

CLOBRIDGE BAILED.

Alderman Heaney Becomes His Surety for $3,000.

The Accused Brooklyn Tax Office Clerk Released from Jail.

Curtis Says Clobridge Advised Him to Leave Town.

Lieut.-Col. Selden C. Clobridge, of the Fourth Brooklyn Regiment, and a member of U. S. Grant Post No. 37, G. A. R., who was arrested yesterday for complicity in the tax-office fraud, was released on $3,000 bail by Justice Walsh, in the Adams Street Police Court, shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon.

His bondsman is Alderman Arthur J. Heaney, who himself is under indictment in connection with the frauds upon the city. Heaney is a pawn-broker, doing business on Atlantic avenue.

Clobridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

Clubridge and his friends confidently expected to see Clobridge in jail this morning, and he doubtless would have been put for the opposition of the District-Attorney.

BOODY SIGNS A FRANCHISE. BROOKE'S THIRD WIFE FREE.

The Broadway Railroad Can Now Erect Its Trolley System.

Streets Were Stricken Out at the Mayor's Suggestion.

Mayor Boody, of Brooklyn, this morning signed the resolutions passed by the "Cold Thirteen" of the Board of Aldermen, authorizing the Broadway Railroad Company for over twenty miles of streets, and also approved the application of the same Company to change its motive power from horse to electricity.

The resolutions, as signed by the Mayor, were amended by the Aldermen, who directed that the streets to be stricken out should be those which would benefit the city in a pecuniary way, and that they were a public necessity.

Mayor Boody will leave Saturday on a ten days' vacation, and before his departure the Mayor will receive an official answer regarding the purchase of the Wallabout Hill.

The Mayor has already stated that unless the Government will allow the city to purchase the Wallabout Hill for $1,200,000 the city would have to refuse the offer, because of Brooklyn's financial difficulties.

Miss Minnie T. Ritter, of Bath Beach, and an actress of some note, appeared before Justice Cullen in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, and asked that her marriage with Actor Claude H. Brooke be annulled.

Miss Ritter is a pretty brunette, of medium height, who has been playing in "A Temperance Town" in Boston for some time.

Brooke, who was then with her, was married twice as she says, before she became his wife on Nov. 28, 1887, in Grace Church, New York.

Miss Ritter had not only another wife and four children living in London, but she also had a son, Arthur, in England, and a daughter, Annie, in New York.

Miss Ritter's marriage annulled on the ground of a previous alliance with Agnes Johnson, his first wife.

In England, Brooke was known as Robert Tilton Johnson, and a letter to Mrs. Johnson from Lawyer W. Van Wyck, dated in London, in which she said that the report of Brooke's marriage to Miss Ritter did not surprise her.

Her married life, which had been, she said, a sad one, began at George's Church in the year 1870.

It is now eleven years since I saw his face," writes Mrs. Johnson. "He cruelly left me with four little children to rear, the youngest but five months old."

Miss Elizabeth H. Ritter, sister of Miss Ritter's, was brought to court by Brooke, and Judge Cullen, after hearing the testimony of Mrs. Johnson, granted a decree that annulled Miss Ritter's marriage to Brooke.

The World was told that the missing Guyardotte passenger was Cleo Harrison Case, of Norfolk, Va., and not Cleo Harrison, of Jackson, Mich.

The old man was in the hands of a clever rascal, who had obtained from him large sums of money, and who undoubtedly knows more about his death by drowning than the police have as yet been able to find out.

The story of Mrs. Oliver, who masqueraded as the daughter of Mr. Case, is extraordinary. When confronted by a reporter at her home in Burlington, Ontario, she denied her connection with the Cleo Harrison mystery.

Yesterday The World sent to Burlington the same reporter who had talked with her as "Mrs. Oliver" on board the Guyardotte on July 1, and he positively identified her as Mrs. Oliver.

She knew him in Burlington, Ontario, and she had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, and she had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It is worthy of note that although when she was arrested in New York she was wearing a hat which she had bought at Norfolk, she was without money, and had to get the money from her husband, who was with her.

Mr. Case, yet after his death she was abundantly supplied with funds, and she was able to pay for her expenses from New York to Burlington, from Burlington to Hamilton, Pa., and from Hamilton to New York.

On Saturday afternoon, July 1, the dead body of Mr. Case floated ashore at Metoken Beach, Va., a point five miles north of the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay.

The body was positively identified as that of the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

BOODY SIGNS A FRANCHISE. BROOKE'S THIRD WIFE FREE.

The Broadway Railroad Can Now Erect Its Trolley System.

Streets Were Stricken Out at the Mayor's Suggestion.

Mayor Boody, of Brooklyn, this morning signed the resolutions passed by the "Cold Thirteen" of the Board of Aldermen, authorizing the Broadway Railroad Company for over twenty miles of streets, and also approved the application of the same Company to change its motive power from horse to electricity.

The resolutions, as signed by the Mayor, were amended by the Aldermen, who directed that the streets to be stricken out should be those which would benefit the city in a pecuniary way, and that they were a public necessity.

Mayor Boody will leave Saturday on a ten days' vacation, and before his departure the Mayor will receive an official answer regarding the purchase of the Wallabout Hill.

The Mayor has already stated that unless the Government will allow the city to purchase the Wallabout Hill for $1,200,000 the city would have to refuse the offer, because of Brooklyn's financial difficulties.

Miss Minnie T. Ritter, of Bath Beach, and an actress of some note, appeared before Justice Cullen in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, and asked that her marriage with Actor Claude H. Brooke be annulled.

Miss Ritter is a pretty brunette, of medium height, who has been playing in "A Temperance Town" in Boston for some time.

Brooke, who was then with her, was married twice as she says, before she became his wife on Nov. 28, 1887, in Grace Church, New York.

Miss Ritter had not only another wife and four children living in London, but she also had a son, Arthur, in England, and a daughter, Annie, in New York.

Miss Ritter's marriage annulled on the ground of a previous alliance with Agnes Johnson, his first wife.

In England, Brooke was known as Robert Tilton Johnson, and a letter to Mrs. Johnson from Lawyer W. Van Wyck, dated in London, in which she said that the report of Brooke's marriage to Miss Ritter did not surprise her.

Her married life, which had been, she said, a sad one, began at George's Church in the year 1870.

It is now eleven years since I saw his face," writes Mrs. Johnson. "He cruelly left me with four little children to rear, the youngest but five months old."

Miss Elizabeth H. Ritter, sister of Miss Ritter's, was brought to court by Brooke, and Judge Cullen, after hearing the testimony of Mrs. Johnson, granted a decree that annulled Miss Ritter's marriage to Brooke.

The World was told that the missing Guyardotte passenger was Cleo Harrison Case, of Norfolk, Va., and not Cleo Harrison, of Jackson, Mich.

The old man was in the hands of a clever rascal, who had obtained from him large sums of money, and who undoubtedly knows more about his death by drowning than the police have as yet been able to find out.

The story of Mrs. Oliver, who masqueraded as the daughter of Mr. Case, is extraordinary. When confronted by a reporter at her home in Burlington, Ontario, she denied her connection with the Cleo Harrison mystery.

Yesterday The World sent to Burlington the same reporter who had talked with her as "Mrs. Oliver" on board the Guyardotte on July 1, and he positively identified her as Mrs. Oliver.

She knew him in Burlington, Ontario, and she had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, and she had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It is worthy of note that although when she was arrested in New York she was wearing a hat which she had bought at Norfolk, she was without money, and had to get the money from her husband, who was with her.

Mr. Case, yet after his death she was abundantly supplied with funds, and she was able to pay for her expenses from New York to Burlington, from Burlington to Hamilton, Pa., and from Hamilton to New York.

On Saturday afternoon, July 1, the dead body of Mr. Case floated ashore at Metoken Beach, Va., a point five miles north of the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay.

The body was positively identified as that of the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

THE WORLD'S MESS.

The World Finds Cleo Harrison Case's Mysterious Companion.

She Was Mrs. Elizabeth Beaton, of Burlington, Ont.

Visited by The World Man Who Saw Her on the Steamship the Day After the Death, She Is Positively Identified—She Had Been Making Secret Trips with the Old Carriage-Builder for Months—He Took All His Money Out of the Banks Last October, and When He Died He Had None.

When the Old Dominion Line steamer Guyardotte, from Norfolk, Va., came to her dock here on the evening of Friday, June 30, her commander, Capt. Walker, reported the mysterious disappearance of a woman passenger. A half-dressed woman passed the deck, and between her feet the officers of the ship that the missing passenger was her aged father, Cleo Harrison, of Jackson, Mich., a cousin of ex-President Benjamin Harrison, she was Mrs. Mary Beaton, who had obtained from him large sums of money, and who undoubtedly knows more about his death by drowning than the police have as yet been able to find out.

The story of Mrs. Oliver, who masqueraded as the daughter of Mr. Case, is extraordinary. When confronted by a reporter at her home in Burlington, Ontario, she denied her connection with the Cleo Harrison mystery.

Yesterday The World sent to Burlington the same reporter who had talked with her as "Mrs. Oliver" on board the Guyardotte on July 1, and he positively identified her as Mrs. Oliver.

She knew him in Burlington, Ontario, and she had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, and she had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It is worthy of note that although when she was arrested in New York she was wearing a hat which she had bought at Norfolk, she was without money, and had to get the money from her husband, who was with her.

Mr. Case, yet after his death she was abundantly supplied with funds, and she was able to pay for her expenses from New York to Burlington, from Burlington to Hamilton, Pa., and from Hamilton to New York.

On Saturday afternoon, July 1, the dead body of Mr. Case floated ashore at Metoken Beach, Va., a point five miles north of the mouth of the Chesapeake Bay.

The body was positively identified as that of the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

It was found on the beach, and it was found that the man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte, was the same man who had been in New York on Saturday afternoon, July 1, with the Guyardotte.

REARDON HELD.

Baby Walsh's Slayer Awaits the Coroner's Action.

Patrolman Reardon, the motorman of trolley car 28, of the Smith street line, which ran over and killed little Madeline Walsh in front of her home, 296 Smith street, Brooklyn, yesterday was held in the Butler Street Court to-day for his alleged part in the death of the child.

Justice Walsh is sitting in this court during the vacation of Justice Tiche, who is called by a trustee of the estate of the child's father, Reardon, whom he charged with criminal negligence. Usually those called by a trustee are discharged, but in this case the complainants arrive too late to appear against the prisoners.

Reardon is a man of about thirty years of age, and is a native of Ireland. He was arrested this morning on complaint of Anna Umbrial, of 52 President street, who charges him with stealing $200 from her.

She alleges that on July 14 she sick friend, and as she was leaving the house, she put her hand in her pocket and took her pocketbook. As she thought she had lost it, she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police.

Reardon is a man of about thirty years of age, and is a native of Ireland. He was arrested this morning on complaint of Anna Umbrial, of 52 President street, who charges him with stealing $200 from her.

She alleges that on July 14 she sick friend, and as she was leaving the house, she put her hand in her pocket and took her pocketbook. As she thought she had lost it, she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police.

Reardon is a man of about thirty years of age, and is a native of Ireland. He was arrested this morning on complaint of Anna Umbrial, of 52 President street, who charges him with stealing $200 from her.

She alleges that on July 14 she sick friend, and as she was leaving the house, she put her hand in her pocket and took her pocketbook. As she thought she had lost it, she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police.

Reardon is a man of about thirty years of age, and is a native of Ireland. He was arrested this morning on complaint of Anna Umbrial, of 52 President street, who charges him with stealing $200 from her.

She alleges that on July 14 she sick friend, and as she was leaving the house, she put her hand in her pocket and took her pocketbook. As she thought she had lost it, she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police.

Reardon is a man of about thirty years of age, and is a native of Ireland. He was arrested this morning on complaint of Anna Umbrial, of 52 President street, who charges him with stealing $200 from her.

She alleges that on July 14 she sick friend, and as she was leaving the house, she put her hand in her pocket and took her pocketbook. As she thought she had lost it, she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police.

Reardon is a man of about thirty years of age, and is a native of Ireland. He was arrested this morning on complaint of Anna Umbrial, of 52 President street, who charges him with stealing $200 from her.

She alleges that on July 14 she sick friend, and as she was leaving the house, she put her hand in her pocket and took her pocketbook. As she thought she had lost it, she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police.

Reardon is a man of about thirty years of age, and is a native of Ireland. He was arrested this morning on complaint of Anna Umbrial, of 52 President street, who charges him with stealing $200 from her.

She alleges that on July 14 she sick friend, and as she was leaving the house, she put her hand in her pocket and took her pocketbook. As she thought she had lost it, she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police.

Reardon is a man of about thirty years of age, and is a native of Ireland. He was arrested this morning on complaint of Anna Umbrial, of 52 President street, who charges him with stealing $200 from her.

She alleges that on July 14 she sick friend, and as she was leaving the house, she put her hand in her pocket and took her pocketbook. As she thought she had lost it, she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police.

Reardon is a man of about thirty years of age, and is a native of Ireland. He was arrested this morning on complaint of Anna Umbrial, of 52 President street, who charges him with stealing $200 from her.

She alleges that on July 14 she sick friend, and as she was leaving the house, she put her hand in her pocket and took her pocketbook. As she thought she had lost it, she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police.

Reardon is a man of about thirty years of age, and is a native of Ireland. He was arrested this morning on complaint of Anna Umbrial, of 52 President street, who charges him with stealing $200 from her.

She alleges that on July 14 she sick friend, and as she was leaving the house, she put her hand in her pocket and took her pocketbook. As she thought she had lost it, she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police.

Reardon is a man of about thirty years of age, and is a native of Ireland. He was arrested this morning on complaint of Anna Umbrial, of 52 President street, who charges him with stealing $200 from her.

She alleges that on July 14 she sick friend, and as she was leaving the house, she put her hand in her pocket and took her pocketbook. As she thought she had lost it, she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police.

Reardon is a man of about thirty years of age, and is a native of Ireland. He was arrested this morning on complaint of Anna Umbrial, of 52 President street, who charges him with stealing $200 from her.

She alleges that on July 14 she sick friend, and as she was leaving the house, she put her hand in her pocket and took her pocketbook. As she thought she had lost it, she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police, and after waiting a reasonable length of time for him to return the money she called the police.

Reardon is a man of about thirty years of age, and is a native of Ireland. He was arrested this morning on complaint of Anna Umbrial, of 52 President street, who charges him with stealing $200 from her.

DEPEW VISITS GILROY.

He Wants a Speedy Decision on the Park Avenue Improvement.

Chauncey M. Depew, Mayor Gilroy and Commissioner Duly had a consultation to-day about the complications over the Park Avenue improvement.

If the law is declared unconstitutional the New York Central Railroad will be an easy loser, and so will some of the contractors who depend on the city to pay them.

Work on raising the railroad tracks was suspended until the city and the State decide the matter, and Mr. Depew therefore wants a speedy decision.

Justice Duly, who is in charge of the Corporation Counsel's office, said that the law is constitutional.

When decision is rendered on Banker Tuck's application for an injunction against the city, the city will be required to pay for its share of the cost of the improvement, $750,000. An argument on Mr. Depew's application was heard in Supreme Court next Wednesday.

Harris was arrested by Detective McEneaney on complaint of John Fallon, who charges him with stealing $224. Fallon left Harris in charge of his wagon during the night of the robbery, and claims that the money which he left on the back of the car did not come back.

Harris was arrested by Detective McEneaney on complaint of John Fallon, who charges him with stealing $224. Fallon left Harris in charge of his wagon during the night of the robbery, and claims that the money which he left on the back of the car did not come back.

Harris was arrested by Detective McEneaney on complaint of John Fallon, who charges him with stealing $224. Fallon left Harris in charge of his wagon during the night of the robbery, and claims that the money which he left on the back of the car did not come back.

Harris was arrested by Detective McEneaney on complaint of John Fallon, who charges him with stealing $224. Fallon left Harris in charge of his wagon during the night of the robbery, and claims that the money which he left on the back of the car did not come back.

Harris was arrested by Detective McEneaney on complaint of John Fallon, who charges him with stealing $224. Fallon left Harris in charge of his wagon during the night of the robbery, and claims that the money which he left on the back of the car did not come back.

Harris was arrested by Detective McEneaney on complaint of John Fallon, who charges him with stealing $224. Fallon left Harris