

52,936

Gain Per Day in a Single Year.

Following is a comparison of the circulation of THE WORLD for the last week of January, 1891, and January, 1892:

1891. 1892. Total... 2,186,230 2,556,780 Average... 312,318 365,254

Gain for the Week... 370,550 Daily Average Gain... 52,936

This Gain in the past year is larger than the total circulation of the majority of daily newspapers printed in New York.

STEADY GROWTH.

How the average daily circulation of THE WORLD has increased step by step during the past four months:

Nov. 1891. Gain over Oct., '91. 11,426 PER DAY.

Dec. 1891. Gain over November, '91. 6,564 PER DAY.

Jan. 1892. Gain over December, 1891. 7,317 PER DAY.

A Gain in Four Months of 25,307 PER DAY.

The Sunday World.

How the average circulation of the SUNDAY WORLD has increased step by step during the past four months:

Nov. 1891. Gain over Oct., '91. 5,507 PER SUNDAY.

Dec. 1891. Gain over November, '91. 3,740 PER SUNDAY.

Jan. 1892. Gain over December, 1891. 6,822 PER SUNDAY.

A Gain in Four Months of 16,069 PER SUNDAY.

Advertising Exhibit.

The total number of advertisements printed by THE WORLD during the past two months compared with the two corresponding months last year:

December, 1890. December, 1891. 52,659 59,014

Net Gain... 6,355

January, 1891. January, 1892. 57,969 67,273

Net Gain... 9,304

Net Gain for two months. 15,659

LAST EDITION.

IS IT A DIVE TRUST?

Several Dens Apparently Under Control of the Same Men.

These Are the Buttners, Also Known as the Gombossys.

They Are Thought to Run the Places at 207, 255, 204 and 304 Bowersy.

NEW YORK'S OUTLAWS.

[A Table Subject to Daily Change.]

In the Penitentiary.

BILLY MCGLOVEY. Indicted and Dives Closed. TOM COULD. JOHN KELLY. GAREY WELCH. PAUL McLAUGHLIN. LOUIS WALTERS. J. McALLER. DAN SCHRIEME. CHARLES SMITH. JOHN McWELLS. TOM STEVENSON. ALFRED DAVIS. ALBERT GILSON. CHARLES SMITH. GAREY WELCH. JOHN McWELLS. AL DAVIS. SIMON BUTTNER. JOHN J. MURPHY. FRANK STEVENSON. JAMES SULLIVAN. Held for the Grand Jury. MAX GOMBOSSY. LOUIS STAJER. "Convicts" Suspended. IGNAZ BUTTNER.

Tom Stevenson, Alfred Davis, Albert Gilson, Charles Smith, Garey Welch, John McWells, Al Davis, Simon Buttner, John J. Murphy, Frank Stevenson, James Sullivan, Max Gombossy, Louis Stajer, Ignatz Buttner.

The outlaws of New York are going. Impelled by the irresistible wave of reform set in motion by THE EVENING WORLD, they are fast disappearing from their former stamping-grounds. Some of them, however, have delayed their exit too long and are now experiencing the stern reality of confinement in the bar of justice.

Max Gombossy is the character of whose name the "concert halls" at 255 and 207 Bowersy, respectively, had been exposed in these columns, with the result that both were raided last Saturday night by Police Captain William McLaughlin.

Both Stajer and Gombossy, as told in THE EVENING WORLD'S Sporting Extra, were yesterday arraigned in Essex Market Police Court for examination on charges of keeping disorderly houses.

After consultation with their attorneys, Charles Stecker and Emanuel M. Friend, it was deemed wiser to face Capt. McLaughlin and his officers, who made the raids, in a police court, and both men waived examination.

Justice Taintor promptly held both Stajer and Gombossy for the action of the Grand Jury in the sum of $1,000 each.

It was shown that Adolph Elgraux, who was arrested in the raid upon Gombossy's place, was merely an employee, and the charge against him was dismissed.

Max Gombossy is said to be a brother of Ignatz Gombossy, the reputed proprietor of the "Orpheum Concert Garden" at 204 Bowersy, the concert house for which place Max or Grant is still withholding. There are said to be several Gombossys, who are all brothers, and whose real name is Buttner.

Max Gombossy was formerly the reputed proprietor of the "Orpheum," then known as the "Crystal Palace." It was common talk then that he also owned Stajer's place, and it is a fact that when Stajer's place was raided Saturday night "Orpheum" price lists were hanging on the walls. This would seem to indicate that Stajer is in the alleged trust.

The names Ignatz, Max and William Gombossy, as well as Gombossy & Co., appear in the city directory as liquor dealers at 204 Bowersy, which is the "Orpheum's" number. Max, the reputed proprietor of the "Excelsior" at 207 Bowersy, raided Saturday night, is made by the directory to reside at 304 Bowersy, where Simon Buttner runs two yards, until recently an "all-right" den.

Buttner spends as much time in the "Orpheum" as he does in 304, and it is known that the former place was a "feeder" for the latter. The female frequenters of these places, too, used to visit Stajer's and the "Excelsior."

The business of the "Orpheum" at 204 Bowersy is Ignatz Buttner, generally believed to be none other than Ignatz Gombossy. He is reputed also to be the owner of Simon Buttner's place at 304, which gives rise to another question: Is not Simon Buttner another of the "Gombossy" brothers?

The latest business venture of Ignatz Gombossy, which is a new place recently opened on Stanton street, near the Bowersy, but which has so far been run quietly and orderly as an ordinary saloon.

If it is true that there is a "Gombossy" trust, the control of the "Orpheum" and Stajer's, the "Excelsior," Simon Buttner's and the new Stanton street place, two-fifths of the alleged trust's business this year to be permanently wiped out by the recent action of the police. The "Orpheum" and Simon Buttner's are nothing of the Stanton street place, still remains.

The "Orpheum" and Buttner's have been frequently exposed in these columns, and call for no more favorable consideration than Stajer's and the "Excelsior." As much, however, there is now a new place, but the proprietor by "Bowersy" boxes" still remains, on a small scale, the features of the old "all-right" den.

The "Orpheum" last night was still closed back with the exception of the bar-room.

Mr. Louis Walters's stuffy little den at 207 Bowersy, where Simon Buttner runs two yards, has been removed and the interior looks like a deserted den.

Mr. Louis Walters's former den at 107 Bowersy, which witnessed an auction sale yesterday, has now blossomed out into "The Pool Room."

All the men whose names appear in THE EVENING WORLD'S table still kept their dives or disorderly houses closed last night.

Brewed from Malt and Hops Only.

ALL DOWN WITH DIPHTHERIA.

Five Children Ill, and One Has Died, in One Family.

They Lived in a Basement Next a Stable on Sixty-fifth Street.

It is announced today that inspectors of the Health Department have discovered a nest of diphtheria in West Sixty-fifth street, where they found six children in one family down with the disease, one child was already dead.

Word was sent to Dr. Edison, chief of the Bureau of Contagious Diseases, who gave orders to have the living children removed at once to the hospital, and the Brothers Island.

The children were found in a two-story frame house at 240 West Sixty-fifth street, near Eleventh avenue. William Early keeps a grocery and candy store on the ground floor.

The so-called basement is nothing more than a cellar with two rooms, which have been occupied for some time by John Lohr, a German who is employed in a second-hand furniture store in Amsterdam avenue. His family consisted of his wife, Louisa, and six children—Marie, ten years old; Johann, eight and a half; Max, six and a half; Fred, four; Annie, two, and Baby Willie, three months.

The cellar at 240 West Sixty-fifth street was the scene of a tragedy, for the father, who had been sick and the mother, who had been confined in bed, died of diphtheria. Lohr said this morning that Dr. Frimington told him he would report the case to the Health Department.

The father waited until the following day, but no one came to see him, the sick boy and the mother. Dr. Frimington, who was informed of the case by the Health Department, sent an inspector to the house, fumigated the rooms and wanted to send the child to the hospital, but the mother refused to let the boy go.

Monday he died. He was buried Tuesday. Wednesday Johann, the next oldest boy; Max, and the little Willie, were stricken with the disease. Yesterday the other children, Marie and Annie, were also taken with it.

When Inspector Dilliguard went to the house to remove the children, the mother, who had been confined in bed, begged that all five children were removed last night. Their mother accompanied them to the hospital, and the noise is being investigated.

Under the direction of Dr. Edison every child in the family was vaccinated. The house has no children. A family named Livingston, living upstairs, had only one boy, who died yesterday.

Next door, at No. 242, is a stable, kept by a man named John Lohr, who is employed for collecting ashes and garbage in the vicinity. The neighbors complain that he asserts that the diphtheria is being carried from the stable to the house.

Under the direction of Dr. Edison every child in the family was vaccinated. The house has no children. A family named Livingston, living upstairs, had only one boy, who died yesterday.

Two weeks ago two children named Schmidt, living upstairs, had only one boy, who died yesterday.

Justice Taintor promptly held both Stajer and Gombossy for the action of the Grand Jury in the sum of $1,000 each.

It was shown that Adolph Elgraux, who was arrested in the raid upon Gombossy's place, was merely an employee, and the charge against him was dismissed.

Max Gombossy is said to be a brother of Ignatz Gombossy, the reputed proprietor of the "Orpheum Concert Garden" at 204 Bowersy, the concert house for which place Max or Grant is still withholding.

Both Stajer and Gombossy, as told in THE EVENING WORLD'S Sporting Extra, were yesterday arraigned in Essex Market Police Court for examination on charges of keeping disorderly houses.

After consultation with their attorneys, Charles Stecker and Emanuel M. Friend, it was deemed wiser to face Capt. McLaughlin and his officers, who made the raids, in a police court, and both men waived examination.

Justice Taintor promptly held both Stajer and Gombossy for the action of the Grand Jury in the sum of $1,000 each.

It was shown that Adolph Elgraux, who was arrested in the raid upon Gombossy's place, was merely an employee, and the charge against him was dismissed.

Max Gombossy is said to be a brother of Ignatz Gombossy, the reputed proprietor of the "Orpheum Concert Garden" at 204 Bowersy, the concert house for which place Max or Grant is still withholding.

Both Stajer and Gombossy, as told in THE EVENING WORLD'S Sporting Extra, were yesterday arraigned in Essex Market Police Court for examination on charges of keeping disorderly houses.

After consultation with their attorneys, Charles Stecker and Emanuel M. Friend, it was deemed wiser to face Capt. McLaughlin and his officers, who made the raids, in a police court, and both men waived examination.

Justice Taintor promptly held both Stajer and Gombossy for the action of the Grand Jury in the sum of $1,000 each.

It was shown that Adolph Elgraux, who was arrested in the raid upon Gombossy's place, was merely an employee, and the charge against him was dismissed.

Max Gombossy is said to be a brother of Ignatz Gombossy, the reputed proprietor of the "Orpheum Concert Garden" at 204 Bowersy, the concert house for which place Max or Grant is still withholding.

Both Stajer and Gombossy, as told in THE EVENING WORLD'S Sporting Extra, were yesterday arraigned in Essex Market Police Court for examination on charges of keeping disorderly houses.

After consultation with their attorneys, Charles Stecker and Emanuel M. Friend, it was deemed wiser to face Capt. McLaughlin and his officers, who made the raids, in a police court, and both men waived examination.

Justice Taintor promptly held both Stajer and Gombossy for the action of the Grand Jury in the sum of $1,000 each.

MRS. OSBORNE AGAIN IN JAIL.

Jewelry Prosecution Dropped, the Perjury Charge Remains.

Discharged by the Lord Mayor, the Prisoner Goes to Bow Street.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Mrs. Florence Ethel Osborne, who voluntarily surrendered herself to the police yesterday to answer the charges made against her in connection with the theft and sale of a quantity of valuable jewelry belonging to Mrs. Hargrave, formerly an intimate friend of the accused, was formally arraigned before Lord Mayor Evans this morning.

The Lord Mayor held his court in the old Council chamber in the Guildhall. The court-room can accommodate only two hundred persons, and when the door was thrown open the hall was so crowded that many people remained standing in the lobby, and even out in the street.

Sympathy was expressed on all sides for Mrs. Osborne, the husband of the unfortunate woman, who has stood nobly beside his wife through evil report and even when he knew beyond doubt that she had committed the crime which has brought such heavy disgrace upon her name.

The Lord Mayor held his court in the old Council chamber in the Guildhall. The court-room can accommodate only two hundred persons, and when the door was thrown open the hall was so crowded that many people remained standing in the lobby, and even out in the street.

Sympathy was expressed on all sides for Mrs. Osborne, the husband of the unfortunate woman, who has stood nobly beside his wife through evil report and even when he knew beyond doubt that she had committed the crime which has brought such heavy disgrace upon her name.

The Lord Mayor held his court in the old Council chamber in the Guildhall. The court-room can accommodate only two hundred persons, and when the door was thrown open the hall was so crowded that many people remained standing in the lobby, and even out in the street.

Sympathy was expressed on all sides for Mrs. Osborne, the husband of the unfortunate woman, who has stood nobly beside his wife through evil report and even when he knew beyond doubt that she had committed the crime which has brought such heavy disgrace upon her name.

The Lord Mayor held his court in the old Council chamber in the Guildhall. The court-room can accommodate only two hundred persons, and when the door was thrown open the hall was so crowded that many people remained standing in the lobby, and even out in the street.

Sympathy was expressed on all sides for Mrs. Osborne, the husband of the unfortunate woman, who has stood nobly beside his wife through evil report and even when he knew beyond doubt that she had committed the crime which has brought such heavy disgrace upon her name.

The Lord Mayor held his court in the old Council chamber in the Guildhall. The court-room can accommodate only two hundred persons, and when the door was thrown open the hall was so crowded that many people remained standing in the lobby, and even out in the street.

Sympathy was expressed on all sides for Mrs. Osborne, the husband of the unfortunate woman, who has stood nobly beside his wife through evil report and even when he knew beyond doubt that she had committed the crime which has brought such heavy disgrace upon her name.

The Lord Mayor held his court in the old Council chamber in the Guildhall. The court-room can accommodate only two hundred persons, and when the door was thrown open the hall was so crowded that many people remained standing in the lobby, and even out in the street.

Sympathy was expressed on all sides for Mrs. Osborne, the husband of the unfortunate woman, who has stood nobly beside his wife through evil report and even when he knew beyond doubt that she had committed the crime which has brought such heavy disgrace upon her name.

The Lord Mayor held his court in the old Council chamber in the Guildhall. The court-room can accommodate only two hundred persons, and when the door was thrown open the hall was so crowded that many people remained standing in the lobby, and even out in the street.

Sympathy was expressed on all sides for Mrs. Osborne, the husband of the unfortunate woman, who has stood nobly beside his wife through evil report and even when he knew beyond doubt that she had committed the crime which has brought such heavy disgrace upon her name.

The Lord Mayor held his court in the old Council chamber in the Guildhall. The court-room can accommodate only two hundred persons, and when the door was thrown open the hall was so crowded that many people remained standing in the lobby, and even out in the street.

Sympathy was expressed on all sides for Mrs. Osborne, the husband of the unfortunate woman, who has stood nobly beside his wife through evil report and even when he knew beyond doubt that she had committed the crime which has brought such heavy disgrace upon her name.

The Lord Mayor held his court in the old Council chamber in the Guildhall. The court-room can accommodate only two hundred persons, and when the door was thrown open the hall was so crowded that many people remained standing in the lobby, and even out in the street.

Sympathy was expressed on all sides for Mrs. Osborne, the husband of the unfortunate woman, who has stood nobly beside his wife through evil report and even when he knew beyond doubt that she had committed the crime which has brought such heavy disgrace upon her name.

The Lord Mayor held his court in the old Council chamber in the Guildhall. The court-room can accommodate only two hundred persons, and when the door was thrown open the hall was so crowded that many people remained standing in the lobby, and even out in the street.

Sympathy was expressed on all sides for Mrs. Osborne, the husband of the unfortunate woman, who has stood nobly beside his wife through evil report and even when he knew beyond doubt that she had committed the crime which has brought such heavy disgrace upon her name.

The Lord Mayor held his court in the old Council chamber in the Guildhall. The court-room can accommodate only two hundred persons, and when the door was thrown open the hall was so crowded that many people remained standing in the lobby, and even out in the street.

Sympathy was expressed on all sides for Mrs. Osborne, the husband of the unfortunate woman, who has stood nobly beside his wife through evil report and even when he knew beyond doubt that she had committed the crime which has brought such heavy disgrace upon her name.

The Lord Mayor held his court in the old Council chamber in the Guildhall. The court-room can accommodate only two hundred persons, and when the door was thrown open the hall was so crowded that many people remained standing in the lobby, and even out in the street.

Sympathy was expressed on all sides for Mrs. Osborne, the husband of the unfortunate woman, who has stood nobly beside his wife through evil report and even when he knew beyond doubt that she had committed the crime which has brought such heavy disgrace upon her name.

The Lord Mayor held his court in the old Council chamber in the Guildhall. The court-room can accommodate only two hundred persons, and when the door was thrown open the hall was so crowded that many people remained standing in the lobby, and even out in the street.

Sympathy was expressed on all sides for Mrs. Osborne, the husband of the unfortunate woman, who has stood nobly beside his wife through evil report and even when he knew beyond doubt that she had committed the crime which has brought such heavy disgrace upon her name.

The Lord Mayor held his court in the old Council chamber in the Guildhall. The court-room can accommodate only two hundred persons, and when the door was thrown open the hall was so crowded that many people remained standing in the lobby, and even out in the street.

ARE THE TRIPPS SANE?

Landlady Lodewick Asks the Courts to Find Out.

Her Boarding-House in Turmoil Over the Eccentric Pair.

The Aged Husband Said to Be Hypnotized by His Handsome Young Wife.

London, Feb. 5.—Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mrs. Lodewick, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

BARON SEILLIERE'S BAD FIX.

How Can He Wed While the Sheriff Has His Deeds?

Mr. Johnston Has Left Him Only a Monkey and a Parrot.

The Baron Raymond Seilliere, who arrived here yesterday on the steamship La Bourgogne, and who is to marry the millionaire widow of the late Charles E. Livermore, is in a bad plight. One of the clerks at the Revue House thus explained this difficulty this morning.

The custom officers seized his costly wedding outfit as soon as he got out on shore. All they left him was a monkey and a parrot and a piece of French cheese to feed the animals with.

Worse than all, the Baron couldn't even present himself before his intended bride, because he didn't have a dress suit. They didn't even leave him a dress robe to wear.

The noble seilliere went out bright and early this morning and could not be found, but being arrested by the authorities for not having a passport, he was taken to the police station.

Upon the Baron's last visit to this country, three years ago, he had an idea that the typewriter machine could be improved upon," said Mr. Arden, "and he spent several months of the year in France, so he employed my client, Mr. Johnston, to carry out his idea.

For his services and outlay of money Mr. Johnston was compelled to sue, and in 1889 he obtained judgment in the Supreme Court for $4,000.

Mr. Johnston, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mr. Johnston, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mr. Johnston, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mr. Johnston, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mr. Johnston, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mr. Johnston, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mr. Johnston, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mr. Johnston, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mr. Johnston, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mr. Johnston, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane. She says that her husband is being hypnotized by his young wife.

Mr. Johnston, who has a boarding-house in Turmoil, has asked the courts to find out whether or not her husband is sane