

CAPTAIN WILTSE'S FUNERAL.

Will Be Buried on Saturday with Full Naval Honors.

Officers Were Grief Stricken by His Sudden Death Yesterday.

While naval officers are all unwilling to entertain others to-day there is a feeling of grief among them on account of the death of Capt. Gilbert Crandall Wiltse, U. S. N., who commanded the Boston at Honolulu during the Hawaiian troubles...

CAPT. GILBERT C. WILTSE, U. S. N.

The funeral of Capt. Wiltse will take place at St. Thomas's Church, Saturday, at 11 A. M., and the interment will be in Washington.

The cause of his death was cerebral hemorrhage, which is supposed to have been indirectly caused by his attendance at the reception given the Duke of Veragua at the Hotel Waldorf a week ago yesterday.

He had been in the navy thirty-eight years.

He was born in Binghamton, N. Y., in 1833. During the war he took part in the engagements between the Congress and Cumberland, and the rebel rams Merrimack, and in May in the engagements at Sewell's Point.

He was married twenty-one years ago to Miss Sarah Steele, who was then the belle of Washington.

His widow and four children survive him.

SOMETHING WRONG.

His Order sounded queer, but He So Read It.

He seemed to be all right when he sat down at the table and the waiter bowed around getting him in shape for his dinner while he studied the bill of fare.

"Well, sir, what will you have?" asked the waiter.

"I'll have murtle soup and collid bodah," he replied, holding up the bill.

"Tock murtle soup and collid bodah," he repeated, and the waiter snickered and went away.

He came back in a few minutes with the order and the guest took the bill again.

"Bring me," he said, "five some bits of lution with saper cauce, some bils of reef and holded bam, pashed potatoes, preg far-falpa, prech peas, blink beans and water, and her up with some pince mls, pado buding, ruts and paltains and a cor of cupple."

"What time the water was almost thrown on his feet, and he stared at his customer in amazement.

"You must returned the stare in busy consciousness and abook his head slowly.

"Don't seem to sound right, does it?" he asked. "I'm sure something's wrong with it, but it looks that way on the bill, and I've got to eat it or starve," and the waiter turned away hesitatingly and moved off to the kitchen.

Clever Receipts

are given away with every 25 cent packet of the celebrated preparation known as

Bird's Custard Powder

which makes delicious custards of all kinds in 3 minutes.

No Eggs Required.

MUSCULAR JUSTICE.

A Recent Incident in Kansas Matched by One from Ohio.

"I remember an incident," says a writer in the Yankee Blade, "that clearly illustrates Gen. Grant's character. When I was Secretary of the Navy some hundreds of the sailors of the better class came to me and asked to have some rank given them. They did not care about an increase of pay, they only wanted relative rank. I could not do anything for them, but they came several times and were rather importunate, and I finally let a fellow named Jones get a promotion. Now, here I am a parent-in-a-fact, a father. My son is a midshipman. He outranks me, don't you observe? That ain't right, don't you see?"

"Indeed," said Grant, "who appointed him?"

"The Secretary here," he bo'um said, and encouraged by the question he went on. "It ain't right, don't you see? I should be lieutenant in, say, and I was to go on to his ship the boy I brought up to obedience would boss his own father. I don't know any more, but he has better quarters 'n me an' better grub, nice furniture 'n all that—indeed, it is a nice, sort bed an' all that. See?"

"Yes," the President said—"yes, the old boy looks another hitch to his father."

"I know of an old fellow," said Gen. Grant, "who is a postmaster of a little town in Kentucky. He lives in a plain way in a small house. He is a nice old man, but he ain't much in rank. His son outranks him more than your son does. He is in Washington, in the biggest house there, and is surrounded by the nice of things, and he don't drink anything he takes a notion to. He could remove his father from office in a minute if he wanted to."

"How do you suppose he takes a notion to do that?" asked the writer.

"I don't know," said Grant, "but I see his boy get along in the world."

"The old boy looked down at the card and drank a hole in it with his wife, and his comrades all laughed at him jocosely and slapped his back. It was the last I ever heard of the petition of the petitioners."

FOUND GOLD IN A GRAVE.

A Poor Miner Buries a Pauper and Strikes a Bonanza.

"A good turn will always turn up, so that you never get the worst of it," said Frank Painter, of Como, Cal., at the Leclere Hotel to a St. Louis Globe-Tribune reporter.

"How do you suppose one of the best fellows that ever lived became a rich man?" asked the reporter.

"I don't know," said Painter, "but I see his boy get along in the world."

"The old boy looked down at the card and drank a hole in it with his wife, and his comrades all laughed at him jocosely and slapped his back. It was the last I ever heard of the petition of the petitioners."

SOME MISQUOTATIONS.

Popular Sayings Which Are Not Used as the Authors Wrote Them.

A writer in London Truth expresses his surprise that one of the most familiar lines in Gray's "Elegy" is invariably misquoted.

"Kept on the even tenor of his way," but Gray wrote, "They kept their way on it, but they were weary of it."

"But the tongue can no man tame; it is an unruly evil, full of deadly poison."—James VIII., is another passage that is always misquoted. The Vulgate translates the passage "Great is the book and mighty above all things" in the book of Ezechiel thus: "Magna est veritas et prevalet super omnia."

"Dear Tom! He to be false—Tom! Oh, I have gone mad! Not there they are! They are really there—those letters! Why do I rot die? Do people live through such things as these?"

"Dear Tom! He to be false—Tom! Oh, I have gone mad! Not there they are! They are really there—those letters! Why do I rot die? Do people live through such things as these?"

"Dear Tom! He to be false—Tom! Oh, I have gone mad! Not there they are! They are really there—those letters! Why do I rot die? Do people live through such things as these?"

"Dear Tom! He to be false—Tom! Oh, I have gone mad! Not there they are! They are really there—those letters! Why do I rot die? Do people live through such things as these?"

"Dear Tom! He to be false—Tom! Oh, I have gone mad! Not there they are! They are really there—those letters! Why do I rot die? Do people live through such things as these?"

"Dear Tom! He to be false—Tom! Oh, I have gone mad! Not there they are! They are really there—those letters! Why do I rot die? Do people live through such things as these?"

"Dear Tom! He to be false—Tom! Oh, I have gone mad! Not there they are! They are really there—those letters! Why do I rot die? Do people live through such things as these?"

"Dear Tom! He to be false—Tom! Oh, I have gone mad! Not there they are! They are really there—those letters! Why do I rot die? Do people live through such things as these?"

"Dear Tom! He to be false—Tom! Oh, I have gone mad! Not there they are! They are really there—those letters! Why do I rot die? Do people live through such things as these?"

"Dear Tom! He to be false—Tom! Oh, I have gone mad! Not there they are! They are really there—those letters! Why do I rot die? Do people live through such things as these?"

PARK BOARD'S NEW HEAD.

President Tappen Expected to Restore the Former Solemnity.

The election of ex-Judge Abraham R. Tappen as President of the Park Board, in place of Paul Dana, will restore the old-time solemnity to the proceedings of that body.

Judge Tappen, who is one of the oldest inhabitants himself, does not remember when there were such stirring times in the Park Board as during the Presidency of Dana.

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

The President of the Board is practically director of departmental affairs, but Dana's ideas of doing things did not always meet with the approval of the other Commissioners, and he was, in the parlance of the politicians, frequently "sat upon."

A SNEEZE AND ITS RESULTS.

(From the Flugende Blätter.)

RAILROADS AND RAILROAD MEN.

News and Gossip of Interest in Transportation Circles.

O. Howard Royer, Assistant General Freight Agent of the Norfolk and Western, is in town on a brief visit.

All the roads running into this city are doing a big business in passenger traffic on account of the naval demonstration.

Five private cars were standing on sidetracks of the Pennsylvania's Jersey City depot yesterday, which indicated that there was quite an influx of out-of-town railroad officials.

The initial trip of the World's Fair special over the West Shore will be made to-morrow, and it will carry, exclusively, a party of railroad, hotel and newspaper men.

Max E. Skapes, general agent of the Erie, has returned from his trip to Bermuda, much improved in health.

A report comes from Philadelphia that the Pennsylvania intends to purchase the water front now leased by it at the foot of Cortlandt street.

The Pennsylvania is preparing to inaugurate daily service of three or four hour trains between this city and Washington.

The World's Fair engine, E. B. Thomas, built by the Erie engineers, and named after the First Vice-President of that Company, has been sent to the big show.

Certainly Not. (From Truth.) Mr. Whittle—What are you thinking so hard about?

Rev. Whittle—I am wondering whether a woman who wears ermine can possibly walk in the straight and narrow way.

Did it never occur to you that in the very nature of things, lard at best was an objectionable article of food? It has been tolerated as a shortening, and for frying purposes, simply because there has been no economical substitute for it—until the introduction of Cotolene. This new shortening possesses none of the objectionable qualities of lard, but is a purely vegetable shortening, which not only takes the place of lard in pastry, but in frying and cooking it is preferable in every respect. The cook and the housewife who have given it one trial discard lard and use only Cotolene for cooking purposes.

Send three cents in stamps to N. K. Fairbank & Co., Chicago, for handsome Cotolene Cook Book containing six hundred recipes, prepared by nine eminent authorities on cooking. Cotolene is sold by all grocers.

N. K. FAIRBANK & CO., Produce Exchange, New York.

WORLD'S HOUSE AND HOME DAYS ARE SATURDAY AND SUNDAY.

HOUSE AND HOME ADS IN THE MORNING WORLD ON SATURDAY AND SUNDAY ARE REPEATED IN THE EVENING WORLD FREE.

FROM THE WORLD OF LABOR.

The newly organized Waist and Wrapper-Makers' Union gained fifty-nine new members last week.

The Valentine-Lowery-Gamburini Brewing Company has signed the agreement of the United Standard Engineers' Union.

Union framers will receive 20 cents per hour in Cincinnati from next Monday. Heretofore their pay was 27.5 cents per hour, at nine hours per day.

Amalgamated Brass-Workers' Union No. 1 has endorsed the new constitution of the United Trades Association of Brass-Workers. All members were requested to procure citizen's papers.

The Building Trades Section of the Central Labor Union received credentials yesterday from Iron-Molders' Union, Daniel Ziegler, United Wood-Carvers' Association, Jacob E. Baumbach, et al.

At a recent meeting of the Shipmasters' Society of England the fact was brought out that one fireman on board ships is entitled to every one employed, as against one in 10,000 among landmen.

A strike at Coleman's brewery, in Colerain Point, was terminated yesterday, as the proprietor signed the contract of Brewers' Union No. 1. The march of the brewery was with a band of music and resumed work.

The Executive Committee of the Piano-Makers' Union has decided that all variable employees in piano factories must join the Union. Next Saturday the Union will take part in the eight-hour day strike.

The Clear-Makers' Benevolent Society has at present about 800 members and $2,814 in its treasury. During the last three months the receipts were $3,305.50 and $1,183.79 was expended.

Marchant Lodge No. 1 of Journeymen Plasterers will hold its annual picnic Tuesday, June 27, at Brommer's Union Park. The Lodge holds its regular meeting every Thursday at 12:30 Third avenue.

Edward Rubeisch, a recognized leader of workmen in Cincinnati, has been expelled by the Union for several months for refusing to join in a strike ordered by the Walking Delegates of the Cincinnati building trades.

Another assessment of 50 cents has been levied on the workmen Tailors' Union of America to assist a number of local branches, whose members are on strike. The assessment will be levied whether or not the assessment shall be collected.

Bakers' Union No. 31 and the Picture-Frame Workers' Union have joined the United Hebrew Trades Unions. A plan is being formulated to secure the collection of the central bodies of the Hebrew organizations in this city and Brooklyn.

The Building Trades Section of the Central Labor Union yesterday elected Martin Glynn and Mason Gordon delegates to the C. L. U. from Manhattan and the Bronx respectively. John Cummings was elected Delegate to the C. L. U. from the Bricklayers' Union.

According to the contract made by the New York Framers' Union with the bosses the hours of labor will be eight and a half hours per day, with one hour for dinner, 4 cents per hour and overtime double pay, none but members of the union being employed.

Most members of the bakers in New Haven, Conn., have granted the demands of their striking workmen; but as several of the largest bakeries in the city employ non-union men the union wants bakers to keep away from New Haven.

Among the unions whose members will be one hour working to-day Saturday extra pay are Typographical Union No. 274, Cabinet-Makers' Union Nos. 1 and 2, and the Union of Plumbers, Gas and Steam Fitters, the Hatters' Union, several Bricklayers' Unions and many others.

Macintosh Progressive Union No. 1 has been working to-day Saturday. The union has been engaged in a strike for taking part in politics against the Government in New York and Brooklyn.

About one hundred shirtmakers went on strike at V. H. Rothchild's factory in Freehold, N. J. They demand an advance of 5 cents per dozen. One-half of the strikers have been engaged at this country almost penniless and the Union has liberally provided for them.

The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners is holding a convention in New York City. The convention is being held at the Hotel Hamilton, New York City.

Assistant Secretary Heckthorn of the Journeymen Brewers' National Union, has been elected to the position of Secretary of the National Union of Journeymen Brewers.

George Xitus has been elected President of the Carpenters' Union No. 7, and Messrs. Strauss and Hampe are the new delegates to the Central Labor Union, while Messrs. Seuber and Sauter were made Trustees. The Financial Secretary's salary has been fixed at $2 per month.

No delegate will be sent to the International Wood-Workers' Congress in Zurich, Switzerland, by the Central Labor Union, while Messrs. Seuber and Sauter were made Trustees. The Financial Secretary's salary has been fixed at $2 per month.

The Journeymen Tailors' Protective and Benevolent Union has received assurances from several cities that the work of organization which the Union has undertaken is progressing very successfully. William Klinsenberg and H. Kronemus have been elected members.

Neither Forget Nor Forgive.

When she was a child, she cried for Castoria.

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

When she was sick, we gave her Castoria.

When she was a child, she cried for Castoria.

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

When she was sick, we gave her Castoria.

When she was a child, she cried for Castoria.

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

When she was sick, we gave her Castoria.

When she was a child, she cried for Castoria.

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

When she was sick, we gave her Castoria.

When she was a child, she cried for Castoria.

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

When she was sick, we gave her Castoria.

When she was a child, she cried for Castoria.

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

When she was sick, we gave her Castoria.

When she was a child, she cried for Castoria.

When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.

When she had children, she gave them Castoria.

When she was sick, we gave her Castoria.

Jordan, Moriarty & Co.

155, 157 AND 159 EAST 23D ST. WEST OF 3D AVE.

Furniture, Carpets, etc.

Our Specialties this Week.

ENGLISH BRASS BEDSTEADS, $25.00

ENGLISH WHITE ENAMELED IRON BEDSTEADS, $20.00

WHITE ENAMELED METAL WASHSTANDS, $10.00

An exquisite and gorgeous array of Enamelled Chamber Suits in white, blue and pink; Chiffoniers, Window Tables, Seats, odd Chairs, Conter Tables, Rockers in Gold and White Enamel.

at Prices that cannot fail to suit you.

Special Attention Given all Out-of-Town Orders.

AMUSEMENTS.

COLUMBIAN BALL, THURSDAY, APRIL 27.

at the MADISON SQUARE GARDEN.

COMMENCING AT 10 O'CLOCK.

Tickets admitting 1000 and cost $10.00. Additional ladies' seats $5.00. To be obtained from the Ticket Office, 220 Broadway, and all principal hotels.

ROSTER & BILLS,