HIS LIFE AGAIN AT STAKE.

Theatrical Manager Waterman's Second Trial for Murder.

Selecting a New Jury to Try Peter Doran's Slayer.

AND H. Waterman, well known as the manager of the Lyceum Theatre in Williamsburg, who has been in jail since April 10, 1900, for the alleged murder of Peter Doran, a laborer, was again placed on trial for his life this morning in the Court of Oyer and Terminer in Brooklyn.

Waterman was tried last November and the jury disagreed. His plea was self-defense. The crime was most sensational. Doran and his wife had been married four years, and a little girl five months of age.

Mrs. Doran is a pretty blonde. She was the daughter of Chief Fisher Peterson, of the Lee Avenue Academy of Music, and her husband for theatres and the company of more than her husband caused many quarrels, which resulted in a separation.

Waterman frequently escorted Mrs. Doran from the Lyceum Theatre, and it was rumored that they were living on unduly intimate terms. On the night of April 10, 1900, Doran did not see his wife for several weeks, nor with Waterman at Leonard and Meserole streets. He upbraided her.

It was a few minutes before midnight and the streets were deserted. What happened may never be explained, but shortly after the men met Doran was shot and Doran was found lying dead.

Waterman is a short, slender, dark-complexioned man with a high forehead. He is a native of New York and was educated in the city. He is now in his thirtieth year.

OUR SEVENTH UNDER TENTS.

Company Drill This Morning in a Drizzling Rain.

The Pets of the Metropolitans Show Their Soldierly Abilities.

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.) STATE CAPT. PERKINS, N. Y., June 22.—The rain was pouring down this morning at 5 o'clock when the 7th Regiment of the Metropolitan Police drilled in a manner that would put the heart of a professional black and white.

At six o'clock a large number of men in their several cases of drizzle for drill attended to it. It is wonderful what magnetism there is about the sergeant's quarters on a wet morning.

Drill ground was performed at 8:30 o'clock with Capt. C. E. Lydecker, of Company H, as Officer of the Day. First Lieut. Stephen W. Merrill, of Company B, Senior Officer of the Regiment and Lieut. William J. Underwood, of Company I, as Junior Officer of the Guard.

The ceremony was carried on in true Seventh Regiment style. Two guards are assigned to each day now, one at 8:30 a. m. the other at 6 p. m.

The guard relieved this morning were well equipped after passing their beats all night in the heavy rain.

As yesterday was Sunday, the usual drill of the company was made good use of. But from now till next Saturday Capt. Appleton will put the company through an elaborate drill of the life of the soldier.

The boys enjoyed seeing their city friends yesterday and today, and the latter were glad to see them. The boys are well equipped after passing their beats all night in the heavy rain.

CUT IT OUT OF HIS THROAT.

Little Frank Albro Got a Watermelon Seed Crosswise.

To-Day He Breathes Through a Silver Tube, but Soon'll Be All Right.

Watermelons are not an expensive luxury, but not many are good for little Frank Albro, and so Grandpa Albro carried a nice fat, juicy slice of the berries to his little grandchild's room when he visited him at his home, on Baxter street.

That is how it happens that the six-year-old is lying in a white cot at Chambers Street Hospital to-day with a hole in his windpipe and a silver tube for a trachea.

Grandpa watched the youngster grow away the first summer in his life with a keener joy than the King of his heart got out of eating it.

But just as the last red morsel was disappearing down the juvenile throat, the attentive grandpa looked on. Frank choked, coughed and coughed again.

He frocked his face turned as red as the meat of the disappearing melon, and he breathed hard.

Mamma Albro, a delicate little woman of not more than twenty-two years, was alarmed.

Grandpa pounded frantically on the back. Mamma got a cup of water and Papa William Albro stood about in perturbed bewilderment. The doctor, who took the boy to the hospital, ran and ran with him to Chambers Street Hospital.

Dr. Van Rensselaer found that the seed had lodged in the windpipe just below the larynx. The doctor applied a keener force than the King of his heart got out of eating it.

When he failed, the seed seemed inclined to get stuck in the opening, almost stopping the boy's breathing.

Dr. Stevens, of New York Hospital, was sent for and he decided that the only way to get that watermelon seed out of the boy's throat was by tracheotomy.

FOREIGN NEWS OF THE DAY. ANOTHER TUNNEL TRAGEDY.

Peasants Shot Down in a Riot Stirred Up by Socialists.

(By Associated Press.) BUDAPEST, June 22.—At Batorony, Hungary, yesterday, a mob of 100 laborers, incited by Socialist agitators, attacked the town hall at that place, and would probably have wrecked the building had it not been for the desperate resistance made by a small force of gendarmes.

The gendarmes fired upon the mob, killed four of the rioters upon the spot, and severely wounded seven others. This checked the mob's further advance, and the authorities soon after completely restored order.

LAST EDITION.

FOUR JURORS TO TRY DEPEW.

Trial of the Indicted New Haven Railroad Directors Begun.

Charged with Causing Six Deaths in the Fourth Avenue Tunnel.

Only one case was on the calendar of the Special Term of Oyer and Terminer which was opened by Judge Van Brunt at 11 o'clock this morning.

It was entitled The People against Charles P. Clark, Wilson G. Hunt, E. H. Trowbridge, William D. Bishop, Nathaniel Wheeler, Henry C. Robinson, Edward M. Reed, Joseph Park, Chauncey M. Depew, Henry P. Lee, William H. Rockefeller and Leavitt B. Brannan. The indicted officials of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, whom the Grand Jury held responsible for the terrible accident which caused the loss of six lives Feb. 20 last in the Fourth Avenue Tunnel.

Lawyer John M. Bowers for the Directors, was assisted by Henry W. Tarrant, attorney for the Railroad Company, Thomas A. Theodor and James M. Townsend, Jr.

On the other side were District-Attorney Nichol and his assistants, Mr. Welch and Mr. Sempie. They announced that they were ready to proceed, and District-Attorney Nichol called out the names of a dozen or more witnesses who had been subpoenaed to attend the trial. Most of them were present.

The only members of the Indicted Board of Directors on hand at the opening of the proceedings were Charles E. Clarke, Henry G. Johnson and Edward M. Reed.

It was expected that Mr. Depew would be in court later in the day and perhaps Mr. Rockefeller and Mr. Bishop.

The work of getting a jury began at once. A special jury called by the State had been drawn, and the first man called to the stand proved acceptable to both sides, and was sworn in as Juror No. 1.

He was William Hendricks, a naturalized citizen of New York, a broker, and Morris J. Meyer, a silk importer, had both formed very positive opinions on the subject, and they were sworn in as Juror No. 2.

Edward Schantz, a clothing merchant, was Daniel Lyons, a retired Eighth avenue baker.

Nicholas A. Werner, a Washington Market fruit dealer, was the fourth Juror sworn before recess.

RHETT DENIES EVERYTHING.

The Alleged Abductor of Little Girls Testifies for Himself.

In the trial of William B. Rhett to-day in General Sessions, on the charge of assaulting Polly Morris and Katie Flynn, the little New York City flower girls, Henry Minard, a Savannah merchant, Edward C. Oppenheim, William H. La Boyette, Henry C. Fortson and the prisoner alone, William B. Rhett, of 34 West Seventeenth street, testified to his good character.

The latter's testimony went to prove an alibi for Rhett on the night the alleged assault took place.

The prisoner took the stand in his own behalf at 12:30 o'clock. He denied positively that he had ever seen Polly Morris before the night he was arrested; he had never walked with her in the streets, but he had been in a cab with her or with Katie Flynn; he had never engaged Catharine Lally to take girls to the park.

Assistant District-Attorney McIntyre spent considerable time in cross-examining Rhett to clinch the matter of Rhett's identification, and Col. Fellows, of Rhett's court, limited the identification in the Police Court.

Recess was taken at 1 o'clock.

LAST OF A BOLD BURGLAR.

George Faeth, Who Put Away "Kid" McManus, Buried To-Day.

Inspector Byrne stood at the window of his office at Police Headquarters this morning watching a funeral procession pass.

"There goes the last of George Faeth," mused the Inspector, as the hearse was slowly driven by, followed by several carriages.

Faeth was the burglar who created one of the biggest sensations the Eighth Avenue District has known by turning states evidence against the master of Rhett's identification, and Col. Fellows, of Rhett's court, limited the identification in the Police Court.
