, and the only crowd which will celebrate this event will be that which may gather at the reservoir out of curiosity to witness the first gush of water from the big pipes.

The peculiar feature of this opening of a great work is the lack of fuss and ceremony attending it.

When the windlass was turned in the gate-house at the Croton Lake to-day, and the first flood of water which is to reach Central Park through this new conduit gushed into the Aqueduct, they were present only a few of the Aqueduct employees.

SAYS HE THREW NO BRICK.

Custom-House Messenger Simms Charged with Assaulting an Officer.

Riotous Scene at the Arrest of Colored Men on Seventh Avenue.

There was quite a stir in the Jefferson Market Police Court this morning, when Caleb B. Simms, messenger in the Custom House and brother of Councilor Jacob Simms, the colored Republican leader of the Eleventh Assembly District, was arraigned before Justice Hogan, charged with acting in a disorderly manner and throwing a brick at Policeman Bradley of the Thirtieth street station-house.

The alleged assault grew out of the policeman's arresting three colored men who were creating a disturbance.

The three men were Robert Dorsey, Hiram Peck and James Duffie. The story told by the officer to the Justice this morning was that he was walking through West Twenty-seventh street last night when he was called to observe a crowd of young loafers who were singing an obscene song in the street, and acting in a boisterous manner.

He ordered the crowd to move on and they started on a run, one of the three running on the pavement with a night-stick as if he were a policeman, and another carrying an obscene song in the street, and acting in a boisterous manner.

Officer Bradley was walking in the rear of the party, and as he was crossing Seventh avenue a crowd came up and warned him that a man was following him with a brick in his hand.

Bradley turned to look back and he saw the man following him with a brick in his hand. He ordered the crowd to move on and they started on a run, one of the three running on the pavement with a night-stick as if he were a policeman, and another carrying an obscene song in the street, and acting in a boisterous manner.

HORSE-CARS IN THE SUBWAY.

Peculiar Mishap by Which Transit Was Interrupted.

A new phase of the dangers attending the dazing up of New York's streets is presented to our citizens. To all the other kinds of accidents attributable to horses in the street and many other causes, a new element has been run—added the dishing of horse-cars—horses, passengers, car, driver, conductor and bell pull.

It was on the curve at Fulton and William streets at 7.20 o'clock on last night, that the horse car No. 100 of the Horsecar and Broadway line was dished by a horse.

Something made the car horses shy a little and they ran down the sidewalk, and that can be seen in the photographs which were taken of the accident.

The horses were unhitched and the laborer, who was driving the horse, was thrown from the car, and the passengers, some of whom were injured, were scattered about the sidewalk.

There is hope for the public in the fact that this is a matter between monopolistic corporations and not between corporations and individuals.
