

BROOKLYN NEWS IN BRIEF.

Notable Occurrences in the City of Churches. Paragraphs That Photograph the History of the Day. Robbed of a $25 Watch. Charles Seabe Plundered. Accused of Robbing a Saloon. Who Owns This Clothing? Elt by an Unknown Stone-Thrower. Henrietta Conklin Doin't. Collision Victim Very Low. Robbed by a Young Woman. Mrs. Webber's Mental Condition. Coers $50 to Rob an Act. Extending the Deadly Trolley. Shoemakers Still on Strike. FOUND DEAD IN THE CABIN. A Young Longshoreman's End on the Freight Barge Vulcan. MUST LIVE WITH HER HUSBAND. Otherwise Annie Keler Will Lose Possession of Her Children.

MRS. RYAN WAS EVICTED.

She and Her Three Children Camped Out in the Yard. Mergle Ryan was a prisoner in the Butler street police station, Brooklyn, this morning on a charge of vagrancy. Sergeant Doyle and Policeman Ray found Mrs. Ryan and her three children, Kate, aged seven; Thomas, five; and Mary, two, in the yard in the rear of 384 Court street, at a police station. The woman formerly lived there, but was dispossessed by the landlord. She told the police she had no money and had no place to go. The children were placed in the Children's Society's care. Mrs. Ryan said her husband had been out of work for several weeks.

THE WRONG KIND OF DUNS.

A Williamsburg Woman in Jail for Writing Obscene Letters to a Debtor. Miss Caroline Zepka, a maiden lady of sixty-five years, residing at 103 Graham avenue, Williamsburg, was in the Lee Avenue Police Court this morning on a charge of sending obscene letters to John Phillips, who gave her address as 450 Graham avenue. Miss Zepka, who is a white-haired, elderly-looking woman, maintains that the complaint and others had robbed her at various times of sums amounting to $100. She said that she would not pay her, she wrote abusive letters. These letters proved the foundation for the complaint, which was introduced in court, as Justice Goetting set down the case for examination Aug. 27.

SHIPPING NEWS.

Table with columns for ship names, destinations, and departure times. Includes entries for 'ALMANAC FOR TO-DAY' and 'PORT OF NEW YORK'.

PORT OF NEW YORK.

Table listing arrivals and departures of ships from the Port of New York, including ship names, companies, and agents.

GOING STEAMERS.

Table listing steamers going to various ports, including ship names, destinations, and departure times.

INCOMING STEAMERS.

Table listing incoming steamers, including ship names, origins, and arrival times.

FOREIGN PORTS.

Table listing foreign ports and shipping schedules, including ship names and destinations.

Weather Forecast.

Local Forecast for 24 hours ending at 7 P. M. on Friday: Generally fair, possibly light showers (rain) Friday; cooler; northwest, changing to northwest wind.

Mr. Smith Gets a Writ.

He Claims that His Property Was Assessed Too High. In the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, this morning Justice Bartlett granted a writ of certiorari to compel the assessors to show cause why they should not review their proceedings in fixing the assessed valuation on the property of Edward J. Smith, at the corner of Rodney street and Bedford avenue.

Neel Nelson in Doldrum.

Read in the SUNDAY WORLD of Neel Nelson's visit to Sonneberg in the Thuringian Forest, whose 12,000 inhabitants, with one or two unimportant exceptions, are engaged in making dolls.

TRUE LOVE FINDS THE WAY.

Brooklyn Heights Society Interested in an Elopement Story. Edward G. Ross Braves Parental Rage and Marries Miss Ella May Kelley. Some time ago a few saloon-keepers adopted what they thought an extremely safe measure for the advancement of their own trade by announcing that the beer they would sell them at the exorbitant (tempting) price of three cents a glass.

BATTLE OF THE BEER GLASSES.

The "Tank" and the "Three-Cent Beer" the Opponents. East-Side Beer Lovers Watch the Fight with Delight. Mrs. Emma Stabler, of 131 Twenty-eighth street, Brooklyn, today mourns the loss of her wedding ring and a pocket-book containing a small sum of money.

ROBBED OF HER WEDDING RING.

A Brooklyn Woman Has Had Luck in a Public Bath-House. Mrs. Emma Stabler, of 131 Twenty-eighth street, Brooklyn, today mourns the loss of her wedding ring and a pocket-book containing a small sum of money.

MRS. PATTERSON'S DIVORCE.

Her Husband is in State Prison and is a Bigamist. Mrs. Florence M. Patterson has been granted a decree of divorce from her husband, J. Porter Patterson.

CAN'T PROVE HIS CITIZENSHIP.

Bredon is in Berlin and His Naturalization Papers Are Lost. Up to 7 P. M. today the big burglar-proof safe in the office of the Howard House, in New York, and not given up by the police.

WANTS TO PREACH IN THE STREETS.

The Rev. T. J. Williamson, of 141 Hopkinson street, Brooklyn, called on Mayor Boody today to ask for a license to preach in the streets.

MRS. SEARLES' HEIRS ANGRY.

They Say Mr. Searles Promised Them $25,000 Apiece. The forty odd relatives of the late Mrs. Mark Hopkins-Searles are up in arms against Edward E. Searles, her husband, and ready to begin a lawsuit against him to recover the $25,000 each which they claim he promised them after setting with Timothy Hopkins.

THE LAND OF STEADY HATS.

One of its Residents Gets Mixed Up with Whiskey and an "M." Train. Michael Walsh is a resident of the Land of Steady Hats, living from Meriden, where his home is at 220 Pratt street. Last night he started for home with an over-cargo of whiskey.

KILLED HER TWO CHILDREN.

Mrs. Kester Poisoned One and Threw the Other Down a Well. MANKATO, Minn., Aug. 11.—The details of a shocking domestic tragedy that occurred yesterday in the village of Eagle Lake, a small village six miles from this city, are as follows: Mrs. Martha Kester, wife of a well-to-do stone-mason living in Milwaukee, is the mother of two little children. Their mother, Mrs. Martha Kester, wife of a well-to-do stone-mason living in Milwaukee, is the mother of two little children.

TO MAKE IT 50,000 STRONG.

Enrolment of the Business Men's Democratic Organization. Secretary Alexander Meakin, of the Business Men's Democratic Organization, said this morning that an army of 50,000 business men would be enrolled in the cause of Cleveland and Stevenson in this city before the end of this month.

RUSSSELL SAGE'S LEASE HAS $611 ELEVEN YEARS TO RUN.

Russell Sage, the philanthropist who recently gave a new lease for a copy of the Elysian World to the city of New York, could not change a nickel, is again brought before the American public as a sufferer in this cold and unfeeling world.

ARMED KOLB MEN IN ALABAMA COME TO AVENGE ASSERTED WRONGS.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 11.—Hockford, the county seat of Coosa County, is in a panic. The county went for colt at the recent election, and the Kolt men assert they caught the Jones Probate Judge and Sheriff tampering with the count. After they had returned to the county house, by which their majority was reduced.

MISS WILCOX AN HEIRESS.

The Former Nun Released from Her Vows by the Pope. The friends of Miss Lulu Wilcox, who is now studying music in this city, are much gratified by the announcement that the dispensation granted by the Pope, releasing her from her religious vows, has been received by Bishop McMahon, of the Hartford Diocese.

HELP WANTED—FEMALE.

YOUNG, handsome, Mary, 216 West 10th st., Friday from 10 A. M. to 1 P. M. 10th st.

CARE COMES IN WITH FORTUNE.

He was worried. She was worried. Their sons and daughters all worried every day of their lives, although they were rich and possessed good health, which they did not know how to enjoy. They lived in a handsome home, on handsome grounds, upon the furthest corner of which was a neat cottage. In the cottage a servant of the house lived with his family.

THE WORRY OF RICHEL.

He was worried. She was worried. Their sons and daughters all worried every day of their lives, although they were rich and possessed good health, which they did not know how to enjoy. They lived in a handsome home, on handsome grounds, upon the furthest corner of which was a neat cottage. In the cottage a servant of the house lived with his family.

TRIP TO THE MECHANICAL TRADES.

Later on the mechanical trades, carpenters, builders, iron-workers, etc., will be enrolled under the banner of Democracy. As soon as organization is completed, each club will be asked to appoint a conference committee of seven. These committees will form the governing body and determine the plan of campaign.

MODEST ASBURY PARK.

George Young's Bathing Suit Too Scant to Be Allowed on the Beach. ASBURY PARK, Aug. 11.—Considerable comment has been caused among the good people here by the action of George Young, of Brooklyn, from the beach because his bathing costume had evidently been bought from a Coney Island dealer.

FOUND DEAD IN THE CABIN.

A Young Longshoreman's End on the Freight Barge Vulcan. CORNER ROONEY, of Brooklyn, was notified this morning of the sudden death of Hans H. Hanson, a longshoreman, on board the freight barge Vulcan. Hanson was twenty-one years old and lived at 77 Columbia street. He was employed yesterday to help load the barge, which was lying at the Hamilton avenue dock. The barge left the dock at 4.30 o'clock, bound for the Pennsylvania Railroad depot at Jersey City.

MUST LIVE WITH HER HUSBAND.

Otherwise Annie Keler Will Lose Possession of Her Children. JUSTICE CULLEN, of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, today rendered a decision in the suit for absolute divorce brought by Annie Keler against her husband, Henry. He declined to grant a divorce, saying that if the plaintiff refuses to live with her husband she may have custody of her children.

NEEL NELSON IN DOLDROM.

Read in the SUNDAY WORLD of Neel Nelson's visit to Sonneberg in the Thuringian Forest, whose 12,000 inhabitants, with one or two unimportant exceptions, are engaged in making dolls.

PEETERS'S CARELESSNESS.

The Blunder of a Methodical Young Man in Love. Love worketh wonders, as hath been said by various wise men before the present writer manipulated the sentence on his typing machine.

ALMANAC FOR TO-DAY.

Table with columns for ship names, destinations, and departure times. Includes entries for 'ALMANAC FOR TO-DAY' and 'PORT OF NEW YORK'.

PORT OF NEW YORK.

Table listing arrivals and departures of ships from the Port of New York, including ship names, companies, and agents.

GOING STEAMERS.

Table listing steamers going to various ports, including ship names, destinations, and departure times.

INCOMING STEAMERS.

Table listing incoming steamers, including ship names, origins, and arrival times.

FOREIGN PORTS.

Table listing foreign ports and shipping schedules, including ship names and destinations.

Weather Forecast.

Local Forecast for 24 hours ending at 7 P. M. on Friday: Generally fair, possibly light showers (rain) Friday; cooler; northwest, changing to northwest wind.

Mr. Smith Gets a Writ.

He Claims that His Property Was Assessed Too High. In the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, this morning Justice Bartlett granted a writ of certiorari to compel the assessors to show cause why they should not review their proceedings in fixing the assessed valuation on the property of Edward J. Smith, at the corner of Rodney street and Bedford avenue.

Neel Nelson in Doldrum.

Read in the SUNDAY WORLD of Neel Nelson's visit to Sonneberg in the Thuringian Forest, whose 12,000 inhabitants, with one or two unimportant exceptions, are engaged in making dolls.

PEETERS'S CARELESSNESS.

The Blunder of a Methodical Young Man in Love. Love worketh wonders, as hath been said by various wise men before the present writer manipulated the sentence on his typing machine.

HELP WANTED—FEMALE.

YOUNG, handsome, Mary, 216 West 10th st., Friday from 10 A. M. to 1 P. M. 10th st.

PEETERS'S CARELESSNESS. The Blunder of a Methodical Young Man in Love. Love worketh wonders, as hath been said by various wise men before the present writer manipulated the sentence on his typing machine. It is remarkable that the T. P. (meaning the tender passion) should have turned a methodical man's methodicalness to his own undoing, as nearly happened in the case of Mr. George Peeters. Love should have nothing to do with a man during business hours. There ought to be an all-plead to this effect hanging up in all well regulated business houses.

ALMANAC FOR TO-DAY.

Table with columns for ship names, destinations, and departure times. Includes entries for 'ALMANAC FOR TO-DAY' and 'PORT OF NEW YORK'.

PORT OF NEW YORK.

Table listing arrivals and departures of ships from the Port of New York, including ship names, companies, and agents.

GOING STEAMERS.

Table listing steamers going to various ports, including ship names, destinations, and departure times.

INCOMING STEAMERS.

Table listing incoming steamers, including ship names, origins, and arrival times.

FOREIGN PORTS.

Table listing foreign ports and shipping schedules, including ship names and destinations.

Weather Forecast.

Local Forecast for 24 hours ending at 7 P. M. on Friday: Generally fair, possibly light showers (rain) Friday; cooler; northwest, changing to northwest wind.

Mr. Smith Gets a Writ.

He Claims that His Property Was Assessed Too High. In the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, this morning Justice Bartlett granted a writ of certiorari to compel the assessors to show cause why they should not review their proceedings in fixing the assessed valuation on the property of Edward J. Smith, at the corner of Rodney street and Bedford avenue.

Neel Nelson in Doldrum.

Read in the SUNDAY WORLD of Neel Nelson's visit to Sonneberg in the Thuringian Forest, whose 12,000 inhabitants, with one or two unimportant exceptions, are engaged in making dolls.

PEETERS'S CARELESSNESS.

The Blunder of a Methodical Young Man in Love. Love worketh wonders, as hath been said by various wise men before the present writer manipulated the sentence on his typing machine.

HELP WANTED—FEMALE.

YOUNG, handsome, Mary, 216 West 10th st., Friday from 10 A. M. to 1 P. M. 10th st.

himself cold when he thought of it, for he knew he had just as much chance of getting the moon or the laurel wreath as the consent of old man Bentham. The clerks always said that it was Miss Sadie who fell in love with Peters, principally, I suppose, because she should have known better, and I think myself there is something to be said for that view of the matter. Anyhow, she came to her father's place of business very often and apparently very unnecessarily, but the old man was always pleased to see her, no matter how busy he happened to be. At first she rarely looked at Peters, but when she did flash one of those quick glances of a berserker at him, Peters thought he had the fever and ague. He understood the symptoms later on. I don't know how things came to a climax; neither do the clerks, for that matter, although they pretend to. Besides, they are divided in their opinions, so I think their collective surmises amount to very little. Bentham claims that it was done over the telephone while Fannan was in the office one day when her father was not there and proposed to Peters on the spot. One thing the clerks are unanimous about, and that is that Peters, left to himself, would never have had the courage. Still, too much attention must be paid to what the clerks say. What can they know about it? They are in another room. Peters knew that he had no right to think about that girl during business hours. It was said to think about the old man and his affairs, which were not nearly so interesting. But Peters was conscientious, and he tried to do his

himself cold when he thought of it, for he knew he had just as much chance of getting the moon or the laurel wreath as the consent of old man Bentham. The clerks always said that it was Miss Sadie who fell in love with Peters, principally, I suppose, because she should have known better, and I think myself there is something to be said for that view of the matter. Anyhow, she came to her father's place of business very often and apparently very unnecessarily, but the old man was always pleased to see her, no matter how busy he happened to be. At first she rarely looked at Peters, but when she did flash one of those quick glances of a berserker at him, Peters thought he had the fever and ague. He understood the symptoms later on. I don't know how things came to a climax; neither do the clerks, for that matter, although they pretend to. Besides, they are divided in their opinions, so I think their collective surmises amount to very little. Bentham claims that it was done over the telephone while Fannan was in the office one day when her father was not there and proposed to Peters on the spot. One thing the clerks are unanimous about, and that is that Peters, left to himself, would never have had the courage. Still, too much attention must be paid to what the clerks say. What can they know about it? They are in another room. Peters knew that he had no right to think about that girl during business hours. It was said to think about the old man and his affairs, which were not nearly so interesting. But Peters was conscientious, and he tried to do his

himself cold when he thought of it, for he knew he had just as much chance of getting the moon or the laurel wreath as the consent of old man Bentham. The clerks always said that it was Miss Sadie who fell in love with Peters, principally, I suppose, because she should have known better, and I think myself there is something to be said for that view of the matter. Anyhow, she came to her father's place of business very often and apparently very unnecessarily, but the old man was always pleased to see her, no matter how busy he happened to be. At first she rarely looked at Peters, but when she did flash one of those quick glances of a berserker at him, Peters thought he had the fever and ague. He understood the symptoms later on. I don't know how things came to a climax; neither do the clerks, for that matter, although they pretend to. Besides, they are divided in their opinions, so I think their collective surmises amount to very little. Bentham claims that it was done over the telephone while Fannan was in the office one day when her father was not there and proposed to Peters on the spot. One thing the clerks are unanimous about, and that is that Peters, left to himself, would never have had the courage. Still, too much attention must be paid to what the clerks say. What can they know about it? They are in another room. Peters knew that he had no right to think about that girl during business hours. It was said to think about the old man and his affairs, which were not nearly so interesting. But Peters was conscientious, and he tried to do his himself cold when he thought of it, for he knew he had just as much chance of getting the moon or the laurel wreath as the consent of old man Bentham. The clerks always said that it was Miss Sadie who fell in love with Peters, principally, I suppose, because she should have known better, and I think myself there is something to be said for that view of the matter. Anyhow, she came to her father's place of business very often and apparently very unnecessarily, but the old man was always pleased to see her, no matter how busy he happened to be. At first she rarely looked at Peters, but when she did flash one of those quick glances of a berserker at him, Peters thought he had the fever and ague. He understood the symptoms later on. I don't know how things came to a climax; neither do the clerks, for that matter, although they pretend to. Besides, they are divided in their opinions, so I think their collective surmises amount to very little. Bentham claims that it was done over the telephone while Fannan was in the office one day when her father was not there and proposed to Peters on the spot. One thing the clerks are unanimous about, and that is that Peters, left to himself, would never have had the courage. Still, too much attention must be paid to what the clerks say. What can they know about it? They are in another room. Peters knew that he had no right to think about that girl during business hours. It was said to think about the old man and his affairs, which were not nearly so interesting. But Peters was conscientious, and he tried to do his

