

ON TO VERMONT.

President Harrison Resumes His Pilgrimage This Morning.

Secretary Proctor Accompanies Him on the Special Train.

A Big Gathering at Whitehall Enthused by a Speech.

President Harrison left Saratoga by the Delaware & Hudson Railroad at 8:50 o'clock this morning on a special train consisting of a combination buffet and smoker, the private car, Bellevue, of President Smith, of the Vermont Central Railroad, and several other private cars.

The party consisted of the President, Private Secretary Hall, Secretary Proctor, Vice-President E. C. Smith, of the Vermont Central; C. B. Hammond, Superintendent of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad; Howard Cole, E. F. Tibbets and several newspaper men.

The train arrived at Fort Edward at 8:50, and the ex-governor and his party were met by a large number of people.

The train arrived here at 9:50. A train containing the Washington County Veterans Association, on the way to a reunion at Dresden, was in waiting, and there, with a large crowd assembled around the President's train, the Burleigh Corps acting as guard of honor.

President Harrison, in a brief speech, introduced the president, who spoke from the rear platform. His remarks created much enthusiasm.

President Harrison's speech. "Comrades and fellow-citizens—it is pleasant to come this morning upon an assembling of comrades gathered with their families to a social reunion to recall their services and sacrifices and to bask in the glory of the bright day and of this great land that they fought to save."

"It is our habit in the West, as it is yours here, to have the annual meetings, and it is always a pleasure to me when I can so arrange to meet with the comrades of my old regiment, of old friends, of old comrades, of old veterans of our nation, or any state who stood for the flag."

"There is a unity of all things. We gather with diminished ranks from year to year. We miss the comrades who are dropping by the way."

"We were repeated here that which we saw as the great feature of the war—a man dropping out of the ranks, a man dropping out of the ranks, a man dropping out of the ranks, a man dropping out of the ranks."

"We were repeated here that which we saw as the great feature of the war—a man dropping out of the ranks, a man dropping out of the ranks, a man dropping out of the ranks, a man dropping out of the ranks."

Dr. Hanks, Manager for A. S. Barnes & Co., in the Tombs.

Charge Him with Forgery.

The case of Dr. J. M. Hanks, of 1843 Lexington avenue, who is charged by A. S. Barnes & Co., publishers of 731 Broadway, with forging indorsements to checks of the firm, and having passed them and appropriated the proceeds at the Tombs Court.

Dr. Hanks was arrested Friday and yesterday was admitted to bail in $1,000. For the past six years he has been in charge of the checks of the firm. He has been with six years, ever since we started the ink of the bank.

He had diamonds and $1,000 on him when he vanished seven days ago.

He Had Diamonds and $1,000 on Him when he Vanished Seven Days Ago.

No trace has been found yet by the police or his friends of missing Harry Harry, a young Englishman, who mysteriously disappeared one week ago today, after drawing $700 from the shoe and leather bank.

Harry lived with Mr. and Mrs. Brooks at Fort Lee. He kept a restaurant at 102 Nassau street. Mrs. Brooks, who has taken charge of the restaurant, said to an Evening World reporter today:

"It is my idea that Mr. Harry was murdered for his money. He must have had $1,000 on his person with the money he drew from the bank, besides his diamond pin and gold watch and chain."

He was a temperate man and regular in his habits. He had no acquaintances among women to my knowledge.

Mrs. Brooks was going to Albany, but postponed his trip because he expected friends from Boston. He did not meet his friends, however.

Mr. Harry's business affairs were in excellent condition. The restaurant pays well. He had other business interests. He was well-to-do and had no need to borrow money.

"His relatives all live in England. We are waiting to hear from them."

He had a brother who lives in England, which I do not believe, we should hear from or about him to-morrow or next day."

Two Exciting Encounters at the Hanover Square Station.

James D. Butler, of 1741 First Avenue, and John D. Butler, of 1841 East Fifty-fifth street, were arrested at the Tombs this morning for assaulting James Kinney, ticket-chopper at the Hanover Square Station of the Elevated road.

They are accused of ganging off workmen on the Broadway Cable Road, and a dispute arose as to the number of tickets they put in the box. Kinney swore that Condit struck him on the back of the head, but was held.

A short time after this disturbance another row occurred in the same place. The train, when Charles Ambruster, a workman, was riding, was stopped by a contractor James Rodman, who had a ticket for the same train.

Special Agent Webster, after arresting James Rodman at Kalkbrenner yesterday, instead of putting him in the Tombs, allowed the contractor to go free, but the contractor was held in the Tombs for the same offense.

He was held for examination.

Emma Abbott's Dresses.

Low Prices for Costly Costumes.

Emma Abbott's costly dresses and costumes were sold at auction today at 240 Fifth avenue, by order of the executors of the estate and her sister, Mrs. Lizzie Abbott Clark.

The wardrobe, it was stated, represented an outlay of $200,000, and comprised chiefly dresses in embroidery with corresponding date of last year, as indicated by the thermometer at Perry's Pharmacy:
