TAMMANY'S LEADERS--SUPPLEMENT--SUNDAY WORLD.
EXTRA. 2 O'CLOCK.

TO-MORROW,
Sunday, October 16.

THE SUNDAY WORLD TO-MORROW will be a brilliant and also a considerate newspaper. It will say less about Christopher Columbus than any other newspaper in the world. It will be a paper especially pleasing to the young, and to those among the old who retain young feelings. There will be a good deal about love in it. Two stories are published with the most tender feelings for man and woman. They are well selected to please those who are crossed in love and those whose silly emotions are running along smoothly. One of them ends most cheerfully, with plenty of money for the young folks and with despair for the stepmother. The other has a gloomy ending, as the waywardness of the young woman brings about the death of the young man.

WALTER BESANT'S "UNCLE JACK."
This is a novel which fills eighteen columns of THE SUNDAY WORLD. It is just enough to make an afternoon's reading. This story by Besant is the cheerful love story which THE SUNDAY WORLD presents. It tells of two young women and of two young men, all four very miserable, and of an uncle very happy and the uncle very rich as the story ends. It is a wholesome, improbable story, and the fool man in it who wears a sort of divided skirt costume gets what he deserves. If you have a sister or daughter or cousin at school send her this story. It will cheer her up, and just suit her years.

MISS MASTERS.
Miss Beatrice Whitby wrote this short story. It has not been published before. It is THE SUNDAY WORLD'S gloomy love story. It is meant to bring young women with wit (temporarily) to a realization of their own ways, and to make them resolve never again to be bad. It is printed in the interests of woman's development.

IS WOMAN CONSIDERATE?
This is an important question. Last Sunday, in THE SUNDAY WORLD, Mr. William S. Walsh stated in a general way that woman was not considerate. He even said that she was etymologically inconsiderate, inasmuch as she could not consider. THE SUNDAY WORLD printed Mr. Walsh's opinion because of its fondness for free thought in a free country. Personally, THE SUNDAY WORLD does not care to make a specific answer to such "fiddlesticks" in a most convincing tone. She says that Mr. Walsh was brought up to a blind and ungrateful babyhood to a manhood of the same description. At this Mr. Walsh will smile and be anxious to know Helen Waterston as he is far from blind or ungrateful, and to perhaps at 6:30 in the morning, because he does not care to make a specific answer to such "fiddlesticks" in a most convincing tone. MOTHERS OF GREAT MEN.
This article is a rebuke to the young man who thinks that his mother should look up to him and be proud to see him at 6:30 in the morning, because he does not care to make a specific answer to such "fiddlesticks" in a most convincing tone. envy, and say to herself that she is the grandmother of every important work of the human race. Mary Washington never made a speech at a National convention, she just dug in the garden, but it is doubtful whether anyone will be able to put on Mrs. J. Ellen Foster's grave an inscription as well lived living for as that on Mrs. Washington's.

MARY,
THE MOTHER OF
WASHINGTON.

PICTURES OF FIVE BIG MEN.
THE SUNDAY WORLD will publish to-morrow an art supplement which all well-regulated Americans will study with interest. It will present accurate portraits of the head men of Tammany Hall, Richard Croker, Mr. Gilroy, Bourke Cockran, James J. Martin and Mayor Grant. The portraits are the work of Valentin Bissendorf, and show the men exactly as they are, with the cheap wit of the weekly comic artist left out. Messrs. Croker, Gilroy and Martin have been the art supplement, and each declares that it is a very fine thing indeed. Interviews in another column of this paper tell what the Tammany leaders think about their own pictures. Many devoted district leaders have announced their determination to walk miles if necessary to get one of THE SUNDAY WORLD art supplements and hang them up in their local headquarters. When you see the face of Richard Croker and the faces of the other men who control the greatest Democratic organization in the country you will understand how it happens that men of the Old Deal or Prescher Dixon variety fall down when they start out to vote Tammany out of existence.

A LEADING YOUNG WOMAN.
In John Drew's Company there is the youngest important leading lady in the world. Her success has been sudden and great. THE SUNDAY WORLD will make the public thoroughly acquainted with this new theatrical personage and print many pictures of her.

A LEADING YOUNG MAN.
Mr. Daly has got a young actor from Europe to take John Drew's place as his chief actor. This young man is the centre of attraction among Mr. Daly's patrons at present. THE SUNDAY WORLD reveals the fact that he fastens his tie with a safety pin and gives other interesting information about him.

BIG WISE TORTOISES.
We have in Central Park some turtles that are centenarians and deep cogitators. The animal philosopher of THE SUNDAY WORLD devotes his attention to them to create in simple words that is usual in their habits and their mode of thought. He also tells some things about a fox and other members of the animal kingdom.

POETS ARE IMPORTANT.
Lord Tennyson's death has brought the poet to the front, and he is receiving much unusual attention from this end of the nineteenth century. The best work of the men who write to be put in the hands of a gentle mind is that which permit the expression of THE SUNDAY WORLD. Mr. William S. Walsh has reviewed the amusing struggles for the laurelship, and the witty attacks upon it which have marked various poetical occasions in history. This is no age for poets, but they get from THE SUNDAY WORLD as much attention as they are entitled to.

THE PARIS FOUNDLINGS.
While in Paris recently, Miss Nelson visited the orphan and poor children who are being reared in the world. In THE SUNDAY WORLD to-morrow she describes the lives of the little Paris-vois. It appears that they live a very regular life and that the very young ones drink asses' milk. This is not due to any lack of cows: it is because asses' milk is good for them. Miss Nelson's story will appeal to hearts of mothers, which it is intended to do.

CHOIR BOYS AND MR. GERRY.
It is a fact that boys who sing in choirs do more hard work than any class of child laborers. Their work is described in THE SUNDAY WORLD, not with a view of depriving the church of their services, but to call attention to a pointed manner to the absurdity of the restrictions laid upon child performances on the stage.

FOX HUNT IN THE PARK.
Central Park policemen are still talking of the fox hunt which followed the previous day in the neighborhood of the east drive. The fugitive rindard was one of a dozen foxes on exhibition at the Zoo. He escaped a week ago by squeezing through the bars of his cage.
