

CLEVELAND AT BUFFALO. FIRST VISIT TO HIS OLD HOME SINCE 1865.

Two Speeches Varying in Character, but Both Good.

ENTHUSIASTIC WELCOME BY THE GERMAN YOUNG MEN'S ASSOCIATION.

The Influence of Teutonic Thought and Character in America Extolled—Patriotism of German-Americans Acknowledged—Witty After-Dinner Remarks at a Friendly Banquet.

(SPECIAL TO THE WORLD.)

Buffalo, May 11.—For the first time in more than five years... Mr. Cleveland stepped from the Occoquan, the car in which he had made the trip from New York...

Mr. Cleveland breakfasted in his private parlor, and then with Mr. Bissell drove through various parts of the city and through the park.

The afternoon was spent very quietly. Mr. Cleveland refused at all times to talk for publication, and on the subject of politics he was dumb as the additional system.

Shortly before 7 o'clock to-night the Reception Committee of the German Young Men's Association called at the front to escort Mr. Cleveland to the Music Hall.

The disaster which soon after overtook the Association, involving the destruction of the Music Hall, was a great calamity.

Understand that among the prominent purposes of the German Young Men's Association are the preparation and production of a history of German literature and the cultivation and encouragement of the best elements of German character.

So far as the first of these objects is concerned, I hope I may be permitted to say that while the efforts of the Association in the direction mentioned are most praiseworthy and patriotic, such an undertaking by no means is monopolized by any one association.

On behalf of the German Young Men's Association, I am inclined also to claim to-night that the German character in America is not only a desirable one to cultivate, but it is also the growth and progress of our country.

At a time when our young Republic is the land of German immigration, it is not surprising that the German character in America is not only a desirable one to cultivate, but it is also the growth and progress of our country.

never for a moment losing sight of the better day promised by the future to undaunted courage and persistent industry.

GERMAN-AMERICAN PATRIOTISM. Thus before the American nation has lived one hundred years, our German population had grown to millions, and constituted an important ingredient in the mass of American activity.

I hardly think there is any city in the land which has so many German people as Buffalo. On every side within our limits are seen the evidences of their presence.

I cannot resist the temptation to introduce here the thought that no such success has been achieved by any other nationality in our people and our government.

As the members of the German Young Men's Association contemplate the steadfast love of country which belongs to the man who character, they will enforce the lesson that this sentiment is so essentially the strength and vigor of a nation.

At the conclusion of the address the applause was deafening, and if any doubt as to the popularity among the Germans of the city it does not exist now, for they seemed to be with one voice.

After the exercises at Music Hall Mr. Cleveland rode back to the Ingotons, where he had a very sumptuous dinner.

He observed he has not since he got out of the city and he was not at all other outgrown it.

Just at this point it occurs to me that I have allowed myself to get on a wrong track and that I should have mentioned those latter recollections, illustrating how rapidly Buffalo's soil and atmosphere developed a man of the stature of the man who is now before you.

I feel that I can but feebly express my appreciation of the courtesy of this occasion, because I have enjoyed the kindly greeting of our friends and I know that you will all agree with me that it was a most pleasant surprise.

The other toasts and speakers were: "The Fifty-second Congress," Daniel Lockwood; "Democratic Mayors of Buffalo," Charles F. Bissell; "German-American Community," William W. Sheehan; "The Buffalo Democracy," Wilson S. Bissell; "The Buffalo Young Men's Association," Philip A. Larkin; "Tariff Reform," Frank M. Thorne.

At 11 o'clock in the evening Mr. Cleveland will have the day to himself. At that hour the Reception Committee of the German Young Men's Association will meet in the new club-house on Washington street, where Mr. Cleveland will make another speech.

It is not making the roadway pedestrianized—the roadway encroached.

WASHINGTON, May 11.—The latest news from Mississippi is encouraging to the Democrats. The Farmers' Alliance movement, which threatened at one time to cause serious divisions throughout the State, is now being rapidly suppressed.
