

EXTRA. 2 O'CLOCK. AN INSANE PED.

Salvationist Gowan Goes Suddenly Crazy on the Garden Track.

Only Six Men Left in the Race at Breakfast Time.

Hughes Still the Leader and Norman the Rear Guard.

Score at 12 O'Clock. HUGHES, 347; HENNETT, 354; MOORE, 355; HEGELMAN, 329; HERTY, 335; NORNEMAC, 318.

Gowan-Sherlock, the Salvation Army peddler, furnished an early sensation at the six-day walking match in Madison Square Garden by going insane on the track at 6 o'clock.

He had rested himself during the night by sitting upon a bench, and when he awoke he had become so crazed that he had to be taken to the hospital.

Only six men were left in the race at breakfast time. Hughes was still the leader and Norman the rear guard.

The big front wall fell suddenly with a tremendous crash, nearly burying three members of Red Jacket in the debris.

John Arnold, had his face and nose severely cut by the falling bricks, his companions were slightly injured.

Red Jacket is the company that had several of its members killed and injured at the former fire.

The steamer Alliance did good work by coming up the Hudson river and pouring two hundred tons of coal into the city.

Samuel Williams, the Superintendent, said that he had lost $100,000 worth of raw material.

Samuel Williams, the Superintendent, said that he had lost $100,000 worth of raw material.

There were insurance on the buildings amounting to $1,000,000.

The fire which broke out in the Elizabethport Cottage Works at Elizabeth at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon was not put out until 2 o'clock this morning.

It was believed that no lives had been lost in the fire, but this morning the bones of a man were found in the ruins.

The burned man was identified as Fireman Adam Schreier.

Robert Kane, a lad of eleven years, who was hit in the abdomen by some falling brick and taken to the city hospital, is in a critical condition.

A Hungarian who worked on the top floor is missing and it is believed that his body will also be found in the ruins.

There are rumors of incendiary and a rigid investigation of the origin of the fire will probably be demanded.

The catastrophe to the people of Elizabeth is very great; as the cordage industry was the second largest in the city, employing 600 operatives.

All are thrown out of work.

Soon after midnight there was nearly a repetition of the fatal disaster which marked the former fire at the works.

The big front wall fell suddenly with a tremendous crash, nearly burying three members of Red Jacket in the debris.

A BODY FOUND IN THE RUINS.

Probably Two Lives Lost in the Elizabeth Fire.

The Big Cordage Works Utterly Destroyed—600 Out of Work.

The fire which broke out in the Elizabethport Cottage Works at Elizabeth at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon was not put out until 2 o'clock this morning.

It was believed that no lives had been lost in the fire, but this morning the bones of a man were found in the ruins.

The burned man was identified as Fireman Adam Schreier.

Robert Kane, a lad of eleven years, who was hit in the abdomen by some falling brick and taken to the city hospital, is in a critical condition.

A Hungarian who worked on the top floor is missing and it is believed that his body will also be found in the ruins.

There are rumors of incendiary and a rigid investigation of the origin of the fire will probably be demanded.

The catastrophe to the people of Elizabeth is very great; as the cordage industry was the second largest in the city, employing 600 operatives.

All are thrown out of work.

Soon after midnight there was nearly a repetition of the fatal disaster which marked the former fire at the works.

The big front wall fell suddenly with a tremendous crash, nearly burying three members of Red Jacket in the debris.

John Arnold, had his face and nose severely cut by the falling bricks, his companions were slightly injured.

Red Jacket is the company that had several of its members killed and injured at the former fire.

The steamer Alliance did good work by coming up the Hudson river and pouring two hundred tons of coal into the city.

Samuel Williams, the Superintendent, said that he had lost $100,000 worth of raw material.

Samuel Williams, the Superintendent, said that he had lost $100,000 worth of raw material.

There were insurance on the buildings amounting to $1,000,000.

The fire which broke out in the Elizabethport Cottage Works at Elizabeth at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon was not put out until 2 o'clock this morning.

It was believed that no lives had been lost in the fire, but this morning the bones of a man were found in the ruins.

The burned man was identified as Fireman Adam Schreier.

Robert Kane, a lad of eleven years, who was hit in the abdomen by some falling brick and taken to the city hospital, is in a critical condition.

A Hungarian who worked on the top floor is missing and it is believed that his body will also be found in the ruins.

There are rumors of incendiary and a rigid investigation of the origin of the fire will probably be demanded.

The catastrophe to the people of Elizabeth is very great; as the cordage industry was the second largest in the city, employing 600 operatives.

All are thrown out of work.

Soon after midnight there was nearly a repetition of the fatal disaster which marked the former fire at the works.

The big front wall fell suddenly with a tremendous crash, nearly burying three members of Red Jacket in the debris.

HIS BODY STOPPED THE CAR.

But the Cause of Morrison's Death Is a Mystery.

Found Doubled Up Under the Brake in Church Street.

The police of the Church street station have a mystery to solve in determining the cause of death of a man whose mangled and bleeding body was pulled out from under a surface car by Patrolman Charles McCarthy at 2 o'clock this morning.

When Conductor Lawrence H. Taylor, of 431 West Forty-sixth street, and Driver Merritt J. Brown, of 347 West Fifteenth street, left Vesey street and Broadway at 2 o'clock this morning with car No. 86 of the Sixth Avenue surface line they had no passengers on board.

Soon after turning into Church street, and about midway between Vesey and Barclay, there came a sudden shock that brought the car to a dead stop and partly threw it from the rails.

Conductor Taylor jumped off, and was horrified to find a human body all doubled up beneath the forward brake and wheels.

Policeman McCarthy and eight or ten belated pedestrians responded, and with their aid the car was lifted at one end and the body pulled from beneath the wheels.

The man was still breathing, and a hurried call was sent to Chambers street hospital, but before an ambulance arrived the man died.

Policeman McCarthy at once placed Driver Brown under arrest and took him to the Church street station, where the body was also taken.

Sergeant Sweeney said that death had undoubtedly been caused by the severe laceration of the head, fracture of the skull and a dislocation of the spine.

Policeman McCarthy did not know who the body belonged to, but he said that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

Policeman McCarthy stated that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

A letter addressed to Miss Nellie Campbell, 316 Greenwich street, care Geo. L. Morrison, was found in a pocket of the dead man's clothes.

Policeman McCarthy stated that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

Policeman McCarthy stated that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

Policeman McCarthy stated that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

Policeman McCarthy stated that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

Policeman McCarthy stated that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

Policeman McCarthy stated that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

Policeman McCarthy stated that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

Policeman McCarthy stated that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

Policeman McCarthy stated that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

Policeman McCarthy stated that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

Policeman McCarthy stated that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

Policeman McCarthy stated that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

Policeman McCarthy stated that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

Policeman McCarthy stated that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

Policeman McCarthy stated that he had seen a man in the vicinity of the accident.

MORE SLAUGHTER.

When Will the Bloodshed Cease in New Orleans?

A Reporter Shot by One of the State's Late Attorneys.

Denunciation of the Citizens' Committee Caused the Affray.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.) NEW ORLEANS, March 19.—The killing of Frank Waters by Arthur Dunn last night, following close upon the lynching affair, and undoubtedly connected with that event, has set the city a-gog again, and everybody is asking how long bloodshed is to follow.

Last night's affray took place at Canal and Bourbon streets, and in its course eleven shots were fired, six of them by Waters.

Dunn fired two wounds, one in the breast and another in the abdomen, and was sent to the Charity hospital, where he was said to be fatally hurt. No one but the surgeon was allowed to see him.

Waters came to his death from wounds in the head, falling right where he had stood while shooting.

Two bystanders were slightly wounded by wild shots.

From the best story of the affair obtainable it appears that Waters, somewhat intoxicated, was haranguing a group on the street about the lynching of the Italian, and the case of the Citizens' committee and all those who were connected with the Hennessy case.

Dunn had been an Assistant Prosecuting Attorney in the trial of the Italian, and seeing him approaching, some one who had been listening to Waters called out, "There comes one of them."

Waters and Dunn had long been enemies and it required no urging to bring on the fatal case which followed this examination.

Waters turned towards his foe and drew his revolver. Dunn also had his weapon ready and the firing began without parry, ending as above.

Dunn was an Eighth Ward politician and a former captain of police. He was defeated for the position of Police Recorder at the last election.

Waters was formerly a reporter on an afternoon paper, and was acting as such, four years ago, he was attacked by State Assessor Joseph Baker, of the 11th Ward, whom he killed. Dunn was the friend of the dead assessor, and this, too, may have had to do with last night's affray.

Though angry greatly to the sensational features of the affair, the shooting will probably not affect the various investigations going on.

The Grand Jury is busy engaged in looking into the shooting of the Italian, and will probably refer to Judge Hart's inquiring into the action of the Citizens' committee.

It was said last night that an indictment was ready for today against Detective O'Malley, for bribing juries.

The Citizens' committee is also looking into the shooting of the Italian, and will probably refer to Judge Hart's inquiring into the action of the Citizens' committee.

It was said last night that an indictment was ready for today against Detective O'Malley, for bribing juries.

The Citizens' committee is also looking into the shooting of the Italian, and will probably refer to Judge Hart's inquiring into the action of the Citizens' committee.

It was said last night that an indictment was ready for today against Detective O'Malley, for bribing juries.

The Citizens' committee is also looking into the shooting of the Italian, and will probably refer to Judge Hart's inquiring into the action of the Citizens' committee.

It was said last night that an indictment was ready for today against Detective O'Malley, for bribing juries.

The Citizens' committee is also looking into the shooting of the Italian, and will probably refer to Judge Hart's inquiring into the action of the Citizens' committee.

It was said last night that an indictment was ready for today against Detective O'Malley, for bribing juries.

The Citizens' committee is also looking into the shooting of the Italian, and will probably refer to Judge Hart's inquiring into the action of the Citizens' committee.

It was said last night that an indictment was ready for today against Detective O'Malley, for bribing juries.

The Citizens' committee is also looking into the shooting of the Italian, and will probably refer to Judge Hart's inquiring into the action of the Citizens' committee.

INSURANCE PROOF.

Ruttiger's $22,000 Policy Sent from Here by the Equitable in December.

Full Description in It of the Dead Man Found at Tottenville.

Conclusive Evidence in the Staten Island Astor House Double Tragedy.

District-Attorney Fitzgerald, of Staten Island, who has charge of the Ruttiger-Wright double tragedy, visited the office of the Equitable Life Assurance Company this morning and called on William Johnson, of the Foreign Department.

He got a complete description of Ruttiger's application, in Dresden Nov. 16, 1890, for a policy of life insurance for $22,000.

Ruttiger gave this history to the sub-agent of the Equitable Company in Dresden, A. Wiedemann, following.

He was born Aug. 8, 1847, in Sonnenberg, Germany; weight 191 pounds; height, five feet, nine and a half inches; married; present condition, healthy; name of present policy made in favor of Theresa Ruttiger, born Kehr.

He got a complete description of Ruttiger's application, in Dresden Nov. 16, 1890, for a policy of life insurance for $22,000.

Ruttiger gave this history to the sub-agent of the Equitable Company in Dresden, A. Wiedemann, following.

He was born Aug. 8, 1847, in Sonnenberg, Germany; weight 191 pounds; height, five feet, nine and a half inches; married; present condition, healthy; name of present policy made in favor of Theresa Ruttiger, born Kehr.

He got a complete description of Ruttiger's application, in Dresden Nov. 16, 1890, for a policy of life insurance for $22,000.

Ruttiger gave this history to the sub-agent of the Equitable Company in Dresden, A. Wiedemann, following.

He was born Aug. 8, 1847, in Sonnenberg, Germany; weight 191 pounds; height, five feet, nine and a half inches; married; present condition, healthy; name of present policy made in favor of Theresa Ruttiger, born Kehr.

He got a complete description of Ruttiger's application, in Dresden Nov. 16, 1890, for a policy of life insurance for $22,000.

Ruttiger gave this history to the sub-agent of the Equitable Company in Dresden, A. Wiedemann, following.

He was born Aug. 8, 1847, in Sonnenberg, Germany; weight 191 pounds; height, five feet, nine and a half inches; married; present condition, healthy; name of present policy made in favor of Theresa Ruttiger, born Kehr.

He got a complete description of Ruttiger's application, in Dresden Nov. 16, 1890, for a policy of life insurance for $22,000.

Ruttiger gave this history to the sub-agent of the Equitable Company in Dresden, A. Wiedemann, following.

He was born Aug. 8, 1847, in Sonnenberg, Germany; weight 191 pounds; height, five feet, nine and a half inches; married; present condition, healthy; name of present policy made in favor of Theresa Ruttiger, born Kehr.

He got a complete description of Ruttiger's application, in Dresden Nov. 16, 1890, for a policy of life insurance for $22,000.

Ruttiger gave this history to the sub-agent of the Equitable Company in Dresden, A. Wiedemann, following.

He was born Aug. 8, 1847, in Sonnenberg, Germany; weight 191 pounds; height, five feet, nine and a half inches; married; present condition, healthy; name of present policy made in favor of Theresa Ruttiger, born Kehr.

He got a complete description of Ruttiger's application, in Dresden Nov. 16, 1890, for a policy of life insurance for $22,000.

Ruttiger gave this history to the sub-agent of the Equitable Company in Dresden, A. Wiedemann, following.

He was born Aug. 8, 1847, in Sonnenberg, Germany; weight 191 pounds; height, five feet, nine and a half inches; married; present condition, healthy; name of present policy made in favor of Theresa Ruttiger, born Kehr.

He got a complete description of Ruttiger's application, in Dresden Nov. 16, 1890, for a policy of life insurance for $22,000.

Ruttiger gave this history to the sub-agent of the Equitable Company in Dresden, A. Wiedemann, following.

He was born Aug. 8, 1847, in Sonnenberg, Germany; weight 191 pounds; height, five feet, nine and a half inches; married; present condition, healthy; name of present policy made in favor of Theresa Ruttiger, born Kehr.

DEAD STREWN EVERYWHERE.

Frightful Scenes Before the Divers in the Sunken Utopia.

Gibraltar's Generosity to Survivors of the Terrible Disaster.

(SPECIAL CABLE NEWS REPORT.) Gibraltar, March 19.—A diver, who has just returned from the sunken Utopia, describes the condition of the wreck and the state of the bodies of the victims.

Every hour fresh corpses are brought into the town from the shore, where they have been found by the divers.

The amount already subscribed to the Relief Fund exceeds $3,000, and the generous but not very wealthy citizens are insisting that the Government should contribute a considerable amount from the Colonial funds.

One of the latest returns places the probable number of the dead at 54.

ANCHOR LINE OFFICES THROGGED.

Frantic People Clamor for News of the Utopia's Survivors.

The offices of the Anchor Line Steamship Company, at 7 Bowling Green, were thronged this morning with anxious inquirers for a list of the survivors of the sunken Utopia.

Many of the callers were almost frantic, having had friends on board the ill-fated steamer when she went down off Gibraltar, and the announcement of the agent that they had not yet received the passenger list caused much distress.

A rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

The rumor was spread that the list would not be called over, and this increased the anxiety, as at least a week would elapse before the mails could bring the list and cause the minds of those who feared that their friends were among the lost.

WALKING RAPIDLY.

Into the Favor of an Exacting Public.

Number published during the previous week 14,758.

PRICE ONE CENT.

EXTRA. 2 O'CLOCK.

AVELING IN TRAGEDY.

The Well-Known Actor of "Pan Kanvar" a Suicide.

Took Poison in His Room at the Sturtevant House.

Injunction Against His Wife Being Allowed to See His Dead Body.

Dying Farewell to "Dear Clara"—"Find Me in Futurity."

It was discovered this morning, despite official efforts to keep the matter secret, that Henry Aveling, a prominent and well-known actor, recently seen in the "Pan Kanvar" and "Jim the Penman" companies, had committed suicide at the Sturtevant House.

Death was caused by poison and the suicide left two letters, one asking that his funeral be arranged for by Actor Heston, member of the "Jim the Penman" combination.

The other letter expressly commanded that Aveling's wife be kept from looking at his dead body.

The suicide was discovered last night, but the people at the hotel refrained from notifying the police.

Word was quickly sent to Coroner Menninger's house and the body was removed to Kipp's undertaking store at First Avenue and Eighth street.

Aveling resided at the Sturtevant House, Twenty-eighth street and Broadway, on Tuesday last and was admitted to room 303, on the fifth floor.

He had no callers and but seldom went out. Wednesday he appeared at the hotel and asked for a letter. He evidently expected one.

This was in the morning, and it was the last time the actor was seen alive.

In the afternoon he returned to his room, locking the door after him. Shortly after a chambermaid had occasion to go to his room.

Her knocking at the door was unheeded and the maid reported to the clerk. The latter found the door was something wrong and the door burst open.

The sight which then met the eyes of the two women gazing was horrid.

On the bed lay the actor, cold in death, while beside him was a small vat of cyanide of potassium, of which he had evidently partaken.

It told the story, while the letters found added to it.

One of the letters left by Aveling was addressed to "Miss Clara Thompson" and read as follows:

"DEAR DEAR: We could not live as we wished for, and I am going into the great futurity. Find me there, please, and tell me how you are."

The second letter was in a stamped envelope addressed to "Jeffrey Stone, 467 Eighth street, N. Y., Washington, D. C." It was worded thus:

"To the Editor of the New York Herald: I am sorry that I cannot see you, but I am going into the great futurity. Find me there, please, and tell me how you are."

Aveling's effects consisted of a memorandum containing a receipt for a silver watch and $25 in money.

There was also a receipt showing that Aveling had recently paid his dues to the Actors' Fund.

WALKING RAP