

MONDAY EVENING, JULY 13.

SAILED TO DEATH. Iron Merchant Louis Caemmerer and Two Companions Drowned.

Their Naphtha Launch Capsized Off Long Beach. One Survivor Rescued After Clinging to a Buoy for Hours.

Louis Caemmerer, a well-to-do iron merchant at 40 E. Kalb avenue, Brooklyn, was on board the launch when it was wrecked off Long Beach, a manufacturer of underwear at 254 State street, Brooklyn, is supposed to have been drowned off Long Beach, by the capsizing of Mr. Caemmerer's naphtha launch.

Caemmerer and Norwood accompanied a party of seven sailboat men from East Rockaway to Rockaway beach, where they separated, Caemmerer and Norwood, with Dennis, going on board the former's launch.

Nothing has been heard of them since, except through Louis White, of East Rockaway, skipper of the launch, who was picked up late yesterday afternoon while clinging to the big red and black bell buoy off Coney Island Point.

The man was almost completely exhausted when rescued by a pleasure party in the yacht Agnes Dean.

He told of the launch being upset on the beach. He saw nothing of the others after the capsizing, and is positive they were drowned.

White himself caught sight of the launch as he was lifted high up on the crest of a big wave, and after a hard struggle succeeded in swimming to it.

George Norwood is a single man, thirty years old, and lives with his parents at Flatbush, L. I.

He is in the wireworks business at 349 Adams street, Brooklyn, in company with his father, Joseph, and his brother, Edmund H., who also lives at Flatbush.

Edmund H. Norwood told an Evening World reporter this morning that his brother went to East Rockaway yesterday morning to go out with Caemmerer in his naphtha launch.

He did not return either to his home or to the store at 10 o'clock this morning, and Mr. Norwood feared that he had been drowned.

"He was accustomed to go out with Mr. Caemmerer frequently," said Mr. Norwood, "although we had urged him to quit and again not to do so."

"We did not think Mr. Caemmerer was capable of running the launch any way, and besides that, we didn't believe that the boat was safe."

"I shall go to East Rockaway as soon as I can get a train and make an investigation for myself."

MR. CAEMMERER'S NEAREST FRIENDS. Edward Dunn, of 82 Flatbush avenue, who is in business with his brother-in-law, Mr. Caemmerer, at 40 E. Kalb avenue, also went to East Rockaway this morning to investigate the startling rumors concerning Caemmerer's drowning with Norwood and Dennis.

Before leaving he called at Norwood's place of business, on Adams street, but could learn nothing.

All that he knew was that Caemmerer had not shown up at his place of business nor at his cottage at East Rockaway.

Mr. Caemmerer resided during the summer at East Rockaway with his wife and family in a fine cottage, which was very comfortable and had stables attached. He kept several horses, and was somewhat of a sporting man.

He made frequent excursions on the launch Ethel with parties of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Caemmerer formerly resided at 9 Hanson place, Brooklyn.

SPORTING NEWS AND NOTES. Joe McAnulle Makes Brooklyn's "Strong Boy" a Liberal Offer.

Lights of the Pugilistic Arena Won't Fight for Small Purse Nowadays.

The New Yorks and Brooklyn's will finish their Western tour the middle of this week, and the Giants will meet the Grays on their own grounds at Eastern Park Saturday.

The standing of the clubs up to date are as shown by the following table:

Table with columns: League, Won, Lost, etc. for various teams.

The Oriental Athletic Club will hold a beach party Tuesday, July 28, at Rockaway Beach. The Entertainment Committee are springing no pains or expense in their efforts to make it a memorable affair.

The Concord Fishing Club entertained a number of their friends yesterday at their clubhouse and a pleasant day was enjoyed by all.

Quite a large number of sporting men were present yesterday at the opening of Callahan's new golf grounds at the foot of Court street, south Brooklyn. Several very interesting games were played.

Jimmy Carroll, who is training Bob Fitzsimmons for his big fight of July 22, has been advised to put his spare money in the future in gold, as the market for the precious metal is so good, while Carroll's $2,000 in cash is gone forever.

The Atlantic Row and Gun Club shoot at American Bay, their grounds at Coney Island this afternoon.

There was a time when pugilists thought they were in favor when they got from $5 to $10 for a ten-round glove contest. Now, however, they are getting from $20 to $50, and $100,000, and are insulted when offered less.

Nearly all the boat clubs located on the shores of the Harlem river were represented on the water yesterday. It was a beautiful day, and the members of the various clubs had things pretty much their own way, as the wind was in their favor.

Joe McAnulle evidently does not lack much stock in Jack Fallon's pugilistic challenge to Jake Kilrain of Jack Ashton. McAnulle is going to have a match tomorrow night at the Metropolitan Club, and says he will be glad to meet him if he will present Brooklyn's "strong boy" as a challenger.

Arrangements were made yesterday at New York for the coming of the three champions, Justice Galtieri, for $500 a side, between Jack Dougherty and W. P. Thompson, a new breed who has shown considerable ability.

Mills' fighting dog Torney, who killed Signer from New York in the fighting three hours, has been matched to fight Boston's famous fighting dog Badger, at twenty-five dollars a side, on Monday night, at the Metropolitan Club, and will take place within 100 miles of New York on Aug. 10.

Jimmy Lynch and Jimmy Larkins, the two champions of the world in the light flyweight class, agreed to sign articles to-day to fight before the Granite Association, of Hoboken for a purse of $2,000.

Robert Magee, the swimming instructor of the Manhattan Athletic Club, is anxious to swim any man in America a one-mile race for from $250 to $500 a side, in Hudson river, this city, or down Lake Erie, or Boston, preferred.

The annual regatta of the Friendship Boat Club will be held on the Harlem River Saturday, Aug. 1.

Among the Wheelmen. The Gotham Wheelmen refuse to honor any challenge to a race with the Brooklyn Bicycle Wheelmen, until he delivers to Mr. Martin, of the Gotham, the medal won at the Irvington-Milburn race.

There was a very important meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Gotham Wheelmen, held at the club house yesterday night. Important business was transacted.

Mr. Joseph Ernst, of the Gotham Wheelmen, is one of the most prominent of that club, which he has been riding to Albany on his wheel, which he has just returned from.

Unattached wheelmen are cordially invited to visit the city club-house of the Gotham Wheelmen, and to enjoy the many pleasures and to show every courtesy.

As soon as Mr. Martin's, of the Gotham, six-inch bicycle, which he has just returned from Albany, will be heard from.

Capt. Benj. Weiner, of the Gotham Wheelmen, is one of the most prominent of that club, which he has been riding to Albany on his wheel, which he has just returned from.

Second Lieut. A. E. Miller is considered the best cyclist in the city. He is anxious to swim any man in America a one-mile race for from $250 to $500 a side, in Hudson river, this city, or down Lake Erie, or Boston, preferred.

On July 19 the Brooklyn Bicycle Club will hold a race to Staten Island, and on July 20 they will go to the city to hold a race on the Hudson river.

W. P. Murphy and Hyland Smith, of the New York Athletic Club, will meet in the safety challenge race on the Hudson river, on Friday and Saturday next. It will be a hot contest.

The New Jersey State championship race will be held at Asbury Park next month.

The New York Athletic Club have called the following challenge race for this month, July 15, to take place on the Hudson river, on Friday and Saturday next.

The Record Committee of the National Cyclists' Union have accepted the quarter-mile flying start race, to be held on the Hudson river, on Friday and Saturday next.

The run to Staten Island, which was held on July 19, was a very enjoyable one. The weather was fine, and the race was won by the Brooklyn Bicycle Club.

WALLS. STOCK REPORTS. Wall Street Business in a State Approaching Stagnation.

Rumors of More Gold Shipments Have Slight Effect.

Sugar Trust Shares Score a Decline—The Quotations.

Speculation at the Stock Exchange continued today, the market opening this morning slightly lower, and then improved about 1/4 to 1/2 per cent. Burlington & Quincy, St. Paul, Big Four, Lake Shore and New England leading.

Later, weakness set in and the gain noted was lost, owing to rumors of fresh gold shipments. The sterling exchange market is hardening again and discounts are also higher in London.

The sales of listed stocks up to midday were only $1,000,000.

The Court of Appeals has reaffirmed the decision of the lower courts establishing the point that the first quarter of the June, but reached by an attachment through lawyers.

The decision is an appeal in the case of Henry C. Bowen against a number of the old Open Book of Brokers, which was afterwards consolidated with the New York Stock Exchange.

Mr. Bowen undertakes to reach the membership of this member in the Open Book of Brokers and afterwards did not execute on that same membership and went through the forms of selling the stock. Then Mr. Bowen brought suit against the New York Stock Exchange for damages.

Stocks in the late trading were weak for American Sugar common, the last hour, but slightly better for the general list. The decline in sugar was equal to 1/2 per cent, while for other shares it varied about 1/4 to 1/2 per cent.

The market was dull almost to stagnation, and for the first quarter of the June, but reached by an attachment through lawyers.

The slight improvement near the close was due to the covering of short contracts by the "bulls," who had sold on the unfounded rumors of gold shipments.

The Treasury department today purchased 100,000 ounces of silver, and the amount offered and paid $1,000,000.

The sales at the New York Stock exchange were $7,000,000 of listed stocks and 1,000,000 ounces of silver.

The Closing Quotations.

BAD NEWS AND GOOD NEWS.

Good news and bad news may often be strangely intermixed. It is sad news to every healthy and comfortable citizen of New York when he is told that near him are such scenes of suffering and woe as...

The Evening World pictures from time to time in its stories of the free physicians' visits to the tenement-houses. It is good news to every man and woman with a heart when it is made known that the visits of these physicians are productive of untold relief and blessing to the children of the very poor.

Tidings of both sorts should work alike upon the benevolence of those to whom the word is brought. It should loosen purse strings readily for this cause of humanity. The fund which supports the work of the free doctors needs constant renewal, and every cent placed in its credit will yield an abundant return in self-satisfaction to the giver.

A Pittsburg wife put Paris green in her husband's beer. At first Paris green is a harmless thing for her to have done. But it was not so. She wanted to enjoy in widowhood and peace a $60,000 legacy which had been a bone of constant contention in the household.

They are making constant efforts at Bar Harbor, it is said, to keep Mr. Deane amused. The Plumed Knight would be fortunate if he were in such condition that the newspaper discussions over his health could contribute to this end.

Senator Hancock says the one choice for Governor among the Republicans is Mr. Dewey. But right on top of that he intimates that one of the biggest Republicans of them all may prefer some one else. That is Mr. Dewey himself.

The flower mat at Union Square is closed for the summer. Its first season has been brief but brilliant, and many old friends and new ones will welcome its fragrant return.

Scandals and still scandals among the titled folk. What a play upon words it is to speak of "the nobility" as a whole.

The CLEANER. A friend of mine who returned not long ago from a fishing trip in the Adirondacks relates an exciting experience he had after striking an eight-pound laker on a light fly rod. He was obliged to play the big fellow for fully half an hour before the prize was finally landed. At every five the slender tackle seemed on the point of going to pieces, and the tapering bamboo was bent almost double with the frantic rushes of the trout to the deep water whenever he was brought near the surface. It was great sport, and a dozen other fishermen watched the performance with envious eyes.

Back of the Fourth avenue car stables is a vacant lot, overlooked by Thirty-fourth street, which is just now used as a storage place for the electric cars that were formerly run by the company. They stand out there in all sorts of weather and the effect of rain and sunshine upon their once gorgeously colored and decorated exterior is very apparent. The varnish and paint is cracked and beginning to peel off, and they look as if they had been abandoned for years. Not many months ago they were models of beauty and elegance in street-car architecture.

Now that the courts in the General Sessions are about to adjourn for the summer, I notice that a feeling of relief is quite prevalent among certain of the District Attorney's assistants, who have come in for a share of Recorder Smith's recent unexpected complimentary remarks. The austere Recorder is, without a favorite among the lawyers that appear before him, and he tells me he will spend a couple of weeks the coming month inhaling the sea breezes at Long Beach.

I hear that Oursman Tom McGuire, who recently resigned his membership in the Xavier Boat Club, is thinking of joining the Damocles Club. Mr. McGuire was the organizer of the Xavers, and from the first was one of the most active members of the Club. He is well known on the Harlem, and a valuable man in any rowing association.

At Sing Sing the other day I met that talented Washington journalist, George Grantham Bain, who had come on from the capital to witness, if possible, the four electrocutions. Bain is quite a young man and his knowledge of Washington affairs would fill a large volume.

Inspector Steers is Pooh Bah of the Police Department at present. In the absence of Inspector Byrne he is Acting Superintendent, acting chief Inspector and has his own work in his district to attend to.

I notice that several of the city journals refer to Judge Truxax as the Supreme Court. Of course there is no sin in that, but he is still of the Superior Court.

I was sorry to learn from a friend of Supt. Murray's the other day that the brave head of the metropolitan police was not recovering as fast as was hoped. He had visited the superintendent at his summer home in Lawrence, L. I., and found him weighing less than one hundred and forty pounds. Mentally, he is as bright as ever, but Supt. Murray's old wife has disappeared and his voice is very weak. His left hand twitches constantly, and his right arm shows traces of the dread disease which has him in its grip. He cannot walk without assistance. The superintendent says he will be back to work this fall, but his best friends believe that hope will never be realized.
