THURSDAY EVENING, DEC. 15.
DESCRIPTIONS TO THE EVENING WORLD

after one of his lectures on the simplicities of life.
According to the story of one of the captured train robbers in West Virginia, the plan of attack on the Chesapeake and Ohio vestibular train was rehearsed several times before the actual performance was commenced.

Whiskey gave a Harlem wife-beater "courage" to kick the poor victim of his marriage vows into unconsciousness yesterday. It is almost a pity that the modern State laws do not provide for the removal of the fictitious bravery of such a brute at the whipping-post.

It is singular that it should need so many words to emphasize the importance of keeping the Metropolitan Museum of Art open on Sunday. The reopening of the institution every day in the week should be a matter settled beyond change or discussion of change.

Mr. Harrison complains that the wage-earner would not in the late campaign walk under the same umbrella with the manufacturer. He doesn't see, as the workman did, that the manufacturer was proffering the leaky side of the umbrella.

It is Cleveland does not make a success of his administration it will not be for lack of advisers and Cabinet officers. It is believed that no President-elect has ever received as much good advice as has already been bestowed on him.

The impression in Germany seems to be that when the Army Bill went to a Reichstag committee yesterday it went to its grave. And there are those who go so far as to say that it was not even buried for two long months.

Eleven days ago the argument was made in the habeas corpus proceedings to secure the release of the child, Joseph Mizner, and his return to his parents' care. The case has been ever since then in the hands of Judge Ingraham, who has not yet made his decision.

A Supreme Court Judge who has important matters occupying his time may think very little of a delay of eleven days in deciding the fate of a poor Italian child who is in the care of a responsible institution. But eleven days of anxiety and eleven nights of sorrow are a sad trial to a bereaved mother who yearns to take her little one to her heart, and to whom every hour of his absence is an age of anguish and misery.

It is said that this judicial delay is caused by the intricacy of the laws relating to the Gerry Society. But if any laws impede the immediate release of an innocent child from a semi-penal institution and his restoration to his parents' care they are a disgrace to the State and cannot be too soon removed from the statute books.

Commissioner SHERMAN, of the Charities and Correction Department, takes a decided and a proper view of the action of the Massachusetts authorities in secretly transferring their paupers and lunatics to New York to become a burden upon our citizens instead of upon their own. Mr. SHERMAN does not see why we should be passing laws and spending money to prevent the landing on our shores of paupers and criminals from Europe if we patiently suffer other States to empty upon us the inmates of their almshouses and jails.

THE EVENING WORLD was at pains to detect and expose the pernicious practice because it is a danger to life and property in the city as well as an imposition on the taxpayers. As Mr. SHERMAN truly says, we do not want vagrants and tramps from other States dumped upon our city, even if they are not crazy or helpless. They are a menace to law and order, and we have a sufficient number of such characters of our own to occupy the attention of the police and to fill our prisons. Mr. SHERMAN says:

It is the meanest and most outrageous practice I ever heard of, and the people who are guilty of such acts ought to be punished just as severely as though they were flooding us with lunatics and madmen.

Will the State and city authorities all THE EVENING WORLD in its efforts to stamp out the practice?

BUFILE AND BUNDLES.
A man with a "kit" who was boarding a trolley car for one of his steel tools came in contact with the electrical apparatus on the car platform and was promptly knocked insensible by 500 volts of the agile alternating current.

The woman with bundles has no such exciting fate in store for her. She is very profuse in the street car these days. Her bundles are bigger and more numerous than at any other time of the year, and she spreads them all over the car in a way that shows that she means to get the full value of her nickel out of the railroad company and its patrons before she finishes her ride.

Her handboxes fill everybody with sleds. If the car happens to be at all crowded her packages get tangled in passengers' legs or mixed up with their neckwear. And she generally manages to pick out the most crowded car of the day to do her tumultuous traveling in.

She doesn't carry steel or iron like the man with the "kit," so there's no hope that 500 volts will find her out and do her up, to the delight of other wayfarers in the vehicle. Nothing will ever phase her. A cold glare is simply summer zephyr to this woman.

If the electric current ever tackled a holiday shopper covered with an eruption of bundles, it would find itself suddenly surried up like a boy with the coils, and after gladly letting go it would spend much sorrowful time loosening the knots and knots that found their way into its circuit.

Kansas Populists will have no such frivolity as an inauguration ball when their Governor goes in. It was a dreadful warning to them of the enticements of capitalistic pleasures when James Seward, once proud to be known as the sockman, was lured to the banquet table with a party of Western millionaires.

A Good Place to Go To-Night.
There will be a fair this evening at Dargie Hall, One Hundred and Eighty-second street and Third Avenue, for the benefit of the EVENING WORLD Christmas Fund, and if you have no other engagement on hand you are sure to find a lot of pretty little girls on the Reception Committee. They will have nothing to do but smile and smile sweetly, talk up the sad lives of the poor children and awaken your sympathy.

Little Zeldia Sanders's Big Fair.
The little girl who has been the subject of the Anti-Gerry Society and child beauty, is very busy just now arranging for a fair, which is to be held at her home, 131 Adelphi street, Brooklyn. Many of the merchants of Myrtle avenue have promised to send donations, and there will be cake and cream at the little tables in the nursery and front parlor.

The Hardman Hall Benefit.
The Hardman Hall reception entertainment, 'Christmas in Florida,' interspersed with vocal and instrumental recitations, character sketches and the like, was enjoyed last evening by many friends of THE EVENING WORLD Christmas-Tree Fund. The profit to the fund is $12.25. McCallister kindly furnished the beautiful illustrations; the National Electric Light Company, the light, and the National Light Company, the light, and the National Light Company, the light.

HOUSE AND HOME
Do You Lose Things?
A lady who has been much annoyed by the loss of gloves, especially the loss of one of a pair, adopted an excellent idea. She had a rubber stamp made reading: "If found please return to," giving her name and address, and with this she stamped the inside of her gloves. The next glove lost was returned to her by mail. A monthly railroad ticket, similarly stamped, was also returned.

Large black velvet picture hat, turned up in front. The trimmings consist of large black plumes and busbar spray.

For this special (umble) I wish to give a special recipe, a little more like a hot pudding than the usual way. For twelve persons, purchase one and a half pounds of hair-cut, wash it well, cut into pieces, and after chopping it rather the press it through a sieve; add to this pulp one gill of thick cream, whipped, one teaspoonful salt, a grain of cayenne, and then stir in carefully the beaten whites of five eggs. Turn this into a greased melon mold, stand in a steamer and steam thirty minutes. Turn out carefully and pour around a

Wash the flower in cold water, then put it in a large kettle of boiling water, add a teaspoonful of salt and simmer gently for thirty minutes. Drain, dish, cover with cream sauce, dust with armenian and brown in the oven.

Real Heart-Love.
I never saw a garment too fine for a man or a maid; there never was a chair too good for a cobbler or a cooper or a king to sit in, says Oliver Wendell Holmes; never a house too fine to shelter the human head. These elements in the world will not make a home, and a home could give more for a spoonful of real heart-love than for whole shiploads of furniture and all the gorgeousness all the upholstery in the world can gather.

Apple Pudding.
Pare and core six common-sized apples, wash them in soft and cool. Beat the whites of three eggs and one cupful of sugar with the apple nearly an hour till light as possible, stir into the yolks one-half cup of sugar and add to one-half pint of scalding milk. Put the cream in a dish and pour the custard on it.

Flowers Garlanded Gloves.
It is considered the proper freak at present to surround the very top of your evening dress with some dainty garland of artificial blossoms. Silken, velvet, but more often kid, very much the same as a bracelet worn high up on the arm. This pretty caprice in its original state is bewitching, but with it, as everything else, exaggerated additions have destroyed its former beauty. One would-be flowerer of the fashion got secured her flower-garland about the top of the glove with ribbons, tied upon one side and allowed to fall quite a distance down the skirt. Another eccentric fair one has abandoned the floral fascias altogether, and encircled the top of her evening gloves with a silver fringe, which she has attached to a single glittering butterfly of silver lighted by tiny moonbeams.

Roasted Wild Duck.
The ducks must be roasted about thirty minutes in a very quick oven. They are served and passed with the sauce of chicken or French dressing. It is best to have the duck carved in the roasting-pan, dished on a heated dish and simply passed by the waitress, to be eaten on same plate with salad. If you cannot get chicken serve cut celery with French dressing. The cream should be well whipped without sugar or flavoring. Help it on the ordinary
