EXTRA 2 O'CLOCK. M'CONIGAL'S SIDE.

His Defence Begun on the Charge of Killing Annie Goodwin.

Contradicting the Stories of Pretty Sadie Traphagen.

The Doctor and His Counsel Confident of an Acquittal.

The case for The People against Dr. Henry G. McConigal has been completed. It is a formidable array of facts and circumstances, every circumstance seems to point with unflinching, relentless finger at the mouse-gray septuagenarian as the guilty one, with nostril and instrument, sent pretty Annie Goodwin out of the world on July 12 last.

Presently Judge Fitzgibbon announced that he was ready to listen to the other side of the case whenever Lawyers Oliver and Birdall were ready to begin.

Frank Oliver arose and asked for the discharge of Dr. McConigal, on the ground that no case had been proven, which, of course, was not done right away.

Then Lawyer Birdall, in a clerical and of black, a white tie and a byronic collar, arose to tell the jury what he should prove for the benefit of "the little old man" behind him.

Whereupon the "little old man" disposed his diminutive person in a comfortable way for listening to the ecology about to be pronounced by his lawyer, who is at home, I hope, awaiting my triumphant return to her.

It can matter little whether the mouse-gray old man knew his victim as "Jane Willour," or by some other name. It can be of no moment whether he believed her to be a friendless girl or knew all about her social status.

The facts proven are that the body of a female was removed from the chamber of death in the darkest hours of the night of July 12-13, by this little old man; that he had certified to the Health Department that she died of rheumatism of the heart; that eleven days afterwards the body was exhumed, and competent physicians, coroner's deputies, who deal with hundreds of cases of renal trouble every year, after a careful and painstaking autopsy found that the female thus buried did not die of rheumatism of the heart, but did die of blood poisoning, reuniting clearly from malpractice as charged in the indictment against the mouse-gray old man in the prisoner's chair.

POINTERS ON THE RACES. Tipters' Opinions on the Winning Horses To-Day.

The following are the horses that different tipsters think should win on their merits at Morris Park to-day:

From Other Morning Papers. First Race—Kingstook, J. R. Second Race—Worth, Busted.

First Race—Two Lips, Kingstook. Second Race—Worth, St. James.

First Race—Rosette, Kingstook. Second Race—Worth, Lavin Jane colt.

First Race—Worth, Lavin Jane colt. Second Race—Worth, Lavin Jane colt.

MORRIS PARK ENTRIES.

The large field of nineteen is named to start in the first race at Morris Park to-day. The outlook is for good racing all the afternoon.

At first it seemed probable that action would be taken then and there, but Commissioner Lammie objected, on the ground that before the Board could act upon the resolution there must be a change in the by-laws, so at his suggestion it was referred to the Board to be considered at the next meeting of the Board.

OLD WINE AT LENOX.

LENOX, Mass., Oct. 1.—Last week the people of Lenox proved that they could enjoy themselves indoors when the weather made it necessary. This week they are making up for it by being almost entirely in the open air.

POSTMASTER WHEAT REMOVED.

A unanimous recommendation unanimously adopted. WASHINGTON, Oct. 1.—The session closed to-day in the House with the fitting termination of an official scandal. James L. Wheat, of Virginia, the Postmaster of the House, was removed from office by a unanimous vote, based upon a unanimous recommendation from the Committee on Accounts, was dismissed from office.

DEATH OF ALPHONSE KARR.

PARIS, Oct. 1.—Jean Baptiste Alphonse Karr, the well-known French author, is dead. M. Karr was born in Paris in November, 1806. He was educated by his father and was a member of the Academie des Sciences, which he became a member of in 1845.

Proposal in the Board of Education to Open the Schools at 8 A. M.

No Extension of the Strike on the Piers—A Serious Accident.

While there was no public outbreak to-day of the riotous mob among the Adams Express Company's employes, the effect of the wholesale discharges of old employes, "to reduce expenses," is becoming more and more pronounced among the hands who are still retained.

President John Hoey has issued an edict that the police officers who have been discharged by the Board of Education should be reinstated.

The first step towards complete victory in the Teachers' Union's fight was taken yesterday afternoon, when the matter was brought officially before the Board of Education at its regular meeting, by Commissioner Mills O'Brien.

The resolution which he offered was brief, but to the point, and was as follows:

Resolved, That the police officers who have been discharged by the Board of Education should be reinstated, and that the Board should take such action as to secure to them such rights as the Teachers' Union may demand.

At first it seemed probable that action would be taken then and there, but Commissioner Lammie objected, on the ground that before the Board could act upon the resolution there must be a change in the by-laws, so at his suggestion it was referred to the Board to be considered at the next meeting of the Board.

The members of this Committee are: Commissioner Sanger, Chairman, and Commissioners Hunt, Holt, Lummie and Gerard.

Of these, Mr. Sanger has already expressed his approval of the plan advocated by the Teachers' Union, and has stated his opinion that the Board should take such action as to secure to them such rights as the Teachers' Union may demand.

MURDERER MCLIVAIN TAKEN BACK TO THE PRISON AT SING SING.

His Heartless Farewell to the Woman Who Loved Him.

Charles McLivain, the brutal murderer of Greer Christian W. Lucas, of Brooklyn, after four months of idling in the courts, is again a tenant of the "silent hall" at Sing Sing. It leaked out this morning that, despite the fact that the law allows the Sheriff ten days in which to remove a condemned prisoner to the place of execution, Sheriff Hinckley made haste to get his hands on the desperate youth who has knocked one by prisoner down, attempted to brain his young and innocent wife with his hands, prepared to take his own life and threatened that of Warden Byrnes since he has been Raymond Street Jail, and removed him secretly to Sing Sing yesterday afternoon, almost before the ink on Judge Moore's sentence and commitment had dried.

For fourteen months McLivain has played the role of a half-imbecile—the only defense conceivable for his awful butchery of the innocent citizen in the dead of night. Two weeks ago he was taken to the same place, and he was not a political "deal" they were attempting, but a "conference" with the purpose in view of securing all anti-Tammany support for the ticket which the League will eventually nominate.

Each speaker took particular care to state that McLivain was not a political "deal" they were attempting, but a "conference" with the purpose in view of securing all anti-Tammany support for the ticket which the League will eventually nominate.

The Committee of Conference named in the resolution consists of thirty-one members, headed by Charles F. Johnson, of the Central Labor Union, and including among others, John H. Brown, of the Central Labor Union, and including among others, John H. Brown, of the Central Labor Union, and including among others, John H. Brown, of the Central Labor Union.

EXTRA 2 O'CLOCK. LINGO'S DEFENCE AN ALIBI.

Minute Account of His Movements on the Day of the Murder.

Byrnes' Men and Pinkertons Tracking Mrs. Miller's Assistant.

Special to the Evening World. CAMDEN, N. J., Oct. 2.—At last the local detectives have been succeeded, and this morning two Pinkerton men and two of Inspector Byrnes' men are endeavoring to pierce the veil of mystery enshrouding the brutal assault and battery of Mrs. Annie Miller in Michelson's woods last Thursday.

The Pinkerton men got here yesterday morning, and after a long consultation with Prosecutor Jenkins and his assistant, Mr. Higgins, they got to work. Byrnes' men came down last night, and also had a secret interview with Mr. Jenkins.

One of them was recognized by THE EVENING WORLD reporter as Charles Heidelberger, one of the most experienced and trusted detectives on the force. He was out before daylight this morning, and drove to Michelson's wood to take up the trail. His partner has disappeared.

Messrs. Jess and Taylor, the lawyers who so ably defended Lingo in the Leoney affair, this morning said that they had at last been successful in their efforts to see their client, Frank Lingo.

"We were admitted last evening," said Mr. Jess, "and Lingo gave me an account of all his movements last Thursday. Fortunately he was in many public places, and we shall have no difficulty in proving conclusively that he was not in the woods last Thursday afternoon."

"How did he spend the day?" asked the reporter.

"He went to Miller's house in the morning and milked the cows. He left there at 7 A. M. and then went to Tom Young's farm and cut corn until near 1 o'clock in the afternoon."

"The Camden County officials fix the time of the murder as between 2 and 3 o'clock that afternoon. Lingo was at the Pensacola station just before the 1.21 o'clock train bound south for Merchantville left for Camden, and he was on the train that passed him a few minutes later going south."

"After leaving home he went to the store of Mrs. Miller's, where he bought a pie. He also bought a pie from the store of Mrs. G. W. Higgs, near the house of Mrs. Wm. Miller, mother-in-law of the murdered woman. Mrs. Higgs said she saw Lingo pass, and she said it was some time after 2 o'clock."

"After Lingo's arrest, Lingo came to her home from the direction of Mrs. Higgs' house, left a message, and thence proceeded to Major Holmes' place."

"No," said Mr. Holmes, "but there is nothing I can do to help you. I have seen Lingo, and he was with me when the Major, he replied, and then sat down on the floor, and several persons passed and saw him sitting there."

"Shortly after McKinley, Johnson and Capt. Lingo, who were building a barn near Lingo's house in Merchantville, saw him pass and enter Mrs. Smith's candy shop. Lingo, who was with me, said that he was in the candy shop, and that he was with me when the Major, he replied, and then sat down on the floor, and several persons passed and saw him sitting there."

"Will you do some threshing for me, Frank?"

"I can't, Master Robb," he answered; "I'm working down at Tom Young's."

"I saw Thomas, a colored man of good repute, who had been observed with Lingo at the crime, and who was with me when the Major, he replied, and then sat down on the floor, and several persons passed and saw him sitting there."
