

EXTRA. 2 O'CLOCK.

WHERE IS THE CASH?

Lunatic E. M. Field's Enormous Losses Cannot Be Traced.

Startling Accusations Made by Partner Wiechers.

It Is Now Hoped that Cyrus W. Field Will Recover.

Further sensational developments came out today regarding the misadings of Edward M. Field, head of the wrecked firm of Field, Lindley, Wiechers & Co. The mystery, though, as to how the alleged lunatic disposed of the immense sums which he appears to have stolen right and left from his family, his business partners and his customers, is deeper than ever.

CRUSHED BY A TOPPLING CAR.

Two Killed, Five Injured, in a Unique Railroad Accident.

WORMS AND SIMM ARE OUT.

A Check Episode Caused the Dissolution of Their Partnership.

ROASTED IN AN OIL-TANK.

William Dow's Lamp Exploded Gases that Had Generated There.

HARRIOT'S TALE OF MURDER.

HE ELECTED TO THE DEATH CHAIR.

SPARROWS SOLD AS REED BIRDS.

Chicago Pays Two Cents Per Head, the People Buy the Rest.

SOLD TO ENGLISH CAPITALISTS.

The Cooper-Hewitt Iron Works Pass Into the Hands of Foreigners.

WHAT ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE.

Run Down by an Erie Train.

THE "INNOCENCE ABROAD" GAME.

Waterbury Lumber Yards Burned.

Run Down by an Erie Train.

Waterbury Lumber Yards Burned.

Run Down by an Erie Train.

POINTERS ON THE RACES.

A Mile Handicap to Be Run Off at the Hilltop Track.

New Arrivals Add Uncertainty to the Several Events.

Cherry Hill Turns Out to All Cherry Hill Turns Out to Attend the Inquest.

Innocent-Looking Mickey Siney Unmoved by the Proceedings.

He Found the Countess, He Says, a Most Delightful Hostess.

LOPPY MAY DIE ON MONDAY. JOHN McMANUS HANGED.

The Wife-Murderer Apparently Resigned to His Fate.

Fate of a Noted Criminal Who Killed Three Men.

BRODSKY'S FIGHT FOR PLACE.

Regular Republicans of de Ate Still Bar Him Out.

NOT SPYING ON TEACHERS.

Supt. Jasper's Committee Is Investigating Chronic Absentees.

THE HAVERSTRAW EXPLOSION.

No Cause Yet Known—Three Boys' Wonderful Escape.

NIBLO'S CHANGES HANDS.

Gilmore Going to Give the Academy Up to a Permanent Circus.

THE MAYOR HOWARD BOUND.

He Sniped from Queenstown on the Teutonic at Noon To-Day.

An Uneasy Feeling Prevails in Financial Circles in Melbourne.

Turned Out by His Stepmother.

Shot Him off Accidentally.

Turned Out by His Stepmother.

Shot Him off Accidentally.

Turned Out by His Stepmother.

Shot Him off Accidentally.

Turned Out by His Stepmother.

Shot Him off Accidentally.

Turned Out by His Stepmother.

Shot Him off Accidentally.

POINTERS ON THE RACES.

A Mile Handicap to Be Run Off at the Hilltop Track.

New Arrivals Add Uncertainty to the Several Events.

Cherry Hill Turns Out to All Cherry Hill Turns Out to Attend the Inquest.

Innocent-Looking Mickey Siney Unmoved by the Proceedings.

He Found the Countess, He Says, a Most Delightful Hostess.

LOPPY MAY DIE ON MONDAY. JOHN McMANUS HANGED.

The Wife-Murderer Apparently Resigned to His Fate.

Fate of a Noted Criminal Who Killed Three Men.

BRODSKY'S FIGHT FOR PLACE.

Regular Republicans of de Ate Still Bar Him Out.

NOT SPYING ON TEACHERS.

Supt. Jasper's Committee Is Investigating Chronic Absentees.

THE HAVERSTRAW EXPLOSION.

No Cause Yet Known—Three Boys' Wonderful Escape.

NIBLO'S CHANGES HANDS.

Gilmore Going to Give the Academy Up to a Permanent Circus.

THE MAYOR HOWARD BOUND.

He Sniped from Queenstown on the Teutonic at Noon To-Day.

An Uneasy Feeling Prevails in Financial Circles in Melbourne.

Turned Out by His Stepmother.

Shot Him off Accidentally.

Turned Out by His Stepmother.

Shot Him off Accidentally.

Turned Out by His Stepmother.

Shot Him off Accidentally.

Turned Out by His Stepmother.

Shot Him off Accidentally.

Turned Out by His Stepmother.

Shot Him off Accidentally.

ESOP ON CURRENT EVENTS.

Arrested To-Day for Keeping a Disorderly House.

Manager Murray and Bartender Kelly Also Prisoners.

Result of the Grand Jury's Investigation of the Irving Hotel.

Detectives from Inspector Byrnes's office this morning arrested William McGlory, Edward Kelly and Henry Murray on an indictment found by the Grand Jury charging them with keeping a disorderly house and with violating the Excise laws at the corner of Third and Irving place.

Three had just arisen from their couches in the upper chambers of the Irving Hotel when the detectives served the warrants for their arrest.

Three days ago, when Robert Weiner, a German who has only been two weeks in the country, complained that Annie Williams, of 221 East Thirty-fifth street, had robbed him of his watch and $117 in Spanish notes while they were occupying a room in the hotel, none of the employees of the place knew who was the proprietor. As far as Billy McGlory was concerned, why the bartender, chambermaids and bouncers were in dense ignorance, they seemed to have a faint recollection of having heard the name before, but they didn't know the man at all.

That did not deter the Grand Jury from finding indictments against McGlory yesterday for keeping a disorderly house and against Murray, Kelly and Bartender Kelly for excise violations.

The Irving Hotel has not been licensed in several months, and to outward appearance it is a sealed barracks. The stranger who enters its bar is told that nothing but "soft drinks" are to be had there.

But in spite of all this, stories are rife on the streets among the "bloods" of the carnival of sin that is constantly going on behind the closed-drawn curtains, and it is generally believed that Billy McGlory, proprietor of the one-famous Army Hall in Hester street, is the owner of Irving Hotel, and that young men and young women can be seen fully drunk and brawling in the corridors.

The detectives had no difficulty in collecting this trio of prisoners this morning. Mr. McGlory, who is quite unknown to the people of the dive, came down from his sleeping-room, as fresh as a daisy, in a glossy silk hat, an $80 overcoat, a dapper suit of black and a ministerial collar and cravat.

He submitted to arrest with becoming grace, though he twirled his flowing brown mustache with some nervousness.

Murray and Kelly were gathered in a little later as they descended from the upper regions, and neither of them offered any objection to paying a visit to Police Headquarters. From there they were taken direct to the Court of General Sessions for arraignment before Recorder Smith in Part I.

The three prisoners were locked in the pen at the back of Part I. of the Court of General Sessions for half an hour with a score of thieves, pending the arrival of Recorder Smith.

Kelly and Murray were the first prisoners called to the bar. Murray is a light-haired man of thirty-five years and Kelly is a typical case side-bartender. He is short-haired, smooth shaven and in his twenties. Both pleaded not guilty and were held for $100 bail.

The Billy McGlory, the guided young man of nondescript hair and mustache, who once dined and wined his Army Hall steno at the Hotel Brunswick, advanced from the pen.

His teeth showed through his half-open lips and his eyes seemed dull and sunken. He, too, pleaded not guilty, and in response to Lawyer Edmund E. Peck, who asked the Recorder what bail at $1,000, and Billy was returned to the companionship of his manager and bartender in the pen, while friends hustled for bondsmen.

McGlory refused to talk to the reporters further than to say that some one was trying to turn him down.

Annie Williams is now safely celled at the Tombs prison in default of $1,500 bail, and was again arrested last July on a charge of criminally beating his coachman, Thomas Fitzsimmons, at his country place at Baldwin's, L. I.

In September last W. H. Wade, of 352 York street, Jersey city, complained to the police that he had been drugged and robbed of $85 in McGlory's hotel, at the corner of Irving place and Fourteenth street.

In 1885 McGlory was convicted on a charge of keeping a disorderly house and served a term of six months in the penitentiary on Blackwell's Island.

Briefs by Wire.

John Borelli, the Swiss Consul in Chicago, died yesterday afternoon.

A rabidly anti-Chinese crowd of 1,600 of the city destroyed a Chinese school.

District Attorney Hamilton, of Albany, and Judge S. O'Brien, wanted for trial on charges of grand larceny in New York.

The Vermont Central Railroad is to build a new elevator, capacity 250,000 bushels, at Grand Central station and the Home, Watertown and Ogdensburg roads.

Young & Smith's Acme Iceberg Pellets.

A trial will demonstrate their merits.

A trial will demonstrate their merits.

A trial will demonstrate their merits.

ESOP ON CURRENT EVENTS.

Arrested To-Day for Keeping a Disorderly House.

Manager Murray and Bartender Kelly Also Prisoners.

Result of the Grand Jury's Investigation of the Irving Hotel.

Detectives from Inspector Byrnes's office this morning arrested William McGlory, Edward Kelly and Henry Murray on an indictment found by the Grand Jury charging them with keeping a disorderly house and with violating the Excise laws at the corner of Third and Irving place.

Three had just arisen from their couches in the upper chambers of the Irving Hotel when the detectives served the warrants for their arrest.

Three days ago, when Robert Weiner, a German who has only been two weeks in the country, complained that Annie Williams, of 221 East Thirty-fifth street, had robbed him of his watch and $117 in Spanish notes while they were occupying a room in the hotel, none of the employees of the place knew who was the proprietor. As far as Billy McGlory was concerned, why the bartender, chambermaids and bouncers were in dense ignorance, they seemed to have a faint recollection of having heard the name before, but they didn't know the man at all.

That did not deter the Grand Jury from finding indictments against McGlory yesterday for keeping a disorderly house and against Murray, Kelly and Bartender Kelly for excise violations.

The Irving Hotel has not been licensed in several months, and to outward appearance it is a sealed barracks. The stranger who enters its bar is told that nothing but "soft drinks" are to be had there.

But in spite of all this, stories are rife on the streets among the "bloods" of the carnival of sin that is constantly going on behind the closed-drawn curtains, and it is generally believed that Billy McGlory, proprietor of the one-famous Army Hall in Hester street, is the owner of Irving Hotel, and that young men and young women can be seen fully drunk and brawling in the corridors.

The detectives had no difficulty in collecting this trio of prisoners this morning. Mr. McGlory, who is quite unknown to the people of the dive, came down from his sleeping-room, as fresh as a daisy, in a glossy silk hat, an $80 overcoat, a dapper suit of black and a ministerial collar and cravat.

He submitted to arrest with becoming grace, though he twirled his flowing brown mustache with some nervousness.

Murray and Kelly were gathered in a little later as they descended from the upper regions, and neither of them offered any objection to paying a visit to Police Headquarters. From there they were taken direct to the Court of General Sessions for arraignment before Recorder Smith in Part I.

The three prisoners were locked in the pen at the back of Part I. of the Court of General Sessions for half an hour with a score of thieves, pending the arrival of Recorder Smith.

Kelly and Murray were the first prisoners called to the bar. Murray is a light-haired man of thirty-five years and Kelly is a typical case side-bartender. He is short-haired, smooth shaven and in his twenties. Both pleaded not guilty and were held for $100 bail.

The Billy McGlory, the guided young man of nondescript hair and mustache, who once dined and wined his Army Hall steno at the Hotel Brunswick, advanced from the pen.

His teeth showed through his half-open lips and his eyes seemed dull and sunken. He, too, pleaded not guilty, and in response to Lawyer Edmund E. Peck, who asked the Recorder what bail at $1,000, and Billy was returned to the companionship of his manager and bartender in the pen, while friends hustled for bondsmen.

McGlory refused to talk to the reporters further than to say that some one was trying to turn him down.

Annie Williams is now safely celled at the Tombs prison in default of $1,500 bail, and was again arrested last July on a charge of criminally beating his coachman, Thomas Fitzsimmons, at his country place at Baldwin's, L. I.

In September last W. H. Wade, of 352 York street, Jersey city, complained to the police that he had been drugged and robbed of $85 in McGlory's hotel, at the corner of Irving place and Fourteenth street.

In 1885 McGlory was convicted on a charge of keeping a disorderly house and served a term of six months in the penitentiary on Blackwell's Island.

Briefs by Wire.

John Borelli, the Swiss Consul in Chicago, died yesterday afternoon.

A rabidly anti-Chinese crowd of 1,600 of the city destroyed a Chinese school.

District Attorney Hamilton, of Albany, and Judge S. O'Brien, wanted for trial on charges of grand larceny in New York.

The Vermont Central Railroad is to build a new elevator, capacity 250,000 bushels, at Grand Central station and the Home, Watertown and Ogdensburg roads.

Young & Smith's Acme Iceberg Pellets.

A trial will demonstrate their merits.

A trial will demonstrate their merits.

A trial will demonstrate their merits.

ESOP ON CURRENT EVENTS.

Arrested To-Day for Keeping a Disorderly House.

Manager Murray and Bartender Kelly Also Prisoners.

Result of the Grand Jury's Investigation of the Irving Hotel.

Detectives from Inspector Byrnes's office this morning arrested William McGlory, Edward Kelly and Henry Murray on an indictment found by the Grand Jury charging them with keeping a disorderly house and with violating the Excise laws at the corner of Third and Irving place.

Three had just arisen from their couches in the upper chambers of the Irving Hotel when the detectives served the warrants for their arrest.

Three days ago, when Robert Weiner, a German who has only been two weeks in the country, complained that Annie Williams, of 221 East Thirty-fifth street, had robbed him of his watch and $117 in Spanish notes while they were occupying a room in the hotel, none of the employees of the place knew who was the proprietor. As far as Billy McGlory was concerned, why the bartender, chambermaids and bouncers were in dense ignorance, they seemed to have a faint recollection of having heard the name before, but they didn't know the man at all.

That did not deter the Grand Jury from finding indictments against McGlory yesterday for keeping a disorderly house and against Murray, Kelly and Bartender Kelly for excise violations.

The Irving Hotel has not been licensed in several months, and to outward appearance it is a sealed barracks. The stranger who enters its bar is told that nothing but "soft drinks" are to be had there.

But in spite of all this, stories are rife on the streets among the "bloods" of the carnival of sin that is constantly going on behind the closed-drawn curtains, and it is generally believed that Billy McGlory, proprietor of the one-famous Army Hall in Hester street, is the owner of Irving Hotel, and that young men and young women can be seen fully drunk and brawling in the corridors.

The detectives had no difficulty in collecting this trio of prisoners this morning. Mr. McGlory, who is quite unknown to the people of the dive, came down from his sleeping-room, as fresh as a daisy, in a glossy silk hat, an $80 overcoat, a dapper suit of black and a ministerial collar and cravat.

He submitted to arrest with becoming grace, though he twirled his flowing brown mustache with some nervousness.

Murray and Kelly were gathered in a little later as they descended from the upper regions, and neither of them offered any objection to paying a visit to Police Headquarters. From there they were taken direct to the Court of General Sessions for arraignment before Recorder Smith in Part I.

The three prisoners were locked in the pen at the back of Part I. of the Court of General Sessions for half an hour with a score of thieves, pending the arrival of Recorder Smith.

Kelly and Murray were the first prisoners called to the bar. Murray is a light-haired man of thirty-five years and Kelly is a typical case side-bartender. He is short-haired, smooth shaven and in his twenties. Both pleaded not guilty and were held for $100 bail.

The Billy McGlory, the guided young man of nondescript hair and mustache, who once dined and wined his Army Hall steno at the Hotel Brunswick, advanced from the pen.

His teeth showed through his half-open lips and his eyes seemed dull and sunken. He, too, pleaded not guilty, and in response to Lawyer Edmund E. Peck, who asked the Recorder what bail at $1,000, and Billy was returned to the companionship of his manager and bartender in the pen, while friends hustled for bondsmen.

McGlory refused to talk to the reporters further than to say that some one was trying to turn him down.

Annie Williams is now safely celled at the Tombs prison in default of $1,500 bail, and was again arrested last July on a charge of criminally beating his coachman, Thomas Fitzsimmons, at his country place at Baldwin's, L. I.

In September last W. H. Wade, of 352 York street, Jersey city, complained to the police that he had been drugged and robbed of $85 in McGlory's hotel, at the corner of Irving place and Fourteenth street.

In 1885 McGlory was convicted on a charge of keeping a disorderly house and served a term of six months in the penitentiary on Blackwell's Island.

Briefs by Wire.

John Borelli, the Swiss Consul in Chicago, died yesterday afternoon.

A rabidly anti-Chinese crowd of 1,600 of the city destroyed a Chinese school.

District Attorney Hamilton, of Albany, and Judge S. O'Brien, wanted for trial on charges of grand larceny in New York.

The Vermont Central Railroad is to build a new elevator, capacity 250,000 bushels, at Grand Central station and the Home, Watertown and Ogdensburg roads.

Young & Smith's Acme Iceberg Pellets.

A trial will demonstrate their merits.

A trial will demonstrate their merits.

A trial will demonstrate their merits.

ESOP ON CURRENT EVENTS.

Arrested To-Day for Keeping a Disorderly House.

Manager Murray and Bartender Kelly Also Prisoners.

Result of the Grand Jury's Investigation of the Irving Hotel.

Detectives from Inspector Byrnes's office this morning arrested William McGlory, Edward Kelly and Henry Murray on an indictment found by the Grand Jury charging them with keeping a disorderly house and with violating the Excise laws at the corner of Third and Irving place.

Three had just arisen from their couches in the upper chambers of the Irving Hotel when the detectives served the warrants for their arrest.

Three days ago, when Robert Weiner, a German who has only been two weeks in the country, complained that Annie Williams, of 221 East Thirty-fifth street, had robbed him of his watch and $117 in Spanish notes while they were occupying a room in the hotel, none of the employees of the place knew who was the proprietor. As far as Billy McGlory was concerned, why the bartender, chambermaids and bouncers were in dense ignorance, they seemed to have a faint recollection of having heard the name before, but they didn't know the man at all.

That did not deter the Grand Jury from finding indictments against McGlory yesterday for keeping a disorderly house and against Murray, Kelly and Bartender Kelly for excise violations.

The Irving Hotel has not been licensed in several months, and to outward appearance it is a sealed barracks. The stranger who enters its bar is told that nothing but "soft drinks" are to be had there.

But in spite of all this, stories are rife on the streets among the "bloods" of the carnival of sin that is constantly going on behind the closed-drawn curtains, and it is generally believed that Billy McGlory, proprietor of the one-famous Army Hall in Hester street, is the owner of Irving Hotel, and that young men and young women can be seen fully drunk and brawling in the corridors.

The detectives had no difficulty in collecting this trio of prisoners this morning. Mr. McGlory, who is quite unknown to the people of the dive, came down from his sleeping-room, as fresh as a daisy, in a glossy silk hat, an $80 overcoat, a dapper suit of black and a ministerial collar and cravat.

He submitted to arrest with becoming grace, though he twirled his flowing brown mustache with some nervousness.

Murray and Kelly were gathered in a little later as they descended from the upper regions, and neither of them offered any objection to paying a visit to Police Headquarters. From there they were taken direct to the Court of General Sessions for arraignment before Recorder Smith in Part I.

The three prisoners were locked in the pen at the back of Part I. of the Court of General Sessions for half an hour with a score of thieves, pending the arrival of Recorder Smith.

Kelly and Murray were the first prisoners called to the bar. Murray is a light-haired man of thirty-five years and Kelly is a typical case side-bartender. He is short-haired, smooth shaven and in his twenties. Both pleaded not guilty and were held for $100 bail.

The Billy McGlory, the guided young man of nondescript hair and mustache, who once dined and wined his Army Hall steno at the Hotel Brunswick, advanced from the pen.

His teeth showed through his half-open lips and his eyes seemed dull and sunken. He, too, pleaded not guilty, and in response to Lawyer Edmund E. Peck, who asked the Recorder what bail at $1,000, and Billy was returned to the companionship of his manager and bartender in the pen, while friends hustled for bondsmen.

McGlory refused to talk to the reporters further than to say that some one was trying to turn him down.

Annie Williams is now safely celled at the Tombs prison in default of $1,500 bail, and was again arrested last July on a charge of criminally beating his coachman, Thomas Fitzsimmons, at his country place at Baldwin's, L. I.

In September last W. H. Wade, of 352 York street, Jersey city, complained to the police that he had been drugged and robbed of $85 in McGlory's hotel, at the corner of Irving place and Fourteenth street.

In 1885 McGlory was convicted on a charge of keeping a disorderly house and served a term of six months in the penitentiary on Blackwell's Island.

Briefs by Wire.

John Borelli, the Swiss Consul in Chicago, died yesterday afternoon.

A rabidly anti-Chinese crowd of 1,600 of the city destroyed a Chinese school.

District Attorney Hamilton, of Albany, and Judge S. O'Brien, wanted for trial on charges of grand larceny in New York.

The Vermont Central Railroad is to build a new elevator, capacity