Kingston's Mayor has had sheets of white paper pasted over the pink legs of burlesque dancing girls. As an advertising agent for the troupe, the Mayor is an enormous snob. Minnesota is more consistent. She does not allow the live article on the stage.

PUBLIC SAFETY.
The bill to force the New York Central Railroad Company to make the Fourth Avenue Tunnel safe will come up in the Legislature to-morrow, when it is hoped favorable action will be taken. In the instance of its passing, the State Railroad Commission will be empowered to order the necessary changes in the Fourth Avenue Tunnel. In its original form the changes were made mandatory. But in order to get legislation at all Mr. BYRNE and Mr. SULLIVAN accepted the amendment, understanding that measures will be taken to make the tunnel safe. With THE EVENING WORLD, their desire is the safety of the public.

Chicago's election is as crooked as New York's used to be in the days of TIERNY. The cheating is so general that it is a case of pot and kettle.

Emperor WILLIAM suppresses news that does not suit him. The public is becoming acquainted with him by degrees. Extend the time of the flower market and let cut flowers be sold as well as plants.

SPOTLETS.
Goodwood said the late snowstorm reminded him of the great blizzards of 1848. Goodwood must be wassened by the grip.

Men may be monstrous, clumsy and crude, but it is a fact nevertheless that the women belonging to their trades unions command salaries that all the women combined fail to secure for themselves or others.

One of the large apartment buildings in town, were I chance to be the other day, in a peculiar way. The cafe is unoccupied, no successor having yet been found to the man who lately left. The lease of an apartment house is a very profitable one. On a day of pouring rain the tenants are in a hurry to get out of the building, and the rent is not much less than in a clear day.

It is not unusual in New York City to see funeral wreaths on the door of bereaved households. In case of an adult, laurel, ivy, palm and oak ferns are used with a bunch of flowers. There is not a variety of trimming about the low-cut neck, and she wears nothing either beneath or above it. A short petticoat of India silk appears beneath the dress. There were three farewell performances in the city Saturday night, and saying was soon sorrow as Juliet would say—at Palmer's, where Mr. Willard speeched himself away; at the Amberg, where the Menchenbach had an ovation, and at Daly's, where Augustus made a few pleasing remarks in a polished, Chesterfieldian manner. Willard had a new program for his farewell, and appeared in H. J. Bryan's two-act comedy, entitled "Old Soldiers," and in a farce called "My Wife's Debut." Both of these were undoubtedly selected to show the versatility of the actor. Mr. Willard's work was extremely good, though it was clear that the English actor was wise when he forewent for himself more fame in semi-melodramatic plays than in farcical efforts. Both of these were good, and were a relief for himself in America. His engagement was not a successful success. He stayed too long. Nobody but Sarah could have remained at Palmer's Theatre for such a length of time, and with unnumbered success. Mr. Willard, after taking a deep at Niagara, sails for England, to return here next season.

Those who are interested in Sarah—any one who isn't will please hold up one hand—with the idea that she will play in Detroit tonight, in Indianapolis to-morrow and Wednesday, in St. Louis Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and in Denver the first two days of next week. On the 9th, after having played in San Francisco, Sarah and her company sail for Australia.

Max Freeman says that the version of "Thou Shalt Not," which was removed from the Union Square, was very unlike that which came from his pen. "I gave freely and clean play," said Mr. Freeman, "and I was not in a situation after season, I couldn't do anything in the matter. It wasn't my business."

It isn't a trick to eat a glass sandwich. Just put a thin piece of glass between a couple of pieces of bread, and when the bread goes down, down goes the glass. You people think it's hard on the stomach, but that's only imagination. I saw a fellow do it, and I did it ten minutes afterwards. Broke my glass with my teeth, stepped on it. You watch the fellows that do it. First they stir the glass up with a stick to make you think they're trying to get the sharp pieces out. They're just turning the sharp points out. But a fellow may have real dry feet or he can't do that. I his foot and you're able to stand a pretty hot piece of iron. We don't run any risks, but mix a little paste and lots of borax. We put a coat of this on our feet. It's not a trick, it's a fact. You can fill your mouth with borax, lay lots of it on your tongue and lick a red-hot poker. It makes a little flame, and when the sharp pieces of iron are all the same, you're safe.
