

PEST HOUSE STIRS THEIR IRE.

Flatbush People Say It Has Spread Small-Pox Among Them.

They Intend to Petition Brooklyn for Its Removal.

The residents of Flatbush are indignant that the city of Brooklyn allows the hospital for contagious diseases to remain in their midst. They attribute the presence of small-pox in the town to its proximity. They appeal to the city authorities here as yet received no recognition.

When Mrs. Mary Heuter and her daughter were removed to the pest-house yesterday from their home, which is but two blocks away, the indignation of the people reached the boiling point. It is probable that some determined effort will be made to procure its removal.

ACCUSES A POLICEMAN.

A Brooklyn girl's story of rough and brutal treatment. Timothy J. Dixon, of 799 Lafayette avenue, Brooklyn, at Police Headquarters today complained of the conduct of a policeman, whose name he does not know, but who he thinks is attached to the Vernon avenue station.

Mr. Dixon's pretty daughter visited her sister last evening, and started to go home shortly before 10 o'clock. She had a bundle of clothing under her arm.

As she was passing through Throon avenue, between Myrtle and Vernon avenues, a policeman stopped her and demanded to know what she had in the bundle.

She is none of your business, the girl replied. The street is very dark, and the girl says the officer caught a hold of her by the shoulder and dragged her to the street.

A witness swore to having served the summons and complaint on Mrs. Foster at the corner of Johnson and Fulton streets, Brooklyn, on October 10th.

Clement was not satisfied with the proof of service and held the summons open.

Today Lena Lay, a sister of the defendant, came into court and swore that her sister had acknowledged receiving the summons and complaint and would not put in any defense to the suit.

Foster will get a decree.

HE MIGHT TAKE A WAGER.

Desperate Struggle in a Police Court with a Madman.

Thomas C. King, of Williamsburg, Committed to an Asylum.

A madman created a scene in the Lee Avenue Police Court, Williamsburg, at noon today.

The man was Thomas C. King, fifty-six years of age, who for the past thirty years has been employed in the cracker bakery of Brickerhoff & Co., in Grand street, New York.

Four months ago he lost his position and since then his mind has been affected. His children, who live at 411 Driggs avenue, Williamsburg, have done all in their power to make him comfortable, promising to care for him for the remainder of his life.

He made many efforts to obtain work, but his efforts were futile. One month ago he showed symptoms of insanity and has been growing worse daily.

Last night he locked his children out of the house with a knife and threatened to kill them if they returned.

Arrangements were then made to take him to a private asylum at Woodhaven, and at noon today a carriage drove up to the door. King, however, when it was ready to start for the station-house for protection, he ran behind the desk occupied by Sergeant Bickel.

Several policemen were called and a terrific struggle ensued, King fighting like a tiger. He was finally subdued and taken to the asylum, where he was locked in a cell with other insane men, women and children screaming into the street.

The family of Mr. King are prominent in church and social circles in Williamsburg.

KINGS AND THE SENATORSHIP.

Hugh McLaughlin and Others Mentioned by Murphy Quits the Race.

The friends of ex-Register Hugh McLaughlin, of Brooklyn, are trying to pick out a post to be President-elect Cleveland's ally in the race for the Kings County seat.

McLaughlin is not an office-seeker, and it is believed he would decline anything, from Secretary of State to Postmaster of Brooklyn, but in recognition of Kings County's tremendous Democratic majority, there is a general feeling that Mr. Cleveland could do no better than place some point in National importance at the disposal of Mr. McLaughlin.

He was asked today by an Evening World reporter if it were true that he might be invited to accept a Federal office, he simply replied: "I don't know what you mean."

It is believed that Mr. McLaughlin will have something to say about the distribution of spoils in the Kings County race.

Spokesman of Mr. McLaughlin, Brooklyn men who are active in connection with the United States Senatorship, are Senator Patrick McCarran, ex-Mayor Charles, Judges Hartnett and Conover, and others.

It is not believed that any of these will be candidates in case Edward Murphy, who is a candidate in the Kings County race, will put in a claim and will fight for it.

REV. THOMAS IS REAL ANGRY.

Dixon Says He Will Not Pay Another Cent.

Thinks He Has Paid the Full Penalty for Bird-Shooting.

One thing is certain, Rev. Thomas Dixon, Jr. has made up his mind that he has paid all he is going to pay for his little shooting excursion to Staten Island. An Evening World reporter had his word for it today.

A despatch from Albany this morning states that the Game and Fish Commission has considered the case of the sportsman and has directed the Chief Game Protector to push the matter and collect the full penalty which Mr. Dixon incurred when he shot the twenty-six robins, three thrush, one crow bird and one yellow wren.

Mr. Dixon has already paid $155 for his day's sport, but should the full amount of the fine be collected he would have to go down into his pocket for a total of $600.

An Evening World reporter this morning found Mr. Dixon in his cosy study at 41 West Ninety-fourth street. A cheerful countenance beamed from the grate, and the anti-Tammany preacher was mapping out his discourse for to-morrow.

When shown a copy of the Albany despatch Mr. Dixon's countenance took on a stony expression.

"So they intend punishing me, do they? Well, if they do, I will pay it. I have no money but I will pay it."

"I have read the law," and the reverend gentleman disappeared for a moment, returning with a volume of Penal Code with a pencil turned down at section 477.

"Here it is," he said, "and I am glad to get over that if they can," and Mr. Dixon read the section which provides that a conviction or acquittal on any charge bears a prosecution on the same act.

"This whole business is simply a piece of malice," he said, "and I am glad to get over that if they can," and Mr. Dixon read the section which provides that a conviction or acquittal on any charge bears a prosecution on the same act.
