

HELP WANTED
ADVT. Every Day but Monday.
One Price Gives Insertion in Both.
BOARDERS WANTED
ADVT. Every Day.
PRICE ONE CENT.

Small REAL ESTATE ADVT. Every Day.
HOUSES, ROOMS AND APARTMENTS
ADVT. Every Day.
PRICE ONE CENT.

World Situation Wanted Adverts., 20 Words, 10 Cents.

2 O'CLOCK.

EIGHT PAGES.

TO-DAY IN CONGRESS.

Bryan, the Nebraska Orator, to Make a Two Hours' Speech.

Senate Campaign for Repeal Not to Be Forced.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—Another day of silver debate opens in the House and the Senate has the prospect of another session of mingled oratory and obstruction.

In the House, this morning, Mr. McCullough, of Massachusetts, finished his speech for repeal, and Mr. Cullen, of New York took up the discussion from the business man's standpoint.

Mr. Bryan, the Nebraska orator, is set down to begin at 12:15 a two-hour speech for silver, which is expected to be the greatest offering of the debate on this side at least.

After him will come Henderson, of Iowa and Moore, of Georgia, the former for repeal, the latter for free silver.

Senator Sherman's steering committee in the Senate has decided that there is no use in trying to force the repeal campaign there before the House has acted.

Much reliance is placed on the moral effect on the adoption of a repeal bill by a fair majority in the House.

The Nebraska Canal bill is up again. Mr. Payne has reintroduced in the Senate the measure which Mr. Sherman brought forward in the last Congress, and carries on for its adoption, which was discussed for several days in the Senate without result.

The capital stock of the Company is fixed at 1,000,000 shares of $100 each. The main purpose of the bill is to have the Government practically assume the construction of the canal and the control of the water.

Mr. Kyle, the Popular Senator from South Dakota, has laid before the Senate a new bill for the canal, which not only embodies the features of previous proposals, but includes some additional features, such as the lines of the Third Party's peculiar theories.

Under his scheme the Postmaster-General is authorized to designate certain post-offices in the country, which to receive small deposits for remittance to Sub-Treasuries. He is to issue postage stamps to the order of the Government, the savings are not to exceed $1,000 for any one person, and are to draw interest at 2 1/2 per cent. per annum.

The Secretary of the Treasury is to loan the money to the farmers, covering land valued at not more than $5,000. The loans are to be made at 4 per cent. The interest is to be paid in installments, and the Government is to have the right to foreclose on the land.

The bill to allow National banks to increase their circulation to the amount of the par value of the bonds deposited by them in the Treasury will be taken up, and Mr. Voorhees' Chairman of the Finance Committee will make a strenuous effort to have it passed. It will meet however a strong opposition from the part of Mr. Cockerill and other Senators, who have no love for the National banks, and are in fact endeavoring to have the bill amended so as to restrict the amount of circulation to be issued by law on State banks.

The Lodge silver purchase repeal resolution is to come up again to-day, after the morning session, and Mr. Gallagher will add to the bill from the amendment which he has offered to it, and which declares against any radical change in the tariff before 1904.

GERMANS COME OVER TO LEARN.

Dr. Nagie Shows Them Through the Health Department.

Dr. William Ohmuller, Sanitary Commissioner, and Dr. Karl Widens, of the Sanitary Department of Berlin, delegates by the German Government to secure information concerning the most improved methods for conducting sanitary matters and vital statistics in the United States, called on Registrar Dr. John T. Nagie this morning at the Bureau of Vital Statistics in the Health Department.

The foreigners were amazed at some of the arrangements in the Department, and were not backward in saying that the American mode of conducting the business is far superior to that in vogue in Germany.

In Roger's office, the Registrar of Statistics, also took Drs. Ohmuller and Widens in hand and demonstrated the workings of registering deaths by means of a mechanical machine.

The visitors will go from here to Cleveland, Cleveland, to be examined.

DIED FROM BLOWS.

Stephen Cooper Charged with Killing John Dogler.

John Dogler, a colored man, twenty-five years old, who died at 23 Minn. street at 7 o'clock this morning in St. Vincent's Hospital from injuries sustained during a row between him and another colored man named Stephen Cooper, twenty years old, of 227 West Twenty-seventh street, in front of South's barber stand, at 5:30 a. m. last night. Dogler was outside standing by the door, and Cooper was inside, when Cooper, carrying a brick in each hand, struck Dogler on the head with the brick, striking him down. Cooper then ran away, but was captured and arrested on Third street. Dogler was taken to the station-house and made a complaint against Cooper, and then he was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital, where he died at 7 o'clock this morning.

FIREMEN SEE THE ISLAND.

Chief McKane Orders Some of the Fake Games Closed.

At Suspicious Persons Have Been Locked Up.

CONEY ISLAND, N. Y., Aug. 16.—The second day of the Firemen's Convention opened as favorably as the first. Farmer Dunn was fully as considerate, regarding the weather, and the number of firemen and visitors had been considerably augmented. Yesterday afternoon there was considerable grumbling among the local tradesmen because they had counted on doing a good business and had laid in extra stocks, but were of the opinion that the Convention was not going to be the success it was expected to be. To-day they are of different minds, and all wear smiling faces.

After the business meetings yesterday the fire boys relaxed somewhat and proceeded to do the island. They couldn't go up against the plate games, because Chief McKane had ordered them all closed, because he didn't want the firemen robbed. The firemen swarmed into the Bowery last evening and early this morning and drank their fill of pleasures. They saw the southerners and "actors" attired in red shirts and freckles, and it is reported that a fireman from Peckskill found in a box of southerners his grandmother, who was supposed to have been lost at sea in 1857.

At 9 o'clock this morning the firemen gathered at the Casino Hotel, where they were to have a picnic. The picnic was held at 10 o'clock, and was a success. The picnic was held at 10 o'clock, and was a success. The picnic was held at 10 o'clock, and was a success.

After the business meetings yesterday the fire boys relaxed somewhat and proceeded to do the island. They couldn't go up against the plate games, because Chief McKane had ordered them all closed, because he didn't want the firemen robbed. The firemen swarmed into the Bowery last evening and early this morning and drank their fill of pleasures. They saw the southerners and "actors" attired in red shirts and freckles, and it is reported that a fireman from Peckskill found in a box of southerners his grandmother, who was supposed to have been lost at sea in 1857.

At 9 o'clock this morning the firemen gathered at the Casino Hotel, where they were to have a picnic. The picnic was held at 10 o'clock, and was a success. The picnic was held at 10 o'clock, and was a success. The picnic was held at 10 o'clock, and was a success.

At 9 o'clock this morning the firemen gathered at the Casino Hotel, where they were to have a picnic. The picnic was held at 10 o'clock, and was a success. The picnic was held at 10 o'clock, and was a success. The picnic was held at 10 o'clock, and was a success.

A LICENSE FOR LINDEN.

The Blood-Horse Association to Have a Track.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Aug. 16.—The Linden Blood-Horse Association obtained a license for a track from the Linden Township Committee last night.

The license is for five years at $5,000 per year.

The majority of the Committee were elected last Fall by the anti-race-track people, but only one vote was cast against the license.

The action of the Committee has raised a storm of protests throughout the county.

RAILROAD TRAIN BURNED.

A Wreck on the Jersey Central Set on Fire by Acids.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 16.—At 1:30 this morning an eastbound freight train on the Central Railroad of New Jersey, drawn by engine 73, while coming down the grade, west of North Branch, broke in two and then crashed together. The engine, the train cars were wrecked and the road blocked. A carboy of acid set fire to the woodwork of the cars and the train was burned.

JOSEPH STABBED HIM IN THE ARM.

Gallagher Held for His Attack on Lobarsky.

Joseph Gallagher, twenty-eight years old, of 154 Mulberry street, who is employed in a printing office, quarreled early this morning with "Abel" Lobarsky, aged sixteen, who was attending school, near the fountain at Broome and Mulberry street.

During the altercation Gallagher drew a small knife and stabbed Lobarsky in the arm. In the Tomb Court Gallagher was held.

DEATH AND A STRANGE WOMAN.

They Were the Last Companions of John Harris.

An Old Brooklyn Merchant's Life Ended at the Ravers House.

John Harris, a Brooklyn leather merchant, sixty-six years old, died from apoplexy in his room at the Ravers House, Broadway and Houston street, about 4:30 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Harris was accompanied by an elderly woman, and occupied room 146, under the name of James Morley and wife of Syracuse, N. Y. She was rather an ugly appearing woman, and attired in anything but attractive clothing. The only explanation which she offered for her presence in the hotel with Mr. Harris was that she had known him all her life and that they had been reared in the same town.

This strange woman applied at the Ravers House for accommodations for the night. He wrote on the register, in a bold business hand, "James Morley and wife, Syracuse, N. Y."

At 5 o'clock this night Mr. Harris, who had taken charge of the hotel, a little later again registered. The time it was "John Harris, Brooklyn, N. Y." Harris, who was a portly, jolly old fellow, with gray hair, mustache and goatee, looked with the hotel clerk John Ellsworth, before being shown to his room with his companion.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

A telegraph message was sent to Abraham Harris, Harris' brother, at his home at 230 Centre street, this city, and living at 509 Macon street, Brooklyn, who reached here about 8 o'clock, about two hours after the old man had died.

Mr. Harris' wife, Mrs. Deves, knew about Harris and his woman companion. She had seen Harris about two months ago, and she had seen the woman, who was a gold watch and chain and $20 in money.

The body was taken to the morgue at Herman Kipp's rooms on First avenue.

It is said that the woman did not want to remain longer at the hotel after she saw Harris die, and expressed such a desire, but Deputy Coroner Donlin would not permit her to leave. She was held until she was taken to the morgue.

Police Officer J. Egel, of the Mulberry street station, remained in Harris' room until the woman was taken to the morgue.

When Mr. Deves' arrival. Then she was virtually made a prisoner, promising to remain in the hotel until she was taken to the morgue.

Deputy Coroner Donlin held on his order that the woman was to remain in the hotel until she was taken to the morgue.

The woman declared that she knew Harris, and that she had known him for a long time. She said that she had known him for a long time, and that she had known him for a long time.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

CITY SHOULD BUILD.

Myers Says He Now Favors Owning the Rapid Transit System.

The Comptroller Indignant at the Manhattan's Action.

He Advocates a New Line and a Three-Cent Fare.

After talking with the Rapid Transit Commission for nearly eight months, and causing the wasteful expenditure of much money and still more valuable time, the Manhattan Railway Company directors have decided outright to accept the terms offered to them by the city for the extension of their lines, and to furnish the accommodations and facilities so much needed by the traveling public of New York.

This final decision was communicated to the Commission in the following letter, which is in the hands of Secretary Bush today.

12 E. Bush, esp. Secretary Board of Rapid Transit.

Dear Sir: At a meeting of our Board of Directors today, called to consider your proposal for the extension of the Manhattan Railway Company's lines, the following resolution was passed, which was adopted by a unanimous vote:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this Board of Directors that, owing to the present disturbed financial condition of the country, it is inadvisable for the city to take on the extension of the Manhattan Railway Company's lines at this time, and that the city should build a new line and a three-cent fare.

What this decision may imply if one undertakes to read between the lines, is not so clear, but there can be no doubt that its effect is to break off at once all the negotiations which have been pending during the last six months between the Elevated monopoly and the Rapid Transit Commission for the extension of the present Elevated system to meet the growing demands of the increasing population of the city.

It may mean, although it does not say so, that the Manhattan directors are unwilling to extend further their position at the present time, no matter upon what terms the city may grant them the privileges they asked for, and even though they should obtain the franchises without paying any compensation.

None of the officers of the Elevated Railroad, however, has yet been heard from, and it is not known whether they will accept the city's offer.

The proposed extension of the Rapid Transit Commission is sufficient to meet the needs of the city, and it is not necessary to build a new line.

When asked by an "Evening World" reporter if he would state more fully the reason which had led the Company to make the offering further, he replied: "I have nothing further to say than to refer you to the resolution passed at the meeting of the Board of Directors, which you will find in the letter which Mr. Gould has written to the Rapid Transit Commission in support of the offer." He added that he did not see that anything further is needed to be said.

Commissioner Stuyvesant was at his home in Gramercy Park this morning when an "Evening World" reporter called on him to get his opinion on the offer of the Manhattan Elevated Company.

He said that he had no objection to the offer, and that he would be glad to see the city take it up.

When the reporter called to the office of the Manhattan Elevated Company, he was told that the company would not meet with him, and that he would be glad to see the city take it up.

When the reporter called to the office of the Manhattan Elevated Company, he was told that the company would not meet with him, and that he would be glad to see the city take it up.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

At 2:30 this morning the night clerk was summoned to Harris' room in great haste. He went to see what the matter was, and found Mr. Harris lying on a sofa, with a fatal attack of apoplexy, and immediately told the night man's companion to send for his relatives, as the patient did not appear to have long to live.

OH, WHAT A BLUFF!

MANHATTAN ELEVATED SPECULATING COMPANY.

GEORGE GOULD. RUSSELL SAGE.

$75,000,000.

Very sorry indeed, Father Knickerbocker, but really, you know, we couldn't think of putting up so much money on such a little thing in these hard times.

Very sorry indeed, Father Knickerbocker, but really, you know, we couldn't think of putting up so much money on such a little thing in these hard times.

Very sorry indeed, Father Knickerbocker, but really, you know, we couldn't think of putting up so much money on such a little thing in these hard times.

Very sorry indeed, Father Knickerbocker, but really, you know, we couldn't think of putting up so much money on such a little thing in these hard times.

Very sorry indeed, Father Knickerbocker, but really, you know, we couldn't think of putting up so much money on such a little thing in these hard times.

Very sorry indeed, Father Knickerbocker, but really, you know, we couldn't think of putting up so much money on such a little thing in these hard times.

Very sorry indeed, Father Knickerbocker, but really, you know, we couldn't think of putting up so much money on such a little thing in these hard times.

Very sorry indeed, Father Knickerbocker, but really, you know, we couldn't think of putting up so much money on such a little thing in these hard times.

Very sorry indeed, Father Knickerbocker, but really, you know, we couldn't think of putting up so much money on such a little thing in these hard times.

STOCK MARKET HEAVY TO-DAY.

Prices Decline 1/2 to 2 1/2 Per Cent. Through the List.

After a Slight Rally Speculation Becomes Firmer.

The stock market was heavy this morning. The traders were sellers right through the list and prices declined 1/2 to 2 1/2 per cent.

London and Berlin did not dispose of half as much stock as had been expected on the downfall of the Northern Pacific. Taken altogether the operations for local and out of town account were quite small.

The market was heavy this morning. The traders were sellers right through the list and prices declined 1/2 to 2 1/2 per cent.

The stock market was heavy this morning. The traders were sellers right through the list and prices declined 1/2 to 2 1/2 per cent.

The stock market was heavy this morning. The traders were sellers right through the list and prices declined 1/2 to 2 1/2 per cent.

The stock market was heavy this morning. The traders were sellers right through the list and prices declined 1/2 to 2 1/2 per cent.

The stock market was heavy this morning. The traders were sellers right through the list and prices declined 1/2 to 2 1/2 per cent.

The stock market was heavy this morning. The traders were sellers right through the list and prices declined 1/2 to 2 1/2 per cent.

The stock market was heavy this morning. The traders were sellers right through the list and prices declined 1/2 to 2 1/2 per cent.

The stock market was heavy this morning. The traders were sellers right through the list and prices declined 1/2 to 2 1/2 per cent.

The stock market was heavy this morning. The traders were sellers right through the list and prices declined 1/2 to 2 1/2 per cent.

SAYS SHANN EX CECTED TO DIE.

Mrs. Shann Explains Why She Remained with the Body.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 16.—Before the witnesses were called in the Shann murder trial this morning, Capt. Holt read in open court the evidence of Mrs. Kate Stryker, which was taken at her home in Princeton last night. Mrs. Stryker is an invalid. She testified that she heard the door bell at Mrs. Shann's house ring between 1 and 2 o'clock on the night that the dismembering took place. Some time after the bell rang, about half an hour, the witness heard a carriage rolling along Witherspoon street, but whether it was going up or down the street she could not say. There had been a party in the neighborhood that night. She did not hear the carriage stop.

Mrs. Shann was now recalled. Her name, she expected to die. He had a horror of embalming and ice and when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother to remain in the room with him after his death and until he should be removed. For that reason, Mrs. Shann remained in the room with her father's body, and gave directions how his remains should be treated. He wanted to be kept longer than his father was when the latter died, and he asked his mother