

2 O'CLOCK.
LIKE A BUNCO TRICK.

Brown Paper Substituted for Kountze Brothers' Greenbacks.

Express Company Claims the $10,000 Was Stolen Here.

The Bankers Believe the Robbery Was Committed En Route.

From developments to-day it appears that the package of $10,000 shipped by Kountze Bros., bankers, Broadway, through Wells, Fargo & Co. Express, to the City Savings Bank, of Galveston, Tex., had its contents removed and slips of brown paper substituted before it reached the office of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express, at 63 Broadway.

The package was delivered to John T. McCarthy, the cashier of the bank in Galveston, by the Express company's representative, yesterday, and signed for, but the expressman did not wait to see the package opened.

When Cashier McCarthy opened the package it was found to contain a stack of brown paper cut the size of banknotes.

Cashier McCarthy immediately called the President of the bank, and Wells, Fargo & Co.'s office was notified.

At the banking-house of Kountze Bros. this morning, Cashier Phillips said to an EVENING World reporter:

"We have been notified by the Galveston Bank that the package contained nothing but brown paper. Further than this we know nothing except the telegraphic reports printed in the papers this morning."

"The package was gone up here in the bank by our employees, and it is certain that the seals had been tampered with and we believe that it was done while en route."

The agent of Wells, Fargo & Co. who was called to give any information regarding the case, said:

"If the seals placed on the package in New York had been tampered with we would have been notified."

Package of value carried by this company are guarded with the utmost attention and the seals are broken and carefully examined as they pass from one to the other, and had the seals been broken as stated in some of the reports, the agent in Galveston would have gone to the bank and witnessed the opening of the package.

"The package was always the case with packages coming from the banks, was tied up and sealed at the bank before it was offered here for shipment."

"We are not supposed to know what a package contains further than we learn from the shipper's receipt and the bill of lading."

"I cannot say whether the case is being investigated or not, but it is more than likely that it is. The package was sent to Galveston through the superintendent, who has charge of the express business in Texas."

MARION THREW A CLOCK.

Byron Threw Her Out of Bed and a Divorce Suit Follows.

Another theatrical divorce suit is about to come before the courts. This suit is only for a separation, however, the complainant being Byron Douglas, a leading juvenile, and the defendant Marion Booth Douglas, said to be a niece of Edwin Booth.

Leading juvenile Douglas accuses Mrs. Marion Booth Douglas of acts of violence, and she replies with countercharges of a similar nature.

The couple were married in Jersey City by Justice of the Peace William A. Lane, June 30, 1888. In his complaint Mr. Douglas declares that on the 17th of 1890, his wife struck him with a brick, and on the 18th of the same month she threw a clock at his head. He cites other harrowing incidents, and asks that their child, Edwin Douglas, two and a half years old, be committed to his custody.

Mrs. Douglas, in her answer, admits having struck her husband, but declares that it was in self-defense. She also charges her husband with acts of cruelty, and says that one night he threw her out of bed with such violence that she injured her back. She also charges that she was confined in the superior court yesterday, and is at present at the residence of Mr. Douglas's counsel.

Jersey's Board of Arbitration.

J. P. McDonald, Patrick T. Boyle and D. Robertson, all well-known labor men and agitators, have been appointed by Gov. Abbott as Commissioners of Arbitration for the State of New Jersey. Their term of office will be five years, and their compensation will be $10 for every day of active duty.

City News in Brief.

Italians on the east side have formed a society for the celebration of nona culture. The order is known as "The Little Italy Association."

Thomas Larkin is suing his wife to recover $25,000 which he gave her in 1887. She is suing him for divorce.

POINTERS ON THE RACES.

A Fairly Good Card at the Hill-top Track To-Day.

Hilizen Again Asked to Face the Starter's Flag.

The card at Guttenberg, to-day although not very large in regard to quantity, is fair in quality, and should prove to be a good medium for speculation. The track will be in poor condition, and owners do not care to take the risk of injuring their best breeders on a track of frozen snow and slush.

On to form the card looks easy to pick from, and the talent should get the best of it in four of the six events at best. Hilizen is again asked to face the flag with such good odds as King Crab and Fenelon. The "little iron horse," as he is termed, is asked to try too often, and the going matters little to Pa Bradley. Entries and selections follow:

First Race—Purse, $100; selling allowance; six furlongs.
A. G. Hesperus 104
W. P. Sargent 104

Second Race—Purse, $100; selling allowance; six furlongs.
J. H. McCombs 104
J. H. McCombs 104

Third Race—Purse $100; penalties and allowance; six furlongs.
W. P. Sargent 104
W. P. Sargent 104

Fourth Race—Purse $100; selling allowance; six furlongs.
W. P. Sargent 104
W. P. Sargent 104

Fifth Race—Purse $100; selling allowance; six furlongs.
W. P. Sargent 104
W. P. Sargent 104

Sixth Race—Purse $100; selling allowance; six furlongs.
W. P. Sargent 104
W. P. Sargent 104

Morning Papers' Selections.

First Race—Sir Richard, Hesperus.
Second Race—Ella, Mamie B. King.
Third Race—Hilizen, King Crab.
Fourth Race—Fenelon, King Crab.
Fifth Race—Kirkover, Addie B. Fisher.
Sixth Race—Kirkover, Addie B. Fisher.

Seventh Race—Kirkover, Addie B. Fisher.
Eighth Race—Kirkover, Addie B. Fisher.

MANY MEN AND MANY SLATES.

Political Tipsters on Mayor Gilroy's Appointments.

Arrested on the L Stairs Under Suspicious Circumstances.

Police Believe They Have Made an Important Capture.

It has been finally settled by the makers of political slates that ex-Ecclési Commissioner Edward T. Fitzpatrick, who was turned down by Mayor Gilroy and who is probably favored and officer by Mayor-elect Gilroy, will be appointed one of the commissioners of record by the latter. The salary of that office will be $4,000 a year.

For the Associate Commissioner who, with Regulator-elect Levy, will constitute the second record, the tipsters are making Charles W. Barton a strong favorite.

Rumor had it yesterday that County Clerk-elect Purroy was to resign his office as soon as he was sworn in, to succeed Mr. Gilroy as Commissioner of Public Works, and that Fitzpatrick would either be appointed County Clerk or President of the Fire Commission in place of Purroy. This morning, however, the rumor was snubbed by scratching Fitzpatrick.

The knowing ones say "the organization" is not likely to ask a man who was the choice of the people for an office to resign to take another office as long as others equally as competent as he are available. "The office of Commissioner of Public Works is an important one of the organization, and it is not likely to be given to a man who was the choice of the people for an office to resign to take another office as long as others equally as competent as he are available."

It takes a man of great business capacity to fill it, and politicians admit that Mr. Purroy made an excellent record as an able manager in the administration of the Fire Commission. It is not likely that he will be asked to resign his office, and it is not likely that he will be asked to resign his office, and it is not likely that he will be asked to resign his office.

Another change in the slate is reported by the tipsters. It is now said that he does not want to be appointed Mayor. He would rather succeed Police Commissioner Maclean or be appointed a Police Justice, and it is not likely that he will be asked to resign his office, and it is not likely that he will be asked to resign his office.

It is also reported that the Commission on the rate, say the gentlemen who make predictions, probably started the rumor about Purroy's resignation.

The tipsters are equally in the dark about the other appointments to be made by Mayor Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

There is an impression, however, that Peter P. Brady, assistant counsel to the Ecclési Commissioner, is slated to succeed the late John E. Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

There is an impression, however, that Peter P. Brady, assistant counsel to the Ecclési Commissioner, is slated to succeed the late John E. Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

There is an impression, however, that Peter P. Brady, assistant counsel to the Ecclési Commissioner, is slated to succeed the late John E. Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

There is an impression, however, that Peter P. Brady, assistant counsel to the Ecclési Commissioner, is slated to succeed the late John E. Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

There is an impression, however, that Peter P. Brady, assistant counsel to the Ecclési Commissioner, is slated to succeed the late John E. Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

There is an impression, however, that Peter P. Brady, assistant counsel to the Ecclési Commissioner, is slated to succeed the late John E. Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

There is an impression, however, that Peter P. Brady, assistant counsel to the Ecclési Commissioner, is slated to succeed the late John E. Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

There is an impression, however, that Peter P. Brady, assistant counsel to the Ecclési Commissioner, is slated to succeed the late John E. Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

There is an impression, however, that Peter P. Brady, assistant counsel to the Ecclési Commissioner, is slated to succeed the late John E. Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

There is an impression, however, that Peter P. Brady, assistant counsel to the Ecclési Commissioner, is slated to succeed the late John E. Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

There is an impression, however, that Peter P. Brady, assistant counsel to the Ecclési Commissioner, is slated to succeed the late John E. Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

There is an impression, however, that Peter P. Brady, assistant counsel to the Ecclési Commissioner, is slated to succeed the late John E. Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

There is an impression, however, that Peter P. Brady, assistant counsel to the Ecclési Commissioner, is slated to succeed the late John E. Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

There is an impression, however, that Peter P. Brady, assistant counsel to the Ecclési Commissioner, is slated to succeed the late John E. Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

There is an impression, however, that Peter P. Brady, assistant counsel to the Ecclési Commissioner, is slated to succeed the late John E. Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

There is an impression, however, that Peter P. Brady, assistant counsel to the Ecclési Commissioner, is slated to succeed the late John E. Gilroy. There is as much mystery regarding his selections as there was about the nominees for Mayor-elect last fall. Nobody knows whom the Mayor will appoint to fill the various offices, and it is not likely that there will be any change in the slate.

IS STRINGER AN INK SLINGER?

The Arrival of the Remittitur Is Only Awaited.

No Hope Now for Pretty Annie Goodwin's Slayer.

Operated in Broad Daylight on Harlem Streets and Avenues.

Unless the wheels of justice are clogged by some unforeseen obstacle, Dr. Henry G. McConigal, convicted slayer of Annie Goodwin, the pretty cigarette girl, has probably passed his last night in New York City.

Dr. McConigal was arrested last yesterday afternoon on a warrant issued by District Attorney Nicolai as soon as he learned from Albany that the Court of Appeals had affirmed the judgment of the Court of General Sessions of this city, on which Justice Fitzgerald, sitting in the Court of Appeals, had sentenced him to fourteen years' imprisonment for manslaughter.

McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

On his way to the Tombs McConigal remarked that he could easily have escaped had he desired to do so, which would seem to indicate that the oil man had been cornered.

Such a thought had also occurred to the District Attorney, and when Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs he was guarded by a large force of police. He was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

M'CONIGAL NEAR SING SING.

The Arrival of the Remittitur Is Only Awaited.

No Hope Now for Pretty Annie Goodwin's Slayer.

Operated in Broad Daylight on Harlem Streets and Avenues.

Unless the wheels of justice are clogged by some unforeseen obstacle, Dr. Henry G. McConigal, convicted slayer of Annie Goodwin, the pretty cigarette girl, has probably passed his last night in New York City.

Dr. McConigal was arrested last yesterday afternoon on a warrant issued by District Attorney Nicolai as soon as he learned from Albany that the Court of Appeals had affirmed the judgment of the Court of General Sessions of this city, on which Justice Fitzgerald, sitting in the Court of Appeals, had sentenced him to fourteen years' imprisonment for manslaughter.

McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

On his way to the Tombs McConigal remarked that he could easily have escaped had he desired to do so, which would seem to indicate that the oil man had been cornered.

Such a thought had also occurred to the District Attorney, and when Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs he was guarded by a large force of police. He was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

Dr. McConigal was taken to the Tombs and lodged in one of the cells on the first tier in the Old Prison. It was the beginning of his journey to Sing Sing, whose completion was only a matter of days.

SHOWCASE BURGLARS CAUGHT.

They Are Little Lads, but Dangerous Thieves.

Operated in Broad Daylight on Harlem Streets and Avenues.

Police Captain Brooks, of the East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street station, believes he has found an organized gang of boy thieves, who have been robbing many of the showcases in broad daylight.

So clever have been the youngsters that they long eluded the police, and even now the officers have been able to locate only a very small portion of the stolen property, and the chances are that much valuable booty will never be recovered.

Two of the boys have been arrested, Harry Metz, twelve years old, 208 East One Hundred and Eighteenth street, and Owen Dempsey, eleven years old, 208 East One Hundred and Seventeenth street. Owen Dempsey, twenty-six years old, of 2207 Second avenue, has been arrested on suspicion of receiving the goods stolen.

The boys operated in broad daylight. Yesterday afternoon the showcase in front of 72 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, kept by Otto Szegling, a bird fancier, was forced open with a knife and a dozen silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

An hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife and a dozen pairs of silver-mounted dice-tossers were stolen.

Another hour later Allen Smith's showcase in the same building, at 113 East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth street, was forced open with a knife