

18,411 "WANTS" published Last Week in THE WORLD. "WANTS" published 17,714 previous week.

LAST EDITION. IN THE DRAG-NET.

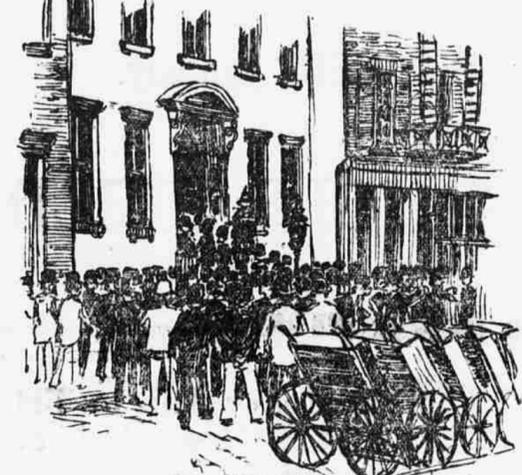

Many Blond Men with Mustaches Arrested on Suspicion

Not Identified as the East River Hotel Ripper, and Set Free.

Byrnes' Detectives Not Yet Sure of the Murderer's Identity.

The Mutilated Victim to Be Buried Thursday, Maybe in Potter's Field.

After three days and nights of unremitting search on the part of the shrewdest and most experienced detectives of Inspector Byrnes' staff, added by the entire force of Capt. O'Connor's precinct, the hunt for the murderer of Carrie Brown, alias Shakespeare, in the East River Hotel last Thursday night is still at large.

SCENE AT OAK STREET STATION.

Attention points to the fact that the brutal crime was committed by Frenchy No. 2, the cousin of the man who was arrested the day after the murder, and who is known by the same name.

Except for the fact that the Frenchy now under arrest has dark hair and a swarthy complexion, Mary Minter, who saw "Shakespeare" and her companion go to their room on the top floor of the hotel late Thursday night, says that the resemblance between the two men is very strong.

The Frenchy who is now wanted by the police has light mustache and long nose described by Mary Minter, and he is known to be one of the most desperate characters in the neighborhood.

All the women who frequent the vile resorts in Water street and along the river front are well acquainted with him, and on more than one occasion it is told that he threatened the lives of the abandoned women with whom he associated.

At one time he lived with a woman known as Dublin Mary at Mrs. Harrington's lodging-house at 49 Oliver street, where Carrie Brown also used to stay, and afterwards at Mrs. Finnegan's at 80 James street.

Both of these women tell of the brutal character of the man, and Dublin Mary herself has been found by the police and questioned in regard to his bestial practices. She has told them all she knows about him, and she had not been placed under arrest or detained as a witness because it is believed by the police that she can be found readily whenever she is wanted in case her quarrelsome temper is cast loose.

LOUIS HANNEMAN GETS IT.

Made Corporation Attorney in Place of Louis Steckler.

A Young Tammany Lawyer Who Has Always Lived in the Tenth District.

Corporation Counsel Clark to-day filed the vacancy occasioned by the resignation by Louis Steckler of the office of Corporation Attorney.

His appointee is Louis Hanneman, who is a resident of the Tenth Assembly District, and was also his predecessor.

Mr. Hanneman did not follow the Stecklers out when they resigned from Tammany Hall, but cast his fortunes with Senator Rosch, the new leader in the district, who recommended, in fact urged, his appointment.

The salary is $4,000 a year and the term of office is indefinite.

Louis Hanneman is thirty-three years old and resides in the Tenth District all his life. He lives at 45 Seventh street and his law office is at 115 Nassau street.

In 1875 he entered the law office of ex-Senator Jacob A. Gross and of ex-Judge Michael C. Gross and was admitted to the bar in 1879. He entered Tammany Hall and was from that year to date including 1888, Secretary of the General Committee of Tammany Hall for the Tenth District.

He is now a member of the Committee on Organization, in a neighborhood of Company B of the Thirty-second Regiment, into which he enlisted in 1861, and is a member of numerous musical, social, literary and scientific associations in the city.

There was much joy this morning among the racing fraternity over the announcement that the pool-rooms in this city, which have been closed during the past week by an order from Acting Superintendent Byrnes, will reopen tomorrow on the advice of lawyers Howe & Hamel.

Though the nature of the business, which is the "placing of bets," will practically remain the same, the proprietors will be known as "commission merchants." Under this title the pool-room men believe they can conduct their business without interference from the authorities.

"The pool-rooms will not be reopened," said Lawyer Howe to an EVENING WORLD reporter. "That is a mistake. Pool-rooms are not so much a nuisance as some persons are going into a legitimate commission business for the placing of bets at race-tracks."

"These persons will open their places of business, perhaps to-night, but certainly tomorrow, and their business will be carried on in the open air, and the money telegraphed there when it is needed."

"The business will be advertised in the newspapers, and everything done fairly and squarely."

"This is the result of the recent decisions in the Wynin and Pake cases, when it was said that if the commission men could be opened if the strict letter of the law were enforced."

MR. HARRISON'S INJURED SISTER. The President Will Go to Her if No Better Tidings Come.

Special to the EVENING WORLD. Mrs. Harrison visited her injured sister, Mrs. Eaton, who was injured yesterday from a runaway accident at Cleveland, Ohio.

First dispatches announced that Mrs. Eaton was fatally hurt. Later it was said there was a bare chance for her recovery.

The President visited this morning, that unless Mrs. Eaton recovers she should be taken to night for his sister's home in North Bend, O. Mrs. Eaton lives in the old home of her grandfather, William Henry Harrison.

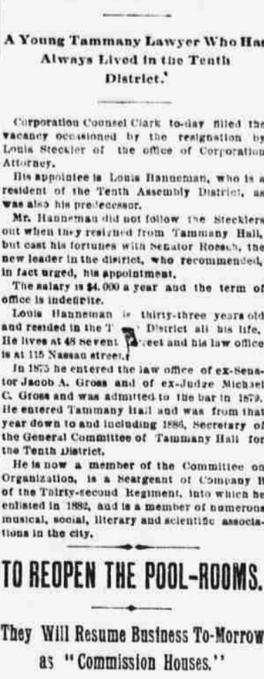

CINCINNATI, O., April 27.—Information from Cleveland at 11 o'clock to-day was to the effect that Mrs. Eaton recovers from her injuries, and it is thought she can be removed from the hospital to her home some time to-day. She had regained consciousness, and the prospects for her recovery are more favorable.

Her niece, Mrs. Bessie Odgers, of Fern Bank and Mrs. Col. B. W. Odgers, wife of the Collector of Internal Revenue, are among those who are with her.

Telegrams have been received from President Harrison and Mrs. Eaton's other brothers.

THE DARKEST HOUR IS JUST BEFORE THE DAWN.

ADJOURNMENT APRIL 30

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE

TO REOPEN THE POOL-ROOMS. They Will Resume Business To-Morrow as "Commission Houses."

There was much joy this morning among the racing fraternity over the announcement that the pool-rooms in this city, which have been closed during the past week by an order from Acting Superintendent Byrnes, will reopen tomorrow on the advice of lawyers Howe & Hamel.

Though the nature of the business, which is the "placing of bets," will practically remain the same, the proprietors will be known as "commission merchants." Under this title the pool-room men believe they can conduct their business without interference from the authorities.

"The pool-rooms will not be reopened," said Lawyer Howe to an EVENING WORLD reporter. "That is a mistake. Pool-rooms are not so much a nuisance as some persons are going into a legitimate commission business for the placing of bets at race-tracks."

"These persons will open their places of business, perhaps to-night, but certainly tomorrow, and their business will be carried on in the open air, and the money telegraphed there when it is needed."

"The business will be advertised in the newspapers, and everything done fairly and squarely."

"This is the result of the recent decisions in the Wynin and Pake cases, when it was said that if the commission men could be opened if the strict letter of the law were enforced."

MR. HARRISON'S INJURED SISTER. The President Will Go to Her if No Better Tidings Come.

Special to the EVENING WORLD. Mrs. Harrison visited her injured sister, Mrs. Eaton, who was injured yesterday from a runaway accident at Cleveland, Ohio.

First dispatches announced that Mrs. Eaton was fatally hurt. Later it was said there was a bare chance for her recovery.

The President visited this morning, that unless Mrs. Eaton recovers she should be taken to night for his sister's home in North Bend, O. Mrs. Eaton lives in the old home of her grandfather, William Henry Harrison.

CINCINNATI, O., April 27.—Information from Cleveland at 11 o'clock to-day was to the effect that Mrs. Eaton recovers from her injuries, and it is thought she can be removed from the hospital to her home some time to-day. She had regained consciousness, and the prospects for her recovery are more favorable.

Her niece, Mrs. Bessie Odgers, of Fern Bank and Mrs. Col. B. W. Odgers, wife of the Collector of Internal Revenue, are among those who are with her.

Telegrams have been received from President Harrison and Mrs. Eaton's other brothers.

CRASHED INTO THE CHICAGO.

Two Ferryboats in Collision in the North River.

The Pennsylvania ferryboat Chicago was struck by the ferryboat New Jersey, of the same line, in the North River this morning.

The collision occurred at 8:10 o'clock near the "Cottontail" street slip.

The Chicago's deck on the starboard side was stove in and the wheelbox was broken. The other row of seats was smashed.

Charles Perry, of 74 Cliff street, Jersey City, has his leg badly sprained.

The Chicago was taken back to Hoboken to be repaired.

Many working girls were on board and there was a slight panic.

The Chicago was making her 8:10 trip from Jersey City and the New Jersey had just pulled out of her slip when the crash came.

Whether it was the fault of Pilot Carroll, of the Chicago, or of Pilot Carroll, of the New Jersey, has not yet been determined.

The Chicago was struck just in front of the wheel on the starboard side. The men's cabin is located in this side of the boat, and the deck and wheelbox were splintered so as to leave only a narrow passage through the men's cabin.

The greater part of the passengers were out on the front deck, however, and it was not the reason the list of casualties was so small.

If the boat had been struck on the other side, where the women's cabin is located, the loss would doubtless have been many severely injured.

The Quotations. Amer. Sugar Ref. 92 1/2, 92 1/2, 92 1/2. Amer. Tobacco 100, 100, 100. Am. Cotton 100, 100, 100.

She Jumped into the Canal. Rose Conklin, a middle aged woman, jumped from the bridge near the Morris Canal works in consequence of the morning, but was rescued by Police Officer John Salomon, of the Fourth City Precinct.

Burned the Lime Too Quickly. About $600 damages was caused early this morning by a fire in James Brooks' lime-kiln, 60 to 62 West Fifty-third street.

A Foundling's Suspicious Death. The coroner's office has been notified to investigate the sudden death this morning of a foundling known as "Red," which had been put to sleep with Kate Morarty, 45 West Ninety-third street.

Fell from the Third Story. John Staben, of 30 Catherine street, fell out of the third story window a little after midnight this morning and received severe injuries. He was taken to Chambers street Hospital.

Laundryman Held as a Horse Thief. Thomas Morgan, a laundryman from Rochester, N. Y., was held on charge of stealing a horse and buggy from Benjamin E. Kelly, of 341 Ocean street.

Burned Down Her Stable. The frame stable owned by Augusta Lee, at One Hundred and Seventy-sixth street and Harlem river, was burned at 6 o'clock this morning. Loss, $1,500.

Dropped Dead at His Own Door. It is announced that John Clark, of No. 42 West Forty-eighth street, dropped dead in the hallway of his house early this morning.

A full account of Wall street Affairs will be found in THE EVENING WORLD'S 6 o'clock Journal.

CITY NEWS TERSELY TOLD.

To-Day's Record of Minor Happenings About Town.

New Haven Directors to Demur. Lawyer John M. Flowers appeared before Presiding Justice Van Brunt, sitting for Judge Barrett in the Court of Over and Terminus this morning, and in behalf of the indicted New Haven Board directors said he was suing to demur to the indictment and ask to have the ninth and seventh counts set aside. Argument was set down for Friday.

Swindled by an Old Film-Film Game. Salvatore Corona, a barber at 24 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, to-day caused Giovanni Russo to be arrested on the charge of swindling him out of a good watch and chain and $10 in bills. The story is the old one of a man who wanted $1,000 of American money changed into Italian currency before he sailed for home.

Even Shiploads of Immigrants. There were loaded at the Barge Office to-day 1,105 immigrants, completing the number of 4,615 which came on the eleven steamships arriving Saturday night and yesterday.

Used a Knife on a Fellow Lodger. Hugh Keenble, was held for trial at the Tombs Court to-day on the charge of stabbing Thomas Wood, in a quarrel at the Star Lodge, in the Park last night. Wood's injuries are not serious.

Boutton Iron Works Shut Down. The Boutton Iron and Steel Works at Boutton, N. J., shut down to-day for an indefinite period. The cause is a disagreement of the "ladlers" union with John Barker, President of the union, about $250 more or less to be paid by the shut down.

An Italian Uses a Razor. Hoboken police are looking for Michael Gueda, 125 Jefferson street, who last night in a quarrel over a game of cards cut Michael Tard in the back with a razor.

Found Insane on the Street. George Insane, of Hutterick, N. J., was found insane, at 15 o'clock this morning at the corner of West and Chambers streets, and was taken to the Hutterick Hospital.

Tarheels Reject Green Goods Offers. Mayor Grant is in daily receipt of letters from citizens of North Carolina, including circulars from "green look" dealers in this city. The Mayor has asked Acting Police Superintendent Byrnes to ferret out the swindlers.

She Jumped into the Canal. Rose Conklin, a middle aged woman, jumped from the bridge near the Morris Canal works in consequence of the morning, but was rescued by Police Officer John Salomon, of the Fourth City Precinct.

Burned the Lime Too Quickly. About $600 damages was caused early this morning by a fire in James Brooks' lime-kiln, 60 to 62 West Fifty-third street.

A Foundling's Suspicious Death. The coroner's office has been notified to investigate the sudden death this morning of a foundling known as "Red," which had been put to sleep with Kate Morarty, 45 West Ninety-third street.

Fell from the Third Story. John Staben, of 30 Catherine street, fell out of the third story window a little after midnight this morning and received severe injuries. He was taken to Chambers street Hospital.

Laundryman Held as a Horse Thief. Thomas Morgan, a laundryman from Rochester, N. Y., was held on charge of stealing a horse and buggy from Benjamin E. Kelly, of 341 Ocean street.

Burned Down Her Stable. The frame stable owned by Augusta Lee, at One Hundred and Seventy-sixth street and Harlem river, was burned at 6 o'clock this morning. Loss, $1,500.

Dropped Dead at His Own Door. It is announced that John Clark, of No. 42 West Forty-eighth street, dropped dead in the hallway of his house early this morning.

A full account of Wall street Affairs will be found in THE EVENING WORLD'S 6 o'clock Journal.

CHILIANS SINK A MONITOR.

President Balmaceda Now Afraid of Being Poisoned.

London, April 27.—A despatch from Chile announces that the warship Porcepe has gone over to the insurgents.

President Balmaceda is now so afraid of being poisoned that he has all his meals prepared by his mother.

Byrnes' Detectives Not Yet Sure of the Murderer's Identity.

Motion for New Trial of Gladys Evelyn's Suit Against Mr. Hurlbert.

London, April 27.—Miss Gladys Evelyn, the plaintiff in the Hurlbert case, to-day filed a motion for a new trial to be heard by the Court of Appeals on May 5.

Argentine Finances—New Metallic Notes to Be Issued.

London, April 27.—Advices from Buenos Ayres say that the charter for the new Banca Republica has been drawn.

The Chamber of Deputies proposes to issue metallic notes, and to withdraw the outstanding paper on the basis of $1 new for 12 of the old. Gold closed at 249 premium on Saturday.

The New Census Gives Paris 50,000 More Population.

Paris, April 27.—The new census shows an increase in the population of the French capital of 50,000.

Rosa's Deadly Stiletto.

Newark's Stabbing Affair Will Lead to a Murder Trial.

John Bulger, who was stabbed last night by the Italian Michael Rosa, was still alive at noon, but the doctors say his wound is fatal.

Tarheels Reject Green Goods Offers. Mayor Grant is in daily receipt of letters from citizens of North Carolina, including circulars from "green look" dealers in this city. The Mayor has asked Acting Police Superintendent Byrnes to ferret out the swindlers.

She Jumped into the Canal. Rose Conklin, a middle aged woman, jumped from the bridge near the Morris Canal works in consequence of the morning, but was rescued by Police Officer John Salomon, of the Fourth City Precinct.

Burned the Lime Too Quickly. About $600 damages was caused early this morning by a fire in James Brooks' lime-kiln, 60 to 62 West Fifty-third street.

A Foundling's Suspicious Death. The coroner's office has been notified to investigate the sudden death this morning of a foundling known as "Red," which had been put to sleep with Kate Morarty, 45 West Ninety-third street.

Fell from the Third Story. John Staben, of 30 Catherine street, fell out of the third story window a little after midnight this morning and received severe injuries. He was taken to Chambers street Hospital.

Laundryman Held as a Horse Thief. Thomas Morgan, a laundryman from Rochester, N. Y., was held on charge of stealing a horse and buggy from Benjamin E. Kelly, of 341 Ocean street.

Burned Down Her Stable. The frame stable owned by Augusta Lee, at One Hundred and Seventy-sixth street and Harlem river, was burned at 6 o'clock this morning. Loss, $1,500.

Dropped Dead at His Own Door. It is announced that John Clark, of No. 42 West Forty-eighth street, dropped dead in the hallway of his house early this morning.

THE BROOKLYNS.

This Is Their Opening Day Over in Eastern Park.

Gotham's Own Giants to Assist in the Ceremonies.

A Clever Lot of Ball-Players in President Byrnes' Team.

How They Have All Made Their Mark About the Diamond.

Brooklyn at Home, Season of 1901. (Set this out for your notebook.)

APRIL.—27, 28, with New York.

MAY.—1, 2, 4, 5, with Boston; 6, 7, 8, with Philadelphia; 20 (two games), with Pittsburgh; 21, with Pittsburgh; 24, 25, with Cincinnati; 26, 27, with Cincinnati; 28, 29, with Cincinnati; 30, with Cincinnati.

JULY.—1, 2, with Boston; 14, 20, 21, with New York; 22, 23, with Philadelphia.

AUGUST.—3, 4, 5, with Pittsburgh; 6, 7, 8, with Cleveland; 10, 11, 12, with Cincinnati; 13, 14, 15, with Chicago; 20, 21, 22, with Boston.

SEPTEMBER.—7, 8, 9, with Cincinnati; 12, 13, 17, 18, with Pittsburgh; 14, 15, 16, with Cincinnati; 17, 18, 19, with Cleveland; 24, 25, 26, with New York; 28, 29, 30, with Philadelphia.

It is Brooklyn's turn to open her League season to-day, and President Charles H. Byrnes has been looking forward as contentedly as a modest man could look to having Eastern Park with the biggest display of baseball, local enthusiasm, and Spring haze, to say nothing of band music and April blossoms, which that inebriate ever detest.

Gotham's giants are the appointed opponents of the Brooklyn's for the opening game, and to this fact is justly attached much of President Byrnes' confidence regarding the general excellence of the occasion.

His Brooklynish the National Champion ship emblem for 1901 and have dared to hope for that of 1901—a venture of hope in which many of the simple villagers across the big bridge keep their company.

Then why shouldn't the president of this champion club expand over the attractiveness of a contest between his true and tried men and the team which won the world's banner, in 1888 and 1889?

But to dwell for a moment on President Byrnes' modesty, which has been distantly referred to. It is a firmly established quality, indeed, and is so great as to have led its possessor on several occasions into a pathetic and eloquent plea that his picture should not be put into the newspapers. Except for this one fact, President Byrnes is all that a baseball magnate should be. His business ability made him a chief factor in the American Association, and since his Club went into the National League last year, he has been right at the front in that body's business and diplomatic transactions.

And that club—well, it is little wonder that the President finds his store of anecdotes unending. It is constantly declared that he could, if he would, produce a dictionary of smilies that would mark the beginning of a new era in that department of English rhetoric. Still, accomplished as he is in the respect, he has never been heard to admit that there is anything on or about the earth just like his baseball club.

And that club—well, it is little wonder that the President finds his store of anecdotes unending. It is constantly declared that he could, if he would, produce a dictionary of smilies that would mark the beginning of a new era in that department of English rhetoric. Still, accomplished as he is in the respect, he has never been heard to admit that there is anything on or about the earth just like his baseball club.

And that club—well, it is little wonder that the President finds his store of anecdotes unending. It is constantly declared that he could, if he would, produce a dictionary of smilies that would mark the beginning of a new era in that department of English rhetoric. Still, accomplished as he is in the respect, he has never been heard to admit that there is anything on or about the earth just like his baseball club.

And that club—well, it is little wonder that the President finds his store of anecdotes unending. It is constantly declared that he could, if he would, produce a dictionary of smilies that would mark the beginning of a new era in that department of English rhetoric. Still, accomplished as he is in the respect, he has never been heard to admit that there is anything on or about the earth just like his baseball club.

And that club—well, it is little wonder that the President finds his store of anecdotes unending. It is constantly declared that he could, if he would, produce a dictionary of smilies that would mark the beginning of a new era in that department of English rhetoric. Still, accomplished as he is in the respect, he has never been heard to admit that there is anything on or about the earth just like his baseball club.

And that club—well, it is little wonder that the President finds his store of anecdotes unending. It is constantly declared that he could, if he would, produce a dictionary of smilies that would mark the beginning of a new era in that department of English rhetoric. Still, accomplished as he is in the respect, he has never been heard to admit that there is anything on or about the earth just like his baseball club.

And that club—well, it is little wonder that the President finds his store of anecdotes unending. It is constantly declared that he could, if he would, produce a dictionary of smilies that would mark the beginning of a new era in that department of English rhetoric. Still, accomplished as he is in the respect, he has never been heard to admit that there is anything on or about the earth just like his baseball club.

JOHN M. WARR.

Gotham's giants are the appointed opponents of the Brooklyn's for the opening game, and to this fact is justly attached much of President Byrnes' confidence regarding the general excellence of the occasion.

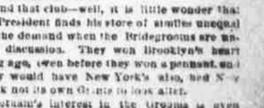

DARRYL O'BRIEN.

But to dwell for a moment on President Byrnes' modesty, which has been distantly referred to. It is a firmly established quality, indeed, and is so great as to have led its possessor on several occasions into a pathetic and eloquent plea that his picture should not be put into the newspapers. Except for this one fact, President Byrnes is all that a baseball magnate should be.

DAVE FOURT.

In conversation, Mr. Byrnes is a continual surfer, owing to his wonderful wealth of smilies. It is constantly declared that he could, if he would, produce a dictionary of smilies that would mark the beginning of a new era in that department of English rhetoric.

TOM BURNS.

And that club—well, it is little wonder that the President finds his store of anecdotes unending. It is constantly declared that he could, if he would, produce a dictionary of smilies that would mark the beginning of a new era in that department of English rhetoric. Still, accomplished as he is in the respect, he has never been heard to admit that there is anything on or about the earth just like his baseball club.