

DEAD TWO DAYS WHEN FOUND.

Small-Pox Case Removed To-Day from a Crowded Tenement.

The Coroner Mistaken by a Mistake in the Child's Name.

The Bureau of Contagious Diseases this morning reported the case of a child who died of smallpox two days ago on the third floor of the five-story tenement-house at 125 Prince street.

Through some misunderstanding on the part of the police and a Coroner's doctor, the child was allowed to remain in the tenement, spreading the infection to numerous families and to customers, who patronize a grocery store on the ground floor.

Monday night Policeman Andrew Ferrati, of the Prince street station, heard that a child had died suddenly in the tenement at 125 Prince street, without medical attendance, and, according to rule, reported the matter to the station-house.

Then a Coroner is obliged to visit the case and give a certificate of death. Somehow the policeman got the name Ravegno instead of Ravonia, and thus it was reported to the Coroner's office.

When the Coroner's doctor called Tuesday morning to see the case the janitress told him that the name of the child was Ravegno lived in the house, and he went away.

Late yesterday afternoon the landlady went to the Prince street station and reported that the child had died of smallpox and that no Coroner had called. She said this at the suggestion of Ravonia, the father of the little one.

Inspectors went to the house, the premises were fumigated and placed in as good sanitary condition as possible. The body of the child was removed from the house at 4 o'clock this morning. It was buried at the Morgue at the Reservoir at 10 o'clock.

These are the facts in the case as obtained from one of the police officers. Only a few of the matter in a reticent way speak of the matter in a reticent way.

TOLD THE TRUTH ABOUT HIMSELF. Man Who Would Not Romance Even in Telling of His Life's Sorrows.

He wasn't a tramp exactly, says the Detroit Free Press, but he was nearly one. He had struck the merchant for a dollar and the merchant was rather interested in him.

"I don't see," he said, "why you go about asking for money or help. You are an intelligent man, and I should think you could get something better to do."

"I don't know about that," was the deponent rejoinder. "The Lord knows I tried hard enough to get along before I lost my heart entirely."

"What did you do?" "Well, a little of everything. I had some money and I thought I'd go to raising rice in South Carolina and show those people down there how to do it right. I knew it all, of course, and one day a man came along selling a new brand of rice."

"He was a nice-looking man from New York, and I liked him. He said he would sell me the exclusive right to raise rice in South Carolina. It was something new, a seed that could not be exposed to the light, but that would grow in the shade as much as in the open varieties."

"That was what I was looking for, and very quiet and in a backyard for the right and four sealed cans of seed. I did the work all right, and when it was finished I was down to wait and to chuckle over my enterprise."

"But I failed and waited, and nothing came, and one day I looked into the old cans and found I had been stuck with some more of the same rice. I was angry, and I went to Providence, and he'd like to see any son of a gun try to take me away."

NO LEGAL INQUEST AS YET.

Inquiry on the Ford's Theatre Disaster Thus Far Invalid.

Supreme Court, D. C., Does Not Recognize a Deputy Coroner.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—The Supreme Court of this district this morning dismissed Col. Alinsworth's petition for a mandamus requiring the Deputy Coroner to allow him to be represented by counsel at the inquest over the Ford's Theatre disaster.

First, that a Deputy Coroner is not a legal officer. This invalidates the inquest as far as he is held.

Second, that the right of a person to be present at an inquest in person or by counsel is discretionary with a Coroner, and therefore not a subject for mandamus.

In deference to the decision of the Supreme Court that there is no such officer of the District of Columbia as Deputy Coroner, Dr. Schaeffer, who has been conducting the inquest at Willard Hall in that supposed capacity, immediately adjourned the proceedings until to-morrow at 11 o'clock.

The curious point now develops that the body of no victim of the theatre disaster has been viewed by a legally constituted Coroner's Jury. Unless one of the injured victims still lingering should die, it may be necessary to exhumate a body.

WILL COST UNCLE SAM $2,000,000. Refund on Tobacco Duties May Lead to Interesting Suits.

According to the decision of the United States Courts Uncle Sam will have to refund about $2,000,000 in duties paid by importers of Sumatra tobacco under protest during the last ten years.

Collector Hendricks has received notice of this decision from Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Hamlin, and he will have to refund a large portion of those duties.

The decision was given in the test case of Bumpkin & Co., of this city, against the Treasury. Hamlin, and he will have to refund a large portion of those duties.

Several other firms, including G. Falk & Co., and Schneider & Son, of this city, are also interested in the case. They will have to refund a large portion of those duties.

Some merchants purchased the tobacco in bond and assumed the duties, and as this is a great industry in these cases have not yet been compensated by the Government. There will be some interesting contentions to certain who is entitled to the money to be refunded.

BOY CHARGED WITH MURDER.

Young George McKenzie Called for Trial To-Day.

Accused of Killing Fifteen-Year-Old Henry Quill.

The work of securing a jury for the trial of young George McKenzie for the murder of his youthful companion, Henry Quill, was begun in Part II of General Sessions this morning.

Quill was fifteen years old at the time of his death and McKenzie was eighteen. The latter lived at 38 Washington street, and his own confession he and Quill had a fight on the roof of No. 45 on Feb. 10, 1902.

The most serious part of the case was found at the bottom of the airshaft of 45 Washington street, where the police believe young Quill was thrown or knocked by McKenzie.

McKenzie was arrested at the Polo Grounds, where he was watching a ball game. The arrest grew out of a statement he had made to the police that he had killed Quill.

After his arrest McKenzie told Police Inspector Steers that his fight with Quill, but later repudiated his alleged remark that he was afraid of Quill and that he did not want to be left alone in a cell.

In an interview at the Tombs Sept. 19, 1902, McKenzie said that Quill had a knife which he had in his hand. He tried to get the knife away and struck Quill, who he said had a knife in his hand and struck him.

McKenzie insisted that Quill had been drinking. He said that he afterwards thought the light on the roof was a dream, as he was in the Tombs McKenzie was frequently quoted by the newspapers as being known as "Adjutant Victory".

The Tombs keepers were puzzled as to his sanity, but McKenzie himself has always insisted that he was sane, although he complained of frequent headaches.

McKenzie is represented by L. Stuyvesant Chamber and James W. McLaughlin. The boy, whose wife was at stake in the case, has been sitting in the Tombs since he was arrested. He was examined as to his qualifications to sit as a juror in his case.

POINTERS ON THE RACES.

Two Stake Events and a Derby Trial to Be Run To-Day.

The Letter Seems to Be Mortgaged to Don Alonso.

Two stakes and the Derby trial are the features of racing at Morris Park today. In the trial only two are entered, Don Alonso and Rainbow.

The Larchmont Stakes brings together Dobbins, Declare, Sir Excess, St. Julien, Eric and other good ones. The last will probably be between the two top weights, and Dobbins is the best of the pair.

The three-year-olds in the Pocantico Handicap are a very ordinary lot, but they are well weighted and may furnish an interesting contest.

Don Alonso is expected to furnish a pretty race at a mile and a furlong, and it is a toss up as to whether Correction or Tormentor will win the opening event.

The entries and selections are as follows: Race—A sweepstake of $20 each, with $1,000 added, penalties and allowances, five and a half furlongs.

1174 J. J. Dwyer's Don Alonso, 117 1/2 lbs. 1174 J. J. Dwyer's Rainbow, 117 1/2 lbs. 1174 J. J. Dwyer's Sir Excess, 117 1/2 lbs.

ESCAPED FROM SING SING.

Another Convict Runs Away from the Prison This Morning.

Frank Adams Would Have Been Released Monday.

SING SING, N. Y., June 14.—There was another escape from the prison this morning. George Carter, who escaped two weeks ago, has not been captured.

Frank Adams, who was serving a sentence of two years and a half, was the runaway to-day. He escaped at 7 A. M., and has not yet been recaptured.

The escape was not discovered until 10:30 o'clock. Adams was employed outside of the prison, working about the barns.

He had almost completed his sentence, and would have been released on Monday next.

As his term had so nearly expired, a vigilant watch was not kept upon him. No one supposed he would attempt to escape. When Adams was last seen, he was walking in the direction of Tarrytown.

As soon as the news of the escape became known, guards were immediately dispatched to recapture him.

If taken Adams will have to serve out the six months' commutation which was ordered by the court.

This makes a fourth escape within two months. Noble and Pallister, the condemned murderers, having been the first two.
