WALL ST. DEADLY TYPHUS.

Another Case of the Dreaded Fever Discovered in This City.

A Ward in Roosevelt Hospital and a Big Tenement Quarantined.

More Than 150 People Have Been Exposed to the Danger of Contagion.

Another case of the dreaded typhus fever has been discovered in this city, and a whole ward in Roosevelt Hospital, in which fifty patients are lying, and a big tenement-house in which twenty families live, have been quarantined.

As in the case of James Taylor, who died at Bellevue on Sunday, this case was not discovered until to-day, when it was found that the physician first called having also failed to properly diagnose the disease, and as at Bellevue, the physicians at Roosevelt Hospital did not discover the true character of their patient's malady until more than half a hundred other inmates had been exposed to the danger of the deadly fever.

The latest victim in Astoria Martinelli, a young Austrian sailor who arrived in the city March 26, from Hamburg, on the steamship Moravia.

Immediately upon his arrival here Martinelli secured lodgings with a family in the big tenement at 285 West Thirty-fifth street.

Just a week ago to-day he was taken sick and Dr. E. Martinelli was called in to attend him. As he was unable to give his patient any relief, Dr. Martinelli recommended that Martinelli be removed to a hospital. His advice was accepted, and Tuesday evening Martinelli was removed to Roosevelt in an ambulance.

The physicians at Roosevelt did not at first succeed in properly diagnosing Martinelli's ailment, and it was not until last night that the discovery was made that he was suffering from typhus fever.

Last night, however, the symptoms developed so plainly that no doubt was felt that it was the genuine spotted typhus.

The Health Department was immediately notified and Martinelli was removed to the reception hospital for contagious diseases.

This afternoon he was taken to the hospital on North Brothers Island.

There were fifty patients in the ward at Roosevelt where Martinelli was confined when he was taken sick.

As soon as he was removed all the clothing which he had come in contact with was destroyed, the fifty other patients were disinfectant, the ward fumigated and quarantined.

The house 285 West Thirty-fifth street, where Martinelli lay sick several days, contains twenty families aggregating probably 100 persons.

To-day the sanitary authorities went there and destroyed every particle of clothing with which Martinelli could possibly have come into contact.

The house was thoroughly fumigated and the tenants placed under quarantine.

Much Excitement in Italy Over the "Mala Vita" Trials.

It Surrenders its Charter and Goes at Once into Liquidation.

A Chicago dispatch received last afternoon states that at a meeting of the stockholders of the Chicago Gas Company to-day there was retransferred in person or proxy about 200,000 shares out of the 250,000 shares.

The stockholders arrived at the unanimous conclusion that it was useless to continue the fight and undertake to secure a reversal of the ruling of the Supreme Court of Illinois as to the validity of the Gas Trust organization.

The Gas Trust Co. was organized for two purposes, one to hold the stocks of the various gas companies, and the other to erect plants and manufacture and distribute gas.

The Supreme Court having decided that the first purpose was illegal, and so steps having been taken by the Company to carry on business under the second power given it under its charter, it was decided that the charter should be surrendered and the trust dissolved.

EXTRA. THE TURE.

Strange Hopes Founded in a Curious New Jersey Bill.

Hudson County's Uprising.

Meeting at Louisville to Form a Saddle-Horse Association.

There is a bare chance, according to an article in to-day's World, that there will be racing at Moonstown and the other Jersey tracks this Summer. A bill, which is said to be the House substitute for Senate bill No. 85, was quietly run through, during the closing days of the session, and is now in the hands of Gov. Abbott, awaiting his signature. If he approves of it, there may be racing in New Jersey. If he vetoes it, then the last hope is gone.

The bill provides simply that all indictments, save for murder and treason, no matter in what court they are found, shall hereafter be tried only in the Court of General Sessions of the county in which the crime was committed, and the county law judges. This would bring all the bookmaker's cases before the county judges, and what benefit this will be cannot be seen, unless it is the purpose of the racing associations to hypnotize the county judges. (Hypnotize is a good word.)

Again, the proposed measure is a distinct reference upon the integrity of the Supreme Court judges, before whom these cases have been heretofore tried with disastrous results. There is a bare chance that Gov. Abbott may sign this bill, but the necessity for such a measure is not apparent.

Ever since the Hudson County Jockey Club three open its gates last November the citizens of Hudson County have been clamoring and protesting against the violation of the law of the State of New Jersey without a murmur. Now that the meeting has only a few days to run, there is a great hue and cry raised against the Hudson County Jockey Club, and petitions are being sent to the Governor, and the Governor is being urged to suspend the license of the Jockey Club.

He does not mention the Guttenberg race-track as a New York City institution, but he intimates as much. The citizens of Hudson County are awakened to their sense of duty to-day, and they are determined to take the birds will have flown to other lands.

Another danger that threatens the Hudson County Jockey Club officials has appeared in the shape of Peter the Leecher. The latter has been informed that the Dreyers have not sold their shares to Guttenberg officials, but that they have retained their shares. Unless Mr. De Lacer receives assurance that such is not the case he will resume the crusade that made him famous last year.

The death rate for the past twenty-four hours has increased. The records show that to-day showed 200 deaths, which is the highest recorded on any one day this year.

The next highest number recorded was on April 1, when there were 200 deaths reported. Within the past twenty-four hours there were eighteen deaths from La Grippe.

They comprised six men, two women, seven boys, twenty-six children, and two boys, from six to fourteen.

There are 200 policemen reported sick.
