MISS BORDEN'S TRIAL.

Lawyer Moody Opens the Case for the Prosecution.

Dwells on the Feeling Between Lizzie and Her Stepmother.

Mysterious Sickness to the Family Before the Murder.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 6.—At 8.55 a. m. Miss Borden and the jury were seated and counsel were in hand.

CHIEF JUSTICE ALBERT MASON.

The weather opened very warm, and another bright day was in prospect. State Detectives Seaver and Shaw were on hand to counsel for the prosecution.

WILLIAM H. MOODY.

Mr. Moody then stepped to the railing and opened the Government's case. He said that on the fourth day of August last, an old man and an old woman, without a known enemy in the world, were stricken down by an unknown assassin.

Mr. Borden was a man of considerable property, and of quiet, retiring ways who had moved his money as he made it, and had maintained his family on what might be termed a narrow scale.

The daughters thought that something should be done for them by way of dividing the property after they had learned that the stepmother had been amply provided for.

ELLISON'S ASSAULT.

Steps Taken This Morning for the Clubman's Arrest.

Broker Henriques Said to Be in a Precarious Condition.

He May Lose an Eye and Possibly His Life.

JUDGE CALIB BLODGETT.

Upon the day before the homicide the prisoner went to a drug store and there asked the clerk for 10 cents worth of pusillid acid for cleaning a cane.

On the evening of Wednesday, the prisoner made a call on Alice Russell, a friend of hers, and it will appear that the prisoner had been intending to spend a vacation at Marlon and the two friends talked of that trip.

Entering the front door one goes into a hall, from which leads two doors, one to the parlor in the northeast corner, one into the sitting-room and a stairway leading upstairs.

The Young Clerk Suffered Terribly from His Hurts.

Sage Listens to the Testimony Which May Cost Him $50,000.

There was big crowd, in spite of the insufferable heat, in Part II of the Supreme Court Circuit this morning to listen to the testimony in William H. Laidlaw's suit for $50,000 damages against Millionaire Russell Sage, who, he claims, used him as a human buffer to ward off the murderous dynamite bomb of Norcross.

Mr. Sage was very much excited, inasmuch as an attending physician said: "Mr. Sage, keep quiet. You are not in the least hurt."

ANOTHER NEW HEAT RECORD.

This Is the Hottest June 6 for Ten Years.

At 11 O'clock the Thermometer Registered 85 Degrees.

Another weather record has been smashed, as not in ten years have long-suffering New Yorkers been compelled to endure such heat on a June 6 morning.

The climb which it made yesterday was nothing to the manner in which it started out this morning.

Next to Boston this was the hottest place in this section of the country this morning.

There were heavy showers all over the country east of the Mississippi, and some light local showers here last night.

MASKED MEN AT A PEST-HOUSE.

THEIR BABE BURIED.

Tiny Carolina Bauer Saved from the Potter's Field.

Poverty Drove the Mother with the Body to the Police.

"The Evening World" Enables the Parents to Lay It in a Grave.

Through a narrow, dingy hallway that led from a "poor man's avenue" to a tumble-down rear tenement-house, up a pair of stairs and into a low-ceilinged "parlor" 10 feet square.

Beyond, on a miserable little deal table, lies the body of a baby girl. It was a chubby baby, with a dimple in its chin and a dimple to mark each knuckle in its tiny fingers.

That was what representatives of "The Evening World" found in the house of Christian and Carolina Bauer at 116 Grand street, Hoboken, yesterday.

The air outside was still and hot and sultry. In this rear tenement, screened on all sides by tall buildings, the lives of the busy human bees who make money only for others, it was three hotter, and the atmosphere seemed almost thick.

And Baby Carolina, having given up life's struggle after seven months in this world, is now waiting for some one to come forward and rescue its delicately moulded little body from Potter's Field.

Sympathetic neighbors huddled in the little parlor and about the door, but they were as poor as the Bauers and could extend no helping hand.

Two little boys, round-faced, bright-eyed lads, stood by the table and gazed first at their baby sister lying so still there, with a dainty silver violet in her mouth, and then at their parents, wondrously.

"I can do no more. I have been a 'loneliness' man, but for seven months I have had no work, not a cent to my name, and I am now waiting for my $4.50 a month rent. I must have food for my family."
