

Commissioner of Public Works by Mayor Grant at the beginning of his first term. Mr. Gilroy has made a reputation as a careful and trustworthy business man, and his integrity has never been questioned during his entire public career. His department has been employed, he has been a strenuous and efficient worker, and has increased the efficiency of his men, at the same time securing the most economical management possible.

No more industrious public official has ever had charge of an important department of the city government than Mr. Gilroy. He daily arrives at his office by 9 o'clock A. M., and remains on duty till 5 in the afternoon. Every detail of the work of his department is watched by him, and he knows what is going on in each branch as thoroughly as any of his subordinates.

At the present time Mr. Gilroy is Grand Sachem of Tammany Hall, and is a member of the Committee of Thirty. He lives in comfortable style with his family of six sons and daughters in a large, modern house at 275 West 125th street, and has a summer house at Far Rockaway.

Mr. Gilroy was elected to the Assembly, where he was prominent as an advocate of the Forderson law, which made him very popular among workmen.

Quay Will Come When He Is Hated. Senator Matthew Stanley Quay, who has been expected for several days at Mr. Carter's bureau, to assist in the campaign, is resting quietly at his home in Beaver, Pa. It was said last night that he may not come here at all, but that he will come to Philadelphia in the morning, and that Mr. Quay will positively come to New York after he has rested a day or two more.

Mr. Stevenson's Acceptance. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 18.—Gen. Stevenson today when asked when he would give his letter of acceptance to the public answered: "I am very much engaged with my other duties, but I will reach my home in Illinois the latter until I reach my home in Illinois."

Mr. Hackett argued from his point of view that Mr. Gilroy's nomination would not take any votes away from the Tammany ticket, and he was satisfied. Mr. Elstner, on the other hand, he thought, would draw strength from the independent side, and the question considered it the best nomination that could have been made by his party.

Mr. Crook was particularly pleased with the nomination. He said: "The entire ticket is a tower of strength and will aid the National ticket. It will give the city a brilliant administration."

A FALL WITH A HAPPY TERMINATION. (From the Filigreea Illustration.)

Afterwards Neill showed Haynes a notebook in which were entered, among other things, the initials of the women who had been poisoned, together with the dates of their deaths.

Neill had reported that that would be foolish, as there was more money to be made by suing the Harpers. Haynes's father heard the remark and had said that England was not America, and that an attempt at anything of that kind was a penal offense. Neill replied that he did not care if it was.

On cross-examination, Mr. Geoghegan, of counsel for Neill, brought out the fact that Haynes had been employed by a firm of engineers in America during the year 1900.
